HO DECLARES VIET PEACE 'OUT OF THE QUESTION'

HANOI ORDERS MOBILIZATION

TOKYO, Sunday (UPI)—North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh today ordered the mobilization of reserve officers and rear guard forces and said Viet Nam peace was "out of the question," according to a Radio Hanoi broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

"We will never surrender," Ho said.

He warned the war will continue for many years despite the stepped-up U.S. bombing attacks on his country.

But the broadcast, awaited anxiously in world capitals, made no mention of the fate of captured U.S. airmen. There had been widespread speculation Ho would announce the captured airmen were to be put on trial as war criminals.

(In Washington, neither the White House nor the State Department had any immediate comment on Ho's broadcast. Privately, officials believed this was the important announcement Hanoi had promised. There had been conflicting reports as to the time it would be broadcast.)

The United States and the West, however, found little cheer in Ho's mobilization orders and declaration that his regime was prepared to give all-out support to the "comrades in South Viet Nam."

(In a broadcast Saturday night by the North Korea Supreme National Defense Council, no mention was made of how many men would be mobilized.)

Ho accompanied his order with an "appeal" to North Vietnamese citizens to fight on to victory even if it took 20 years. He declared North Viet Nam would never settle for anything less than full compliance with the four demands it had already set forth before any peace talks could get started.

* * * *

HE EXPRESSED confidence the Communist nations, and others in the world, would give assistance and cooperate even more strongly until North Viet Nam's "final victory."

Suspect in Mass Killing Caught in Chicago Hospital

Seeking Care For Wrist Cuts

Combined Wire Services

CHICAGO (UPI) — Richard Speck wanted in the slaying of eight student nurses, has been captured, police said Sunday. Deputy Supt. Merlsin Nygren said Speck walked into Cook County Hospital late Saturday night and asked to be treated for superficial cuts on the wrists. Hospital attendants notified police who seized Speck at the institution.

A Long Police Record

CHICAGO—Chicago police Saturday named a tall young seaman with "born to raise hell" tattooed on his arm as the man who strangled and stabbed eight student nurses in one of modern history's worst mass slayings.

Pulice Supt. O. W. Wilson said fingerprints lifted from the blood splattered townhouse where the massacre occurred last Thursday matched those of 25-year-old Richard B. Speck.

Miss Corazon Amurao, the only survivor of the massacre, also identified Speck from a coin-machine photograph.

POLICE FOUND the photo in files at the Maritime Union Hall, a block from the townhouse, where they said Speck had tried a few days before the murders to get a job on a boat sailing down the Mississippi River to New Orleans.

An hour after the state warrant was signed charging Speck with murder a federal warrant was issued charging unlawful flight. This authorized the FBI to join the hunt.

Speck also was said to have tattoos on both arms.

Speck has a long police record in Texas, where he served two terms in the penitentiary. The second term ended June 2, 1965.

While on parole after his first term, Texas police records show, Speck was found guilty of threatening a 28-year-old woman with a butcher knife. The incident happened Jan. 29, 1965.

MONMOUTH, Ill., police said Speck also was wanted for questioning there in connection with the murder of a barmaid last April.

Peaceful Calm in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — More than 2,000 National Guardsmen stood guard Saturday night on Chicago's riot-torn West Side, but they had practically nothing to do.

They even took the bayonets off their rifles.

For the second consecutive night, the troopers patrolled the ghetto area where Negroes had rioted for three nights and tried to stage an encore Friday night.

Saturday night, nobody seemed ready to try.

THE BOOM IS OVER

Savings, Loan Hour of Travail

By H. ERICH HEINEMANN
New York Times Service

NEW YORK—This is a time of trial for the once-booming savings and loan industry in California.

The California real estate market, where the industry makes most of its loans, has slumped.

The inflow of new savings funds has dropped sharply, as has the volume of loans being made.

The rate of delinquency and foreclosure on loans already outstanding is up sharply, and profits are on a toboggan slide.

To Bruce A. Blinn, director of institutional research for the San Francisco brokerage house of J. Barth & Co., the common stocks of the publicly held California savings and loan holding companies are in a "desperate plight."

True, the 5¼% rate that the California savings associations are now paying for savings appears to have prevented any repetition in July of the sort of massive deposit loss that they sustained in April, when the prevailing rate was 4.85% and $469 million flowed out.

THEN, TOO, months of intense behind-the-scenes negotiations between federal, state and industry officials culminated on June 30 with the takeover of the Van Nuys Savings and Loan Association, Van Nuys, Calif., by the larger and far stronger Equitable Savings and Loan Association of Long Beach.

As part of the deal, Charles Wellman, former president of First Charter Financial Corp., the largest savings and loan holding company, who is widely regarded as one of the ablest operators in the savings and loan business, took over as head of Equitable Savings.

But this takeover was only accomplished with very substantial assistance

L.A. Chief Parker Dies; 64

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police Chief William H. Parker died Saturday night after collapsing at a testimonial dinner given partially in his honor, police said.

Cause of death, which came at 11:10, was not immediately known, but the 64-year-old lawman had returned to his job only last month after an extended leave with a heart ailment.

Parker underwent major surgery at Mayo Clinic last October for removal of an aneurism of the aorta.

Parker, with actress Betty Hutton and Comedian Joe E. Lewis, was being honored at a dinner given by the 17th annual reunion of the 2nd Marine Division Association.

He received a plaque citing him as one of the nation's foremost police chiefs, and was walking back to his table when he was stricken. He was taken by ambulance to Central Receiving Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

$197,528 Stolen in Fontana Bank

FONTANA (UPI) — Theft of $197,528 from the Security First National Bank was disclosed Saturday by bank officials who said it appeared to be "an inside job."

A bank spokesman said the main vault's lock at the place was jammed Friday but it was at first thought to be due to mere mechanical trouble.

Money was borrowed from other banks to do Friday's business.

About 7 p.m. Friday bank officials got the vault open and determined that $197,528 in cash was missing. The currency "in every conceivable denomination," according to the bank spokesman, had been stacked on shelves in the vault.

The loss was insured, according to bank officials, one of whom leaned to the "inside job" theory. He explained that whoever took the money must have known the workings of the vault's time clock and possibly had a key.

Local police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation joined in trying to solve the theft.

Intruder Given Coffee, $10, Sent on His Way

There's nothing inhospitable about Mrs. Vernette E. White.

When a robber stood over her bed early Saturday and demanded her money, Mrs. White, 60, put on her robe, served the the young man coffee and gave him $10.

Mrs. White, of 4242 Massachusetts Ave., told police she was awakened by the intruder — a curly-haired blond youth of 22 — shortly after midnight.

"I'm not going to hurt you," he assured her. "I just want your money."

Ten minutes later, his coffee finished, he departed. "Thanks, mom," he cried over his shoulder.

Mrs. White then went to the adjoining bedroom, where her husband Lewis was sleeping, and informed him of the robbery.

ONLY PILOT UNACCOUNTED FOR

32 Bail Out Safely as Explosion Downs C119

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A C119 troop transport carrying Florida National Guardsmen crashed and burned Saturday night but apparently most of the 33 men aboard bailed out safely, the Navy said.

Most of the men were from Miami and Tampa, the Navy said.

The only one unaccounted for two hours after the plane went down in a pasture 17 miles west of Jacksonville was the pilot.

The Navy said it knew of no serious injuries among the men located by residents, sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen and military units that fanned into the wooded area.

Witnesses said they heard an explosion before the plane went down. One said he saw the plane blaze at 3,000 feet and then explode after it hit the ground.

"I heard the plane go over and I knew one of the engines went," said Sam Robertson, who said he had been in the Navy and knew how a C119 sounded.

"I went out and looked up," he said. "I saw it blaze when it hit."

Joel Robertson, a forestland manager for a paper company, said a neighbor called him and he saw the servicemen come running out of the woods.

Lynda Johnson Jets Home for Kid Sister's Wedding

Surrounded by Secret Service Men, Lynda Bird Johnson flew home from a European vacation Saturday to be welcomed at Dulles International Airport with a hug from her mother, the First Lady.

Her sister Luci, 19, and one of the bridesmaids for Luci's Aug. 6 wedding came out, too, but got separated briefly in the airport, delaying departure for members of the First Family.

Lynda, 22, and her school chum traveling companion, Susan Schein of New York City, got top flight treatment and were led through the customs room with the diplomatic courtesy of no baggage check.

Mrs. Johnson, who drove the 25 miles or so from the White House to the suburban Virginia airport, timed her arrival as her daughter was midway through the huge customs room. Lynda was ahead of the 131 passengers and nine crew members of the Pan American jet plane that brought her home from Frankfurt by way of London after a 26-day holiday in Spain and West Germany.

Mother and daughter were escorted through a side door to a baggage ramp area where White House cars waited. Mrs. Johnson's limousine drove up and Lynda, her mother and her friend got inside. But the car didn't drive off and stood waiting, while a bevy of Secret Service men hovered near them and at the luggage unloading stand.

Suddenly, Luci emerged. She dashed past reporters and when they asked where she had been, Luci said, "I saw you-all and I just want to see my sister." When she joined the First Lady, the big limousine took off, led by an airport police car and followed by another White House car.

About five minutes later, bridesmaid Helene Lindow, 18, of Washington, hurriedly emerged. "I just got separated from Luci," she explained. And another White House car drove her off.

All in Family

A 22-year-old UCLA coed, who was donated a kidney by her father after an earlier transplant from her mother failed, was doing so well Saturday that she was removed from the intensive care unit at a hospital.

Suzanne Pierce underwent the second transplant Thursday at University of California Medical Center. Suffering from a kidney disease, she got a transplant in March from her mother but trouble developed and it had to be removed May 28.

The girl's father, Ransom Pierce, was reported in good condition at the medical center. The family lives in Berkeley.

No Turncoat

Soviet readers learned Saturday that John Steinbeck, the American author, had rejected the pleas of Yevgeny Yevtushenko, the Soviet poet, that Steinbeck denounce United States' policy in Viet Nam, and especially U.S. air attacks against North Vietnam.

Literaturnaya Gazeta, the Soviet literary newspaper that printed Yevtusheenko's "Letter to John Steinbeck" nine days ago, summarized Steinbeck's answer, which attributed a share of the responsibility for the Viet Nam War to Peking and Moscow. The Soviet paper also reprinted critical reactions to Steinbeck's reply from three foreign newspapers, two of them Communist.

Pope Ponders

Pope Paul VI drove to his summer palace near Rome Saturday for two months of study that will lead him to one of the most difficult decisions any pontiff ever had to make: What his church shall do about birth control.

He told welcoming crowds outside the gate: "This will be a period of work and meditation. Please pray for the Pope, as he also prays for you."

Paul most decide what Roman Catholic teaching on contraception is to be from now on. He must decide it alone—a task he has described as extremely difficult because "the Church has not confronted such problems in centuries."

Two years ago Pope Paul created a special commission to advise him on problems of population, family and birth. Three weeks ago the 75-man birth control commission gave him a secret report 800 pages long.

Anti-Red Dies

J.B. Mathews, whose charges of communism in the U.S. Protestant church caused a national fuoror that forced his resignation as an aide to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, died Saturday in New York of Parkinson's disease.

Matthews, 72, a theologian and linguist who also worked closely with the Dies Committee in the U.S. House of Representatives, had been ill for some time and entered Columbia - Presbyterian Medical Center July 6.

For more than two decades, Matthews served as an expert on Communist infiltration of American institutions and organizations for congressional and state legislative bodies. In recent years he had engaged in private writing and research.

GI Legacy

"I want no one to cry or mourn for me." That's the legacy of Richard Edward Marks, carried in the hand-written will of the 18-year-old marine who was killed in action last February in Viet Nam.

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Floria D. Kramer of New York, written last Dec. 12, Marks disposed of an estimated $5,000 estate. The will, received a few weeks after his death on Feb. 14, was filed this week in Surrogate Court.

Unleashed Fury of U.S. Is Vowed if Airmen Killed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States warned Communist North Viet Nam Saturday that a decision to try U.S. airmen as war criminals and execute them would infuriate all Americans and jeopardize the Hanoi government.

Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman, interviewed on Voice of America, warned that threatened trials for the prisoners—the exact number not known here but estimated at 90—would bring on serious and long-lasting consequences.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., ranking Senate Republican and member of the Foreign Relations Committee, chimed in that "if Hanoi tries our prisoners and executes them, the United States would be virtually unanimous in demanding that we go all out to destroy the people responsible by whatever means is necessary."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield also said in a statement that trial and execution of the Americans would be "an act of shocking and senseless cruelty which will reap its own harvest of retribution."

The White House and State Department had no comment, but U.S. Embassy officials in Cairo said the U.S. had asked the United Arab Republic (UAR) to relay to Hanoi the American warning.

* * * *

IN BERLIN, a high Communist diplomat predicted that the North Vietnamese would convict the airmen as war criminals, then sentence them to forced labor in strategic industrial installations as a means of protecting the facilities from U.S. air attacks.

Harriman, who is working through diplomatic channels to get Hanoi to observe the Geneva agreement on treatment of prisoners of war, said the threatened trials would be the most dangerous thing the North Vietnamese could do to jeopardize their own interests.

He spoke of the "barbaric attitude of North Viet Nam" and said he could understand the "violence of the reaction" in the U.S.

Harriman also implied that the North Vietnamese would probably forfeit any right to participate in the billion dollar Southeast Asia economic development program which President Johnson has promised to Communists and non-Communists alike when peace comes.

DAD ABANDONS HOPE

Girl Falls Down Mile-Deep Mine

CALUMET, Mich. (UPI) -- A little girl berry picking with her brother fell into a mile-deep abandoned copper mine on the remote Keeweenaw Peninsula Saturday.

Two rescue workers were lowered 300 feet into the dark, dripping hole but said they found no trace of Ruth Ann Miller, 7.

Her father said he had given up hope for the life of his daughter, who stepped into a small "booby trap" hole beneath a berry bush.

Police said they did not know whether the girl was said they would continue alive.

Rescue workers split the concrete cap covering the long abandoned mine shaft and lowered two men twice. But state trooper Richard Carstens said the bucket hit a big beam and could go no further.

The mining company, Calumet and Hecla, rushed a bigger crane to the site in an effort to pull out the beam and lower another rescue team into the shaft.

State police called for an ambulance to stand by. Floodlights were wheeled to the scene and police rescue efforts all night, lowering men in big buckets suspended from the mining crane.

Ruth Ann's big brother rushed home after seeing his sister drop from sight as she stepped beside a bush and reached for berries. Their mother called police.

Sad Nordic Beauty Is Miss Universe

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A typical Nordic beauty, blonde, blue-eyed Margareta Arvidsson of Sweden, was crowned Miss Universe Saturday night, then wept bitterly.

"I am sad," she said as soon as the television cameras turned away. "If it is the same as here, I won't go through with it."

But she added, "I don't think it will be."

She referred to a rigorous week of rehearsing and to a year of touring the world that goes with the crown.

ASKED WHAT SHE did not like about her week here, she said, "I start work early in the morning. I work until late in the evening. Then up again early in the morning. I see nothing. Just work."

The 18-year-old photographer's model, who said her ambition is to be a bare-back rider in a circus, was picked from among 58 of the most beautiful girls in the world at the end of a week of pageantry.

First runner-up was Miss Finland, 19-year-old Satu Charlotta Ostring. Miss Thailand, Cheranand Savetanand of Bangkok, was second runner-up.

Miss India, Yasmin Daji, was third runner-up and Miss Israel, Aviva Israeli rounded out the top five.

"I'm going to go home and embrace my mother," said Miss Finland, "but I'm happy Miss Sweden won; she was a very popular girl and the perfect beauty. She was flawless.

New Snag Hits Airline Negotiation

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON—The deadlocked negotiations to end the nine-day-old airline strike hit a new snag Saturday over the carrier's servicing of military flights.

Joseph W. Ramsey, chief negotiator for the striking International Association of Machinists, charged Northwest Airlines with violating an understanding with the union by using nonunion employes to service military flights not certified as essential by the Defense Department.

Ramsey warned that the union would "feel compelled to take appropriate action" unless the carrier stopped the alleged violation. But he declined to specify what the union might do, and a northwest spokesman declined comment on the matter.

The union negotiator said that the union was not breaking off talks because of this problem, as it did earlier this week in another dispute with Northwest. But he asserted that bargaining was hung up because of the controversy, and that no meaningful progress on basic issues could be made until it was resolved.

THE NEW SNAG with Northwest further deepened the already gloomy atmosphere surrounding the efforts to end the walkout by 35,400 mechanics and ground service workers against Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United Airlines.

Douglas, Ex-Cocktail Waitress Plan 2nd Honeymoon in China

LOS ANGELES (AP)—U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and his youthful fourth bride embarked on a secluded honeymoon Saturday with a second honeymoon—to Red China—a possibility later this year.

"I'm already learning to speak Chinese," says the new Mrs. Douglas, a former cocktail waitress.

Douglas, 67, wed 23-year-old Cathleen Curran Heffernan last night at a friend's home in suburban Encino. The couple checked out of a West Los Angeles hotel early Saturday. Douglas said they would honeymoon in the Pacific Northwest.

The jurist said he had been invited by the Communist Chinese government to visit Peking late this year.

In Washington, State Department officials confirmed they had received a request from Douglas for permission to visit Red China. No decision has been made, but permission is expected to be granted, officials said.

Washington officials said Douglas would have no problem getting U.S. permission to travel to China. The U.S. government recently dropped prohibitions on travel to Red China for such persons as newsmen, scholars and doctors. The Chinese, however, have not yet allowed any Americans in those professions to visit the mainland.

Douglas met Cathy last year in a cocktail lounge near Portland, Ore., where she was working as a waitress to help pay her way through Marylhurst College.

At their first meeting in the lounge, last July, Douglas asked Cathy about her education and her daytime work as a group mother at Christie School for Girls, according to nightclub owner Vic Harris.

Later he sent her books and gifts from time to time and told his friend, Damon Trout, a Portland businessman, "I really like that girl."

Man in 20s Found Gagged, Slain in L.B. Apartment

By STEVE GIBSON

The savagely beaten body of an unidentified man in his 20's was found bound and gagged Saturday in a downtown Long Beach apartment.

Police said the victim — clad in tight tan pants with a wide, black, ring-buckled belt, a black tee-shirt, an olive vest and red-ribbed socks — had been strangled with a bath towel.

Homicide Sgt. Robert Castillo said the victim had a sock stuffed in his mouth and numerous bruises on his head and face.

* * * *

PRISCILLA McCLURE, 46, manager of the apartment house at 53 Linden Ave., discovered the body in Room 19 about 2:30 p.m. She told Patrolman Roger Boucher she went to the second story room to collect a $1 key deposit from two men who rented it Thursday. The dead man, she said, did not live there.

Police immediately issued an all-points bulletin for the arrest of the two tenants and another man who lived in the building.

Castillo said the three suspects were seen leaving the apartment house about 3:15 carrying a suitcase.

* * * *

THE SUSPECTS were identified as Tommy Doles, 20, a gas station attendant with a long criminal record, who has lived in Long Beach for a year; Richard Miller, about 28, who shared the room with Doles, and Gene Devore, about 28, who lived in Room 30.

Mrs. McClure said when she first saw the body she thought the victim was a woman because of the long hair.

About 8 p.m. Saturday, two of the suspects returned to the apartment house, Mrs. McClure said. "They went upstairs and asked to see their buddy," she said. "When the old man they talked to told them to come down and see me, they ran out of the building and up Linden."

The body was face down with its right ankle wired to a bedpost. The ankles were bound with a wire hanger, a black silk necktie and a pair of khaki trousers.

The feet were wired to the back of the victim's belt. Binding the victim's wrists were two neckties and an electric cord. Castillo said the victim had been fingerprinted in an effort to identify him.

The body was taken to the Los Angeles county morgue.

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Sixth grader Gary Niswonger's school essay on "Why I Like Parks" read:

"You can get a girl, throw her in the mud and have a laugh or two."

Fifth grader Joan Simpson had some poetic ideas.

"A park is a pillow in the city," she wrote. "It rests the mind and secures the thought . . . The trees hide the sky, yet it's hovering over you."

Sixth grader Perry Baker found this advantage:

"In a park, I can yell all I want to and not get into trouble."

John Joseph O'Donnell, 31, of 787 W. Wilson St., Costa Mesa.

Mrs. Levonne Pezman, 58, of 34 Granada Ave., Long Beach.

Seaman Dana Louis Bendell, 18, of 1253 Riviera Drive, Anaheim, and of the Long Beach-based USS Isle Royale.

Brian K. Hatton, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave T. Hatton, 409 Anderson St., Manhattan Beach.

DiPaolo, Miss Kadlec — a passenger in his car — and O'Donnell were killed outright about 2:30 a.m. when cars driven by DiPaolo and O'Donnell collided headon on Newport Boulevard just south of Dyer Road on the outskirts of Santa Ana.

Highway Patrol officers said DiPaolo apparently dozed at the wheel, his car swerved across the center line of the two-lane street and rammed the oncoming O'Donnell vehicle.

Funeral arrangements for the three victims are pending at MacDougall Family Mortuary, Santa Ana.

MRS. PEZMAN AND Leon H. Gralewski, 33, of 959 E. Broadway, were struck about 2 a.m. while walking north in a pedestrian crosswalk at Bonito Avenue and Broadway.

Long Beach police are seeking witnesses to the accident in hope of tracing the hit-run vehicle.

Mrs. Pezman, a divorcee, was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital. Police said she and Gralewski, reported in fair conditoin at the same hospital late Saturday with pelvic and head injuries, had met a few hours earlier in a nearby bar.

Bandell, reportedly in the Navy only five months, died when his new convertible hit a guard rail and then rammed a bridge abutment on the San Diego Freeway near the San Gabriel Freeway junction about 4:45 a.m.

* * * *

HIGHWAY PATROLMEN said the speedometer on the car was jammed at 80-mph, and the victim was dead when removed from the wreckage by members of the Los Alamitos Fire Department. Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Juanita Bandell, of the Anaheim address. Services are pending at Blower Bros. Mortuary, Santa Ana.

The Hatton boy was killed about 9:30 a.m. when he rode his bicycle around a corner headon into a car at Third Street and Poinsettia Avenue in Manhattan Beach. The driver, John A. Blanton, 38, of 461 Prospect Ave., Manhattan Beach, told police he was unable to avoid the collision.

Services for young Brian are pending at White & Day South Bay Funeral Chapel, Manhattan Beach.

Woman Near Death After PCH Crash

A 26-year-old Huntington Beach woman was in "very critical" condition late Saturday night after she and her three children were injured in a two-car collision on Pacific Coast Highway opposite Huntington Harbour in Sunset Beach.

Mrs. Dolores Mitchell of 16987 Round Hill Drive, Huntington Beach, was near death in Long Beach Community Hospital. Two of her children, Malinda, 6, and Deanne, 4, were in fair condition with minor head injuries. The third child, George, 5, was not hurt.

The passengers of the other car, Jimmy Ray Storme, 17, of 17820 Lakewood Blvd., and William R. Dennis, 17, of 14710 Lakewood Blvd., all of Bellflower, were treated for minor injuries at Community Hospital and releasd.

* * * *

MRS. MITCHELL'S husband, Norman, was not notified of the accident until five hours after it happened. Police and neighbors joined in a search to locate nim before he returned home at 9 p.m.

The Highway Patrol had not determined the cause of the accident late Saturday. Although the heavy traffic on Pacific Coast Highway was backed up for more than 30 minutes by the accident, officers were unable to find any witnesses.

India to Get $1 Billion in Soviet Aid

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, after turning a cold shoulder on Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's peace suggestions, promised economic development loans to India Saturday worth about a billion dollars over the next five years.

This is roughly equal to the amount of economic aid which the Kremlin already has provided to the big South Asian exponent of nonalignment. The Soviet Union also sells weapons to India at low prices.

Up to now, U.S. aid to India, much of it nonrepayable, has been worth about $6 billion. But Soviet aid projects have been eye-catching ones in India.

Mrs. Gandhi disclosed the value of the new Soviet-aid promises to reporters just before flying home to New Delhi after a four-day visit.

* * * *

INDIAN sources said most of Mrs. Gandhi's talks with Soviet Premiere Alexei Kosygin had been devoted to international problems, especially Viet Nam. Kosygin rejected her proposal to call a Vietnamese peace conference because, he said, Hanoi had not asked for one.

Informants said that, contrary to expectations in India the Soviet Union did not seek from Mrs. Gandhi assurances that her internal economic policies would remain socialistic. The Kremlin had been reported worried about recent moves by the Indian government to increase production by encouraging some free enterprise.

Talking separately with reporters, Kosygin said his talks with Mrs. Gandhi "have reinforced the conviction that India will strengthen its public sector" of government-owned industry.

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Premier Mrs. Gandhi said today there was "no possibility" of the Russians agreeing to a peace conference on Viet Nam unless the American bombing of North Viet Nam stopped.

The premier made the statement to reporters when she arrived at New Delhi airport from a four-day visit to Moscow.

MAYOR ALEXANDER J. JAFFURS
Tries His Hand as a Garbage Collector

REGULAR CREWS STRIKE

Town's Officials Collect Garbage

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Alexander J. Jaffurs, mayor of suburban Wilkinsburg who once was a quarterback at the University of Pennsylvania, called the signals Saturday for his team of garbage collectors—from the sidelines.

It was Borough Manager Richard Griffith's turn to carry the ball—er, garbage.

Acting to prevent a smelly situation after 20 refuse collectors went on strike, Jaffurs personally collected the garbage Friday. Saturday he directed the collectors from a police squad car.

* * * *

THE 36-YEAR-OLD MAYOR termed the action by the refuse collectors "an illegal strike."

"Somebody has to collect the garbage," he said. "Public health and safety have to be maintained."

The strikers vowed to remain from their jobs until their supervisor, Arthur Hicks, was removed from his post by council. They demanded his ouster in a petition charging him with being unfair in hiring and firing practices.

Council President James P. Gibson said the collectors, in meetings with him, did not substantiate the charges. Jaffurs said he and council have not decided upon a course of action against the strikers.

"When the men walked out, under state law they automatically fired themselves," he said.

JAFFURS AND HIS MEN were not entirely without training for their current assignment. During his campaign last November, Jaffurs led eight volunteers on a 50-mile round trip hike to Greensburg as part of campaign pledges.

After he took office last January, Jaffurs put into effect a physical fitness program for the Police Department. The "burlap brigade" made up of borough officials has pledged to make every effort to make emergency collections, especially at Columbia Hospital and other facilities used by the public.

Refuse from most of the residences was removed Friday.

'OLD-TIME RELIGION' COLORS POLICY

U.S.' New Look at China Long Overdue

By C. L. SULZBERGER

EXCLUSIVE
NEW YORK TIMES SERVICE

SENLIS, France — The United States is at least emerging from the Manichean atmosphere which has hitherto dominated its China policy. During the Manichean period Washington insisted it incarnated good while Peking incarnated evil. China, in State Department theology, inherited the position previously awarded Russia.

When a nation pledges its safety on an absolute weapon it finds it emotionally convenient to believe in an absolute enemy and since Stalin's death, this role has been assigned Peking. However, our military strategy has shifted from nuclear to flexible response and last week President Johnson, in his first major statement on China, indicated a desire for ultimate diplomatic "reconciliation with Peking." An overdue change in American attitudes is taking place.

Washington's China policy has hitherto been distorted by emotion and ignorance and Peking has responded in kind. On both sides attitudes have been influenced more by the old-time religion than by national interest. Thus, in the sternly moralistic Dulles era when Walter Robertson held Asian affairs as his private fief, a fanatical attitude toward China prevailed. Chinese behavior in Korea provided unpleasant choral effects.

For its part, Peking developed another and weird theology. This insisted it was good to be poor, that mechanical power was a "paper tiger," that revolutionary wars were "righteous" and therefore (shades of Dulles!) certain to triumph, that "the East wind prevails over the West wind."

China itself has been profoundly influenced by national prejudices and complexes. Contemporary Peking has yet to shed the ancient concept of the universal Chinese empire beyond whose borders exist only barbarians and within wose borders loyalty means conformity to sovereign authority and doctrine. Such authoritarianism really relates more to the builders of the Han empire and the restorers of the T'ang than to Marx or Lenin.

This austere dogma initially afforded Communist China paradoxical strength. Cardinal Newman said of Napoleon: "He understood the grammer of gunpower." Until he had experimented with it, Mao never understood thermonuclear grammer this gave him a curious confidence against his greatest enemies, the two paramount powers. He grouped through the balance of terror like a sleepwalker.

On both sides this background of policy-making by old-time religion proved wholly unable to cope with the strains produced by Viet Nam. However, since its own nuclear tests and consequent political deductions, there have been hints that Peking wishes to eschew direct involvement in the war.

Early this year a study by the Rand Corporation summed up the Chinese argument accordingly: "On the military side the Viet Cong should abandon mobile warfare and go over to the strategic defense, retreat to revolutionary bases in the countryside and carry on smaller scale but protracted guerrilla warfare. The Viet Cong can win this struggle only if they rely primarily on their own resources and their own revolutionary spirit."

Despite self-imposed blinkers and self-taught shibboleths, Peking must see that its international position has been deteriorating. The Chinese cause has suffered severe setbacks in India, Africa, Cuba, Indonesia. Pakistan's President Ayub promised President Johnson to limit his military engagements with China and even dismissed his pro-Peking foreign minister.

Containing Chinese Dynamism in Southeast Asia is quite another thing from acknowledging realities inside China itself and it is evident the Johnson Administration is now taking a serious new look, not at today's China but tomorrow's. Indeed, exceedingly important men in Washington are convinced that within perhaps five years Peking will have revised its essential policies.

This may seem astounding at a moment of storm and fury: Nevertheless they estimate that after the succession to Mao has been settled, China will shed mystical convictions that it (or its ideology) must inherit the earth and will accept the fact that it is just one among Asia's mighty nations.

New Postal Facilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contracts totaling about $6 million for major mechanization in post offices in Los Angeles and Phoenix were announced Saturday by Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien.

The C. F. Butz engineering firm, Azusa, Calif., was given a $1,227,005 contract to construct and install a sack sorter for the new air mail facility to be located at Los Angeles International Airport.

House Resolution Forces Clayton Powell Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attempt by House leaders to bring the free-wheeling Harlem congressman, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., into line is headed for a showdown on the House floor Wednesday.

The issue is being forced by a Republican, Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, who plans to ask the House to reject a resolution that would undercut Powell's authority as chairman of the Education and Labor Committee.

* * * *

AYRES IS THE senior Republican on the committee and he says the resolution aims "a dangerous, unnecessary blow at the whole committee structure." Many other members see it as a slap at Powell by Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

Ayres gave his views in a letter sent to each member of the House urging defeat of the resolution, which he called "unprecedented and ill-advised," and like to set "a pernicious precedent."

The resolution was approved Thursday in a surprise action by the House Rules Committee. It would give McCormack authority to recognize any Democrat on Powell's committee to call up a $1.75-billion antipoverty bill. McCormack promptly scheduled action on it for next Wednesday.

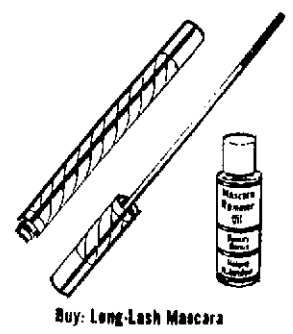

Normally, committee chairmen retain sole right to call up legislation from their committees unless the committee members themselves, by majority vote, designate someone else. This is the point stressed by Ayres in his letter.

Calif. Savings, Loan 'Moment of Truth'

from the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., the government agency that insures savings and loan accounts up to $10,000. The exact amount of this assistance has never been revealed, but sources close to the deal estimate that the agency contributed between $50 million and $55 million.

It is still too early to predict the exact shape of the adjustments that are likely to come to the California savings and loan associations. But some broad outlines do emerge from conversations with industry leaders:

—The savings and loan industry in California, 10 years from now, is likely to be comprised of far fewer but far larger units.

—As the industry consolidates, professional management will increasingly replace the free-wheeling entrepreneurs who now are in the driver's seat.

—Wide-open competition in the rates paid for savings accounts — of the sort that fueled the industry's growth from $6 billion to $26 billion in assets in the last decade — is likely to resume, barring imposition of rate controls by the federal government.

Gareth Sadler, the affable young Pasadena lawyer who is making a wide reputation for himself as California savings and loan commissioner, compares the associations he supervises to the automobile industry 30 years ago, implying that a wave of mergers and consolidations is on the way.

In many ways, Wellman's arrival on the scene at Equitable Savings and Loan Association, with a clear mandate to "clean up the mess at Van Nuys," symbolizes the increasingly important role that professional managers have been and will continue to play in the affairs of the California industry.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, however, the hot competition for funds among the California associations — and between California and the rest of the nation — is as keen as ever.

The Federal Home Loan Bank board, the chief federal supervisor of the savings and loan industry, had, until the end of June, attempted indirectly to control the rates that savings and loan associations pay for funds through its power to regulate the associations' access to borrowing rights at the regional home loan banks.

Associations that exceeded the "prevailing rate" in their areas, the board said in effect, would be denied loans for expansion purposes and would be required to repay borrowings already outstanding.

This policy was abandoned on July 1 largely because many of the major associations in California — led by Howard Ahmanson, who personally owns the Home Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles, the nation's largest single association — had raised their rates to 5¼% desite the pressure from Washington.

The prevailing rate sanctioned by the bank board for California had been 5%.

* * * *

IN THE long run, the success of the California associations in overturning informal federal rate control may backfire, and lead to a fixed national ceiling set by statute.

In addition to the Van Nuys Savings and Loan, which was freely conceded to be in serious financial difficulty, there are at least a dozen other associations in Southern California and Nevada with similar—if in some cases less serious—financial problems.

Taken together, these problem cases—as regulatory officials call them—account for less than 5% of the $26 billion in assets held by savings and loans associations in California.

Regulatory officials state flatly, if always with the caveat that they are not to be quoted by name, that the success or failure of their efforts to resolve the "California problem" will hinge largely on their ability to keep the public in the dark about the true state of affairs in the California savings and loan industry.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time, executives at other savings and loan associations whose solvency has not been called into question are openly apprehensive that if one or more of the problem companies actually fails, this could undermine the confidence in all the state's associations.

The problems of the California savings and loan associations, while they have become serious in only a small number of cases, are nonetheless pervasive. They can be traced to a comparatively simple market miscalculation in 1963 and 1964.

During that period, the rate of population growth in California dropped rather abruptly, largely because of a drop in net migration that can be traced to a fall-off in employment in the state's defense-oriented industry.

* * * *

IN THE eight years through 1963, the net increase in California's civilian population averaged more than 4% a year. In 1964, California population grew by 3.2%. In 1965, growth was 3.1%.

Housing starts in California dropped along with the fall-off in population growth, but, particularly in Southern California,

Marines Battle Reds Near Neutral Zone

New York Times Service

DA NANG, South Viet Nam—United States marines battled enemy troops within 2 miles of the demilitarized zone that separates North from South Viet Nam Saturday in the northernmost large-scale operation ever mounted by American forces here.

By 11:30 p.m. marine officers reported that 62 enemy soldiers had been killed and one captured, who said he was from North Viet Nam.

A multibattalion force of marines numbering about 3,000 men, along with a reinforced regiment of South Vietnamese troops, landed from helicopters in densely wooded hills about 80 miles west-northwest of this port town early Friday morning.

Intelligence reports had indicated that some 10,000 enemy soldiers, or the equivalent of a division, were massed in the area, informed sources said Saturday.

The intelligence reports did not make clear whether the enemy soldiers were North Vietnamese or Viet Cong guerrillas and in the fighting so far, which has mainly involved small units, commanders have been unable to identify the troops they are fighting.

One marine commander said, however, that the enemy troops appear to be well disciplined, well clothed and armed with new weapons. Among the weapons the marines have captured are two Soviet-made pistols and a Chinese-manufactured 50-caliber machine gun.

Ho Rejects Peace, Calls Reserves

Pact nations recently declared they were ready to send "volunteers" to North Viet Nam if Hanoi asked for them.

Ho Chi Minh's declarations Sunday that his country apparently was preparing for harder fighting gave no indication, however, that he had flatly asked for the "volunteers."

* * * *

THE HO broadcast monitored by the Japanese Broadcasting Corp., charged the United States was desperately stepping up the war in both North and South Viet Nam. He said Washington was fanatically bombing Hanoi and Haiphong.

Ho said the standing committee of the North Viet Nam Parliament had drawn up the partial mubilization order.

Declaring that peace negotiations on Viet Nam were "out of the question," Ho said, "We will fight for independence and freedom. We will win and work for reconstruction of our country."

* * * *

WHETHER mounting world opinion had forced Ho to change his mind about bringing captured U.S. airmen to trial could not be determined. There was no hint in the broadcast that he ever considered the drastic action.

But revulsion to the threat was widespread and had brought appeals from U.N. Secretary General Thant and warnings from high U.S. officials.

In a carefully-worded declaration, Thant Saturday asked all sides "to exercise restraint" in the treatment of prisoners and to respect the Geneva Convention concerning war prisoners — regardless of their interpretation of the 1949 Geneva Pact.

* * * *

IN WASHINGTON U.S. Officials warned Hanoi that the American public would demand decimation of the Communist territory if the Communists executed captured American fliers.

A Communist diplomat had warned in Berlin that North Viet Nam planned to use captured American fliers as hostages to protect vital industrial installations against U.S. bombing raids.

The United States had gone so far as to deliver a warning to Hanoi through the North Vietnamese ambassador in Cairo, using the good offices of the United Arab Republic.

The U.S. maintains no known contact with North Vietnamese officials in any part of the world.

Massacre Suspect Near Scene Next Day: 'Born to Raise Hell'

the family had seen him in four months.

Police Supt. Wilson said his detectives had found 32 fingerprints at the townhouse which he said were Speck's.

He said the print used to identify him was taken from the wooden door of the bedroom where the nine girls had been herded and trussed, and eight of them dragged by the killer one by one to their deaths in other rooms of the house. The eight were strangled and stabbed repeatedly.

The ninth, Miss Amurao, saved her life by wriggling under a bunk bed during one of the killer's absences.

Supt. Wilson said Speck was seen in Chicago as late as 9 p.m. Friday. He was registered at a hotel on North Dearborn Street near Chicago's Loop—more than 10 miles from the scene of the massacre.

* * * *

"HE MIGHT have left the city after seeing in the newspapers what was virtually a portrait of him," Wilson said.

He referred to a police artist's sketch drawn from Miss Amurao's description of the killer.

Wilson said police files show that Speck had worked at various times as a laborer, trucker's helper, bakery worker and construction helper. He also was known by the aliases of Richard Franklin Lindberg and Richard Benjamin Speck.

Records in Monmouth, Ill., showed a Richard Franklin Speck was born there 25 years ago. Speck's brother in Monmouth said Speck had spent his childhood there and left 14 years ago when his mother moved to Texas after her husband's death.

The brother said he and Speck also have a sister in Chicago. Another sister lives in Dallas with her mother, Mrs. Mary Margaret Speck Lindberg.

If Speck should return to Monmouth, his brother said, "I'll turn him in."

* * * *

SPECK FIRST went to jail in Texas on charges of forgery and burglary. Other arrests were on charges of disturbing the peace and malicious destruction.

Jack Murd, an official at Huntsville Prison in Texas, said Speck had a good record there.

"His adjustment here and his record here were clear," Hurd said. "There was no problem with him while he was in prison here and no disciplinary action was taken."

The townhouse massacre, one of the most hideous mass murders in the memory of veteran police officers, shocked the city and the nation and touched off a determined manhunt as well as round-the-clock efforts by crime lab technicians.

Chief of Detectives Otto Kreuzer said the FBI sent a messenger to Chicago with Speck's record, photograph and fingerprints as soon as his identity was learned.

* * * *

"This is very similar, the lips and all that. All except the hair." The FBI photo showed a man with hair longer than Miss Amurao had described for the police artist.

Supt. Wilson said his men have three excellent fingerprints of Speck's right hand, the first and second fingers. A print from a third finger still was being studied, he said.

"As far as I'm concerned," Wilson said, "there is no question but that he was there."

Hoberman Promoted by A.F. Reserve

T. Sgt. Joseph Hoberman, 16325 S. Gard St., Norwalk, has been promoted to the rank of master sergeant in the Air Force Reserve. Hoberman is assigned to the 414th Medical Service Flight at March Air Force Base.

Hoberman, widely known in Air Force circles in this area, was a former information specialist and chief photographer for Long Beach's 8646th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group when it was named the outstanding Air Force Reserve unit in the United States in 1964.

As photographer for the local unit Hoberman won many awards and commendations.

Accused Killer of 8 Nurses Called 'Braggart, Loner'

MONMOUTH, Ill. (UPI) — The police chief of Richard Speck's hometown described the accused killer of the eight nurses Saturday as a "braggart during the day and a loner after midnight."

Police Chief Harold Tinder said Speck would enter a tavern, sit alone until someone noticed him, strike up a conversation—and then brag about things he had done.

"He liked to act like a wheel," Tinder said.

Tinder said Speck also was wanted for questioning in the slaying of Mrs. Mary Pierce, whose body was found behind a hog shed in Monmouth April 13. Tinder said Speck was not a prime suspect. Tinder said the woman was beaten but not raped.

IN, OUT OF TROUBLE

Slaying Fugitive's Past Is Checkered

DALLAS (UPI)—Holding knives to the throats of women was nothing new to Richard Franklin Speck, the 25-year-old "loner" who is charged with the massacre of eight student nurses in Chicago.

Speck's mother, Mary Margaret Speck Lindberg, lives in the Fair Park area of Dallas and the home telephone is listed in Speck's name. Speck has been in and out of trouble with the law in Texas.

He was convicted of burglary and writing hot checks and sentenced to the state prison in Huntsville, Tex. He was once paroled, but was charged with assault during the parole and immediately sent back to prison.

The assault charge accused Speck of holding a knife to the throat of a woman who screamed and caught the attention of a neighbor. The neighbor called authorities and Speck was soon back in prison. He was finally discharged July 2, 1965.

* * * *

JACK HURD, assistant director of the state prison system, said Speck listed his education as through the ninth grade. He worked in both construction and at farm labor while in prison and lived much of the time in a dormitory instead of a cell. His behavior was described as "good."

It was because of this "good" behavior and occasional blood donations that Speck got a year cut off his sentence.

"He was an average type of inmate," Hurd said. "He adjusted to prison life and behaved himself."

The section in which Speck's mother lives varies from business shops and lower-income residences to slum areas on the south. Fair Park is the home of the Cotton Bowl and the annual Texas State Fair. There are plans to raze parts of the surrounding area.

When reporters called on Speck's mother's home, she slammed the door in their faces and would not say anything. Mrs. Lindberg still lives with relatives in a one-story beige wooden house.

A next-door neighbor, Mrs. Mollye McNeal, said "a young man who drove fast" had stayed at Mrs. Lindberg's house during the first part of the week, but did not know whether it was Speck.

Speck, who is divorced, attended schools in the East Dallas area and lived at a series of houses there.

* * * *

BUDDY WILSON, Speck's brother-in-law, lives in the house with Mrs. Lindberg and his wife Carolyn. One friend of Wilson's said he had often objected to Speck's heavy drinking.

A neighborhood grocer said Speck would often come to his store "half stewed" and ran up bills as high as $50 or $60 without paying.

"The last time I saw him, he wanted me to cash a $70 or $80 check," Lawrence Miller said. "I checked with the bank and it was good, so I did."

"He was always real good to me," Miller said. Miller first met Speck in the latter part of 1964 when Speck moved to the house with his wife and mother.

"He wanted to establish credit when he first moved here," Miller said. Miller said that while Speck lived at the house, he would sometimes "come in and buy $15 to $20 of beer."

Even before his conviction as a burglar, Speck had brushes with Dallas police. He was arrested twice on charges of disturbing the peace and malicious destruction of property. Both times he paid small fines.

The most recent entry in police records is suspicion of a burglary at a grocery on March 8, 1966. Speck was never arrested and the case is still open.

past in the slum area where at least two persons had been killed, scores injured, and hundreds arrested. During the worst racial outbreak Chicago has seen in decades, buildings and cars were put to the torch, stores were looted, and demands of slum Negroes were seen in greater vividness than ever before.

The tourists created traffic jams on streets which had been battle zones a few nights earlier.

The guardsmen—the first called into Chicago to put down racial violence within memory—stood relaxed before looted stores whose windows had been boarded up.

* * * *

THEY joked with the folks on the street. There was none of Friday night's curses and bayonet jabbings.

The children who had joined in rock-throwing during the week were imitating the troopers marching behind them.

Through the daylight hours, the troubled neighborhood seemed almost a peaceful place. White men drove along the streets and went apparently unnoticed.

A Negro and a white man bumped into each other at the corner of Roosevelt and Pulaski. The white man said "I'm sorry" and the Negro said "Excuse me."

But the street crowds were lighter than usual, many stores were boarded up after the orgy of looting. Merchants in others said business was off sharply.

The words "black power," symbol of militancy among Negro civil rights groups, were scrawled on some boarded windows.

2 FIRES OUT, 1 BURNS NEAR MT. WILSON

LOS ANGELES %— Firefighters controlled two brush fires Saturday in Angeles National Forest, but a third blaze eluded them.

The uncontrollable fire was the largest. It started shortly after noon in Ladybug Canyon, near Angeles Crest Highway and the Mt. Wilson Road, and raced toward Mt. Disappointment, charring between 50 and 100 acres of brush.

More than 200 men used airplanes, helicopters and ground tankers in an effort to control the blaze. No structures were reported endangered.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Russians Cool Toward Wilson

SOVIET Premier Alexei Kosygin (left) welcomes British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in Moscow Saturday.
—AP Wirephoto

MOSCOW (UPI)—British Prime Minister Harold Wilson flew here Saturday with a two-point Viet Nam peace bid but the Russians gave him only a polite handshake instead of the usual bear hug.

Observers saw little chance Wilson would persuade Russia to help initiate talks to end the war.

Premier Alexei Kosygin didn't even want to make a special trip out to Moscow's Vunukovo Airport to welcome the British leader so he asked him to move his arrival forward three hours so he could just wait around after seeing Mrs. Gandhi off an hour earlier.

Wilson bounded down the plane gangplank with his arms outstretched as if to give the Soviet leader a hug, but Kosygin kept a slight distance between them and preferred a handshake instead.

The two men stood chatting amiably for a short while and then entered waiting limousines for the drive into town. There were no speeches, none of the usual flags and decorations and virtually no crowds.

Appeal by Thant

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary General Thant Saturday appealed to North Viet Nam not to carry out its threat to try captured American fliers as war criminals.

In a carefully worded declaration issued as a press statement, Thant asked all sides to "exercise restraint" in treatment of prisoners and to respect the Geneva Convention of August, 1949, concerning war prisoners regardless of their interpretation of the pact.

Taking note of statements by U.S. senators and other American leaders, Thant said the possible trial of American prisoners might lead to further escalation of the war which "already had potentialities of developing into World War III."

Astronauts Ready

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — With only the possibility of thunderstorms to worry about, Gemini 10 astronauts John Young and Michael Collins Saturday coasted through "fine tuning" practice for launch Monday on "the best mission yet."

The biggest threat to the start of the twin rendezvous and spacewalk spectacular — the rainy remnants of a tropical storm Celia — was eliminated when the area of foul weather veered southward and weakened.

Project officials reported everything was proceeding on schedule toward the 4:40 p.m. EDT launch of Gemini's Atlas-Agena rendezvous rocket and the 6:21 p.m. EDT takeoff of Young and Collins in pursuit.

Earthly Survival

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A New York state scientist said Saturday some earthly organisms survived a record 18 hours in a trip through space aboard the Gemini 9 capsule last month.

Russ Ready for Parley on Fishing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has agreed to a United States request for talks on conserving fish resources in waters off U.S. shores, the State Department announced Saturday.

The Soviets said they were ready to begin technical discussions in Moscow starting Monday or as soon afterward as an American delegation arrives. Washington expects to have a delegation ready shortly.

Press officer Marshall Wright said the Soviet response was received Saturday, one day after the State Department had prodded the Soviets again about holding talks on the fishing problem.

The original U.S. suggestion for discussions was made in May. It stemmed from mounting concern over possible damage to American fishing resources resulting from Soviet fishing and fishing methods off the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

* * * *

U.S. territorial limits extend only three miles offshore, but American fishing interests reach beyond that, including nearby waters used by the Soviets and others.

The State Department spokesman said Alexander Zinchur, charge d'affaires at the Soviet Embassy, was called to the State Department Friday and told by Anthony Solomen, assistant secretary for economic affairs, Walter Stoessel Jr., of U.S. concern about Soviet fishing activities, particularly off the West Coast.

The Soviet diplomat was asked for a reply "on an urgent basis" to the earlier U.S. request for talks.

U.S. officials declined to attach special political significance to the Kremlin's agreement to fishery talks at this time. They noted that the Russians are also engaged in other types of discussions with U.S. representatives, and said that it is in the interests of the Soviets as well as the United States to conserve fishing resources.

Tomatoes Are Out

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—The state Health Secretariat has advised the city that a large part of the nearby tomato crop has been contaminated by a germicide and is being destroyed. Residents including Brazil's largest colony of Italian origin were warned to eat their spaghetti without tomato sauce.

'Part B' Medicare Pioneer

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — The first payment in the county under the voluntary Medicare program covering doctor and medical services was made Saturday to Charles Goettman.

Goettman, 76, a retired stage worker at Paramount Studios, underwent cataract surgery July 5 at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital, one of the 607 Southern California hospitals participating in Medicare.

The benefit payment was made to Goettman by Occidental Life Insurance Company, administrator of Part B of Medicare for the Social Security Administration in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

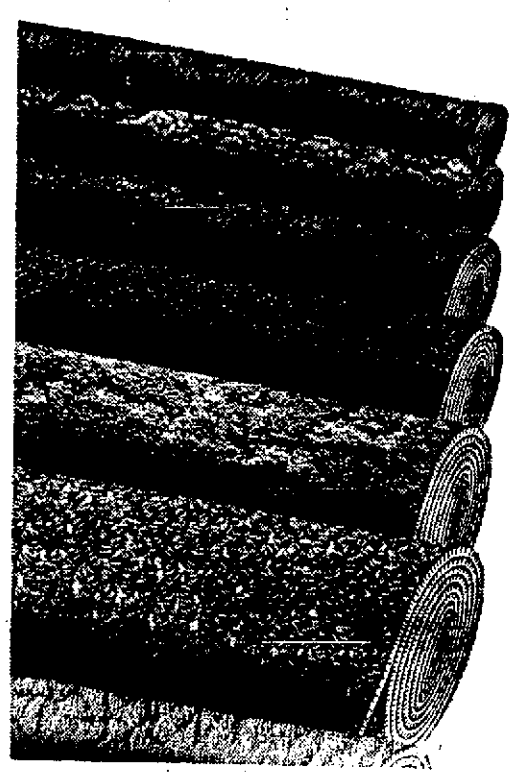

Claims of welfare recipients and railroad retirement persons are handled by other administrators.

The voluntary supplementary medical insurance plan is financed by a $3 monthly premium paid by the individual and matched by the federal government. Some 760,000 persons over 65 are covered by the plan in the two counties.

Goettman, a widower and World War I veteran, was released from the hospital July 11th.

AT RECREATION PARK

New Starlight Serenade Set

The second Starlight Serenade concert by the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra will be held July 26, at 8 p.m. in Recreation Park. Harry Farbman will be guest conductor. Delcina Stevenson of the San Francisco Opera will be soloist.

Ordinarily held at Bixby Park, which is currently being renovated, the concert has been scheduled for the stage area at Recreation Park. Seating for 4,000 persons is available. Bus transportation is available before and after the concert until midnight.

The concert is expected to last until about 9:30 p.m. There is no charge for admission.

Dairies, Bakers Boosting Prices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —California housewives will pay sharply increased prices for bread and dairy products effective Monday, it was learned Saturday.

Average bread prices will go up 2 to 3 cents a loaf, ice cream will climb 10 cents a half gallon, and cottage cheese will go up 3 cents a pound. Prices for locally produced butter and cheese, which also will climb, have not been set.

If that isn't enough to put a crimp in the average food budget, an anticipated 2 to 3 cent boost in milk and cream prices about Aug. 1 ought to do it.

The spiraling food prices are the result of higher subsidies on dairy prices paid by the federal government, United Press International learned Saturday.

Louis C. Schafer, chief of the state milk stabilization board in Sacramento, said the increases are a "direct chain reaction result" of a federal hoost in the price it will pay for solid non-fat milk and butter.

U.S. Communist Leaders Jittery Over Suspected Spy in Party

By PETER KIHSS
New York Times Service

NEW YORK — An inside story of how Communist Party leaders here allegedly "panicked" and ousted one of their associates has come to light, along with the expelled official's claim that he could have been a victim of "forgery by computer."

The document by William Albertson, the party's former state secretary here and a former national board member, described James E. Jackson, another national leader, as having vainly "demanded a confession to the effect that I was an informer."

"Okay, Albertson, the jig is up!" he quoted Jackson. "Come clean! We got you dead to rights!"

Albertson declined comment on the document, which had been circulated at the Communist national convention here last month as his appeal for reinstatement. The appeal had included descriptions of computers "which can and have forged handwriting."

The convention had adopted a report that the New York state committee's branding of Albertson as a "police agent" when it expelled him in July, 1964, was "not found to have been proven." Persons familiar with the party could not recall this much backing down in any previous expulsion case.

Albertson wrote that on June 30 he was confronted with a handwritten letter allegedly found in a car, signed "Bill."

The letter was addressed to "Joe," and said it sought "to clear up your questions on special areas of responsibility." It then listed the names of party members and supposed responsibilities.

The letter added, (James) "Tormey (Western New York leader) keeps hinting I am involved in too many things" and might be "getting a little suspicious." It ended, "Maybe you could arrange for a raise in expenses."

Even while Jackson was interrogating him July 6, Albertson wrote, the announcement of his expulsion was being published. His wife and mother, he said, were also expelled "in true guilt-by-association fashion."

The appeal charged the party leaders should have recognized the possibility of a frameup by the Federal Bureau of Investigation or other police agency based on "our knowledge of the nature and methods of the class enemy."

After the national committee last July sustained his expulsion, Albertson wrote, he found technical descriptions of a Massachusetts Institute of Technology handwriting computer.

He said Prof. Murray Eden, its codesigner, wrote in response to his inquiries that "computer-generated handwriting which had been modeled on the script of a single person would be very difficult to distinguish from the natural handwriting of that person."

Eden, he wrote, also added that MIT's Lincoln Laboratory had constructed the computer under a Defense Department contract, but "there are several commercial computers available today, designed to do this type of operation."

Albertson wrote that MIT's Center of International Studies had admitted Central Intelligence Agency support last April, with its "research mostly in Communist affairs."

GIANT GRAY CLOUD PRODUCED

Scientists Watch Mars Explosions?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A scientist says astronomers may actually have seen explosions on Mars caused by asteroids crashing into its surface.

This possibility was suggested in last week's issue of the Technical Weekly, Science, by Dr. Ernst J. Opik, professor of astrophysics at the University of Maryland.

On Jan. 16, 1950, T. Saheki in Japan observed an "explosion" over the Martian landscape feature known as Mare Chronium. It produced a gigantic gray cloud more than 900 miles long.

On Aug. 30, 1956, Opik and others observed a yellow cloud over Mare Sirenum which spread in the next eight days until it covered an almost hemispheric region 1,800 miles across.

Asteroids are comparatively tiny planets which revolve around the sun, many of them in orbits near that of Mars. In the approximately 4.5 billion years since it was formed, Mars has been hit by many asteroids and still bears the scars.

* * * *

THE MOON AND earth also have been wounded often by giant rocks from space. But on earth — except for such relatively recent impacts as the one which gouged the great meteor crater in Arizona — the effects have been largely smoothed away by wind and water.

Opik's most recent study suggests that Mars, which is closer to the asteroidal track than either moon or earth, may suffer hits as frequently as one very six years. In any case, this "is the most attractive of the explanations" of the 1950 and 1956 "explosions" and warrants further study with special telescopes.

In these days when Opik talks, other astronomers are likely to pay more attention than they once did. The Mariner 4 photographs of July 14, 1965, showing vast impact craters on Mars, surprised many a scientist.

They shouldn't have, because Opik correctly assumed the craters' existence 16 years ago. His published studies of 1950 were almost exactly verified by Mariner 4.

Radio Stations Ban Record 'The Trip'

LONDON (UPI) — Three pirate radio stations have ordered their disc jockeys to quit playing the American record "The Trip" because it encourages teen-agers to use drugs.

"Taking a trip" is a slang expression for being under the influence of drugs, but the record's distributor, Island Records, denied it encouraged drug-taking.

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Twin payloads instrumented to see if the atmosphere of Mars contains organic material, such as that associated with life, have been tentatively selected for the two Mariner rocket flights past that planet in 1969.

Each will carry two television cameras. One will be capable of sending to earth a continuous panorama of Martian terrain along the flight path; the other could send views detailed enough to show the larger pyramids of Egypt —if any such structures exist on Mars.

Rescuer of Cat Needs Rescuer Up in Tree

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP)—A cat climbed into a poplar tree near the swimming pool in Liberty Park and apparently was stranded.

Judy Helms, 14, climbed up after it.

The cat jumped down and walked away. Firemen were called to retrieve Judy.

SHIPBOARD RITES

A New Skipper for the Merrick

A busy attack cargo ship, the USS Merrick, took time out Saturday to change commanding officers.

Capt. Lawrence E. Flint Jr., took over from Capt. Kenneth Rowell in a shipboard ceremony at Long Beach Naval Station.

The new skipper comes from duty as chief of the Test Control Division on the joint staff of the commander, Task Force 2, Sandia Base, Albuquerque, N. M.

Capt. Rowell, who has commanded Merrick for the past year, will go to Washington for his next assignment.

The ship returned to Long Beach last Dec. 2, after a 7½-month deployment, returned to duty in mid-January and took a key part in "Operation Jackstay" March 25 to April 7.

She returned home on May 2 and currently is in the middle of refresher training.

PERHAPS we've overlooked something. Few cities I suspect, could offer a talking power plant as one of their unique features.

But we've got a real gabby one in the Southern California Edison steam generating plant at the east rim of town.

Residents of that area hear the Edison plant talking, night and day.

The voices are supplied by Edison workmen (sometimes a woman) giving messages over a public address system. While the voices come out loud and strong, usually listeners away from the plant can't quite make out what is said. This is a little annoying.

To nearby residents, the voices from the Edison plant have long since become commonplace, but visitors at homes in the area may be mystified.

A guest at my house wanted to know "who was doing that hollow yelling in the night?"

NO MATTER how generally hailed, apparently there's no major development that doesn't make somebody sore.

Like the newly opened San Gabriel Freeway, for instance.

Residents of the eastern part of El Dorado Estates, which abuts the freeway, are up in arms about the big noise. About 300 families, from Spring St. to Carson St., are affected, and they're circulating petitions appealing for the establishment of a sound barrier of some kind along the truck-infested artery.

State highway officials have shown little interest, shunting the complaints in the direction of the city council. The area is within L.B. city limits.

REMEMBER the phrase "Unspeakable Turk?" George Tracy, the revered ex-Poly High science teacher who has been teaching in Turkey, says it's out of date. He believes that Americans, who are visiting Turkey in increasing numbers, quickly learn to like and respect the Turkish people.

A major tourist attraction, says George, is the high level of honesty and decency one encounters in Turkey. He has criss-crossed the country many times by bus and has experienced nothing but warm-hearted courtesy, whether from governors or ragged peasants.

George is coming home this summer, but not for good. To his own astonishment, he has accepted another year as teacher at the American Academy for Girls in Istanbul. Tracy's hundreds of former students will understand that he has encouraged a feeling of being needed and appreciated, and so has postponed his "retirement."

FOR MANY years, summer vacation months have been marred by tragedies caused when children find old, unused refrigerators and lock themselves inside.

One who would like to do something to prevent this is R. N. Hallett. He's manager of the McMahan Furniture store at 1895 E. Anaheim.

If anyone owning a derelict box will call him at HE 6-5211, servicemen from the store will either remove the door or cart the box to a dump. If you've got an old refrigerator around, why not use this service! If you know of one, tell the owner about it. These accidents are preventable, but older people must act.

U.S. WOMEN are pulling a gigantic bamboozlement with hair colorings. This, along with figure-padding, eyelash extensions, and some other tricks, can leave a fellow pretty much in the dark about the physical attributes of a woman in which he may be interested.

Granted that his chief concern should be the soul and housekeeping habits of the lady, those other things do matter to many males. To help them figure the odds about hair, here are statistics: Only one woman in 33 is an authentic redhead. There are about five times as many authentic brunettes as blondes. It's a rough guess there are, in these parts, about five times as many fraudulent blondes and redheads as there are authentic ones.

HELP WHEN IT'S NEEDED FROM COAST GUARD AUXILIARY

—Staff photos by ROGER COAR

Auxiliary Provides Strong Right Arm for Coast Guard

Independent-Press-Telegram
SUNDAY, JULY 17, 1966

By JACK BALDWIN

Helping harness the effects of the tremendous increase in Southland pleasure boating activity and the war in Viet Nam have put new muscle in the Coast Guard's strong right arm—the Coast Guard Auxiliary!

Without the Auxiliary many of the anticipated calls for help from distressed small craft this season would go unanswered, claim Coast Guard officers.

With three of the Coast Guard's 82-foot cutters now on duty in the waters off Viet Nam, the Coast Guard has had to lean more and more on the volunteers who donate their services and privately owned boats in rendering assistance to trouble-plagued pleasure boaters.

During the first six months of this year the boats of the Auxiliary fleet have responded to 503 calls for help, a majority of them from small craft cruising the waters off the Southern California coast.

July and August are busy months during which the undermanned Coast Guard will have to rely even more heavily on the emergency services provided by the volunteer group.

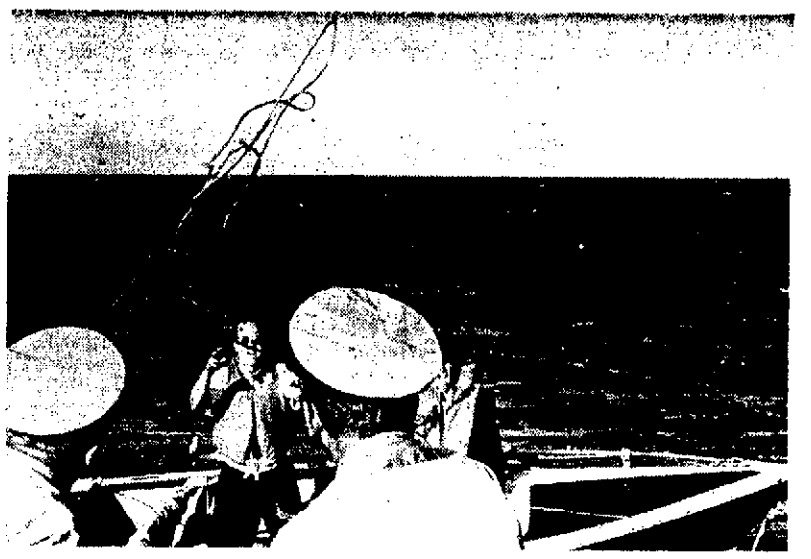

Topping all other causes which keep the Auxiliary on the go is the careless skipper who fails to take along enough gas to get there—AND BACK!

Rendering aid to the disabled boater is not, however, the primary purpose of the Auxiliary. Another goal of the civilian organization is to educate the boating public in safe small boat handling techniques. Another aim is to conduct inspections of pleasure boats to determine if the skipper has met the safety standards set by the Coast Guard.

Of 7,263 courtesy inspections conducted this year, 5,495 boats—or more than 75%—failed to come up to the required standards.

Major shortcoming pointed out by inspectors was improper ventilation of engine compartments and bilges, statistics show.

Inspections of the small craft are done only after the owner has requested or given permission for the inspecting teams to board the boat and make the inspection.

TOW LINE ENDS ORDEAL OF STRANDED BOATERS

The Auxiliary cannot cite a skipper who fails to meet the Coast Guard requirements. The inspection party can only point out the improvements needed.

Boaters meeting all safety requirements are issued a windshield sticker.

* * * *

SAFETY precautions which the various classes of boats should take is but one of the subjects covered in the safe-boat handling classes offered by the Auxiliary.

From January 1 to June 30 the Auxiliary of the 11th Coast Guard District conducted classes for 884 enrollees, according to Cmdr. Arthur Morrision, district director of the Auxiliary.

The local district with headquarters in Long Beach comprises the area from Santa Barbara south to San Diego in California, Arizona, Nevada and southern Utah.

The Auxiliary boasts of 54 flotillas comprised of 1,286 regular members. A flotilla has 10 units in any combination of boats, airplanes or shore-based radio stations.

Although sixth in size in the nation, the 11th Coast Guard District through the Auxiliary logged more assistance calls last year than any other district in the United States.

Typical of the organization in action are the illustrations accompanying this story. Motor failure, the trouble that plagued the pair in the outboard, is another major cause for calling in the Auxiliary, reports Cmdr. Morrision.

With more and more boats each day being slid into coastal waters, inland lakes and rivers, statistics point to a busy season ahead for the Auxiliary flotillas.

Cmdr. Morrision is predicting the number of Mayday calls—the internationally recognized call for help—between now and the close of the boating season on Labor Day will top the 653 calls handled in 1965.

* * * *

MANY OF the calls responded to by Auxiliary boats are not without some degree of pathos. Such was one call answered last season off Redondo Beach.

Three persons, two women and one man, all were thrown overboard when their outboard runabout was hit broadside by a wave. The boat continued to roar in circles at high speeds with none aboard.

The threesome was rescued and the pilotless boat finally boarded.

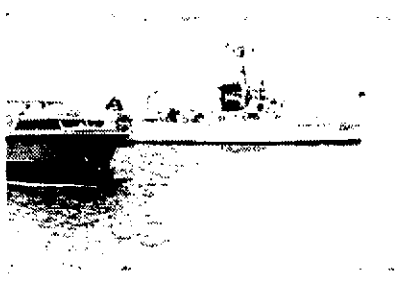

Ashore, one of the victims, who nearly drowned, recovered and recalled her little teacup-sized Chihuahua was also thrown overboard.

The Auxiliary boat sped back out to the scene of the mishap. A search pattern was inaugurated. Amid the white caps of the choppy channel the crew spotted the dog-paddling little pup and plucked it from the sea.

The incident was reported simply as "Report of Assistance No. 3311"—an instance of the Coast Guard's strong right arm lending a gentle hand to a friend in need.

What About the Other Big Issues?

REAL ESTATE interests have started a drive to put every candidate for the legislature on the spot over a single issue—repeal of the Rumford Act. The organizers of this effort are resorting to a rarely-used section of the State Constitution, the indirect initiative.

If the initiative petition gathers enough signatures, next year's state legislature would be required to decide within 40 days whether to repeal the Rumford housing act. If the legislature fails to act, the issue would then be submitted to voters in the next general election, or at a special election.

A purpose of the initiative campaign is to require every candidate to go on record on the issue, said Frank P. Doherty, chairman of the newly organized California Property Owners and Tenants Committee.

The Rumford Act prohibited any owner of a dwelling with four or more units from refusing to sell or rent such housing to any person because of the race or color of that person. Proposition 14, approved overwhelmingly by California voters in 1964, nullified it.

The State Supreme Court subquently ruled Proposition 14 unconstitutional, but an appeal is certain to be placed before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, legislation is pending in the U.S. Congress. It would ban discrimination in sales or rentals, but it has been amended to exempt rentals of small buildings when the owner lives on the premises, and it exempts most home owners who sell their homes.

THIS NEWSPAPER has little objection to another statewide referendum, if it becomes necessary. But that will not be known until the U.S. court and/or the Congress make their decisions. The public interest is NOT served by the initiative's corollary—requiring every candidate to announce how he will vote on legislation before it reaches the legislature for examination and hearing and debate.

Should the state choose a legislature which the initiative's proponents consider "right" on a single issue? Are the far more important issues confronting California to be submerged by this emotion-charged problem? What about the candidates' views on education, college tuition, crime control, urban development, rapid transit, tax reform, uniform property assessment, air and water pollution?

IN EFFECT, Mr. Doherty's group is asking California voters to forget about a candidate's qualifications for dealing with the full range of problems confronting a legislature. It is putting candidates "on the spot" on an emotional issue that may be outside their power to decide by next year.

The most likely results will be the subordination of issues of greater importance to the state's future during the campaign, the diversion of campaign funds away from both party's statewide candidates, and the unhealthy clouding of a highly important election by emotion and prejudice.

It is not a pleasant prospect.

Goldwaters Sign Lease at Newport

BOB HOUSER

WHILE BARRY and Peggy Goldwater still enjoy watching the Arizona sunset and occasionally humming "Hail to the Chief," they have just signed a 10-year lease on a Newport apartment for vacationing and being near their California-based children. Mike is in San Francisco, young Barry in Los Angeles, and young Peggy in Van Nuys.

Barry told a Long Beach audience last week that he also has more time to watch TV, including some of the distasteful aspirin commercials. One of them prated that "27 million people have switched to Brand Y for headache."

"How can 27 million have a headache at the same time?" Barry said he asked his wife, adding, "And then I remembered!"

After the laughter, the former senator launched his familiar case against centralized power of the state (the federal government) but with possibly a new emphasis.

Rather than cite the state as prime villain in what Goldwater feels is this nation's trend toward socialism, he says it's "the nature of man."

He said that nature "is to enjoy the profits and productivity of others. Call it what you will—selfishness or laziness—it is the origin of slavery, violence, plunder, fraud and crookedness."

Those sins, he declared, once accommodated this cussed nature of man and were the means by which he sought to enjoy the profits of others. But now this mean trait in man has "an instrument called the state. But is it the creature to blame? No, because it is only a new way to take from the many and give to the few."

HOPE FOR THE COUNTRY lies in its youth, he said, asserting that it seems to understand the message of conservatism better than the older folks.

Goldwater volunteered to answer audience questions, specifying however that he would not get into California politics. He did comment on Virginia's.

He was not surprised at the defeat of conservative Rep. Howard Smith, 83, but was surprised that Sen. A. Willis Robertson, 79, "one of the best in the Senate," was upset. He saw the results as a "definite trend away from the Byrd machine . . . and possibly will be good for the state; you can't argue with the question of youth."

BARRY WISTFULLY regretted that his own concern and that of an old infantry comrade, retired Lt. Gen. James Gavin, was not heeded in regard to recognizing "the rumblings of De Gaulle" some five years ago.

De Gaulle came to the decision he could get along without us, Goldwater said after we were of no help to France in its Common Market troubles with England. We could have helped France with its nuclear problems, he said, "and could have made a happy man of him (De Gaulle)."

He also opined that recent alignment of three or four African countries with the anti-Communist position would probably prevent admission of Red China to the United Nations, even if Red China suddenly decided she wanted in.

Rivers Hasn't 'Won' Fight for Nuclear Vessel

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Prideful Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, emerged from a tough House-Senate conference last week and claimed an important victory in his battle with Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

CAPITAL CHATTER

But privately many of Rivers' colleagues are referring to the conference as "Mendel's Retreat."

Most particularly, Rivers indicated his satisfaction with language directing the administration to proceed with the construction of a nuclear-powered guided missile frigate.

However, that part of the bill is far less mandatory in tone than Rivers indicated he would fight and die for in conference. For one thing it leaves a battleship-sized loophole: The ship would not have to be built if the President advises Congress that its construction "is not in the national interest."

While no House member expected Senate acceptance of all parts of their bill, which they passed with near unanimity and torrents of verbal encouragement for Rivers, many were disappointed that he couldn't get the Senate to accept the stronger language.

Said one member of Rivers' committee:

"I'm getting tired of marching up the hill with Mendel and then having to march back down again."

EMPLOYES at the Australian embassy are chuckling over the gifts which President Johnson gave Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt on his recent trip to Washington.

Among LBJ's presents to the down under VIP were a large framed picture of LBJ, a ten-gallon Texas hat, a suit of Texas-style clothes and several other Texas momentoes.

Way of Life Will Have to 'Include' All Races

THE WAY OUT of the nation's dilemma of race is the acceptance and inclusion of all citizens in the nation's channels of life, not their exclusion.

This process goes slowly, but it goes. In state legislatures, in political appointments and elective positions generally, in jobs — in these areas, there is movement.

The curious and sad decision by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, called "Snick," and CORE to create a sort of South African Apartheid, a separated existence, will, for a time, attract some of the new far left and the more severely, and seemingly pathologically, disenchanted. But this form of segregation has no more place in the minds of really free men than did the old pattern of U.S. segregation or that which, in South Africa, moves slowly but inevitably toward break-up in violence.

THE HARVEST of this country's years of enforced separation and denial is not yet ended. Hatreds and bitterness are but a part of it. We learn that the harvest also includes all the costs in money and in mind of a physically handicapped and incomplete society.

The conditions of our schools, the incompleteness of persons moved from the Southern rural communities and from generations of retardation imposed by the inequities of the old society are daily before us.

Omaha, in eastern Nebraska, is merely one of the latest to learn an old lesson. It is that the evil long-range crippling effects of a separated system of life and education, and a denial of experience as a complete citizen, will manifest themselves wherever the people so denied are distributed.

IT IS NECESSARY to comprehend what a century and more of such experiences have done — economically, psychologically, educationally and socially. Long years of acceptance of segregation and all that is wrapped in the word caused a nation to be unaware of the many crippling factors involved. The white citizens of the country, more particularly of the South, were also victims. A state of mind developed that accepted myths and stereotypes as truths. It was never true, for example, that people "preferred" or liked to live in "Nigger towns" with unpaved streets, no sanitation, and little in the way of legal protection.

RALPH McGILL

The human problem is immense. Most of those involved are Negro. But thousands are not. A substantial number of those so caught and so crippled as to be unable to perform as regular wage-earners and participants in an urban society can be trained and rehabilitated. But a majority cannot be —and will not be. In time, legislation will be needed to take care of these thousands—middle-aged and older — who are, in effect, finished as productive persons.

THERE IS REASON for frustration and disenchantment because there is nothing than can be done quickly. The young—and some not so young—leaders of such organizations as SNCC and CORE seemingly have decided that since no quick resolvement is possible, this society must be destroyed — that they will demand apartheid—will segregate themselves in a new Jerusalem.

A nation of 200 million will not, of course, accept this decision. The society will continue to change. The only way it may be speeded is for the church, the labor unions, the professional groups, and public opinion to assist the Negro to become included, not separated, from the national life.

A Real Nightmare

THE FLIGHT was routine from Frankfort to London until the pilot happened to look around and see three lions in the cockpit.

This is the sort of thing that happens in dreams but never, well, hardly ever, in a plane over Brussels. The lions, part of the cargo, had broken from their cage. The pilot made the landing, and he and his copilot escaped, leaving the lions in the plane for zoo people to handle.

Dreams have a magical illogic. Anything can happen. But sometimes reality takes on the illogic of dreams. The impossible does happen. Life is not quite as routine as it sometimes seems.

Lost Wallet Returned

EDITOR:

It is truly wonderful to know that you have some very honest people in your city.

My teenage son, Dennis, was on a sightseeing tour of the states with two other young men. While in Long Beach during the week of June 20th he lost his wallet. There was a check, also his driver's license and other valuable papers.

Someone put the wallet in a mail box. The postal department sent it on to Flint. We received it about four days after it was lost.

I wish to thank sincerely the party who found the wallet and put it in the mail.

Had Their Flags Flying

EDITOR:

I was born and raised in Long Beach and had the opportunity to visit my parents in that city over the Fourth of July weekend. During the visit I took my parents to Leisure World, and I believe that the citizens down there deserve a pat on the back for their patriotism.

We went down on the Fourth of July and it seemed to me that every house had a flag flying. Believe me, it was an impressive sight to see all the flags and the beautiful flowers.

It proved once again, that old fashioned patriotism still flourishes in this land and has not been forgotten.

I must say that in driving around the city that day I did not see any such concentration of flags as there was at Leisure World.

He Likes Service

EDITOR:

L. A. Collins, Sr., had an article entitled "How Do You Like Our Present Day Service?" This question can be answered promptly by stating, "I like it!"

Mr. Collins states one of the main topics of conversation among people who congregate at parties is the "poor service they receive from clerks, repairmen and gardeners."

I don't know about the gardeners as my son does all my yard work, but many of my friends who have gardeners seemed highly pleased with their work.

After quite a few years of shopping in Long Beach and Los Altos area in particular, it seems to me that our clerks in the food markets, drug stores, department stores, dry cleaners and many other types of retail stores are doing an excellent job. Personally, I have always been treated with courtesy and consideration.

With regard to repairmen, my experience has been equally good. All have kept their appointments promptly and performed their work efficiently.

I don't know who Mr. Collins is meeting at the parties to which he refers but they don't appear to be the kind of folks who have much fun at a party.

Crosswalk Hazards

EDITOR:

Why don't we start teaching people that a crosswalk is a place of danger and not a place of safety?

As it is today, especially where there is a lot of traffic, children think a crosswalk is a place to show off and many, many adults think it a place to dare a car to hit them.

And sometimes the car does, because after all cars are driven by humans.

Tip-Off: LBJ Moving to Aid Brown

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The Pentagon is being mobilized to assist Gov. Edmund G. Brown's re-election campaign.

The tip-off is the dateline on announcements concerning multi-million-dollar federal defense contracts in California. Prior to 1966, they came out of Washington.

Historically, most were programmed through congressmen.

But in the era of the Brown-Ronald Reagan tussle, there has been an escalation in the geographical range of the Pentagon announcements concerning major federal defense contracts in California.

Now many of them are revealed by the governor's office in Sacramento. It is obvious that the Johnson Administration is betting on Gov. Brown rather than Robert S. McNamara to dump Reagan.

The Sacramento-Pentagon announcements are a firm indication that LBJ lieutenants have passed word to defense chieftains to go all the way for EGB.

JAMES McCAULEY

Such announcements are a subtle hint to California voters that Washington is in a position to pour more money into California aero-space plants if its ties in Sacramento are friendly. Or, less money.

It is a political issue that has been raised before. Californian Richard M. Nixon capitalized on California's dependence on federal contracts in his 1960 bid for the presidency.

It can be argued with some validity that when all other factors are equal, political ties could influence which state lands a new contract.

So look for more federal defense contract announcements by Gov. Brown.

California now has 23% of the federal aero-space and research contracts, and it depends on federal spending for some 20% of its income.

Little wonder then that the Pentagon and State Capitol cuddle closely during an election year.

Other Sacramento Soundings:

TONGUE SLIP—"That reminds of an old Chinese adverb," says Assemblyman Don A. Allen, D-Los Angeles.

DUCK REPORT BLAME—Everyone is trying to duck responsibility for the report on teacher misconduct that gave lurid case-histories on 80 sex offenses by California teachers. The State Education Department distributed it to legislators, but department staff members says the report was requested originally by the State Board of Education.

JOIN PARTY WAR—Two top Democratic constitutional officers have joined the liberal bloc that is trying to prevent Carmen H. Warschaw, Southern California Democratic chairman, from becoming the new state chairman. Lt. Glenn M. Anderson and Controller Alan Cranston both are giving their backing to Assemblyman Charles Warren rather than Mrs. Warschaw. By tradition, the Southern California chairman should take over the helm at the Aug. 14 state convention.

HO DECLARES VIET PEACE 'OUT OF THE QUESTION'

HANOI ORDERS MOBILIZATION

TOKYO, Sunday (UPI)—North Viethamese President Ho Chi Minh today ordered the mobilization of reserve officers and rear guard forces and said Viet Nam peace was "out of the question," according to a Radio Hanoi broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

"We will never surrender," Ho said.

He warned the war will continue for many years despite the stepped-up U.S. bombing attacks on his country.

But the broadcast, awaited anxiously in world capitals, made no mention of the fate of captured U.S. airmen. There had been widespread speculation Ho would announce the captured airmen were to be put on trial as war criminals.

(In Washington, neither the White House nor the State Department had any immediate comment on Ho's broadcast. Privately, officials believed this was the important announcement Hanoi had promised. There had been conflicting reports as to the time it would be broadcast.)

The United States and the West, however, found little cheer in Ho's mobilization orders and declaration that his regime was prepared to give all-out support to the "comrades in South Viet Nam."

(In a broadcast Saturday night by the North Korea Supreme National Defense Council, no mention was made of how many men would be mobilized.)

Ho accompanied his order with an "appeal" to North Vietnamese citizens to fight on to victory even if it took 20 years. He declared North Viet Nam would never settle for anything less than full compliance with the four demands it had already set forth before any peace talks could get started.

* * * *

HE EXPRESSED confidence the Communist nations, and others in the world, would give assistance and cooperate even more strongly until North Viet Nam's "final victory."

Suspect in Mass Killing Caught in Chicago Hospital

Seeking Care For Wrist Cuts

Combined Wire Services

CHICAGO (UPI) — Richard Speck wanted in the slaying of eight student nurses, has been captured, police said Sunday. Deputy Supt. Merlsin Nygren said Speck walked into Cook County Hospital late Saturday night and asked to be treated for superficial cuts on the wrists. Hospital attendants notified police who seized Speck at the institution.

CHICAGO—Chicago police Saturday named a tall young seaman with "born to raise hell" tattooed on his arm as the man who strangled and stabbed eight student nurses in one of modern history's worst mass slayings.

Police Supt. O. W. Wilson said fingerprints lifted from the blood splattered townhouse where the massacre occurred last Thursday matched those of 25-year-old Richard B. Speck.

Miss Corazon Amuran, the only survivor of the massacre, also identified Speck from a coin-machine photograph.

* * * *

POLICE FOUND the photo in files at the Maritime Union Hall, a block from the townhouse, where they said Speck had tried a few days before the murders to get a job on a boat sailing down the Mississippi River to New Orleans.

An hour after the state warrant was signed charging Speck with murder a federal warrant was issued charging unlawful flight. This authorized the FBI to join the hunt.

Speck also was said to have tattoos on both arms.

Speck has a long police record in Texas, where he served two terms in the penitentiary. The second term ended June 2, 1965.

While on parole after his first term, Texas police records show, Speck was found guilty of threatening a 28-year-old woman with a butcher knife. The incident happened Jan. 29, 1965.

Peaceful Calm in Chicago

THE BOOM IS OVER
Savings, Loan Hour of Travail

By H. ERICH HEINEMANN
New York Times Service

NEW YORK—This is a time of trial for the once-booming savings and loan industry in California.

The California real estate market, where the industry makes most of its loans, has slumped.

The inflow of new savings funds has dropped sharply, as has the volume of loans being made.

The rate of delinquency and foreclosure on loans already outstanding is up sharply, and profits are on a toboggan slide.

To Bruce A. Blinn, director of institutional research for the San Francisco brokerage house of J. Barth & Co., the common stocks of the publicly held California savings and loan holding companies are in a "desperate plight."

True, the 5¼% rate that the California savings associations are now paying for savings appears to have prevented any repetition in July of the sort of massive deposit loss that they sustained in April, when the prevailing rate was 4.85% and $469 million flowed out.

THEN, TOO, months of intense behind-the-scenes negotiations between federal, state and industry officials culminated on June 30 with the takeover of the Van Nuys Savings and Loan Association, Van Nuys, Calif., by the larger and far stronger Equitable Savings and Loan Association of Long Beach.

As part of the deal, Charles Wellman, former president of First Charter Financial Corp., the largest savings and loan holding company, who is widely regarded as one of the ablest operators in the savings and loan business, took over as head of Equitable Savings.

But this takeover was only accomplished with very substantial assistance

L.A. Chief Parker Dies; 64

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police Chief William H. Parker died Saturday night after collapsing at a testimonial dinner given partially in his honor, police said.

Cause of death, which came at 11:10, was not immediately known, but the 64-year-old lawman had returned to his job only last month after an extended leave with a heart ailment.

Parker underwent major surgery at Mayo Clinic last October for removal of an aneurism of the aorta.

Parker, with actress Betty Hutton and Comedian Joe E. Lewis, was being honored at a dinner given by the 17th annual reunion of the 2nd Marine Division Association.

He received a plaque citing him as one of the nation's foremost police chiefs, and was walking back to his table when he was stricken. He was taken by ambulance to Central Receiving Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

$197,528 Stolen in Fontana Bank

FONTANA (UPI) — Theft of $197,528 from the Security First National Bank was disclosed Saturday by bank officials who said it appeared to be "an inside job."

A bank spokesman said the main vault's lock at the place was jammed Friday but it was at first thought to be due to mere mechanical trouble.

Money was borrowed from other banks to do Friday's business.

About 7 p.m. Friday bank officials got the vault open and determined that $197,528 in cash was missing. The currency "in every conceivable denomination," according to the bank spokesman, had been stacked on shelves in the vault.

The loss was insured, according to bank officials, one of whom leaned to the "inside job" theory. He explained that whoever took the money must have known the workings of the vault's time clock and possibly had a key.

Local police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation joined in trying to solve the theft.

HOSPITALITY HOUSE
Intruder Given Coffee, $10, Sent on His Way

There's nothing inhospitable about Mrs. Vernette E. White.

When a robber stood over her bed early Saturday and demanded her money, Mrs. White, 60, put on her robe, served the the young man coffee and gave him $10.

Mrs. White, of 4242 Massachusetts Ave., told police she was awakened by the intruder — a curly-haired blond youth of 22 — shortly after midnight.

"I'm not going to hurt you," he assured her. "I just want your money."

Ten minutes later, his coffee finished, he departed. "Thanks, mom," he cried over his shoulder.

Mrs. White then went to the adjoining bedroom, where her husband Lewis was sleeping, and informed him of the robbery.

ONLY PILOT UNACCOUNTED FOR
32 Bail Out Safely as Explosion Downs C119

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A C119 troop transport carrying Florida National Guardsmen crashed and burned Saturday night but apparently most of the 33 men aboard bailed out safely, the Navy said.

Most of the men were from Miami and Tampa, the Navy said.

The only one unaccounted for two hours after the plane went down in a pasture 17 miles west of Jacksonville was the pilot.

The Navy said it knew of no serious injuries among the men located by residents, sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen and military units that fanned into the wooded area.

Witnesses said they heard an explosion before the plane went down. One said he saw the plane blaze at 3,000 feet and then explode after it hit the ground.

"I heard the plane go over and I knew one of the engines went," said Sam Robertson, who said he had been in the Navy and knew how a C119 sounded.

"I went out and looked up," he said. "I saw it blaze when it hit."

Joel Robertson, a forestland manager for a paper company, said a neighbor called him and he saw the servicemen come running out of the woods.

L. A. C. SAYS

Religion in Schools Part of Education

TODAY 13% OF CATHOLICS never go to church — neither do 33% of Protestants, nor 39% of Jews. This estimate is the result of a Gallup Poll survey sponsored by the Catholic Digest. But it is much better than it was in 1952 when a similar survey showed a much larger proportion not going to church. The poll also shows that there are more weekly churchgoers among the higher income groups than among the lower income groups.

THIS WRITER is not a Catholic. But he finds some interesting information in the Clip Sheet of the Digest which comes to his desk. In the July issue it also gives some enlightening ideas of how religion is still a major factor in public as well as parochial schools. On this subject it says:

"Many are disturbed by the U.S. Supreme Court's prohibition of officially sponsored prayers and devotional reading of the Bible in public schools. But few are aware of the many doors the court leaves open for recognition of God in the classroom.

Within the court's limits, educators can make the curriculum reflect the recognition of God as an integral part of American life and the religious influences in man's development. They include these facts:

1. The Mayflower Compact. Forty-one Pilgrims in 1620 prepared the first written constitution of our land. Its opening: "In the name of God, Amen," it also stated that the voyage to America had been "undertaken for the glory of God," and was signed "solemnly and mutually in the presence of God."

2. Declaration of Independence. This cornerstone of American freedom provides the basis for our Constitution, Bill of Rights, and all later legislation in behalf of human rights. It makes four specific references to the dependence of our nation on God. It speaks of the laws of nature and of nature's God; that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights. It appeals to the Supreme Judge for the rectitude of our intentions, and trusts in a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence.

3. Thanksgiving Day. From the start of the nation, one day each year has been set aside to render thanks to Almighty God. The Chief Executive officially asks each citizen to express gratitude to a bountiful Creator.

4. The American seal. On every $1 bill since 1782 the seal is pictured with the Eye of God directly above the pyramid. The words Annuit Coeptis signify: "He (God' has favored our undertakings."

5. Oath of office. The oath taken by government employes, witnesses in court and passport applicants concludes with the prayerful petition: "So help me God." This practice was originated by George Washington. 6. National anthem, the Star Spangled Banner. For 117 years, this song was popular as a patriotic hymn. On March 3, 1931, Congress adopted it as our national anthem. Its closing: "Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a nation/Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just/And this be our motto, 'In God is our trust.'" 7. National motto, In God We Trust. A joint resolution was adopted by Congress on July 20, 1956. 8. State constitutions. Forty-nine state constitutions recognize our dependence on God Himself as the source of human rights and liberties. 9. Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Both the House and Senate adopted the resolution to add the words under God to the pledge, and it was made the law of the land by President Eisenhower on June 14, 1954.

Race Issues Can Be Solved, Like This

Editor's note: Cambridge, a Maryland community of some 12,000, was hit hard by civil rights violence three years ago. The impact, on such a small town, probably equaled in intensity that of the Watts riots in far more populous Los Angeles. Today, most of Cambridge's racial troubles have been settled by a pattern of action that could provide an object lesson for Los Angeles.

Washington Star Service

JAMES WELCH

CAMBRIDGE, Md. — There were steak dinners all around the big table the other night at Gabriel's Restaurant, just east of Cambridge on Route 50.

Elmer Wasson was the host. He is superintendent of the Cambridge plant of the Connelly Containers Corp., a cardboard box factory.

In an effort to step up production, Wasson had promised steak dinners to any crew turning out 150,000 linear feet of corrugated box material in an eight-hour shift. One of his crews promptly met the challenge with a 160,000-foot day.

Wasson carefully considered the nearby restaurants. A no-nonsense New Englander, he was aware that, after all, this was the Eastern Shore.

More to the point, this was Cambridge.

It was the place which just three years ago went through a night of terror when armed bands roamed the streets and five men were shot.

It was the town that lived the better part of two years under martial law while Negroes demonstrated for the right to get a cup of coffee at a downtown diner and the town's whites resisted just as vigorously.

"Look," Wasson told the restaurant manager, "I want to buy steaks for a dozen of my men, and 10 of them are Negroes. How about it?"

The manager just shrugged. "Suit yourself, it's your party," he said. The party went ahead, and several nights later the factory superintendent was back with another mostly Negro crew that turned out 170,000 feet of box material.

Elmer Wasson's parties illuminate what might be called the new Cambridge, and not only in the almost nonchalant exercise of equality in public accommodations.

THE NEW CAMBRIDGE spells prosperity.

It is an economy, running full like the Chesapeake tide. It is jobs, many of them supplied by outside firms like Connelly Container. It is money in the pockets of people who not too long ago were on the brink of desperation.

"The racial issue is dead here, dead and gone," snapped a longtime observer of the Cambridge scene. "It isn't a new psychology or a new philosophy that's doing it. It's money."

Memories of those longer, hotter summers lie not far beneath the surface in Cambridge. The scars heal slowly.

But for all that, there is no open animosity between the races. And, in the Negro Second Ward, next to no racialism is left.

To go into Cambridge today with the cry of "black power" or any other current slogan would be to invite amazement and, probably indifference.

Gloria Richardson, the slightly-built woman who gave the Negro demonstrations dash and leadership and whose mercurial style of negotiating kept the race issue alive far longer than outside mediators thought necessary, hasn't been around since 1964.

A couple of weeks ago, while in town to see her new granddaughter, she called Baltimore to talk to Gen. George M. Gelston, the man who commanded the National Guard contingent during the crisis. She told him things were going pretty well in Cambridge, although a lot of problems remain to be solved.

MANY OF THE LOCAL NEGROES most conspicuous in the civil rights struggle have been absorbed in the antipoverty programs that are going strong now.

Mrs. Sarah Stafford, active as early as 1962 in the "freedom rider" demonstrations, is an aide in the schools' Head Start program.

Frederick Jackson, who until this year was one of the angriest of Cambridge's Negroes, now is a truant officer in the school system. This summer he is working with the Neighborhood Youth Corps, and he expresses belief that Cambridge's approach to the race issue has become "most workable."

"There was a time for picketing, and time for fighting and shooting, and now it's a time for learning," said Jackson.

On the white side of town, the irony of change also is noticeable. Some of the most diehard of the segregationists are running for office. They would like some Negro votes, and they are speaking softly.

Dorchester County Sen. Frederick Malkus, who never hid his contempt for the Cambridge demonstrators, would like to go back to Annapolis as one of two senators from the reapportioned Eastern Shore. William L. Wise Jr., who as president of the Dorchester Businessmen and Citizen Association sparked the opposition to desegregating the town's restaurants, is running for county commissioner.

Another candidate for commissioner is Robert Fehsenfeld, owner of the Dizzyland Restaurant at the weirdly named intersection of Race and Gay Streets. The Dizzyland was a major battleground three years ago, and Fehsenfeld gained nationwide notoriety when he was photographed kicking a Negro and smashing an egg on the head of a white youth kneeling in front of his restaurant.

"Yes, I expect some Negro support," he told a reporter last week. "I've got nothing against them. That whole business back then was artificial. It was all caused by the outsiders."

Actually, Cambridge had been making progress in race relations before events got out of hand. With the militant Mrs. Richardson and an intransigent white leadership, it was a case of emotions getting to the point, mostly over restaurant segregation, where it was virtually impossible to reach accord.

THE QUESTIONS that linger over Cambridge are these: Was it all necessary? Did it accomplish anything?

Gelston, whose handling of the rough days earned him widespread acclaim, recalls the entire episode as "ridiculous."

Once it all started, he said, the Negroes had little choice but to follow through. "But I've seen better negotiators in my time," he added.

In Gelston's view, Cambridge's white community lacked persons in the private sector who could mobilize support for a moderate course. "At first," he said, "they refused to recognize Gloria as representing anyone. Afterward, the outstanding citizens' reaction was to say, 'What can I do, but don't involve me.'"

Many of the gains can be chalked up to a profusion of federally backed antipoverty, retraining and school programs. How much of all this would have come along regardless is difficult to tell.

"I'd guess maybe 75%," said Albert Ackerman, a retired Marine officer who last year took over as executive director of the local antipoverty program.

SINCE THE BEGINNING of the 1965-66 fiscal year, nearly $700,000 in federal money has come through county school offices for programs to upgrade children of poor families. This summer about 900 children are taking part in Headstart classes, remedial reading programs, classes for children of migrant workers and neighborhood youth corps work.

Over at Ackerman's antipoverty office, plans are taking shape for a day-care center, financed by a group of local Negroes. Its purpose would be to free mothers to take jobs.

Ten years ago the Dorchester County economy was limited to food packing.

By 1960, it was calculated that 28% of the county labor force was unemployed. That figure is now down to 9%, and the unemployment rate as figured by state employment security officials, is about 7%, almost low enough for the county to lose its designation as a depressed area.

A KEY FACTOR in this trend was an industrial development program that brought in an estimated 1,000 jobs over the past five years.

"Our business is boxes, and when it comes to that, we're color-blind," is the way Wasson at Connelly Container puts it.

Over at the Chun King food plant, Negro workers have moved into supervisory positions.

Dorchester County still ranks 17th among Maryland's 23 counties in wage levels. But in the past four years, weekly wages have gone up an average $15. And seasonal jobs are giving way to fulltime jobs.

Problems persist in Cambridge. Some Negroes believe it disgraceful the county is not moving toward full integration of its school system. At this point, the "freedom of choice" system, under which Negroes can choose to send their children to white schools, is still in effect. Of nearly 3,000 Negro pupils, 197 attended white schools last year.

School Superintendent James Busick believes this to be the correct course, adding that "not one parent has complained to our board about it." Busick also is unconcerned that the county has no plans for vocational educations or a community college.

RECREATION is also a source of dissatisfaction. The white population has little enough, Negroes have less.

But for all that, Cambridge has become a community of relative content, its residents doing their best to look forward.

A Negro preacher, mopping his brow in front of his tiny church mused: "What went before at least woke everybody up. And it dispelled some of the fears—not all, but some. The Negroes here feel they have become more a part of something, of the community. Now we can all make things better."

"Are you sure you voted Democrat—our invitation to Luci's wedding STILL hasn't arrived!"

Negro Cause Damaged by 'Black Power' Actions

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—A group of senators was relaxing inside the office of "Skeeter" Johnson, secretary of the Senate, when Sen. "Big Jim" Eastland of Mississippi walked in. He just had scored the greatest electoral victory of his entire career, in the Mississippi Democratic primary.

"Lay it on the line, Jim," asked one senator. "How much did you pay Martin Luther King to make that speech attacking you?"

He referred to the fact that Rev. King's speech castigating Eastland had sent thousands of white Mississippi voters to the polls who otherwise would have stayed at home. Prior to that speech, Eastland had been criticized as a stooge of President Johnson and as being "soft on niggers." After King's speech attacking him, he wasn't considered "soft on niggers" anymore.

Eastland's renomination illustrates what the "Black Power" slogan is doing to both the enemies and friends of the Negro in various parts of the USA. While left-wing Floyd McKissick of CORE denounces Johnson as "the Great White Father" whose speeches "would make a rattlesnake cry," and while moderate Roy Wilkins of the NAACP criticizes Black Power as "the father of hatred and the mother of violence," a backlash is growing which will hurt both moderate and radical Negroes.

IN TENNESSEE, Sen. Ross Bass, one of the very few Southern senators who voted for the last civil rights bill, is facing the race of his life with Gov. Frank Clement. He could be defeated.

In Georgia, ex-Gov. Ellis Arnall, a moderate Democrat who initiated the first anti-poll tax legislation in the South, will have major opposition from his Republican opponent, Bo Callaway. If there are many more Black Power speeches, it could mean the election of a Republican governor in Georgia for the first time in 100 years.

And in California where Gov. Pat Brown has consistently championed the Negro cause, including opposition to Proposition 14 allowing some housing discrimination, the right-wing Republican Ronald Reagan will pick up thousands of anti-Negro white votes.

What's happening in California and some of the big Northern cities is what happened about 100 years ago in the South. Negro politicians in post-Civil War days lorded it over Southern whites with such grandeur that much of the nation turned sour and Negro rights were set back a hundred years or so.

Today the Black Power speeches of CORE and SNCC leaders are picking up votes for anti-Negro candidates and cutting the ground out from under the white friends of the Negro to such an extent that history may repeat.

Already the home rule bill for the District of Columbia is about dead as a result of extremism on the part of a Negro minority and the prospect that it might rule the nation's capital.

In Cleveland in the recent Ohio primary, a Negro candidate, Granville Bradley, took votes away from Democratic candidate Michael Sweeney in the race to upset Congressman Michael Feighan, who once referred to Mrs. Roosevelt as a "nigger lover" and who opposed the civil rights bill. Friends of the Negro were out to defeat Feighan, who won by a margin of only 204 votes. But the 2,000 votes given to Negro candidate Bradley reelected the anti-Negro Congressman.

Rossmoor Election Protested

By BARBARA KNESIS
Staff Writer

The thorny question of Rossmoor's annexation by Los Alamitos will go to the voters of both communities Sept. 20 but Capt. Robert F. Rife, a staunch protester of the merger, doesn't think this is "the sensible way" to handle such an election.

"Just suppose Los Alamitos voters say no and Rossmoor residents, God forbid, say yes. If they don't want us, what's the sense of disturbing the people in Rossmoor with an election," said Rife, 12100 Montecito Road, Rossmoor.

* * * *

HE CONTENDED the sensible way to handle the question would be to put it to the people of Los Alamitos first to see if they want Rossmoor.

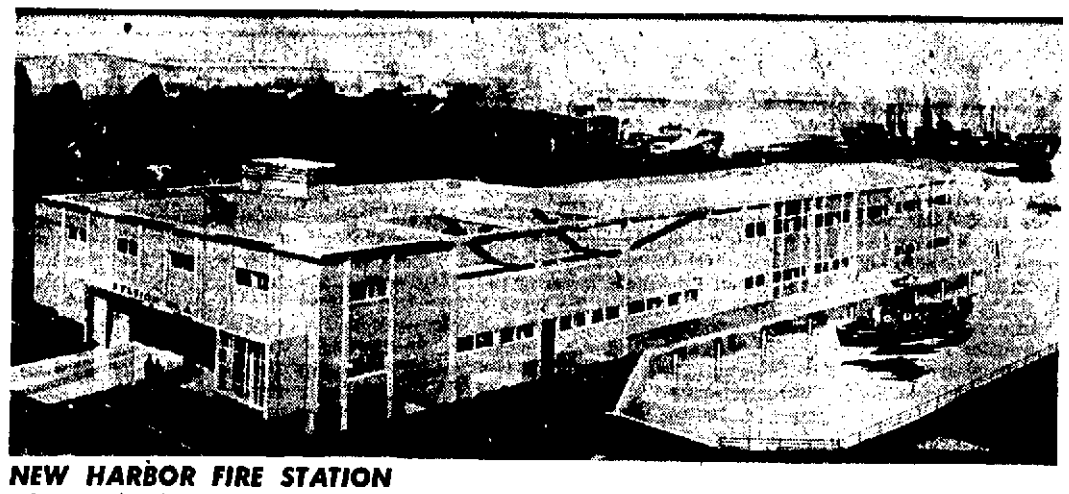

"We are getting along fine here. There is no reason we can't continue on a neighborly basis without giving the Los Alamitos City Council a world of power."

The retired merchant marine captain said Rossmoor's 12,500 residents came there because they wanted a quiet, bedroom community atmosphere.

"We don't want to be drawn into a small city (population 9,200) which hasn't learned to crawl yet," he added.

He said three annexation proposals in the immediate area have failed in the last month. He laughed and then continued:

"That seems to be the trend."

Thousands Spent Because A Small Insect Was Found

By ED KENYON

One June 21, about 5:30 p.m., County Agriculture Inspector John Caldwell was nearing the end of what for him was one of the routines of his job—inspecting insect traps that are placed about every five square miles in much of Los Angeles County.

Then, from a trap in the large back yard of retired longshoreman Charles Teuchert at 1845 W. 260th St. in Lomita, Caldwell extracted a small insect that was to make the day far from routine and was to preciptate an expenditure of money running into the thousands of dollars and of time lasting four months, and maybe more.

It was too late in the day to do anything about his find, but when the agriculture office in Los Angeles opened the next morning, Caldwell, a veteran of more than 30 years in the business, was at the door. An entomologist there agreed with Caldwell's opinion, but nevertheless the insect was sent by air freight to state entomologists in Sacramento the same morning. By early afternoon, final confirmation came—Caldwell's insect was indeed the dreaded Oriental fruit fly.

* * * *

IN THE weeks that have followed, county agriculture men have launched the biggest campaign in recent years in the area to determine if the find was an isolated one or the start of an infestation.

Through last week, a total of 796 man-hours had been expended in placing—and then checking—1,300 traps in a 70-square-mile area surrounding Lomita and including areas of Torrance, San Pedro, Wilmington and Long Beach.

In the traps was a substance called methyl uegenol, which reproduces the substance given off by female fruit flies to attract male fruit flies.

* * * *

SINCE THE original discovery, says Ralph W. Lichty, county agriculture commissioner, "we are still looking for a second Oriental fruit fly—and every day that goes by we breathe a little easier."

The fly found in Teuchert's small orchard, says Lichty, undoubtedly came in a shipment of fruit from Hawaii which somehow got through the tight scrutiny of agriculture inspectors posted at all points of arrival from outside the state.

The efforts made on the basis of finding one fruit fly may appear extreme to the uninitiated, admits Lichty, but when the possibilities of rapid multiplication of such insects that could threaten Southern California's $600 million fruit and vegetable crop are considered, "the money spent is very small when you consider that it's insurance against paying the millions a full-scale infestation would mean."

BECAUSE THE Oriental fruit fly generation numbers only 45 days on an average, the search will continue through two generations, or until about Oct. 1, says Lichty.

"The heavy concentration of traps should do the trick by itself," says Lichty. "We would be catching only male fruit flies, but this in itself should effectively halt reproduction."

If this should fail, agriculture men would step up the concentration of the same sex lure, which would be placed on small wafers.

* * * *

THE NEXT STEP would be importation of sterile male fruit flies from Hawaii, where they are produced to combat the menace there.

"A release of 50 sterile flies for every male we suspect to be present should do the trick," says Lichty.

Insecticides, whose use Lichty opposes, would be used "only as an absolute last resort."

Long before their use, he says, California's multimillion-dollar crop would be under embargo by other states and countries.

Freeway Landscape

A state contract award is scheduled for this week for landscaping a 1.2-mile length of the Long Beach Freeway from Willow Street to Wardlow Road

The Los Angeles district office of the State Highway Division last week announced a low bid in the amount of $115,370.54 by Valley Crest Landscape, Inc., of Van Nuys. Officials in the Sacramento office must approve the bid before a final award.

Bellflower at Final Stage of Parking Mall Campaign

By DON KIRKLAND

The five-year battle for a sprawling, four-block parking mall in Bellflower's downtown shopping district may be only a year away from victory.

As early as next summer, say city officials, engineers hopefully will be putting the finishing touches on $600,000 worth of widespread improvements, designed to avert the same kind of downtown crises which have confronted downtown shopping sections of nearly every Southland community.

"This 'Downtown, USA' problem is one that we're going to beat before we've got it," says Chamber of Commerce manager Kenneth L. Barngrover, who helped spearhead the campaign.

* * * *

EARLY THIS week, the City Council added its blessing to the project by agreeing to hold public hearings on the assessment district which will be formed to finance it, and—more specifically—to contribute $400,000 to get it going.

This, city sources said, was a calculated move to help keep the customers in the shops of Bellflower.

By laying out 446 parking spaces in an atmosphere conducive to shopping, the city hopes to keep on inducing customers to buy at home, where the sales tax dollars go to support one of Los Angeles County's only three communities without a city-imposed property tax.

WHEN COMPLETED, the four separate parking lots will lie in an area stretching just west of the city's main shopping district along Bellflower Boulevard from Mayne to Flower streets.

DR. ADRIAN O. HUBBELL

PAUL A. PALMER

Two Named Top Citizens by Orange Coast College

Two south coast men, long active in community service and business affairs, are the area's Outstanding Citizens of 1966, according to Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa.

Dr. Adrian O. Hubbell, of Huntington Beach, and Paul A. Palmer, of Corona del Mar, were named in the college's annual release.

Since 1940, Dr. Hubbell has practiced dentistry in Long Beach, specializing in oral surgery.

He was a director of the Children's Dental Health Center in Long Beach in 1950, and since then has been active in similar programs. He has been a trustee of Ocean View School District for 10 years, and is board president.

PAUL A. PALMER started 45 years ago in Long Beach selling Belmont Shore property. He moved later into Wilshire Boulevard sales in Los Angeles, then Pasadena and still later to the San Fernando Valley.

Newport Beach has been his home since 1930.

He founded the Newport-Balboa Building and Loan Association, among other enterprises. From 1936 to 1962, he managed the association; he now is board chairman. He headed Newport Beach Community Chest from 1942 to 1946, and for 30 years has been a director of Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

Firehouse Woe Anew in Stanton

Stanton's strife-ridden fire department, hit by a series of resignations since reinstatement of its former chief, could lose another employe — the chief himself.

That is if there is a city ordinance which outlaws the rehiring of a city employe for one year after his resigning or being fired. Ex-Mayor Michael Antich, 11231 Ale Lane, told the city council he believed there is such an ordinance.

* * * *

THE COUNCIL turned the matter over to its attorney, Bernard Lambert.

Lambert said he expected to check it out before the next meeting.

Fire Chief Paul Harrison was removed from the post in March and named director of civil defense for the City without any salary cut.

However, Harrison was reinstated to the fire chief post July 1 after a closed door personnel hearing by the city council.

Resigning after the reinstatement were Norman Harrison, (no relation) battalion chief who had been acting as chief; Carl Green, fire marshal; and Jack Dunham, an engineer.

Lynda Johnson Jets Home for Kid Sister's Wedding

Surrounded by Secret Service Men, Lynda Bird Johnson flew home from a European vacation Saturday to be welcomed at Dulles International Airport with a hug from her mother, the First Lady.

Her sister Luci, 19, and one of the bridesmaids for Luci's Aug. 6 wedding came out, too, but got separated briefly in the airport, delaying departure for members of the First Family.

Lynda, 22, and her school chum traveling companion, Susan Schein of New York City, got top flight treatment and were led through the customs room with the diplomatic courtesy of no baggage check.

Mrs. Johnson, who drove the 25 miles or so from the White House to the suburban Virginia airport, timed her arrival as her daughter was midway through the huge customs room. Lynda was ahead of the 181 passengers and nine crew members of the Pan American jet plane that brought her home from Frankfurt by way of London after a 26-day holiday in Spain and West Germany.

Mother and daughter were escorted through a side door to a baggage ramp area where White House cars waited. Mrs. Johnson's limousine drove up and Lynda, her mother and her friend got inside. But the car didn't drive off and stood waiting, while a bevy of Secret Service men hovered near them and at the luggage unloading stand.

Suddenly, Luci emerged. She dashed past reporters and when they asked where she had been, Luci said, "I saw you-all and I just want to see my sister." When she joined the First Lady, the big limousine took off, led by an airport police car and followed by another White House car.

About five minutes later, bridesmaid Helene Lindow, 18, of Washington, hurriedly emerged. "I just got separated from Luci," she explained. And another White House car drove her off.

All in Family

A 22-year-old UCLA coed, who was donated a kidney by her father after an earlier transplant from her mother failed, was doing so well Saturday that she was removed from the intensive care unit at a hospital.

Suzanne Pierce underwent the second transplant Thursday at University of California Medical Center. Suffering from a kidney disease, she got a transplant in March from her mother but trouble developed and it had to be removed May 28.

The girl's father, Ransom Pierce, was reported in good condition at the medical center. The family lives in Berkeley.

No Turncoat

Soviet readers learned Saturday that John Steinbeck, the American author, had rejected the pleas of Yevgeny Yevtushenko, the Soviet poet, that Steinbeck denounce United States' policy in Viet Nam, and especially U.S. air attacks against North Vietnam.

Literaturnaya Gazeta, the Soviet literary newspaper that printed Yevtusheenko's "Letter to John Steinbeck" nine days ago, summarized Steinbeck's answer, which attributed a share of the responsibility for the Viet Nam War to Peking and Moscow. The Soviet paper also reprinted critical reactions to Steinbeck's reply from three foreign newspapers, two of them Communist.

Pope Ponders

Pope Paul VI drove to his summer palace near Rome Saturday for two months of study that will lead him to one of the most difficult decisions any pontiff ever had to make: What his church shall do about birth control.

He told welcoming crowds outside the gate: "This will be a period of work and meditation. Please pray for the Pope, as he also prays for you."

Paul most decide what Roman Catholic teaching on contraception is to be from now on. He must decide it alone—a task he has described as extremely difficult because "the Church has not confronted such problems in centuries."

Two years ago Pope Paul created a special commission to advise him on problems of population, family and birth. Three weeks ago the 75-man birth control commission gave him a secret report 800 pages long.

Anti-Red Dies

J.B. Mathews, whose charges of communism in the U.S. Protestant church caused a national fuoror that forced his resignation as an aide to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, died Saturday in New York of Parkinson's disease.

Matthews, 72, a theologian and linguist who also worked closely with the Dies Committee in the U.S. House of Representatives, had been ill for some time and entered Columbia - Presbyterian Medical Center July 6.

For more than two decades, Matthews served as an expert on Communist infiltration of American institutions and organizations for congressional and state legislative bodies. In recent years he had engaged in private writing and research.

GI Legacy

"I want no one to cry or mourn for me." That's the legacy of Richard Edward Marks, carried in the hand-written will of the 18-year-old marine who was killed in action last February in Viet Nam.

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Floria D. Kramer of New York, written last Dec. 12, Marks disposed of an estimated $5,000 estate. The will, received a few weeks after his death on Feb. 14, was filed this week in Surrogate Court.

Unleashed Fury of U.S. Is Vowed if Airmen Killed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States warned Communist North Viet Nam Saturday that a decision to try U.S. airmen as war criminals and execute them would infuriate all Americans and jeopardize the Hanoi government.

Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman, interviewed on Voice of America, warned that threatened trials for the prisoners—the exact number not known here but estimated at 90—would bring on serious and long-lasting consequences.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., ranking Senate Republican and member of the Foreign Relations Committee, chimed in that "if Hanoi tries our prisoners and executes them, the United States would be virtually unanimous in demanding that we go all out to destroy the people responsible by whatever means is necessary."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield also said in a statement that trial and execution of the Americans would be "an act of shocking and senseless cruelty which will reap its own harvest of retribution."

The White House and State Department had no comment, but U.S. Embassy officials in Cairo said the U.S. had asked the United Arab Republic (UAR) to relay to Hanoi the American warning.

* * * *

IN BERLIN, a high Communist diplomat predicted that the North Vietnamese would convict the airmen as war criminals, then sentence them to forced labor in strategic industrial installations as a means of protecting the facilities from U.S. air attacks.

Harriman, who is working through diplomatic channels to get Hanoi to observe the Geneva agreement on treatment of prisoners of war, said the threatened trials would be the most dangerous thing the North Vietnamese could do to jeopardize their own interests.

He spoke of the "barbaric attitude of North Viet Nam" and said he could understand the "violence of the reaction" in the U.S.

Harriman also implied that the North Vietnamese would probably forfeit any right to participate in the billion dollar Southeast Asia economic development program which President Johnson has promised to Communists and non-Communists alike when peace comes.

DAD ABANDONS HOPE

Girl Falls Down Mile-Deep Mine

CALUMET, Mich. (UPI) — A little girl berry picking with her brother fell into a mile-deep abandoned copper mine on the remote Keeweenaw Peninsula Saturday.

Two rescue workers were lowered 300 feet into the dark, dripping hole but said they found no trace of Ruth Ann Miller, 7.

Her father said he had given up hope for the life of his daughter, who stepped into a small "booby trap" hole beneath a berry bush.

Police said they did not know whether the girl was said they would continue alive.

Rescue workers split the concrete cap covering the long abandoned mine shaft and lowered two men twice. But state trooper Richard Carstens said the bucket hit a big beam and could go no further.

The mining company, Calumet and Hecla, rushed a bigger crane to the site in an effort to pull out the beam and lower another rescue team into the shaft.

State police called for an ambulance to stand by. Floodlights were wheeled to the scene and police rescue efforts all night, lowering men in big buckets suspended from the mining crane.

Ruth Ann's big brother rushed home after seeing his sister drop from sight as she stepped beside a bush and reached for berries. Their mother called police.

THE CROWN SITS HEAVY

Margareta Arvidsson of Sweden says she'll give up the Miss Universe crown she won Saturday night in Miami Beach if the past week is any sample of what to expect. She is 18, measures 35-25-34.

Sad Nordic Beauty Is Miss Universe

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A typical Nordic beauty, blonde, blue-eyed Margareta Arvidsson of Sweden, was crowned Miss Universe Saturday night, then wept bitterly.

"I am sad," she said as soon as the television cameras turned away. "If it is the same as here, I won't go through with it."

But she added, "I don't think it will be."

She referred to a rigorous week of rehearsing and to a year of touring the world that goes with the crown.

* * * *

ASKED WHAT SHE did not like about her week here, she said, "I start work early in the morning. I work until late in the evening. Then up again early in the morning. I see nothing. Just work."

The 18-year-old photographer's model, who said her ambition is to be a bare-back rider in a circus, was picked from among 58 of the most beautiful girls in the world at the end of a week of pageantry.

First runner-up was Miss Finland, 19-year-old Satu Charlotta Ostring. Miss Thailand, Cheranand Savetanand of Bangkok, was second runner-up.

Miss India, Yasmin Dajl, was third runner-up and Miss Israel, Aviva Israeli rounded out the top five.

"I'm going to go home and embrace my mother," said Miss Finland, "but I'm happy Miss Sweden won; she was a very popular girl and the perfect beauty. She was flawless.

"I THOUGHT SHE was going to win before the winners were announced because she was just so stunning."

Miss Thailand, said she was surprised to be among the top 15.

New Snag Hits Airline Negotiation

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON—The deadlocked negotiations to end the nine-day-old airline strike hit a new snag Saturday over one carrier's servicing of military flights.

Joseph W. Ramsey, chief negotiator for the striking International Association of Machinists, charged Northwest Airlines with violating an understanding with the union by using nonunion employes to service military flights not certified as essential by the Defense Department.

Ramsey warned that the union would "feel compelled to take appropriate action" unless the carrier stopped the alleged violation. But he declined to specify what the union might do, and a northwest spokesman declined comment on the matter.

The union negotiator said that the union was not breaking off talks because of this problem, as it did earlier this week in another dispute with Northwest. But he asserted that bargaining was hung up because of the controversy, and that no meaningful progress on basic issues could be made until it was resolved.

* * * *

THE NEW SNAG with Northwest further deepened the already gloomy atmosphere surrounding the efforts to end the walkout by 35,400 mechanics and ground service workers against Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United Airlines.

Douglas, Ex-Cocktail Waitress Plan 2nd Honeymoon in China

LOS ANGELES (AP)—U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and his youthful fourth bride embarked on a secluded honeymoon Saturday with a second honeymoon—to Red China—a possibility later this year.

"I'm already learning to speak Chinese," says the new Mrs. Douglas, a former cocktail waitress.

Douglas, 67, wed 23-year-old Cathleen Curran Heffernan last night at a friend's home in suburban Encino. The couple checked out of a West Los Angeles hotel early Saturday. Douglas said they would honeymoon in the Pacific Northwest.

The jurist said he had been invited by the Communist Chinese government to visit Peking late this year.

In Washington, State Department officials confirmed they had received a request from Douglas for permission to visit Red China. No decision has been made, but permission is expected to be granted, officials said.

Washington officials said Douglas would have no problem getting U.S. permission to travel to China. The U.S. government recently dropped prohibitions on travel to Red China for such persons as newsmen, scholars and doctors. The Chinese, however, have not yet allowed any Americans in those professions to visit the mainland.

Douglas met Cathy last year in a cocktail lounge near Portland, Ore., where she was working as a waitress to help pay her way through Marylhurst College.

At their first meeting in the lounge, last July, Douglas asked Cathy about her education and her daytime work as a group mother at Christie School for Girls, according to nightclub owner Vic Harris.

Later he sent her books and gifts from time to time and told his friend, Damon Trout, a Portland businessman, "I really like that girl."

France Delays Pacific A-Test

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI)—French scientists Saturday postponed for the third straight day the second blast in their Pacific nuclear test series.

No official announcement was made immediately of the reason for the delay, but it was assumed weather conditions were unfavorable at the test site some 300 miles southeast of Tahiti.

Car Radio Stolen

A car radio valued at $76 was taken Saturday from an auto owned by James H. Lewis, 5202 N. Hayter Ave., Lakewood, while it was parked in the Douglas Aircraft Co. lot.

VICTIM CARRIED FROM APARTMENT

Police carry body of man found dead from Long Beach apartment house. Victim, believed in his 20's, was found strangled with a bath towel. Two tenants and another man are being sought in connection with the murder.

Man in 20s Found Gagged, Slain in L.B. Apartment

By STEVE GIBSON

The savagely beaten body of an unidentified man in his 20's was found bound and gagged Saturday in a downtown Long Beach apartment.

Police said the victim — clad in tight tan pants with a wide, black, ring-buckled belt, a black tee-shirt, an olive vest and red-ribbed socks — had been strangled with a bath towel.

Homicide Sgt. Robert Castillo said the victim had a sock stuffed in his mouth and numerous bruises on his head and face.

* * * *

PRISCILLA McCLURE, 46, manager of the apartment house at 53 Linden Ave., discovered the body in Room 19 about 2:30 p.m. She told Patrolman Roger Boucher she went to the second story room to collect a $1 key deposit from two men who rented it Thursday. The dead man, she said, did not live there.

Police immediately issued an all-points bulletin for the arrest of the two tenants and another man who lived in the building.

Castillo said the three suspects were seen leaving the apartment house about 3:15 carrying a suitcase.

* * * *

THE SUSPECTS were identified as Tommy Doles, 20, a gas station attendant with a long criminal record, who has lived in Long Beach for a year; Richard Miller, about 28, who shared the room with Doles, and Gene Devore, about 28, who lived in Room 30.

Mrs. McClure said when she first saw the body she thought the victim was a woman because of the long hair.

About 8 p.m. Saturday, two of the suspects returned to the apartment house, Mrs. McClure said. "They went upstairs and asked to see their buddy," she said. "When the old man they talked to told them to come down and see me, they ran out of the building and up Linden."

The body was face down with its right ankle wired to a bedpost. The ankles were bound with a wire hanger, a black silk necktie and a pair of khaki trousers.

The feet were wired to the back of the victim's belt. Binding the victim's wrists were two neckties and an electric cord. Castillo said the victim had been fingerprinted in an effort to identify him.

The body was taken to the Los Angeles county morgue.

Kid's Eye View of Park

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Sixth grader Gary Niswonger's school essay on "Why I Like Parks" read:

"You can get a girl, throw her in the mud and have a laugh or two."

Fifth grader Joan Simpson had some poetic ideas.

"A park is a pillow in the city," she wrote. "It rests the mind and secures the thought . . . The trees hide the sky, yet it's hovering over you."

Sixth grader Perry Baker found this advantage:

"In a park, I can yell all I want to and not get into trouble."

Crack Train Derails

VERDEN, Germany (UPI)—The last three coaches of a crack trans-German passenger express train left the track at Etelsen Saturday. Police said at least one person was killed and about 30 injured.

Traffic Claims 6; Hit-Run Killer of L.B. Woman Hunted

Six Southland traffic deaths, including those of three Orange County residents killed in a two-car crash and a Long Beach woman struck by a hit-run auto, were recorded Saturday.

The victims:

John Louis DiPaolo, 21, of 1109½ Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach.

Sue Kadlec, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kadlec, 1220 N. Ventura St., Anaheim.

John Joseph O'Donnell, 31, of 787 W. Wilson St., Costa Mesa.

Mrs. Levonne Pezman, 58, of 34 Granada Ave., Long Beach.

Seaman Dana Louis Bendell, 18, of 1253 Riviera Drive, Anaheim, and of the Long Beach-based USS Isle Royale.

Brian K. Hatton, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave T. Hatton, 409 Anderson St., Manhattan Beach.

DiPaolo, Miss Kadlec — a passenger in his car — and O'Donnell were killed outright about 2:30 a.m. when cars driven by DiPaolo and O'Donnell collided headon on Newport Boulevard just south of Dyer Road on the outskirts of Santa Ana.

Highway Patrol officers said DiPaolo apparently dozed at the wheel, his car swerved across the center line of the two-lane street and rammed the oncoming O'Donnell vehicle.

Funeral arrangements for the three victims are pending at MacDougall Family Mortuary, Santa Ana.

* * * *

MRS. PEZMAN AND Leon H. Gralewski, 33, of 959 E. Broadway, were struck about 2 a.m. while walking north in a pedestrian crosswalk at Bonito Avenue and Broadway.

Long Beach police are seeking witnesses to the accident in hope of tracing the hit-run vehicle.

Mrs. Pezman, a divorcee, was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital. Police said she and Gralewski, reported in fair conditoin at the same hospital late Saturday with pelvic and head injuries, had met a few hours earlier in a nearby bar.

Bandell, reportedly in the Navy only five months, died when his new convertible hit a guard rail and then rammed a bridge abutment on the San Diego Freeway near the San Gabriel Freeway junction about 4:45 a.m.

* * * *

HIGHWAY PATROLMEN said the speedometer on the car was jammed at 80-mph, and the victim was dead when removed from the wreckage by members of the Los Alamitos Fire Department. Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Juanita Bandell, of the Anaheim address. Services are pending at Blower Bros. Mortuary, Santa Ana.

The Hatton boy was killed about 9:30 a.m. when he rode his bicycle around a corner headon into a car at Third Street and Poinsettia Avenue in Manhattan Beach. The driver, John A. Blanton, 38, of 461 Prospect Ave., Manhattan Beach, told police he was unable to avoid the collision.

Services for young Brian are pending at White & Day South Bay Funeral Chapel, Manhattan Beach.

Woman Near Death After PCH Crash

A 26-year-old Huntington Beach woman was in "very critical" condition late Saturday night after she and her three children were injured in a two-car collision on Pacific Coast Highway opposite Huntington Harbour in Sunset Beach.

Mrs. Dolores Mitchell of 16987 Round Hill Drive, Huntington Beach, was near death in Long Beach Community Hospital. Two of her children, Malinda, 6, and Deanne, 4, were in fair condition with minor head injuries. The third child, George, 5, was not hurt.

The passengers of the other car, Jimmy Ray Storme, 17, of 17820 Lakewood Blvd., and William R. Dennis, 17, of 14710 Lakewood Blvd., all of Bellflower, were treated for minor injuries at Community Hospital and releastd.

* * * *

MRS. MITCHELL'S husband, Norman, was not notified of the accident until five hours after it happened. Police and neighbors joined in a search to locate him before he returned home at 9 p.m.

The Highway Patrol had not determined the cause of the accident late Saturday. Although the heavy traffic on Pacific Coast Highway was backed up for more than 30 minutes by the accident, officers were unable to find any witnesses.

India to Get $1 Billion in Soviet Aid

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, after turning a cold shoulder on Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's peace suggestions, promised economic development loans to India Saturday worth about a billion dollars over the next five years.

This is roughly equal to the amount of economic aid which the Kremlin already has provided to the big South Asian exponent of nonalignment. The Soviet Union also sells weapons to India at low prices.

Up to now, U.S. aid to India, much of it nonrepayable, has been worth about $6 billion. But Soviet aid projects have been eye-catching ones in India.

Mrs. Gandhi disclosed the value of the new Soviet-aid promises to reporters just before flying home to New Delhi after a four-day visit.

* * * *

INDIAN sources said most of Mrs. Gandhi's talks with Soviet Premiere Alexei Kosygin had been devoted to international problems, especially Viet Nam. Kosygin rejected her proposal to call a Vietnamese peace conference because, he said, Hanoi had not asked for one.

Informants said that, contrary to expectations in India the Soviet Union did not seek from Mrs. Gandhi assurances that her internal economic poltcies would remain socialistic. The Kremlin had been reported worried about recent moves by the Indian government to increase production by encouraging some free enterprise.

Talking separately with reporters, Kosygin said his talks with Mrs. Gandhi "have reinforced the conviction that India will strengthen its public sector" of government-owned industry.

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Premier Mrs. Gandhi said today there was "no possibility" of the Russians agreeing to a peace conference on Viet Nam unless the American bombing of North Viet Nam stopped.

The premier made the statement to reporters when she arrived at New Delhi airport from a four-day visit to Moscow.

MAYOR ALEXANDER J. JAFFURS
Tries His Hand as a Garbage Collector

REGULAR CREWS STRIKE

Town's Officials Collect Garbage

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Alexander J. Jaffurs, mayor of suburban Wilkinsburg who once was a quarterback at the University of Pennsylvania, called the signals Saturday for his team of garbage collectors—from the sidelines.

It was Borough Manager Richard Griffith's turn to carry the ball—er, garbage.

Acting to prevent a smelly situation after 20 refuse collectors went on strike, Jaffurs personally collected the garbage Friday. Saturday he directed the collectors from a police squad car.

* * * *

THE 36-YEAR-OLD MAYOR termed the action by the refuse collectors "an illegal strike."

"Somebody has to collect the garbage," he said. "Public health and safety have to be maintained."

The strikers vowed to remain from their jobs until their supervisor, Arthur Hicks, was removed from his post by council. They demanded his ouster in a petition charging him with being unfair in hiring and firing practices.

Council President James P. Gibson said the collectors, in meetings with him, did not substantiate the charges. Jaffurs said he and council have not decided upon a course of action against the strikers.

"When the men walked out, under state law they automatically fired themselves," he said.

* * * *

JAFFURS AND HIS MEN were not entirely without training for their current assignment. During his campaign last November, Jaffurs led eight volunteers on a 50-mile round trip hike to Greensburg as part of campaign pledges.

After he took office last January, Jaffurs put into effect a physical fitness program for the Police Department. The "burlap brigade" made up of borough officials has pledged to make every effort to make emergency collections, especially at Columbia Hospital and other facilities used by the public.

Refuse from most of the residences was removed Friday.

'OLD-TIME RELIGION' COLORS POLICY

U.S.' New Look at China Long Overdue

By C. L. SULZBERGER

SENLIS, France — The United States is at least emerging from the Manichean atmosphere which has hitherto dominated its China policy. During the Manichean period Washington insisted it incarnated good while Peking incarnated evil. China, in State Department theology, inherited the position previously awarded Russia.

When a nation pledges its safety on an absolute weapon it finds it emotionally convenient to believe in an absolute enemy and since Stalin's death, this role has been assigned Peking. However, our military strategy has shifted from nuclear to flexible response and last week President Johnson, in his first major statement on China, indicated a desire for ultimate diplomatic "reconciliation with Peking." An overdue change in American attitudes is taking place.

Washington's China policy has hitherto been distorted by emotion and ignorance and Peking has responded in kind. On both sides attitudes have been influenced more by the old-time religion than by national interest. Thus, in the sternly moralistic Dulles era when Walter Robertson held Asian affairs as his private fief, a fanatical attitude toward China prevailed. Chinese behavior in Korea provided unpleasant choral effects.

EXCLUSIVE
NEW YORK TIMES SERVICE

For its part, Peking developed another and weird theology. This insisted it was good to be poor, that mechanical power was a "paper tiger," that revolutionary wars were "righteous" and therefore (shades of Dulles!) certain to triumph, that "the East wind prevails over the West wind."

China itself has been profoundly influenced by national prejudices and complexes. Contemporary Peking has yet to shed the ancient concept of the universal Chinese empire beyond whose borders exist only barbarians and within wose borders loyalty means conformity to sovereign authority and doctrine. Such authoritarianism really relates more to the builders of the Han empire and the restorers of the T'ang than to Marx or Lenin.

This austere dogma initially afforded Communist China paradoxical strength. Cardinal Newman said of Napoleon: "He understood the grammer of gunpower." Until he had experimented with it, Mao never understood thermonuclear grammer this gave him a curious confidence against his greatest enemies, the two paramount powers. He grouped through the balance of terror like a sleepwalker.

On both sides this background of policy-making by old-time religion proved wholly unable to cope with the strains produced by Viet Nam. However, since its own nuclear tests and consequent political deductions, there have been hints that Peking wishes to eschew direct involvement in the war.

Early this year a study by the Rand Corporation summed up the Chinese argument accordingly: "On the military side the Viet Cong should abandon mobile warfare and go over to the strategic defense, retreat to revolutionary bases in the countryside and carry on smaller scale but protracted guerrilla warfare. The Viet Cong can win this struggle only if they rely primarily on their own resources and their own revolutionary spirit."

Despite self-imposed blinkers and self-taught shibboleths, Peking must see that its international position has been deteriorating. The Chinese cause has suffered severe setbacks in India, Africa, Cuba, Indonesia. Pakistan's President Ayub promised President Johnson to limit his military engagements with China and even dismissed his pro-Peking foreign minister.

Containing Chinese Dynamism in Southeast Asia is quite another thing from acknowledging realities inside China itself and it is evident the Johnson Administration is now taking a serious new look, not at today's China but tomorrow's. Indeed, exceedingly important men in Washington are convinced that within perhaps five years Peking will have revised its essential policies.

This may seem astounding at a moment of storm and fury: Nevertheless they estimate that after the succession to Mao has been settled, China will shed mystical convictions that it (or its ideology) must inherit the earth and will accept the fact that it is just one among Asia's mighty nations.

New Postal Facilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contracts totaling about $6 million for major mechanization in post offices in Los Angeles and Phoenix were announced Saturday by Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien.

The C. F. Butz engineering firm, Azusa, Calif., was given a $1,227,005 contract to construct and install a sack sorter for the new air mail facility to be located at Los Angeles International Airport.

House Resolution Forces Clayton Powell Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attempt by House leaders to bring the free-wheeling Harlem congressman, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., into line is headed for a showdown on the House floor Wednesday.

The issue is being forced by a Republican, Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, who plans to ask the House to reject a resolution that would undercut Powell's authority as chairman of the Education and Labor Committee.

* * * *

AYRES IS THE senior Republican on the committee and he says the resolution aims "a dangerous, unnecessary blow at the whole committee structure." Many other members see it as a slap at Powell by Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

Ayres gave his views in a letter sent to each member of the House urging defeat of the resolution, which he called "unprecedented and ill-advised," and like to set "a pernicious precedent."

The resolution was approved Thursday in a surprise action by the House Rules Committee. It would give McCormack authority to recognize any Democrat on Powell's committee to call up a $1.75-billion antipoverty bill. McCormack promptly scheduled action on it for next Wednesday.

Normally, committee chairmen retain sole right to call up legislation from their committees unless the committee members themsives, by majority vote, designate someone else. This is the point stressed by Ayres in his letter.

PRIME WATER SPORTS MEET FOR L.B.

Sea Festival Grows to 19 Events, Scheduled for 26 Days in October

By JACK BALDWIN
Marine Editor

The Long Beach Sea Festival, which started out as a 10-day marine-orientated celebration, has grown into month-long event of international significance, supporters of the city-sponsored affair pointed out this week.

The event is now known as the California International Sea Festival. It is to be staged in Long Beach the entire month of October.

The calender as of this date, includes 19 events to be staged on 26 days during the month, according to Sandy Kemp, festival director.

* * * *

THE CITY HAS alloted $45,000 for the festival which is intended to dramatize the actuality that Long Beach is the marine sports center of the world.

To accomplish this goal Kemp and the Festival Boosters Committee have lined up some spectator and participant marine sporting events that are certain to bring international recognition to Long Beach.

Among the events having national and international interest is the longest and most rugged water skiing race held anywhere in the world, claims Kemp.

* * * *

AN EXPECTED 30 to 40 high powered speed boats will tow skiers coming here from across the nation to compete in the Long Beach to Avalon and return ski race.

The race will be held on Sunday, October 2.

During the weekend of October 15-16 some of the nation's top collegiate sail racing teams will compete in the Douglas Cup Regatta.

The Columbia Boat Company will furnish six identically rigged boats for the race.

Expressing a desire to enter are teams from Annapolis, the Coast Guard Academy, Purdue, Michigan State, Stanford, University of California, U.S.C., Washington State and Georgia Tech.

* * * *

MANY OF THE nation's sports writers will come here to witness the running of the grueling 185-mile Hennessy Cup Race around San Clemente and Catalina Islands. First boat to finish will win $3,000.

Some of the country's top drivers will come from the East Coast to compete against nine high-performance West Coast boats, according to the festival officials.

The event will be held on Saturday, October 15.

* * * *

MANY OF THE Hennessy Cup boats will compete for $10,000 in prizes for the winner of the longest and most challenging race ever run in local offshore waters. The two-day race will take the boats through 400 miles of open sea between Long Beach and San Francisco.

With the good purse the race is being hailed not only as the longest and roughest of its type but also the richest.

The racers will layover in Morro Bay during the two-leg race.

* * * *

OPENING DAY activities of the festival will include the grand fish-off for a $500 first prize in the Independent-Press-Telegram's Fishing Derby.

The fish-off will pit anglers who placed first and second during the derby to be held from August 20 to September 18. They will fish from a common boat — the prize money going to the angler landing the heaviest fish.

The kick-off of the festival's social event will be the Grand Shellbacker's Ball honoring those who have crossed the equator.

The invitational costume affair to be held on the festival's opening day will be attended by merchant ship officers, Coast Guard and Navy officers, and by many of the city's social set.

* * * *

THE FESTIVAL has planned several events to interest the avid angler. In addition to the I. P-T Fishing Derby there will be at least three other fishing events.

One such event is the Long Beach Yacht Club Angler's Bill Fish Derby—October 1 to 15. The derby is unusual in that it allows anglers to fish competitively for marlin and broadbill without the confines of a tournament schedule or limitation as to area.

* * * *

THE DERBY IS open to any member of an organized yacht club or angling club. Light, medium, or heavy tackle will be allowed, state the derby's sponsors.

On Saturday, and Sunday, October 8 and 9, anglers will compete in a derby from the Belmont Pier during the Belmont Shore-Naples Aquatic Festival.

Several nights of family barge fishing competition have been planned by the event's sponsors.

* * * *

DURING THE following week, October 15 to 21, the city's sportfishing landings will award prizes for anglers catching the heaviest fish in several categories as well as a trophy for the largest fish caught during the week-long contest.

Climaxing all the fishing derbies will be the huge fish fry—hailed as the world's largest by Festival backers.

The fry and street dance will be staged in the Pierpoint Landing area.

An international water skiing competition and trick skiing exhibition on Sunday, October 16 is expected to attract thousands of water enthusiasts, both as participants and as spectators.

* * * *

SOME OF THE world's greatest skiers, Chuck Stearns, Butch Peterson, and Jane Welsh, will be competing.

An exhibition of trick, slalom, and kite flying will top the day's event.

A "hot boat" race sanctioned by the American Power Boat Assn. will be held on Saturday, Oct. 22.

The circle racing competition will include super stock, cracker box, hydroplanes and other classes.

The event, one of the last of the racing year, will enable drivers to compete for national standing.

The resources of three Long Beach Yacht clubs will be tapped during the staging of the One Design Regatta to be held on the weekend of the 22nd and 23rd.

Classes will range from the popular eight-foot, single-sail sabots up to 46-foot ocean racing boats. The event is one of the few one-design regattas enabling yachtsmen to test crew and equipment within a class on a boat-for-boat basis.

* * * *

THE RACE OF Champions, a two and a half hour speed-endurance test to be staged on Sunday, Oct. 23 will draw the interest of power boat fans.

Up for grabs is more than $5,000 in place money plus an additional $4,000 in lap money.

The boats must be prepared to race with no fuel stops at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

Festival backers have attempted to broaden interest in the month-long affair and have scheduled several "off the water" events.

The Never On Friday Club will sponsor a pops concert featuring nationally known musical groups in the popular field. The concert will be held on Oct. 22.

Of interest to art patrons will be the Long Beach Artitators Association's Art Festival featuring nautical art works.

* * * *

WORKS OF MANY prominent artists will be displayed in Bixby Park with the city's municipal band adding a musical touch to the event.

The area's Sea Scouts will show off their new marina facility to the public on Saturday, Oct. 8.

The Scouts will stage various competitive events to demonstrate the skills learned in the organization.

Two unique aquatic events are scheduled for the weekend of Oct. 8-9.

A marathon swim around Naples Island is expected to attract many of the top distance swimmers while an unusual boat race from Catalina to Alamitos Bay will be witnessed by many onshore spectators.

* * * *

THE BYNON Catalina-Long Beach race is limited to two-man crafts of any shape, length, design so long as the vessel is muscle powered. No form of sails, engines, or other means of propulsion will be allowed during the race.

Wind up to the 30-day festival will be a parade on the final day of the month. Floats and mobile exhibits representing commercial fishing, occanographic research, water sports, and military units will dramatize the involvement of Long Beach in nautical enterprises, the festival sponsors claim.

Friars Will Fete Sailors' Families

Families of Long Beach destroyer men serving off Viet Nam will be entertained by a Beverly Hills organization for three Sundays beginning July 31.

The Friars Club will be host for the luncheon and entertainment for some 100 wives and children on each day.

Ships represented are the destroyer tender USS Bryce Canyon and destroyers Walke, Larson, Evans and Keyes, all of Destroyer Squadron 231.

The Bryce Canyon will be hosted July 31, Evans and Keyes on Aug. 7 and Walke and Larson on Aug. 14.

Each Sunday's activity will start with a 1:30 p.m. brunch for dependents in the club dining room. Entertainment will be provided and gifts distributed to children.

Celebrity members of the club, headed by comedian George Jessel, also will visit with dependents during the afternoon.

Before returning to Long Beach the families will be taken to a movie.

Destroyer Division 231, commanded by Capt. Lewis E. Davis Jr., left Long Beach on June 9 and the Bryce Canyon on July 11.

Trial of U.S. Pilots Demanded, Reds Say

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Resolutions "coming in from all parts of the country" condemn "the American escalation of the war in Viet Nam" and some demand that American pilots downed over North Viet Nam and taken prisoner "should be tried as war criminals."

The Czechoslovak news agency C.T.K. reported Saturday. It said the resolutions are being sent to the American and North Vietnamese embassies here.

Japanese War II Bomb Kills Three

Hiratsuka, Japan (UPI) — A World War II bomb left on a beach by the Imperial Army exploded Saturday, killing three Japanese and seriously injuring another.

Officials said four vacationers dug up the bomb from where it had been lodged for more than 20 years and dropped it onto a fire.

from the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., the government agency that insures savings and loan accounts up to $10,000. The exact amount of this assistance has never been revealed, but sources close to the deal estimate that the agency contributed between $50 million and $55 million.

It is still too early to predict the exact shape of the adjustments that are likely to come to the California savings and loan associations. But some broad outlines do emerge from conversations with industry leaders:

—The savings and loan industry in California, 10 years from now, is likely to be comprised of far fewer but far larger units.

—As the industry consolidates, professional management will increasingly replace the free-wheeling entrepreneurs who now are in the driver's seat.

—Wide-open competition in the rates paid for savings accounts—of the sort that fueled the industry's growth from $6 billion to $26 billion in assets in the last decade—is likely to resume, barring imposition of rate controls by the federal government.

Gareth Sadler, the affable young Pasadena lawyer who is making a wide reputation for himself as California savings and loan commissioner, compares the associations he supervises to the automobile industry 30 years ago, implying that a wave of mergers and consolidations is on the way.

In many ways, Wellman's arrival on the scene at Equitable Savings and Loan Association, with a clear mandate to "clean up the mess at Van Nuys," symbolizes the increasingly important role that professional managers have been and will continue to play in the affairs of the California industry.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, however, the hot competition for funds among the California associations — and between California and the rest of the nation — is as keen as ever.

The Federal Home Loan Bank board, the chief federal supervisor of the savings and loan industry, had, until the end of June, attempted indirectly to control the rates that savings and loan associations pay for funds through its power to regulate the associations' access to borrowing rights at the regional home loan banks.

Associations that exceeded the "prevailing rate" in their areas, the board said in effect, would be denied loans for expansion purposes and would be required to repay borrowings already outstanding.

This policy was abandoned on July 1 largely because many of the major associations in California — led by Howard Ahmanson, who personally owns the Home Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles, the nation's largest single association — had raised their rates to 5¼% desite the pressure from Washington.

The prevailing rate sanctioned by the bank board for California had been 5%.

* * * *

IN THE long run, the success of the California associations in overturning informal federal rate control may backfire, and lead to a fixed national ceiling set by statute.

In addition to the Van Nuys Savings and Loan, which was freely conceded to be in serious financial difficulty, there are at least a dozen other associations in Southern California and Nevada with similar—if in some cases less serious—financial problems.

Taken together, these problem cases—as regulatory officials call them—account for less than 5% of the $26 billion in assets held by savings and loans associations in California.

Regulatory officials state flatly, if always with the caveat that they are not to be quoted by name, that the success or failure of their efforts to resolve the "California problem" will hinge largely on their ability to keep the public in the dark about the true state of affairs in the California savings and loan industry.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time, executives at other savings and loan associations whose solvency has not been called into question are openly apprehensive that if one or more of the problem companies actually fails, this could undermine the confidence in all the state's associations.

The problems of the California savings and loan associations, while they have become serious in only a small number of cases, are nonetheless pervasive. They can be traced to a comparatively simple market miscalculation in 1963 and 1964.

During that period, the rate of population growth in California dropped rather abruptly, largely because of a drop in net migration that can be traced to a fall-off in employment in the state's defense-oriented industry.

* * * *

IN THE eight years through 1963, the net increase in California's civilian population averaged more than 4% a year. In 1964, California population grew by 3.2%. In 1965, growth was 3.1%.

Housing starts in California dropped along with the fall-off in population growth, but, particularly in Southern California.

Pact nations recently declared they were ready to send "volunteers" to North Viet Nam if Hanoi asked for them.

Ho Chi Minh's declarations Sunday that his country apparently was preparing for harder fighting gave no indication, however, that he had flatly asked for the "volunteers."

* * * *

THE HO broadcast monitored by the Japanese Broadcasting Corp., charged the United States was desperately stepping up the war in both North and South Viet Nam. He said Washington was fanatically bombing Hanoi and Haiphong.

Ho said the standing committee of the North Viet Nam Parliament had drawn up the partial mobilization order.

Declaring that peace negotiations on Viet Nam were "out of the question," Ho said, "We will fight for independence and freedom. We will win and work for reconstruction of our country."

* * * *

WHETHER mounting world opinion had forced Ho to change his mind about bringing captured U.S. airmen to trial could not be determined. There was no hint in the broadcast that he ever considered the drastic action.

But revulsion to the threat was widespread and had brought appeals from U.N. Secretary General Thant and warnings from high U.S. officials.

In a carefully-worded declaration, Thant Saturday asked all sides "to exercise restraint" in the treatment of prisoners and to respect the Geneva Convention concerning war prisoners — regardless of their interpretation of the 1949 Geneva Pact.

IN WASHINGTON U.S. Officials warned Hanoi that the American public would demand decimation of the Communist territory if the Communists executed captured American fliers.

A Communist diplomat had warned in Berlin that North Viet Nam planned to use captured American fliers as hostages to protect vital industrial installations against U.S. bombing raids.

The United States had gone so far as to deliver a warning to Hanoi through the North Vietnamese ambassador in Cairo, using the good offices of the United Arab Republic.

The U.S. maintains no known contact with North Vietnamese officials in any part of the world.

Marines Battle Reds Near Neutral Zone

New York Times Service

DA NANG, South Viet Nam—United States marines battled enemy troops within 2 miles of the demilitarized zone that separates North from South Viet Nam Saturday in the northernmost large-scale operation ever mounted by American forces here.

By 11:30 p.m. marine officers reported that 62 enemy soldiers had been killed and one captured, who said he was from North Viet Nam.

A multibattalion force of marines numbering about 3,000 men, along with a reinforced regiment of South Vietnamese troops, landed from helicopters in densely wooded hills about 80 miles west-northwest of this port town early Friday morning.

Intelligence reports had indicated that some 10,000 enemy soldiers, or the equivalent of a division, were massed in the area, informed sources said Saturday.

The intelligence reports did not make clear whether the enemy soldiers were North Vietnamese or Viet Cong guerrillas and in the fighting so far, which has mainly involved small units, commanders have been unable to identify the troops they are fighting.

One marine commander said, however, that the enemy troops appear to be well disciplined, well clothed and armed with new weapons. Among the weapons the marines have captured are two Soviet-made pistols and a Chinese-manufactured 50-caliber machine gun.

THE ELIZABETH TAYLOR STORY

Nude Scenes in Films Absurd, Liz Says

This is the seventh of an eight-part series taken from the autobiography "Elizabeth Taylor" in which the controversial actress tells how she feels about herself as a woman, a wife, a mother and a sex symbol.

By ELIZABETH TAYLOR
Women's News Service

Richard and I hadn't done any serious acting together, nothing that's demanded anything of us, since Cleopatra. And you can't really call that very serious.

After we did "VIP's" I didn't get a film offer for what seemed like ages and ages. Richard and I were both panicky. I think our notoriety was a factor, but not a large one.

More important were all the accusations about "Cleopatra." The industry was convinced that we had cost "Cleopatra" extra millions by caprice —all of which we have proved to be false.

And I couldn't get health insurance. So we were risks. I didn't think I could get a job. So I grabbed "Sandpiper" and let them pay their million dollars.

* * * *

A LOT OF people, because the plot involves an illicit romance between a bohemian artist and a minister, may think that "Sandpiper" was written specifically for Richard and me in order to capitalize on our notoriety.

I did feel it necessary to see a rough cut and take out anything so pertinent to us that I would just die.

Actually, the script had been knocking around for several years, and at first they didn't ask Richard to be in it. Then, I had to talk him into doing it. We never thought it would be a nartistic masterpiece.

In "Sandpiper" I did a scene—very reluctantly—in which for a split second I'm nude to the waist but covering myself with my hands, so it's actually about as nude as a low halter neck.

When I did the scene, I had somebody standing in front of me with a towel while I covered myself with my hands.

I turned puce from head to foot. I won't even go swimming in a bathing suit in front of strangers, that's how much of an exhibitionist I am.

* * * *

I THINK nude scenes in films are absurd, and I think it's really strange the way women, respectable women, will strip for magazines.

The ones who don't need the money—it can only be a narcissistic complex, a vanity of the body so profound that they must show it. Or maybe they're just naive and think it will help their careers.

In "Sandpiper" we were playing two people in love, so it was not particularly difficult. I must say, when we looked at each other, it was like our eyes had fingers and they grabbed hold, and perhaps something special did happen.

Now we have done the film version of Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", a real blockbuster.

Richard and I went through a whole set of qualms over taking the roles. Let's face it, we were not obvious casting and a lot of people hooted at the idea.

For me, the age thing was wrong. I had never played a part like that. I couldn't imagine myself as Martha, and I couldn't imagine myself dominating Richard.

* * * *

IT WAS the most difficult part I had ever read and made me feel as though in my whole life I'd never acted, never interpreted a line.

Then I thought, Well, you never did know how to act. Then I thought, Well, you did a couple of things that were all right, and you felt the same way then. And, of course, no actress would ever turn that role down.

We got word to Albee that we wanted to know what his feelings were before we said yes or no. Albee was terribly sweet. He said he was absolutely delighted and if he could ever be of any help, he would be more than happy.

Mike Nichols, the director, and Ernie Lehman, the producer, decided I should be about 45. And then we did eight different makeups, and we all chose the same one. I liked it immediately.

Once I got all the trappings on, Martha just happened without anybody discussing it, without my even thinking much about it.

It was like stepping into somebody else's skin who was so remote from my own skin that it was like wearing a mustache and beard and an old long wig and cloak. So I had Martha to hide behind, so I'd lost Elizabeth Taylor.

* * * *

THERE WAS a freedom that I've never known before in a role. I felt much more experimental. Ultimately, of course, I'm not a schizophrenic, so there may have been some of me that came across, but not consciously or, I hope, even subconsciously.

I tried to cut all of me out. When I got into my Martha suit, I forgot me.

Take swearing. Until I was curbed by Richard, I used to curse in an almost deliberately kittenish way to shock people, to watch their reaction.

There's nothing cute about Martha at all. When she swears, it's for real. Martha swears in anger. I try never to swear in anger.

And Martha doesn't swear to shock people, because the whole consistency of Martha is one vast swear word, one blasphemy.

During the first few weeks of shooting, Martha completely took me over. When I felt the set, I couldn't take off my Martha suit.

RICHARD AND I would be out with friends and I'd hear myself saying to him, "For Chrissakes, shut up, I'm not finished talking."

And then the next morning I would think. That wasn't me, it was Martha. I had to fight to regain myself.

I guess it's like going to a psychiatrist. The more you begin to understand your problem, the more you can leave it behind. And we could be more secure about abandoning our roles because we got more confident that we could step back into them. But it was wild for a month.

If what turned out on film wasn't right, it was still the best I could do. Whether the final product is good or bad, the public will ultimately decide. But I've never been so happy doing a film.

Some day I would love to do a play with Richard on the stage. But I don't think I have the right voice. It's not big enough, though maybe I could train it.

* * * *

WHEN I WAS practicing for the poetry reading which Richard and I gave in New York during the "Hamlet" run, Philip Burton, Richard's foster father, made me learn to project my voice even though he were going to be using mikes.

He would sit at one side of our hotel room and say to me, "Now pretend I'm at the back end of the theater."

I said, "Phil, we're going to have a microphone."

He said, "Never mind, you must stand back from the microphone and not depend on it."

I'm not terribly proud of much that I've done as an actress, but I was proud of myself at that poetry reading. It was something I never thought I could do.

I didn't think I had the courage to face a live audience for the first time. I knew that 85% of them had come there and spent a great deal of money to see me fall flat on my face.

* * * *

RICHARD COULDN'T really face practicing with me till the night before, because I think he thought I would not be able to make it.

In the week after the poetry reading, we had over a half-million dollars' worth of offers in the United States alone—poetry readings, mind you.

GOP Urges Congressional Review of U.S. School Aid

By RAYMOND M. LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republican high command called Saturday for a congressional review of federal aid to schools to guard against "irreparable damage" to American education.

The demand by the National Republican Coordinating Committee was aimed specifically at administration of the 1965 law providing federal aid for primary and secondary schools.

With specific reference to education, the committee reiterated its support for changes in federal grant programs to provide fewer or no federal strings on how federla money is spent by the states.

The committee said financing was a key problem in all fields of education and that this could be solved best by a GOP-endorsed plan for giving the states a share of federal revenue without fixing terms and conditions for spending it.

* * * *

THIS APPROACH also would make it easier for school systems to raise teacher salary levels, it said.

The committee is composed of former GOP presidential nominees, congressional leaders, governors and other party officials. The education report was prepared by a task force headed by former Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio and approved by the coordinating committee at its June 27 meeting.

Acknowledging that the federal government has a part to play in guaranteeing educational opportunity, the report said this role must be carried out in a partnership arrangement protecting local school officials from federal interference.

It said that "lip service to that principle had been negated by the virtually unlimited powers given to the commissioner of education to establish criteria for federal aid."

Hence, it urged a congressional review of the program.

"THE URGENT need to bring about desegregation in public education must not be twisted by the vast new powers vested in the commissioner of education," the report said. "The American people are entitled to know whether the provisions of that act have resulted in dictation of the nature and content of local school programs.

"Unless an immediate review of the 1956 act's administration is conducted, irreparable damage may occur."

Diabetes Discussion Set

Diabetes will be the subject for discussion at the Health Information Forum Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach, 2801 Atlantic Ave.

The forums are presented as a free public service four times a year by the Memorial Hospital Foundation and the hospital's medical staff.

Dr. Henry H. Caraco, foundation chairman, will preside and Dr. Oscar Shadle will be chairman.

Others on the program will be Dr. John F. Cronin, and Dr. John F. Mitchell.

Dr. Shadle will answer some of the familiar questions on diabetes: "Will I get it?," "When will I ges it?," "How can I tell I have it?" and "How important is diet?"

Dr. Cronin's remarks will revolve around the history of the ailment, insulin, hereditary factors, signs and symptoms and diagnosis.

Dr. Mitchell will discuss foods, treatment of adults and children and complications arising from the ailment, will be received and answered by the panel.

Special guests will be members of the Long Beach Chapter, Diabetic Association of Southern California.

The forums, now in their fourth year at Memorial, are among the pioneer plans in this type of public service where laymen can get authentic information from medical men practicing in specialized fields.

the family had seen him in four months.

Police Supt. Wilson said his detectives had found 32 fingerprints at the townhouse which he said were Speck's.

He said the print used to identify him was taken from the wooden door of the bedroom where the nine girls had been herded and trussed, and eight of them dragged by the killer one by one to their deaths in other rooms of the house. The eight were strangled and stabbed repeatedly.

The ninth, Miss Amurao, saved her life by wriggling under a bunk bed during one of the killer's absences.

Supt. Wilson said Speck was seen in Chicago as late as 9 p.m. Friday. He was registered at a hotel on North Dearborn Street near Chicago's Loop—more than 10 miles from the scene of the massacre.

* * * *

"HE MIGHT have left the city after seeing in the newspapers what was virtually a portrait of him," Wilson said.

He referred to a police artist's sketch drawn from Miss Amurao's description of the killer.

Wilson said police files show that Speck had worked at various times as a laborer, trucker's helper, bakery worker and construction helper. He also was known by the aliases of Richard Franklin Lindberg and Richard Benjamin Speck.

Records in Monmouth, Ill., showed a Richard Franklin Speck was born there 25 years ago. Speck's brother in Monmouth said Speck had spent his childhood there and left 14 years ago when his mother moved to Texas after her husband's death.

The brother said he and Speck also have a sister in Chicago. Another sister lives in Dallas with her mother, Mrs. Mary Margaret Speck Lindberg.

* * * *

SPECK FIRST went to jail in Texas on charges of forgery and burglary. Other arrests were on charges of disturbing the peace and malicious destruction.

Jack Murd, an official at Huntsville Prison in Texas, said Speck had a good record there.

"His adjustment here and his record here were clear," Hurd said. "There was no problem with him while he was in prison here and no disciplinary action was taken."

The townhouse massacre, one of the most hideous mass murders in the memory of veteran police officers, shocked the city and the nation and touched off a determined manhunt as well as round-the-clock efforts by crime lab technicians.

Chief of Detectives Otto Kreuzer said the FBI sent a messenger to Chicago with Speck's record, photograph and fingerprints as soon as his identity was learned.

* * * *

WHEN MISS AMURAO looked at the FBI photo she said:

"This is very similar, the lips and all that. All except the hair." The FBI photo showed a man with hair longer than Miss Amurao had described for the police artist.

Supt. Wilson said his men have three excellent fingerprints of Speck's right hand, the first and second fingers. A print from a third finger still was being studied, he said.

"As far as I'm concerned," Wilson said, "there is no question but that he was there."

Hoberman Promoted by A.F. Reserve

T. Sgt. Joseph Hoberman, 16325 S. Gard St., Norwalk, has been promoted to the rank of master sergeant in the Air Force Reserve. Hoberman is assigned to the 414th Medical Service Flight at March Air Force Base.

Hoberman, widely known in Air Force circles in this area, was a former information specialist and chief photographer for Long Beach's 8546th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group when it was named the outstanding Air Force Reserve unit in the United States in 1964.

As photographer for the local unit Hoberman won many awards and commendations.

Accused Killer of 8 Nurses Called 'Braggart, Loner'

MONMOUTH, Ill. (UPI) — The police chief of Richard Speck's hometown described the accused killer of the eight nurses Saturday as a "braggart during the day and a loner after midnight."

Police Chief Harold Tinder said Speck would enter a tavern, sit alone until someone noticed him, strike up a conversation—and then brag about things he had done.

"He liked to act like a wheel," Tinder said.

Tinder said Speck also was wanted for questioning in the slaying of Mrs. Mary Pierce, whose body was found behind a hog shed in Monmouth April 13. Tinder said Speck was not a prime suspect. Tinder said the woman was beaten but not raped.

IN, OUT OF TROUBLE

Slaying Fugitive's Past Is Checkered

DALLAS (UPI)—Holding knives to the throats of women was nothing new to Richard Franklin Speck, the 25-year-old "loner" who is charged with the massacre of eight student nurses in Chicago.

Speck's mother, Mary Margaret Speck Lindberg, lives in the Fair Park area of Dallas and the home telephone is listed in Speck's name. Speck has been in and out of trouble with the law in Texas.

He was convicted of burglary and writing hot checks and sentenced to the state prison in Huntsville, Tex. He was once paroled, but was charged with assault during the parole and immediately sent back to prison.

The assault charge accused Speck of holding a knife to the throat of a woman who screamed and caught the attention of a neighbor. The neighbor called authorities and Speck was soon back in prison. He was finally discharged July 2, 1965.

* * * *

JACK HURD, assistant director of the state prison system, said Speck listed his education as through the ninth grade. He worked in both construction and at farm labor while in prison and lived much of the time in a dormitory instead of a cell. His behavior was described as "good."

It was because of this "good" behavior and occasional blood donations that Speck got a year cut off his sentence.

"He was an average type of inmate," Hurd said. "He adjusted to prison life and behaved himself."

The section in which Speck's mother lives varies from business shops and lower-income residences to slum areas on the south. Fair Park is the home of the Cotton Bowl and the annual Texas State Fair. There are plans to raze parts of the surrounding area.

When reporters called on Speck's mother's home, she slammed the door in their faces and would not say anything. Mrs. Lindberg still lives with relatives in a one-story beige wooden house.

A next-door neighbor, Mrs. Mollye McNeal, said "a young man who drove fast" had stayed at Mrs. Lindberg's house during the first part of the week, but did not know whether it was Speck.

Speck, who is divorced, attended schools in the East Dallas area and lived at a series of houses there.

* * * *

BUDDY WILSON, Speck's brother-in-law, lives in the house with Mrs. Lindberg and his wife Carolyn. One friend of Wilson's said he had often objected to Speck's heavy drinking.

A neighborhood grocer said Speck would often come to his store "half stewed" and ran up bills as high as $50 or $60 without paying.

"The last time I saw him, he wanted me to cash a $70 or $80 check," Lawrence Miller said. "I checked with the bank and it was good, so I did."

"He was always real good to me," Miller said. Miller first met Speck in the latter part of 1964 when Speck moved to the house with his wife and mother.

"He wanted to establish credit when he first moved here," Miller said. Miller said that while Speck lived at the house, he would sometimes "come in and buy $15 to $20 of beer."

Even before his conviction as a burglar, Speck had brushes with Dallas police. He was arrested twice on charges of disturbing the peace and malicious destruction of property. Both times he paid small fines.

The most recent entry in police records is suspicion of a burglary at a grocery on March 8, 1966. Speck was never arrested and the case is still open.

past in the slum area where at least two persons had been killed, scores injured, and hundreds arrested. During the worst racial outbreak Chicago has seen in decades, buildings and cars were put to the torch, stores were looted, and demands of slum Negroes were seen in greater vividness than ever before.

The tourists created traffic jams on streets which had been battle zones a few nights earlier.

The guardsmen—the first called into Chicago to put down racial violence within memory—stood relaxed before looted stores whose windows had been boarded up.

* * * *

THEY joked with the folks on the street. There was none of Friday night's curses and bayonet jabbings.

The children who had joined in rock-throwing during the week were imitating the troopers, marching behind them.

Through the daylight hours, the troubled neighborhood seemed almost a peaceful place. White men drove along the streets and went apparently unnoticed.

A Negro and a white man bumped into each other at the corner of Roosevelt and Pulaski. The white man said "I'm sorry" and the Negro said "Excuse me."

But the street crowds were lighter than usual, many stores were boarded up after the orgy of looting. Merchants in others said business was off sharply.

The words "black power," symbol of militancy among Negro civil rights groups, were scrawled on some boarded windows.

2 FIRES OUT, 1 BURNS NEAR MT. WILSON

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Firefighters controlled two brush fires Saturday in Angeles National Forest, but a third blaze eluded them.

The uncontrollable fire was the largest. It started shortly after noon in Ladybug Canyon, near Angeles Crest Highway and the Mt. Wilson Road, and raced toward Mt. Disappointment, charring between 50 and 100 acres of brush.

More than 200 men used airplanes, helicopters and ground tankers in an effort to control the blaze. No structures were reported endangered.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

SOVIET Premier Alexei Kosygin (left) welcomes British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in Moscow Saturday.
—AP Wirephoto

MOSCOW (UPI)—British Prime Minister Harold Wilson flew here Saturday with a two-point Viet Nam peace bid but the Russians gave him only a polite handshake instead of the usual bear hug.

Observers saw little chance Wilson would persuade Russia to help initiate talks to end the war.

Premier Alexei Kosygin didn't even want to make a special trip out to Moscow's Vunukovo Airport to welcome the British leader so he asked him to move his arrival forward three hours so he could just wait around after seeing Mrs. Gandhi off an hour earlier.

Wilson bounded down the plane gangplank with his arms outstretched as if to give the Soviet leader a hug, but Kosygin kept a slight distance between them and preferred a handshake instead.

The two men stood chatting amiably for a short while and then entered waiting limousines for the drive into town. There were no speeches, none of the usual flags and decorations and virtually no crowds.

Appeal by Thant

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary General Thant Saturday appealed to North Viet Nam not to carry out its threat to try captured American fliers as war criminals.

In a carefully worded declaration issued as a press statement, Thant asked all sides to "exercise restraint" in treatment of prisoners and to respect the Geneva Convention of August, 1949, concerning war prisoners regardless of their interpretation of the pact.

Taking note of statements by U.S. senators and other American leaders, Thant said the possible trial of American prisoners might lead to further escalation of the war which "already had potentialities of developing into World War III."

Astronauts Ready

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — With only the possibility of thunderstorms to worry about, Gemini 10 astronauts John Young and Michael Collins Saturday coasted through "fine tuning" practice for launch Monday on "the best mission yet."

The biggest threat to the start of the twin rendezvous and spacewalk spectacular — the rainy remnants of a tropical storm Celia — was eliminated when the area of foul weather veered southward and weakened.

Project officials reported everything was proceeding on schedule toward the 4:40 p.m. EDT launch of Gemini's Atlas-Agena rendezvous rocket and the 6:21 p.m. EDT takeoff of Young and Collins in pursuit.

Earthly Survival

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A New York state scientist said Saturday some earthly organisms survived a record 18 hours in a trip through space aboard the Gemini 9 capsule last month.

Russ Ready for Parley on Fishing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has agreed to a United States request for talks on conserving fish resources in waters off U.S. shores, the State Department announced Saturday.

The Soviets said they were ready to begin technical discussions in Moscow starting Monday or as soon afterward as an American delegation arrives. Washington expects to have a delegation ready shortly.

Press officer Marshall Wright said the Soviet response was received Saturday, one day after the State Department had prodded the Soviets again about holding talks on the fishing problem.

The original U.S. suggestion for discussions was made in May. It stemmed from mounting concern over possible damage to American fishing resources resulting from Soviet fishing and fishing methods off the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

* * * *

U.S. territorial limits extend only three miles offshore, but American fishing interests reach beyond that, including nearby waters used by the Soviets and others.

The State Department spokesman said Alexander Zinchur, charge d'affaires at the Soviet Embassy, was called to the State Department Friday and told by Anthony Solomen, assistant secretary for economic affairs, Walter Stoessel Jr., of U.S. concern about Soviet fishing activities, particularly off the West Coast.

The Soviet diplomat was asked for a reply "on an urgent basis" to the earlier U.S. request for talks.

U.S. officials declined to attach special political significance to the Kremlin's agreement to fishery talks at this time. They noted that the Russians are also engaged in other types of discussions with U.S. representatives, and said that it is in the interests of the Soviets as well as the United States to conserve fishing resources.

Tomatoes Are Out

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—The state Health Secretariat has advised the city that a large part of the nearby tomato crop has been contaminated by a germicide and is being destroyed. Residents including Brazil's largest colony of Italian origin were warned to eat their spaghetti without tomato sauce.

'Part B' Medicare Pioneer

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — The first payment in the county under the voluntary Medicare program covering doctor and medical services was made Saturday to Charles Goettman.

Goettman, 76, a retired stage worker at Paramount Studios, underwent cataract surgery July 5 at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital, one of the 607 Southern California hospitals participating in Medicare.

The benefit payment was made to Goettman by Occidental Life Insurance Company, administrator of Part B of Medicare for the Social Security Administration in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

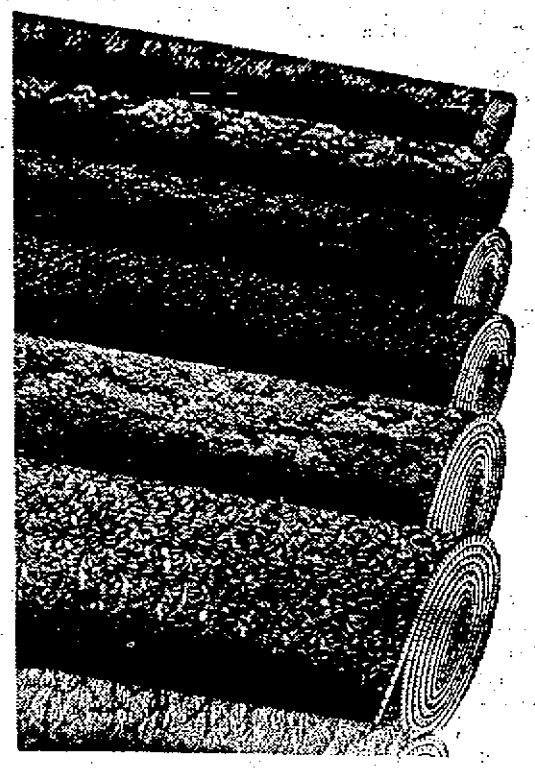

Claims of welfare recipients and railroad retirement persons are handled by other administrators.

The voluntary supplementary medical insurance plan is financed by a $3 monthly premium paid by the individual and matched by the federal government. Some 760,000 persons over 65 are covered by the plan in the two counties.

Goettman, a widower and World War I veteran, was released from the hospital July 11th.

U.S. Communist Leaders Jittery Over Suspected Spy in Party

By PETER KIHSS
New York Times Service

NEW YORK — An inside story of how Communist Party leaders here allegedly "panicked" and ousted one of their associates has come to light, along with the expelled official's claim that he could have been a victim of "forgery by computer."

The document by William Albertson, the party's former state secretary here and a former national board member, described James E. Jackson, another national leader, as having vainly "demanded a confession to the effect that I was an informer."

"Okay, Albertson, the jig is up!" he quoted Jackson. "Come clean! We got you dead to rights!"

Albertson declined comment on the document, which had been circulated at the Communist national convention here last month as his appeal for reinstatement. The appeal had included descriptions of computers "which can and have forged handwriting."

The convention had adopted a report that the New York state committee's branding of Albertson as a "police agent" when it expelled him in July, 1964, was "not found to have been proven." Persons familiar with the party could not recall this much backing down in any previous expulsion case.

Albertson wrote that on June 30 he was confronted with a handwritten letter allegedly found in a car, signed "Bill."

The letter was addressed to "Joe," and said it sought "to clear up your questions on special areas of responsibility." It then listed the names of party members and supposed responsibilities.

The letter added, (James) "Tormey (Western New York leader) keeps hinting I am involved in too many things" and might be "getting a little suspicious." It ended, "Maybe you could arrange for a raise in expenses."

Even while Jackson was interrogating him July 6, Albertson wrote, the announcement of his expulsion was being published. His wife and mother, he said, were also expelled "in true guilt-by-association fashion."

The appeal charged the party leaders should have recognized the possibility of a frameup by the Federal Bureau of Investigation or other police agency based on "our knowledge of the nature and methods of the class enemy."

After the national committee last July sustained his expulsion, Albertson wrote, he found technical descriptions of a Massachusetts Institute of Technology handwriting computer.

He said Prof. Murray Eden, its codesigner, wrote in response to his inquiries that "computer-generated handwriting which had been modeled on the script of a single person would be very difficult to distinguish from the natural handwriting of that person."

Eden, he wrote, also added that MIT's Lincoln Laboratory had constructed the computer under a Defense Department contract, but "there are several commercial computers available today, designed to do this type of operation."

Albertson wrote that MIT's Center of International Studies had admitted Central Intelligence Agency support last April, with its "research mostly in Communist affairs."

Rescuer of Cat Needs Rescuer Up in Tree

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP)—A cat climbed into a poplar tree near the swimming pool in Liberty Park and apparently was stranded.

Judy Helms, 14, climbed up after it.

The cat jumped down and walked away. Firemen were called to retrieve Judy.

Dairies, Bakers Boosting Prices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —California housewives will pay sharply increased prices for bread and dairy products effective Monday, it was learned Saturday.

Average bread prices will go up 2 to 3 cents a loaf, ice cream will climb 10 cents a half gallon, and cottage cheese will go up 3 cents a pound. Prices for locally produced butter and cheese, which also will climb, have not been set.

If that isn't enough to put a crimp in the average food budget, an anticipated 2 to 3 cent boost in milk and cream prices about Aug. 1 ought to do it.

The spiraling food prices are the result of higher subsidies on dairy prices paid by the federal government, United Press International learned Saturday.

Louis C. Schafer, chief of the state milk stabilization board in Sacramento, said the increases are a "direct chain reaction result" of a federal boost in the price it will pay for solid non-fat milk and butter.

GIANT GRAY CLOUD PRODUCED

Scientists Watch Mars Explosions?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A scientist says astronomers may actually have seen explosions on Mars caused by asteroids crashing into its surface.

This possibility was suggested in last week's issue of the Technical Weekly, Science, by Dr. Ernst J. Opik, professor of astrophysics at the University of Maryland.

On Jan. 16, 1950, T. Saheki in Japan observed an "explosion" over the Martian landscape feature known as Mare Chronium. It produced a gigantic gray cloud more than 900 miles long.

On Aug. 30, 1956, Opik and others observed a yellow cloud over Mare Sirenum which spread in the next eight days until it covered an almost hemispheric region 1,800 miles across.

Asteroids are comparatively tiny planets which revolve around the sun, many of them in orbits near that of Mars. In the approximately 4.5 billion years since it was formed, Mars has been hit by many asteroids and still bears the scars.

* * * *

THE MOON AND earth also have been wounded often by giant rocks from space. But on earth — except for such relatively recent impacts as the one which gouged the great meteor crater in Arizona — the effects have been largely smoothed away by wind and water.

Opik's most recent study suggests that Mars, which is closer to the asteroidal track than either moon or earth, may suffer hits as frequently as one very six years. In any case, this "is the most attractive of the explanations" of the 1950 and 1956 "explosions" and warrants further study with special telescopes.

In these days when Opik talks, other astronomers are likely to pay more attention than they once did. The Mariner 4 photographs of July 14, 1965, showing vast impact craters on Mars, surprised many a scientist.

They shouldn't have, because Opik correctly assumed the craters' existence 16 years ago. His published studies of 1950 were almost exactly verified by Mariner 4.

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Twin payloads instrumented to see if the atmosphere of Mars contains organic material, such as that associated with life, have been tentatively selected for the two Mariner rocket flights past that planet in 1969.

Each will carry two television cameras. One will be capable of sending to earth a continuous panorama of Martian terrain along the flight path; the other could send views detailed enough to show the larger pyramids of Egypt —if any such structures exist on Mars.

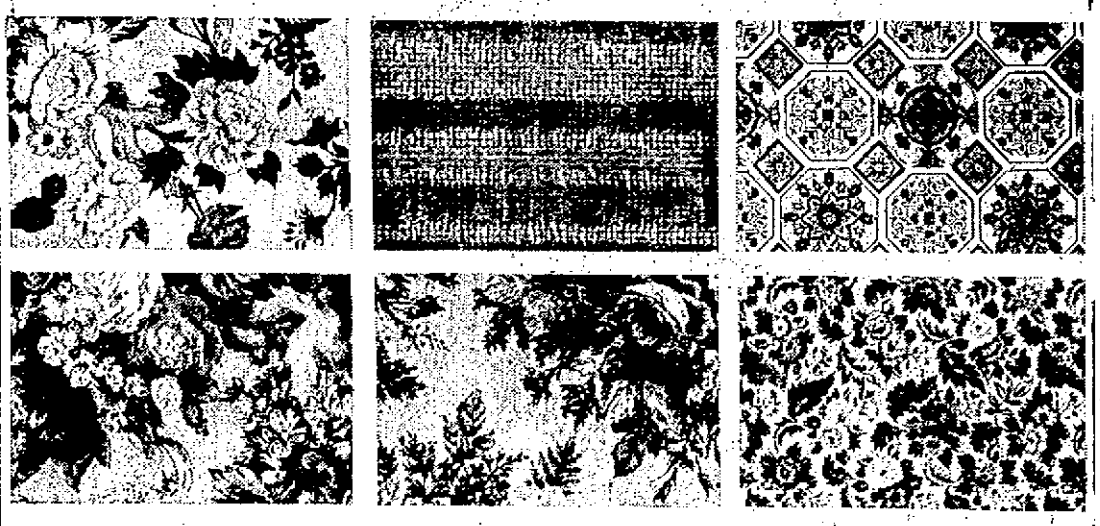

Radio Stations Ban Record 'The Trip'

LONDON (UPI) — Three pirate radio stations have ordered their disc jockeys to quit playing the American record "The Trip" because it encourages teen-agers to use drugs.

"Taking a trip" is a slang expression for being under the influence of drugs, but the record's distributor, Island Records, denied it encouraged drug-taking.

Dedicate New Site for Crippled Children

Dedication ceremonies and open house will mark the formal opening Thursday of the new Long Beach Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society at 3770 E. Willow St.

Open house, featuring a tour and light refreshments, will be from 2 to 5:30 p.m. with dedication ceremonies set for 3:30 p.m., according to Albert G. Davis, general chairman, and Mrs. Burton W. Chace, honorary chairman of the invitational opening.

The 5,000-square-foot building, with its glass and concrete block exterior, is the first regional center to be built from the ground up by the society.

* * * *

FEATURES OF the building include two speech therapy rooms and one for psychological testing, all with mirrored viewing walls for observation by parents, student and educators; offices for the director and social workers, playrooms for the pre-school program and for children awaiting service appointments, a kitchen, conference room, a meeting room and special areas for secretarial services.

Funds for the new center, which is on land leased from Los Angeles County, came from special gifts and legacies. Services provided children, without charge, come from Easter Seal contributions.

Among those invited to preview the new center are the handicapped children and young adults of the Long Beach area participating in society services, their families, service groups, volunteer workers and officials representing Long Beach and Los Angeles County.

* * * *

CHAIRMAN Burton W. Chace and Frank G. Bonelli will represent the County Board of Supervisors. Long Beach Mayor Edwin W. Wade has presented the society with a proclamation naming July 21 as "Crippled Children's Society Day in Long Beach."

Others in attendance will include Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick; William C. Eldridge, society president; Ferdinand T. Fletcher, president of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of California; Ivy Baker Priest, former U.S. treasurer and board of directors member and actress Janet Blair, member of the board of trustees.

Music for the open house and for the dedication will be provided by the Long Beach Municipal Band with Charles Payne directing.

* * * *

A FEATURE of the dedication will be the raising of a flag by Boy Scouts of Troop 74. The flag, a gift from the Pilot Club of Long Beach, has flown over the Capitol in Washington and will be presented by Ruth E. Tay, president of the club.

The opening has become a community-wide project in Long Beach, as indicated by the committee chairmanships: invitations, Mrs. Margaret Darby of the Pilot Club, a society trustee, and a member of the Long Beach recreation department; refreshments, Mrs. Bruce R. Zacher of Alpha Chi Omega; hospitality, Mrs. Walker Brown of Alpha Gamma Delta; special services, Dr. Robert W. Anderson and Edwin L. Amstutz of Long Beach Uptown Kiwanis; press relations, Malcolm Marsh, Elks Club 888; and Easter Seal volunteers, Mrs. Ima Shafer, volunteer campaign director for the Long Beach area.

Other organizations involved include Zeta Tau Alpha, Children's Service League, Sertoma, La Sertoma, Lakewood Village Community Church, North Long Beach Women's Club, 19th District American Legion Auxiliary, Alpha Gamma chapter of Theta Sigma, Lakewood Aid League and Kappa Zeta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

Special donations are being sought for the swimming pool, poolhouse and workshop for which room is provided on the grounds, as well as for completion of furnishings and equipment in the main building.

TIME OUT AFTER 46 YEARS

Veteran Newsman Beck Takes Spectator Role

By BOB GEIVET

For 46 years, Verner C. Beck has been doing things; now he's going to do nothing.

Absolutely nothing.

For awhile, at least, he's just going to sit, and then sit some more, and watch the world go by. All this time, he has been watching it, and reporting it, and helping it along.

Beck, a newspaperman of the "old school" and schooled in the old traditions of the press, has been general manager of the world-famed Festival of Arts at Laguna Beach for 18 years.

THIS IS HIS last season; he's leaving when this year's edition, the 31st, wraps up its business at the end of August.

Beck was graduated from Denver University in 1920 as a journalism major, and he made newspapering his life's love. He has never regretted any of it—and only wishes he could do it all again.

While in the university, he joined the Sigma Delta Chi professional journalistic society, and has since held membership; he is active in the Orange County chapter, which he helped charter.

* * * *

HIS FIRST newspaper job was in Fort Morgan, Colo., but he decided soon thereafter "to join the trek to Southern California." He worked for the Ontario Daily Report, and 12 years later decided to take a fling at publishing. He took over the Coastline Dispatch at San Juan Capistrano—and so was born his love for Orange County.

It was while he was editing the South Coast News at Laguna Beach that Beck got interested in the Festival of the Arts. He became a director, and president of the board in 1948. Thereafter, he became its manager. He also became Laguna reporter for the Long Beach Press-Telegram.

Like newspapering, it's "all work," but it was fun, he said. Now, he's ready to let someone else have the fun.

WEEK IN REVIEW

Bayonets Maintain Peace in Chicago

By DON HASTINGS

THE NATION

With bayonetted rifles at the ready, more than 1,500 National Guardsmen Friday night joined hundreds of Chicago police officers to keep the peace in the slum streets of the Windy City's West Side.

The riot-trained National Guardsmen from 15 Chicago area units were ordered out by Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner at the request of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley after three nights of shooting, looting and pitched battles between Negroes and police. Maj. Gen. Francis P. Kane, commander of the Guard, let it be known that his men meant business. He told newsmen, "If anybody shoots at my men, my orders are to shoot back—shoot to kill."

With the Guardsmen patroling the streets, the violence of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights subsided to scattered, minor incidents.

It was believed that tense calm resulted not only from the presence of the Guard and police, but from a "cool-off" agreement reached earlier in the day between Mayor Daley and Dr. Martin Luther King, civil rights leader who is spending the summer in Chicago.

THE RIOTING BEGAN in a small Negro neighborhood when officers arrested a man for reopening a fire hydrant that they had closed. It spread through three entire police districts and parts of others in the Negro community. The hydrant had been turned on by youngsters trying to cool off as a heat wave gripped the city.

The three nights of demonstrations claimed two lives, one a 14-year-old girl, killed by a stray bullet. At least 30 persons were wounded, including six policemen. Dozens of others were treated for injuries caused by thrown rocks and bricks, flying glass and fighting. More than 300 were arrested.

Mayor Daley asserted that Dr. King's staff was responsible for the violence. Said Daley:

"I don't think you can charge it to Martin Luther King directly, but surely some of the people that came in here have been talking for the last year of violence and showing pictures and instructing people on how to conduct violence—they're on his staff and they're responsible in a general measure. . . ."

A Daley aide said the mayor was referring to motion pictures of last year's Watts riots shown by a King staff member.

King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and a champion of nonvinlence, said the films were shown for "just the opposite purpose—to show the negative results of rioting."

ONE OF THE MINOR points of the Daley-King "cool-off" agreement was perhaps the most important. The mayor agreed to put sprinklers on fire hydrants so that children can play in the water during heat waves.

Daley also conceded King's demands that more swimming pools and playgrounds be opened on the West Side.

Saturday morning it was hoped Chicago had "cooled off."

THE RIOTING DIDN'T reach into the quiet South Side section where eight student nurses from South Chicago Community Hospital lived in an apartment house converted to a dormitory, but death did.

Just before midnight Wednesday, a young man entered the nurses' apartment, forced them and a visiting girl friend, one by one, into a single room and bound them. Then, again one by one, he took eight of them into other rooms and strangled or stabbed them to death.

CORAZON AMURAO
Survived Massacre

There was one survivor, Corazon Amurao, from the Philippines, who rolled under a bed when the killer left the room with one of his victims. She told investigators that the slayer lulled the girls into complacency by sitting on the floor with them and telling them he only wanted money.

Long after the killer had left Miss Amurao freed herself of her bonds and ran to a window where she screamed for help.

Even veteran officers were shaken by the carnage they found. One described it as "the crime of the century."

Slain were Merlita Gargullo, 23; Valentina Pasion, 23; Suzanne Farris, 22; Patricia Ann Matusek, 21; Mary Ann Jordan, 20; Nina Schmale, 24; Pamela Wilkening, 20, and Gloria Jean Davy, 22.

At week's end law enforcement officers across the country were searching for Richard B. Speck, 25, a seaman. Fingerprints at the scene of the crime established his identity.

FROM THE CONTINENTAL Divide to the Atlantic, and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes, millions of Americans sweltered in a near-record heat wave. The nine days of heat claimed nearly 200 lives, 133 of them in the St. Louis metropolitan area, before cool air moved across the Midwest and East Friday to bring relief.

THOUSANDS OF WOULD-BE air travelers were still seeking other means of transportation Saturday as a machinists' strike against five major airlines continued into the second week. Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds, acting as mediator, said negotiators for the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists and the airlines were at "a serious impasse."

In an effort to ease the air travel snarl, the Civil Aeronautics Board Friday gave supplemental airlines authority to fly nearly 100 routes normally serviced by the struck carriers. Supplemental airlines are those which usually fly charter flights.

ESPIONAGE WAS BIG last week.

On Tuesday, FBI agents arrested William H. Whalen, 51, a retired Army lieutenant colonel. He was charged with conspiracy to give atomic weapon, missile and defense plans to Russian Embassy employes. The charge stated that Whalen had received $5,500 for information he passed to the Russians from 1959 to 1961 while he held a position with the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Whalen could be executed if convicted.

On Wednesday, the FBI revealed that two Czechoslovakian diplomats had tried to "bug" the office of a State Department official. They were thwarted by a State Department employe, Frank J. Mrkva, who pretended he was working for them. Actually, he was working for the FBI.

On Thursday, the Senate voted, 61-28, not to enlarge a Senate subcommittee that keeps an eye on the United States spy agency, the CIA. The fight for more control over the agency was led, and lost, by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

THE WAR

The air war held the spotlight last week as U.S. Navy and Air Force planes pressed attacks against targets in North Viet Nam. Cries of "war criminals" and "grave transgressions" were sounded from Hanoi and Peking.

In the action over North Viet Nam, American fliers outmaneuvered herds of SAM (surface-to-air missiles) and shot down three Red MIG fighters. Three U.S. planes also were lost, from ground fire. One pilot is missing in the week's action.

A U.S. spokesman described Thursday's action as "a big day in the north." American jets hammered a wide variety of targets with a record 114 missions—combat assignments that ordinarily involve from two to four planes.

Five Communist radar sites were among the targets. American pilots said they also destroyed or damaged 18 bridges and 43 cargo barges.

The prize was the Dap Cau Bridge, 19 miles northeast of Hanoi, a 510-foot link in the railway between Hanoi and Peking. The Air Force said photographs taken after the bombing showed the center spans of the bridge lying in the river.

South of the border, Guam-based B52 bombers pummelled suspected Viet Cong staging areas for three consecutive days.

IN AN APPARENT attempt to force a halt to bombing of North Viet Nam targets, the Hanoi regime continued to parade downed American fliers through the streets of the capital city and threaten to try them as war criminals.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Friday that if the Hanoi government should carry out its threats to try and execute the captive pilots, it would "set loose emotions in this country that would be hard to control."

Also on Friday, 18 Democratic senators called on North Viet Nam to reconsider its threat.

Striving anew for a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam conflict Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson flew to Moscow Saturday to attempt to get Kremlin leaders to help set up negotiations.

THE WEST

A craft that flies like a stone made its first flight over Edwards Air Force Base Tuesday and performed "beautifully, simply beautifully," according to test pilot Milton O. Thompson.

The wingless M2F2, designed to return astronauts to earth from orbiting vehicles, was dropped at 45,000 feet from a B52 bomber, fell away at 450 m.p.h. and landed 3½ minutes later on a dry lake bed.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration official was asked whether a rock or the M2F2 would reach the earth first if both were dropped from the same altitude. He said the rock would hit first, but "it would be close."

PROGRESS WAS MADE last week by Michigan labor mediator Ronald W. Houghton, asked by Gov. Edmund G. Brown to investigate worker elections at DiGiorgio Corp. ranches at Delano and Borrego Springs.

On Friday, the National Farm Workers Association called off its nationwide boycott of S&W food products produced by the DiGiorgio Corp.

The NFWA said it is recalling pickets and instructing those concerned with the boycott that it is complying with a recommendation by Haughton in the long-standing farm-labor and representation dispute.

The NFWA, DiGiorgio and the Teamsters Union agreed to abide by Haughton's recommendations, including new elections before Aug. 3. The Teamsters Union won the June 24 elections on DiGiorgio holdings, but the NFWA protested the results.

Cesar Chavez, director of the NFWA, called the agreement of the three parties a "hard-won victory for farm workers" and predicted his union will win in the new election.

REPUBLICAN GUBERNATORIAL nominee Ronald Reagan picked up 32,073 more votes than originally announced in the June 7 primary, Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan announced.

The state's official canvass, which counted all outstanding absentee ballots, also showed a gain of 15,262 for the man Reagan will oppose in November, incumbent Democratic Gov. Brown.

The biggest vote-getter in the state? Jordan, who led all partisan candidates in either party.

BAY AREA HOSPITALS, seeking to avert mass walkouts by more than 1,250 registered nurses, Friday night offered pay raises up to $615 a month during an 18-month period.

Hospital negotiators, meeting with representatives of the California Nurses Association and state medicare, said their proposals were in line with salaries suggested by the American Nurses Association.

The offer was lower than salary hikes given nurses at Eden Hospital in Castro Valley earlier last week.

The proposal included a provision for nurses in their first year at a hospital, with some prior experience, to earn $500 a month now, $530 in January and $560 in January 1968.

For nurses with more than four years' experience, the hospitals proposed an average 20.6% increase to a maximum of $615 in 1968.

THE SOUTHLAND

The aerospace industry will retain high employment despite budgetary troubles generated by the Viet Nam War, a survey reveals.

The survey came on the heels of an announcement by Dr. Robert Seamans, deputy director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Seamans said NASA's budget request for $5.7 billion in the 1966-67 fiscal year has been trimmed to $5.012 billion, largely because of mounting war costs.

Seamans estimated about 25,000 California aerospace workers would lose their jobs because of slowdowns or cancellations of NASA contracts—principally on the Saturn and Apollo man-to-the-moon projects.

But the two major Southern California moon program contractors, Douglas Aircraft Co. and North American Aviation Inc., do not forecast any major reductions in their employment.

Net effect at Douglas, in fact, may be a gain in aerospace employment to complete other projects.

North American's Space & Information Systems Division, headquartered in Downey, and its Rocketdyne Division, which builds solid-fuel rocket engines, anticipates some reduction in the total work force over the next 12 months.

Like Douglas, however, North American expects to absorb the great majority of workers affected by any NASA cutbacks or spreadouts through intracompany transfers.

A YOUNG BELLFLOWER mother walked into Lakewood sheriff's station one night last week with her five-months-old daughter in her arms and told deputies she had killed her husband.

Deputies checked a mobile home at 10030 Ramona St., Bellflower, and found the body of Joseph F. Brazil, 35, lying on a sofa. He had been shot in the head with a shotgun.

Jeanette Marie Brazil, 18, told detective she and Brazil had been having marital difficulties. She was booked for investigation of murder and jailed at Sybil Brand Institute for women.

THE WORLD

An Arab leader charged Friday that the United States shared responsibility for an Israeli attack on Syrian engineering installations. Ahmed El Shukeiry, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, said the United States supplied the arms which made Thursday's air raid possible.

The Syrian newspaper Al-Thawra echoed the charges, pointing out the raids were made "shortly after the delivery of new arms" by the U.S.

In Peking, Red Chinese Deputy Premier Hsieh Fu-chih said the Red China regime supports the "Arab people's just struggle against U.S. imperialism and its tool of aggression, Israel."

THE ATTORNEY for a youth who threw a concrete block at Queen Elizabeth's Rolls Royce in Belfast July 4 apologized to the queen Wednesday on behalf of "all the responsible people of Northern Ireland."

The lawyer, John Toner, said in a Belfast court that the action of his 17-year-old client, John Francis Morgan, was "an act of folly by a boy, not treason."

IN BELGRADE, Koca Popovic, a rich mab's son turned Communist, was unanimously acclaimed vice president of Yugoslavia by the 670 members of the Federal Assembly.

Popovic succeeds Aleksandar Rankovic, who was purged by Yugoslavia's President Tito. The purge is expected to touch several others. An authoritative source said Bosko Vidakovic, assistant foreign secretary, also had been removed.

SHIPBOARD RITES

A New Skipper for the Merrick

A busy attack cargo ship, the USS Merrick, took time out Saturday to change commanding officers.

Capt. Lawrence E. Flint Jr., took over from Capt. Kenneth Rowell in a shipboard ceremony at Long Beach Naval Station.

The new skipper comes from duty as chief of the Test Control Division on the joint staff of the commander, Task Force 2, Sandia Base, Albuquerque, N. M.

Capt. Rowell, who has commanded Merrick for the past year, will go to Washington for his next assignment.

The ship returned to Long Beach last Dec. 2, after a 7½-month deployment, returned to duty in mid-January and took a key part in "Operation Jackstay" March 25 to April 7.

She returned home on May 2 and currently is in the middle of refresher training.

PERHAPS we've overlooked something. Few cities I suspect, could offer a talking power plant as one of their unique features.

But we've got a real gabby one in the Southern California Edison steam generating plant at the east rim of town.

Residents of that area hear the Edison plant talking, night and day.

The voices are supplied by Edison workmen (sometimes a woman) giving messages over a public address system. While the voices come out loud and strong, usually listeners away from the plant can't quite make out what is said. This is a little annoying.

To nearby residents, the voices from the Edison plant have long since become commonplace, but visitors at homes in the area may be mystified.

A guest at my house wanted to know "who was doing that hollow yelling in the night?"

NO MATTER how generally hailed, apparently there's no major development that doesn't make somebody sore.

Like the newly opened San Gabriel Freeway, for instance.

Residents of the eastern part of El Dorado Estates, which abuts the freeway, are up in arms about the big noise. About 300 families, from Spring St. to Carson St., are affected, and they're circulating petitions appealing for the establishment of a sound barrier of some kind along the truck-infested artery.

State highway officials have shown little interest, shunting the complaints in the direction of the city council. The area is within L.B. city limits.

REMEMBER the phrase "Unspeakable Turk?" George Tracy, the revered ex-Poly High science teacher who has been teaching in Turkey, says it's out of date. He believes that Americans, who are visiting Turkey in increasing numbers, quickly learn to like and respect the Turkish people.

A major tourist attraction, says George, is the high level of honesty and decency one encounters in Turkey. He has criss-crossed the country many times by bus and has experienced nothing but warm-hearted courtesy, whether from governors or ragged peasants.

George is coming home this summer, but not for good. To his own astonishment, he has accepted another year as teacher at the American Academy for Girls in Istanbul. Tracy's hundreds of former students will understand that he has encouraged a feeling of being needed and appreciated, and so has postponed his "retirement."

FOR MANY years, summer vacation months have been marred by tragedies caused when children find old, unused refrigerators and lock themselves inside.

One who would like to do something to prevent this is R. N. Hallett. He's manager of the McMahan Furniture store at 1895 E. Anaheim.

If anyone owning a derelict box will call him at HE 6-5211, servicemen from the store will either remove the door or cart the box to a dump. If you've got an old refrigerator around, why not use this service! If you know of one, tell the owner about it. These accidents are preventable, but older people must act.

U.S. WOMEN are pulling a gigantic bamboozlement with hair colorings. This, along with figure-padding, eyelash extensions, and some other tricks, can leave a fellow pretty much in the dark about the physical attributes of a woman in which he may be interested.

Granted that his chief concern should be the soul and housekeeping habits of the lady, those other things do matter to many males. To help them figure the odds about hair, here are statistics: Only one woman in 33 is an authentic redhead. There are about five times as many authentic brunettes as blondes. It's a rough guess there are, in these parts, about five times as many fraudulent blondes and redheads as there are authentic ones.

HELP WHEN IT'S NEEDED FROM COAST GUARD AUXILIARY

Auxiliary Provides Strong Right Arm for Coast Guard

Independent-Press-Telegram

SUNDAY, JULY 17, 1966

By JACK BALDWIN

Helping harness the effects of the tremendous increase in Southland pleasure boating activity and the war in Viet Nam have put new muscle in the Coast Guard's strong right arm—the Coast Guard Auxiliary!

Without the Auxiliary many of the anticipated calls for help from distressed small craft this season would go unanswered, claim Coast Guard officers.

With three of the Coast Guard's 82-foot cutters now on duty in the waters off Viet Nam, the Coast Guard has had to lean more and more on the volunteers who donate their services and privately owned boats in rendering assistance to trouble-plagued pleasure boaters.

During the first six months of this year the boats of the Auxiliary fleet have responded to 503 calls for help, a majority of them from small craft cruising the waters off the Southern California coast.

July and August are busy months during which the undermanned Coast Guard will have to rely even more heavily on the emergency services provided by the volunteer group.

Topping all other causes which keep the Auxiliary on the go is the careless skipper who fails to take along enough gas to get there—AND BACK!

Rendering aid to the disabled boater is not, however, the primary purpose of the Auxiliary. Another goal of the civilian organization is to educate the boating public in safe small boat handling techniques. Another aim is to conduct inspections of pleasure boats to determine if the skipper has met the safety standards set by the Coast Guard.

Of 7,263 courtesy inspections conducted this year, 5,495 boats—or more than 75%—failed to come up to the required standards.

Major shortcoming pointed out by inspectors was improper ventilation of engine compartments and bilges, statistics show.

Inspections of the small craft are done only after the owner has requested or given permission for the inspecting teams to board the boat and make the inspection.

The Auxiliary cannot cite a skipper who fails to meet the Coast Guard requirements. The inspection party can only point out the improvements needed.

Boaters meeting all safety requirements are issued a windshield sticker.

* * * *

SAFETY precautions which the various classes of boats should take is but one of the subjects covered in the safe-boat handling classes offered by the Auxiliary.

From January 1 to June 30 the Auxiliary of the 11th Coast Guard District conducted classes for 884 enrollees, according to Cmdr. Arthur Morrision, district director of the Auxiliary.

The local district with headquarters in Long Beach comprises the area from Santa Barbara south to San Diego in California, Arizona, Nevada and southern Utah.

The Auxiliary boasts of 54 flotillas comprised of 1,286 regular members. A flotilla has 10 units in any combination of boats, airplanes or shore-based radio stations.

Although sixth in size in the nation, the 11th Coast Guard District through the Auxiliary logged more assistance calls last year than any other district in the United States.

TOW LINE ENDS ORDEAL OF STRANDED BOATERS

Typical of the organization in action are the illustrations accompanying this story. Motor failure, the trouble that plagued the pair in the outboard, is another major cause for calling in the Auxiliary, reports Cmdr. Morrision.

With more and more boats each day being slid into coastal waters, inland lakes and rivers, statistics point to a busy season ahead for the Auxiliary flotillas.

Cmdr. Morrision is predicting the number of Mayday calls—the internationally recognized call for help—between now and the close of the boating season on Labor Day will top the 653 calls handled in 1965.

* * * *

MANY OF the calls responded to by Auxiliary boats are not without some degree of pathos. Such was one call answered last season off Redondo Beach.

Three persons, two women and one man, all were thrown overboard when their outboard runabout was hit broadside by a wave. The boat continued to roar in circles at high speeds with none aboard.

The threesome was rescued and the pilotless boat finally boarded.

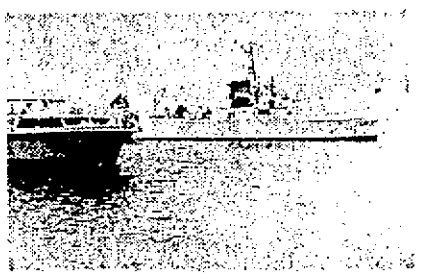

Ashore, one of the victims, who nearly drowned, recovered and recalled her little teacup-sized Chihuahua was also thrown overboard.

The Auxiliary boat sped back out to the scene of the mishap. A search pattern was inaugurated. Amid the white caps of the choppy channel the crew spotted the dog-paddling little pup and plucked it from the sea.

The incident was reported simply as "Report of Assistance No. 3311"—an instance of the Coast Guard's strong right arm lending a gentle hand to a friend in need.

What About the Other Big Issues?

REAL ESTATE interests have started a drive to put every candidate for the legislature on the spot over a single issue—repeal of the Rumford Act. The organizers of this effort are resorting to a rarely-used section of the State Constitution, the indirect initiative.

If the initiative petition gathers enough signatures, next year's state legislature would be required to decide within 40 days whether to repeal the Rumford housing act. If the legislature fails to act, the issue would then be submitted to voters in the next general election, or at a special election.

A purpose of the initiative campaign is to require every candidate to go on record on the issue, said Frank P. Doherty, chairman of the newly organized California Property Owners and Tenants Committee.

The Rumford Act prohibited any owner of a dwelling with four or more units from refusing to sell or rent such housing to any person because of the race or color of that person. Proposition 14, approved overwhelmingly by California voters in 1964, nullified it.

The State Supreme Court subquently ruled Proposition 14 unconstitutional, but an appeal is certain to be placed before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, legislation is pending in the U.S. Congress. It would ban discrimination in sales or rentals, but it has been amended to exempt rentals of small buildings when the owner lives on the premises, and it exempts most home owners who sell their homes.

THIS NEWSPAPER has little objection to another statewide referendum, if it becomes necessary. But that will not be known until the U.S. court and/or the Congress make their decisions. The public interest is NOT served by the initiative's corollary—requiring every candidate to announce how he will vote on legislation before it reaches the legislature for examination and hearing and debate.

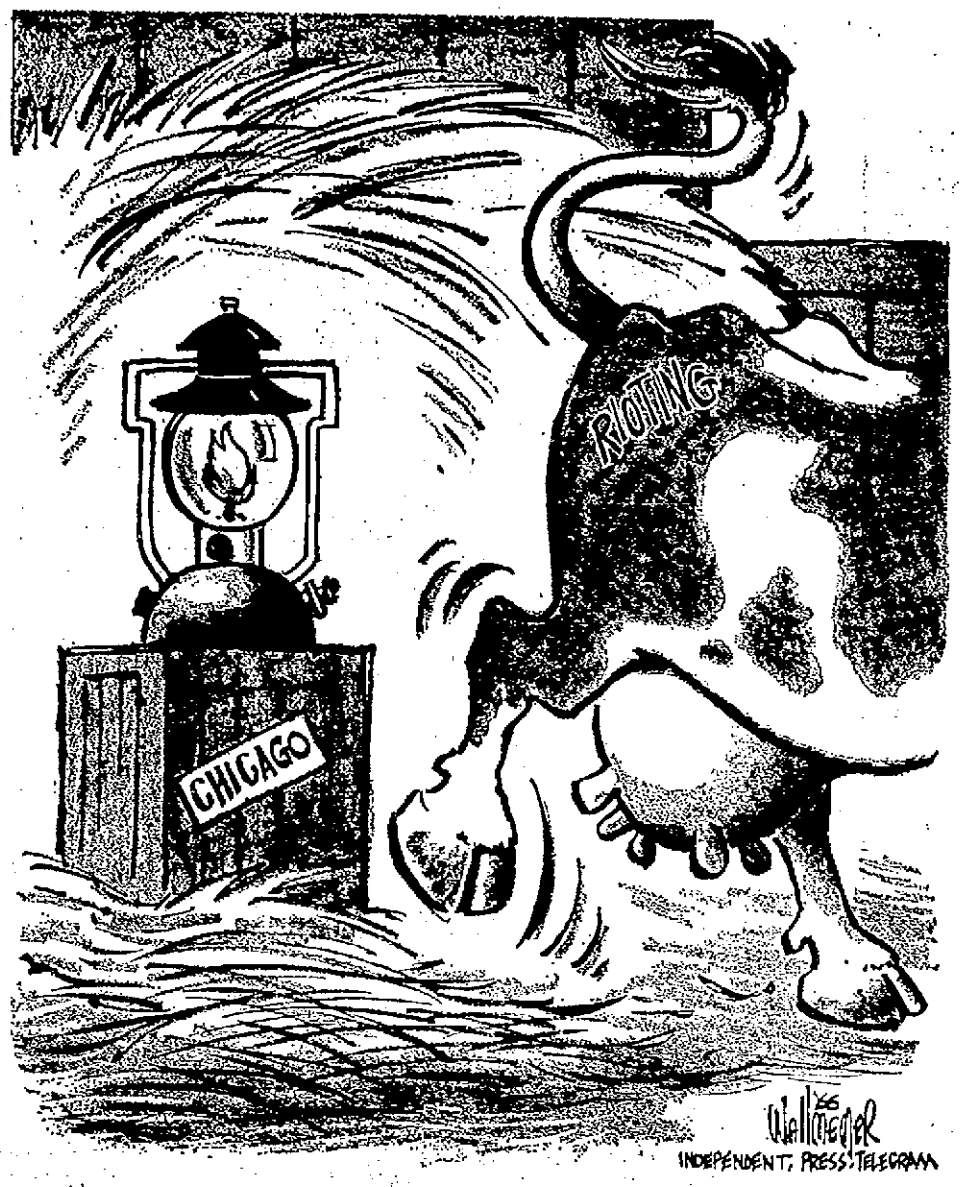

Should the state choose a legislature which the initiative's proponents consider "right" on a single issue? Are the far more important issues confronting California to be submerged by this emotion-charged problem? What about the candidates' views on education, college tuition, crime control, urban development, rapid transit, tax reform, uniform property assessment, air and water pollution?

IN EFFECT, Mr. Doherty's group is asking California voters to forget about a candidate's qualifications for dealing with the full range of problems confronting a legislature. It is putting candidates "on the spot" on an emotional issue that may be outside their power to decide by next year.

The most likely results will be the subordination of issues of greater importance to the state's future during the campaign, the diversion of campaign funds away from both party's statewide candidates, and the unhealthy clouding of a highly important election by emotion and prejudice.

It is not a pleasant prospect.

Goldwaters Sign Lease at Newport

BOB HOUSER

WHILE BARRY and Peggy Goldwater still enjoy watching the Arizona sunset and occasionally humming "Hail to the Chief," they have just signed a 10-year lease on a Newport apartment for vacationing and being near their California-based children. Mike is in San Francisco, young Barry in Los Angeles, and young Peggy in Van Nuys.

Barry told a Long Beach audience last week that he also has more time to watch TV, including some of the distasteful aspirin commercials. One of them prated that "27 million people have switched to Brand Y for headache."

"How can 27 million have a headache at the same time?" Barry said he asked his wife, adding, "And then I remembered!"

After the laughter, the former senator launched his familiar case against centralized power of the state (the federal government) but with possibly a new emphasis.

Rather than cite the state as prime villain in what Goldwater feels is this nation's trend toward socialism, he says it's "the nature of man."

He said that nature "is to enjoy the profits and productivity of others. Call it what you will—selfishness or laziness—it is the origin of slavery, violence, plunder, fraud and crookedness."

Those sins, he declared, once accommodated this cussed nature of man and were the means by which he sought to enjoy the profits of others. But now this mean trait in man has "an instrument called the state. But is it the creature to blame? No, because it is only a new way to take from the many and give to the few."

HOPE FOR THE COUNTRY lies in its youth, he said, asserting that it seems to understand the message of conservatism better than the older folks.

Goldwater volunteered to answer audience questions, specifying however that he would not get into California politics. He did comment on Virginia's.

He was not surprised at the defeat of conservative Rep. Howard Smith, 83, but was surprised that Sen. A. Willis Robertson, 79, "one of the best in the Senate," was upset. He saw the results as a "definite trend away from the Byrd machine . . . and possibly will be good for the state; you can't argue with the question of youth."

BARRY WISTFULLY regretted that his own concern and that of an old infantry comrade, retired Lt. Gen. James Gavin, was not heeded in regard to recognizing "the rumblings of De Gaulle" some five years ago.

De Gaulle came to the decision he could get along without us, Goldwater said after we were of no help to France in its Common Market troubles with England. We could have helped France with its nuclear problems, he said, "and could have made a happy man of him (De Gaulle)."

He also opined that recent alignment of three or four African countries with the anti-Communist position would probably prevent admission of Red China to the United Nations, even if Red China suddenly decided she wanted in.

Rivers Hasn't 'Won' Fight for Nuclear Vessel

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Prideful Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, emerged from a tough House-Senate conference last week and claimed an important victory in his battle with Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

CAPITAL CHATTER

But privately many of Rivers' colleagues are referring to the conference as "Mendel's Retreat."

Most particularly, Rivers indicated his satisfaction with language directing the administration to proceed with the construction of a nuclear-powered guided missile frigate.

However, that part of the bill is far less mandatory in tone than Rivers indicated he would fight and die for in conference. For one thing it leaves a battleship-sized loophole: The ship would not have to be built if the President advises Congress that its construction "is not in the national interest."

While no House member expected Senate acceptance of all parts of their bill, which they passed with near unanimity and torrents of verbal encouragement for Rivers, many were disappointed that he couldn't get the Senate to accept the stronger language.

Said one member of Rivers' committee:

"I'm getting tired of marching up the hill with Mendel and then having to march back down again."

EMPLOYES at the Australian embassy are chuckling over the gifts which President Johnson gave Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt on his recent trip to Washington.

Way of Life Will Have to 'Include' All Races

RALPH McGILL

THE WAY OUT of the nation's dilemma of race is the acceptance and inclusion of all citizens in the nation's channels of life, not their exclusion.

This process goes slowly, but it goes. In state legislatures, in political appointments and elective positions generally, in jobs — in these areas, there is movement.

The curious and sad decision by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, called "Snick," and CORE to create a sort of South African Apartheid, a separated existence, will, for a time, attract some of the new far left and the more severely, and seemingly pathologically, disenchanted. But this form of segregation has no more place in the minds of really free men than did the old pattern of U.S. segregation or that which, in South Africa, moves slowly but inevitably toward break-up in violence.

THE HARVEST of this country's years of enforced separation and denial is not yet ended. Hatreds and bitterness are but a part of it. We learn that the harvest also includes all the costs in money and in mind of a physically handicapped and incomplete society.

The conditions of our schools, the incompleteness of persons moved from the Southern rural communities and from generations of retardation imposed by the inequities of the old society are daily before us.

Omaha, in eastern Nebraska, is merely one of the latest to learn an old lesson. It is that the evil long-range crippling effects of a separated system of life and education, and a denial of experience as a complete citizen, will manifest themselves wherever the people so denied are distributed.

IT IS NECESSARY to comprehend what a century and more of such experiences have done — economically, psychologically, educationally and socially. Long years of acceptance of segregation and all that is wrapped in the word caused a nation to be unaware of the many crippling factors involved. The white citizens of the country, more particularly of the South, were also victims. A state of mind developed that accepted myths and sterentypes as truths. It was never true, for example, that people "preferred" or liked to live in "Nigger towns" with unpaved streets, no sanitation, and little in the way of legal protection.

The human problem is immense. Most of those involved are Negro. But thousands are not. A substantial number of those so caught and so crippled as to be unable to perform as regular wage-earners and participants in an urban society can be trained and rehabilitated. But a majority cannot be —and will not be. In time, legislation will be needed to take care of these thousands—middle-aged and older — who are, in effect, finished as productive persons.

THERE IS REASON for frustration and disenchantment because there is nothing than can be done quickly. The young—and some not so young—leaders of such organizations as SNCC and CORE seemingly have decided that since no quick resolvement is possible, this society must be destroyed — that they will demand apartheid—will segregate themselves in a new Jerusalem.

A nation of 200 million will not, of course, accept this decision. The society will continue to change. The only way it may be speeded is for the church, the labor unions, the professional groups, and public opinion to assist the Negro to become included, not separated, from the national life.

A Real Nightmare

THE FLIGHT was routine from Frankfort to London until the pilot happened to look around and see three lions in the cockpit.

This is the sort of thing that happens in dreams but never, well, hardly ever, in a plane over Brussels. The lions, part of the cargo, had broken from their cage. The pilot made the landing, and he and his copilot escaped, leaving the lions in the plane for zoo people to handle.

Dreams have a magical illogic. Anything can happen. But sometimes reality takes on the illogic of dreams. The impossible does happen. Life is not quite as routine as it sometimes seems.

Lost Wallet Returned

EDITOR:

It is truly wonderful to know that you have some very honest people in your city.

My teenage son, Dennis, was on a sightseeing tour of the states with two other young men. While in Long Beach during the week of June 20th he lost his wallet. There was a check, also his driver's license and other valuable papers.

Someone put the wallet in a mail box. The postal department sent it on to Flint. We received it about four days after it was lost.

I wish to thank sincerely the party who found the wallet and put it in the mail.

Had Their Flags Flying

EDITOR:

I was born and raised in Long Beach and had the opportunity to visit my parents in that city over the Fourth of July weekend. During the visit I took my parents to Leisure World, and I believe that the citizens down there deserve a pat on the back for their patriotism.

We went down on the Fourth of July and it seemed to me that every house had a flag flying. Believe me, it was an impressive sight to see all the flags and the beautiful flowers.

It proved once again, that old fashioned patriotism still flourishes in this land and has not been forgotten.

I must say that in driving around the city that day I did not see any such concentration of flags as there was at Leisure World.

He Likes Service

EDITOR:

L. A. Collins, Sr., had an article entitled "How Do You Like Our Present Day Service?" This question can be answered promptly by stating, "I like it!"

Mr. Collins states one of the main topics of conversation among people who congregate at parties is the "poor service they receive from clerks, repairmen and gardeners."

I don't know about the gardeners as my son does all my yard work, but many of my friends who have gardeners seemed highly pleased with their work.

After quite a few years of shopping in Long Beach and Los Altos area in particular, it seems to me that our clerks in the food markets, drug stores, department stores, dry cleaners and many other types of retail stores are doing an excellent job. Personally, I have always been treated with courtesy and consideration.

With regard to repairmen, my experience has been equally good. All have kept their appointments promptly and performed their work efficiently.

I don't know who Mr. Collins is meeting at the parties to which he refers but they don't appear to be the kind of folks who have much fun at a party.

Crosswalk Hazards

EDITOR:

Why don't we start teaching people that a crosswalk is a place of danger and not a place of safety?

As it is today, especially where there is a lot of traffic, children think a crosswalk is a place to show off and many, many adults think it a place to dare a car to hit them.

And sometimes the car does, because after all cars are driven by humans.

Tip-Off: LBJ Moving to Aid Brown

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The Pentagon is being mobilized to assist Gov. Edmund G. Brown's re-election campaign.

The tip-off is the dateline on announcements concerning multi-million-dollar federal defense contracts in California. Prior to 1966, they came out of Washington.

Historically, most were programmed through congressmen.

But in the era of the Brown-Ronald Reagan tussle, there has been an escalation in the geographical range of the Pentagon announcements concerning major federal defense contracts in California.

Now many of them are revealed by the governor's office in Sacramento. It is obvious that the Johnson Administration is betting on Gov. Brown rather than Robert S. McNamara to dump Reagan.

The Sacramento-Pentagon announcements are a firm indication that LBJ lieutenants have passed word to defense chieftains to go all the way for EGB.

JAMES McCAULEY

Such announcements are a subtle hint to California voters that Washington is in a position to pour more money into California aero-space plants if its ties in Sacramento are friendly. Or, less money.

It is a political issue that has been raised before. Californian Richard M. Nixon capitalized on California's dependence on federal contracts in his 1960 bid for the presidency.

It can be argued with some validity that when all other factors are equal, political ties could influence which state lands a new contract.

So look for more federal defense contract announcements by Gov. Brown.

California now has 23% of the federal aero-space and research contracts, and it depends on federal spending for some 20% of its income.

Little wonder then that the Pentagon and State Capitol cuddle closely during an election year.

Other Sacramento Soundings:

TONGUE SLIP—"That reminds of an old Chinese adverb," says Assemblyman Don A. Allen, D-Los Angeles.

DUCK REPORT BLAME—Everyone is trying to duck responsibility for the report on teacher misconduct that gave lurid case-histories on 80 sex offenses by California teachers. The State Education Department distributed it to legislators, but department staff members says the report was requested originally by the State Board of Education.

JOIN PARTY WAR—Two top Democratic constitutional officers have joined the liberal bloc that is trying to prevent Carmen H. Warschaw, Southern California Democratic chairman, from becoming the new state chairman. Lt. Glenn M. Anderson and Controller Alan Cranston both are giving their backing to Assemblyman Charles Warren rather than Mrs. Warschaw. By tradition, the Southern California chairman should take over the helm at the Aug. 14 state convention.

Newly elected state department officers for the Veterans of World War I were installed with military precision Saturday at the close of the organization's 13th annual convention in the Lafayette Hotel.

Michael Locker, of Van Nuys, was installed as next year's state department commander before a crowd of 500. Escorted to the podium by the sergeant-at-arms, Locker took over leadership of the state's 24,000 members from Allan C. Meyers.

LOCKER WILL BE assisted by Senior Vice Commander Robert Beauchamp, of Citrus Heights and Junior Vice Commander Stanley Mutchler, of China Lake.

Two Long Beach area veterans also were elected to state offices. Francis X. Kenney, of 1404 E. Eighth St., was installed as chief of staff and R. Y. O'Shaughnessy, of 13271 Del Monte Drive, Seal Beach, became next year's judge advocate.

The organization's ladies auxiliary, which met for their 12th annual convention, also changed command. Geraldine Robar, of Paradise, was installed as department president for the auxiliary by outgoing president, Edna Clapp.

INSTALLED AS department senior vice president was Esther Hudson, of San Bernardino, and Rose Sherman of Fresno assumed the duties of department junior vice president.

Preceding the installation 14 couples of the veteran's drill team marched to the music of "Pack Up Your Troubles."

The convention closed with a flag ceremony and the initial business meeting of the new year. The convention was highlighted by support for the country's fighting men and praise for the veterans' role in current world affairs.

Baker Says Counties Are Shortchanged

Some place along the line, the counties have been shortchanged by the State of California in the matter of doing things, according to Orange County Supervisor David L. Baker of Garden Grove.

He said that the problem devolves around state-required acts by counties—which don't get paid enough for doing those things.

For instance: the state requires the counties to provide facilities for the care of delinquent juveniles, those who need temporary shelter, and who are wards of the courts.

The state also requires the counties to have an agricultural commissioner, planning commission, air pollution control setup, and dozens of agencies and bureaus.

* * * *

IN MOST cases, Baker declared, the state does not reimburse the counties for its actual expenses; it usually operates on a formula of cost-division that was worked out years ago and which falls far short of present-day costs.

Baker said that the way the state handles apportionment of funds to help defray costs is ridiculous.

"The state's version of a 50/50 deal is one horse and one rabbit," he explained.

Baker disclosed that the problem came to attention of the Commission for California of Tomorrow, a study group set up by the State Supervisors' Association, of which he is a member. It considered 51 cases where it held the state's reimbursement was inadequate for costs required to be shouldered by the counties.

* * * *

ANOTHER MEETING of the group is set for Aug. 5 and 6 at Disneyland Hotel, Baker said, and the committee will probe "more deeply into the situation.

With a proper distribution of costs for support of agencies and services required by the state, the counties might share in millions of dollars, he declared.

The goal is not to eliminate the services now performed, but to get a proper disbursement of costs, Baker explained.

Arkansas Primary Registry Record Set

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — More voters have registered for the July 26 Arkansas primary than for any previous primary, the state auditor's office announced.

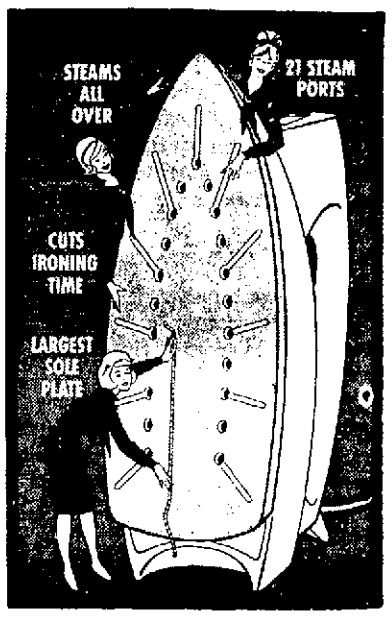

A total of 687,631 persons registered, compared with 633,665 in 1964, the previous high for a primary.

L. A. C. SAYS

Religion in Schools Part of Education

TODAY 13% OF CATHOLICS never go to church — neither do 33% of Protestants, nor 39% of Jews. This estimate is the result of a Gallup Poll survey sponsored by the Catholic Digest. But it is much better than it was in 1952 when a similar survey showed a much larger proportion not going to church. The poll also shows that there are more weekly churchgoers among the higher income groups than among the lower income groups.

THIS WRITER is not a Catholic. But he finds some interesting information in the Clip Sheet of the Digest which comes to his desk. In the July issue it also gives some enlightening ideas of how religion is still a major factor in public as well as parochial schools. On this subject it says:

"Many are disturbed by the U.S. Supreme Court's prohibition of officially sponsored prayers and devotional reading of the Bible in public schools. But few are aware of the many doors the court leaves open for recognition of God in the classroom.

Within the court's limits, educators can make the curriculum reflect the recognition of God as an integral part of American life and the religious influences in man's development. They include these facts:

1. The Mayflower Compact. Forty-one Pilgrims in 1620 prepared the first written constitution of our land. Its opening: "In the name of God, Amen," it also stated that the voyage to America had been "undertaken for the glory of God," and was signed "solemnly and mutually in the presence of God."

2. Declaration of Independence. This cornerstone of American freedom provides the basis for our Constitution, Bill of Rights, and all later legislation in behalf of human rights. It makes four specific references to the dependence of our nation on God. It speaks of the laws of nature and of nature's God; that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights. It appeals to the Supreme Judge for the rectitude of our intentions, and trusts in a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence.

3. Thanksgiving Day. From the start of the nation, one day each year has been set aside to render thanks to Almighty God. The Chief Executive officially asks each citizen to express gratitude to a bountiful Creator.

4. The American seal. On every $1 bill since 1782 the seal is pictured with the Eye of God directly above the pyramid. The words Annuit Coeptis signify: "He (God' has favored our undertakings."

5. Oath of office. The oath taken by government employes, witnesses in court and passport applicants concludes with the prayerful petition: "So help me God." This practice was originated by George Washington. 6. National anthem, the Star Spangled Banner. For 117 years, this song was popular as a patriotic hymn. On March 3, 1931, Congress adopted it as our national anthem. Its closing: "Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a nation/Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just/And this be our motto, 'In God is our trust.'" 7. National motto, In God We Trust. A joint resolution was adopted by Congress on July 20, 1956. 8. State constitutions. Forty-nine state constitutions recognize our dependence on God Himself as the source of human rights and liberties. 9. Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Both the House and Senate adopted the resolution to add the words under God to the pledge, and it was made the law of the land by President Eisenhower on June 14, 1954.

MANY TEACHERS and parents are wondering how soon the Supreme Court will rule that reference to God in these historical documents cannot be referred to in our schools. LAC

Race Issues Can Be Solved, Like This

Editor's note: Cambridge, a Maryland community of some 12,000, was hit hard by civil rights violence three years ago. The impact, on such a small town, probably equaled in intensity that of the Watts riots in far more populous Los Angeles. Today, most of Cambridge's racial troubles have been settled by a pattern of action that could provide an object lesson for Los Angeles.

Washington Star Service

JAMES WELCH

CAMBRIDGE, Md. — There were steak dinners all around the big table the other night at Gabriel's Restaurant, just east of Cambridge on Route 50.

Elmer Wasson was the host. He is superintendent of the Cambridge plant of the Connelly Containers Corp., a cardboard box factory.

In an effort to step up production, Wasson had promised steak dinners to any crew turning out 150,000 linear feet of corrugated box material in an eight-hour shift. One of his crews promptly met the challenge with a 160,000-foot day.

Wasson carefully considered the nearby restaurants. A no-nonsense New Englander, he was aware that, after all, this was the Eastern Shore.

More to the point, this was Cambridge.

It was the place which just three years ago went through a night of terror when armed bands roamed the streets and five men were shot.

It was the town that lived the better part of two years under martial law while Negroes demonstrated for the right to get a cup of coffee at a downtown diner and the town's whites resisted just as vigorously.

"Look," Wasson told the restaurant manager, "I want to buy steaks for a dozen of my men, and 10 of them are Negroes. How about it?"

The manager just shrugged. "Suit yourself, it's your party," he said. The party went ahead, and several nights later the factory superintendent was back with another mostly Negro crew that turned out 170,000 feet of box material.

Elmer Wasson's parties illuminate what might be called the new Cambridge, and not only in the almost nonchalant exercise of equality in public accommodations.

THE NEW CAMBRIDGE spells prosperity.

It is an economy, running full like the Chesapeake tide. It is jobs, many of them supplied by outside firms like Connelly Container. It is money in the pockets of people who not too long ago were on the brink of desperation.

"The racial issue is dead here, dead and gone," snapped a longtime observer of the Cambridge scene. "It isn't a new psychology or a new philosophy that's doing it. It's money."

Memories of those longer, hotter summers lie not far beneath the surface in Cambridge. The scars heal slowly.

But for all that, there is no open animosity between the races. And, in the Negro Second Ward, next to no racialism is left.

To go into Cambridge today with the cry of "black power" or any other current slogan would be to invite amazement and, probably indifference.

Gloria Richardson, the slightly-built woman who gave the Negro demonstrations dash and leadership and whose mercurial style of negotiating kept the race issue alive far longer than outside mediators thought necessary, hasn't been around since 1964.

A couple of weeks ago, while in town to see her new granddaughter, she called Baltimore to talk to Gen. George M. Gelston, the man who commanded the National Guard contingent during the crisis. She told him things were going pretty well in Cambridge, although a lot of problems remain to be solved.

MANY OF THE LOCAL NEGROES most conspicuous in the civil rights struggle have been absorbed in the antipoverty programs that are going strong now.

Mrs. Sarah Stafford, active as early as 1962 in the "freedom rider" demonstrations, is an aide in the schools' Head Start program.

Frederick Jackson, who until this year was one of the angriest of Cambridge's Negroes, now is a truant officer in the school system. This summer he is working with the Neighborhood Youth Corps, and he expresses belief that Cambridge's approach to the race issue has become "most workable."

"There was a time for picketing, and time for fighting and shooting, and now it's a time for learning," said Jackson.

On the white side of town, the irony of change also is noticeable. Some of the most dichard of the segregationists are running for office. They would like some Negro votes, and they are speaking softly.

Dorchester County Sen. Frederick Malkus, who never hid his contempt for the Cambridge demonstrators, would like to go back to Annapolis as one of two senators from the reapportioned Eastern Shore. William L. Wise Jr., who as president of the Dorchester Businessmen and Citizen Association sparked the opposition to desegregating the town's restaurants, is running for county commissioner.

Another candidate for commissioner is Robert Fehsenfeld, owner of the Dizzyland Restaurant at the weirdly named intersection of Race and Gay Streets. The Dizzyland was a major battleground three years ago, and Fehsenfeld gained nationwide notoriety when he was photographed kicking a Negro and smashing an egg on the head of a white youth kneeling in front of his restaurant.

"Yes, I expect some Negro support," he told a reporter last week. "I've got nothing against them. That whole business back then was artificial. It was all caused by the outsiders."

Actually, Cambridge had been making progress in race relations before events got out of hand. With the militant Mrs. Richardson and an intransigent white leadership, it was a case of emotions getting to the point, mostly over restaurant segregation, where it was virtually impossible to reach accord.

THE QUESTIONS that linger over Cambridge are these: Was it all necessary? Did it accomplish anything?

Gelston, whose handling of the rough days earned him widespread acclaim, recalls the entire episode as "ridiculous."

Once it all started, he said, the Negroes had little choice but to follow through. "But I've seen better negotiators in my time," he added.

In Gelston's view, Cambridge's white community lacked persons in the private sector who could mobilize support for a moderate course. "At first," he said, "they refused to recognize Gloria as representing anyone. Afterward, the outstanding citizens' reaction was to say, 'What can I do, but don't involve me.'"

Many of the gains can be chalked up to a profusion of federally backed antipoverty, retraining and school programs. How much of all this would have come along regardless is difficult to tell.

"I'd guess maybe 75%," said Albert Ackerman, a retired Marine officer who last year took over as executive director of the local antipoverty program.

SINCE THE BEGINNING of the 1965-66 fiscal year, nearly $700,000 in federal money has come through county school offices for programs to upgrade children of poor families. This summer about 900 children are taking part in Headstart classes, remedial reading programs, classes for children of migrant workers and neighborhood youth corps work.

Over at Ackerman's antipoverty office, plans are taking shape for a day-care center, financed by a group of local Negroes. Its purpose would be to free mothers to take jobs.

Ten years ago the Dorchester County economy was limited to food packing.

By 1960, it was calculated that 28% of the county labor force was unemployed. That figure is now down to 9%, and the unemployment rate as figured by state employment security officials, is about 7%, almost low enough for the county to lose its designation as a depressed area.

A KEY FACTOR in this trend was an industrial development program that brought in an estimated 1,000 jobs over the past five years.

"Our business is boxes, and when it comes to that, we're color-blind," is the way Wasson at Connelly Container puts it.

Over at the Chun King food plant, Negro workers have moved into supervisory positions.

Dorchester County still ranks 17th among Maryland's 23 counties in wage levels. But in the past four years, weekly wages have gone up an average $15. And seasonal jobs are giving way to fulltime jobs.

Problems persist in Cambridge. Some Negroes believe it disgraceful the county is not moving toward full integration of its school system. At this point, the "freedom of choice" system, under which Negroes can choose to send their children to white schools, is still in effect. Of nearly 3,000 Negro pupils, 197 attended white schools last year.

School Superintendent James Busick believes this to be the correct course, adding that "not one parent has complained to our board about it." Busick also is unconcerned that the county has no plans for vocational educations or a community college.

RECREATION is also a source of dissatisfaction. The white population has little enough. Negroes have less.

But for all that, Cambridge has become a community of relative content, its residents doing their best to look forward.

A Negro preacher, mopping his brow in front of his tiny church mused: "What went before at least woke everybody up. And it dispelled some of the fears—not all, but some. The Negroes here feel they have become more a part of something, of the community. Now we can all make things better."

Negro Cause Damaged by 'Black Power' Actions

WASHINGTON—A group of senators was relaxing inside the office of "Skeeter" Johnson, secretary of the Senate, when Sen. "Big Jim" Eastland of Mississippi walked in. He just had scored the greatest electoral victory of his entire career, in the Mississippi Democratic primary.

"Lay it on the line, Jim," asked one senator. "How much did you pay Martin Luther King to make that speech attacking you?"

He referred to the fact that Rev. King's speech castigating Eastland had sent thousands of white Mississippi voters to the polls who otherwise would have stayed at home. Prior to that speech, Eastland had been criticized as a stooge of President Johnson and as being "soft on niggers." After King's speech attacking him, he wasn't considered "soft on niggers" anymore.

Eastland's renomination illustrates what the "Black Power" slogan is doing to both the enemies and friends of the Negro in various parts of the USA. While left-wing Floyd McKissick of CORE denounces Johnson as "the Great White Father" whose speeches "would make a rattlesnake cry," and while moderate Roy Wilkins of the NAACP criticizes Black Power as "the father of hatred and the mother of violence," a backlash is growing which will hurt both moderate and radical Negroes.

IN TENNESSEE, Sen. Ross Bass, one of the very few Southern senators who voted for the last civil rights bill, is facing the race of his life with Gov. Frank Clement. He could be defeated.

In Georgia, ex-Gov. Ellis Arnall, a moderate Democrat who initiated the first anti-poll tax legislation in the South, will have major opposition from his Republican opponent, Bo Callaway. If there are many more Black Power speeches, it could mean the election of a Republican governor in Georgia for the first time in 100 years.

And in California where Gov. Pat Brown has consistently championed the Negro cause, including opposesition to Proposition 14 allowing some housing discrimination, the right-wing Republican Ronald Reagan will pick up thousands of anti-Negro white votes.

What's happening in California and some of the big Northern cities is what happened about 100 years ago in the South. Negro politicians in post-

DREW PEARSON

Civil War days lorded it over Southern whites with such grandeur that much of the nation turned sour and Negro rights were set back a hundred years or so.

Today the Black Power speeches of CORE and SNCC leaders are picking up votes for anti-Negro candidates and cutting the ground out from under the white friends of the Negro to such an extent that history may repeat.

Already the home rule bill for the District of Columbia is about dead as a result of extremism on the part of a Negro minority and the prospect that it might rule the nation's capital.

In Cleveland in the recent Ohio primary, a Negro candidate, Granville Bradley, took votes away from Democratic candidate Michael Sweeney in the race to upset Congressman Michael Feighan, who once referred to Mrs. Roosevelt as a "nigger lover" and who opposed the civil rights bill. Friends of the Negro were out to defeat Feighan, who won by a margin of only 204 votes. But the 2,000 votes given to Negro candidate Bradley reelected the anti-Negro Congressman.

NOTE — A group of Americans was attending a Fourth of July cocktail party at the famous Carlton Hotel in Cannes, France, to celebrate the birthday of our nation. Much of the U.S. Sixth Fleet was there, together with the rich and famous from all over the south of France. During the entire affair, only one man, Bill Bowe of the AFL-CIO, a Negro, offered a toast to America—"the greatest nation on earth."

In another film opening Wednesday in this area, James Garner co-stars with Sidney Poitier in a big-screen western, "Duel at Diablo." During one scene, above, Indian scout Garner learns from Swedish discovery Bibi Anderson that she is the mother of a half-Apache child. Academy Award-winner Poitier portrays an Army horse wrangler. Also appearing is Dennis Weaver.

New Area Films

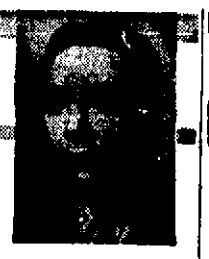

Jerry Lewis' latest film, "Three on a Couch," opening Wednesday in this area, stars the comedian as an artist affianced to co-star Janet Leigh.

Miss Leigh is a psychiatrist who wants their wedding postponed until she can cure three attractive young women of their man-hating neuroses. Jerry, to speed up his own romance, dons a number of names and disguises and makes love to the girls—Mary Ann Mobley, Gila Golan and Leslie Parrish—until they find themselves cured.

It's an arduous example of amateur psychiatrics, helped along by James Best, playing a doctor and the artist's best friend.

The film was produced and directed by Lewis from a screenplay by Bob Ross and Samuel A. Taylor. Louis Brown composed and conducted the music.

EARL WILSON

Four-Colored Hair

NEW YORK — Sue Ann Langdon has been seen around Broadway with hair in five different colors . . . violet, blue, orange, yellow and green . . . leading a dog whose coat is five different colors.

Miss Langdon, the girl who made quite a splash on Jackie Gleason's television show, only to leave it in a dispute with Jackie over the necessity of rehearsing, was quite blithe about her hair color and the dog's hair color the other day in Gallagher's.

"It's just spray!" she said. "People look at the dog and say, 'Ohhh, the poor dog'—the poor dog!—she gets more attention that way than I do!"

Sue Ann is currently in five motion pictures but "A Fine Madness," in which she has a seduction scene with a rug cleaner, played by Sean Connery, landed her in Playboy magazine pretty much in the nude.

"About Playboy, I hesitated," she admitted. "Maybe my aunt and my mother will have some comments and they haven't told my Aunt Harriet yet. But if she says anything I'll tell her I was born that way and I can't understand why people are so prudish about nudity, anyway.

* * * *

IT'S ALL publicity, that's all it is, publicity."

"Well, what was your husband's reaction?" I asked. (She's married to Jack Emrek.)

"My husband looked at it as I do. Publicity is a necessary thing in our business. He happens to think that I have a cute body and he's not against other persons seeing it.

"Stardom in movies comes in devious ways and I don't think nudity is the big step, but appearing in the nude may be one of the steps, and it is not different today than it was many years ago when Harlow and Hedy Lamarr and others got famous going nude."

* * * *

MISS LANGDON has reached a co-starring stage in the five pictures she's in and believes she'll be a star before long.

"Well, I'll think that way, anyway," she says.

Sue Ann, whose background reads like a travel folder (she comes from Paterson, N.J.; St. Louis; Ann Arbor; Cedar Rapids; Pendleton, Ore.; Athens, W.Va.; Delaware, Ohio; Kingsville, Tex.; Denton, Tex.; Twin Falls, Idaho; Pocatello, Idaho; Butte, Mont.; New York and Hollywood), is a daughter of a former singing teacher, Grace Wallace Huddle, who taught in various colleges in those towns but is now in Ridge Crest, Calif., doing technical writing about space rockets.

"Did it hurt you when you suddenly left the Jackie Gleason Show?" I asked.

"Yes, it hurt that I didn't go on. I was supposed to do a sort of Carol Burnett thing. It would have been fabulous exposure.

"I didn't work too much after that for awhile, but I don't think it hurt me with other directors or producers because they know that Jackie is not an easy man to work with. Jackie is a beautiful talent but he's so good, he sort of rules that world that he's in. He tells them what to do and he can walk through it.

"When you get $300,000 a year, whether you work or not, it does something to you. You don't have to work, so I don't think he's as dedicated as he was."

SUE ANN said that after she left the Gleason show, she was approached to do a Playboy Playmate layout.

"They pay like $3,000 for the spread and it was important. I took it. Playboy approached me. But that exposing your body for two or three pages scared me; then I got the Steve Allen show for two or three shots and I didn't need it. I gave up the idea."

Abbe Lane arrived for a two-week stint in Reno's Harrah's with 20 gowns and 20 pieces of luggage.

Louis Armstrong's agent, Joe Glaser, set him for $1 million worth of bookings, through April . . . Announcer Lee Lampson rejoined ABC-TV after a fling in the antique business . . . Erroll Garner's fans'll give him a birthday cake after his Central Park concert Aug. 13.

George Jessel was signed by Hy Einborn to appear at resorts. First resort: In Tel Aviv . . . A record shop in Jordan ran a contest to find lookalikes for the Rolling Stones. They got 22 entries—all girls . . . A famed film personality phoned a Beverley Hills drug store, angrily ordered 'em not to sell cigarettes to his children . . . Nadja Tiller, who posed nude for the late photographer Turhan Bey, will do the undraped bit again in "23 Girls and a Man."

Johnny Desmond said at the Hotel Edison Rum House he's opening a bar in W. 57th St. . . . Neighbors of a sidewalk cafe on 5th Ave. are trying to have it closed; they don't think it enhances the neighborhood . . . Judge Roy Hofheinz, showing his vast Astrodome to visitors, explains the plastic "grass" infield and outfield: "We don't water it—we send it out to be dry-cleaned."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A young girl said she's having trouble picking a birthday gift for her mother: "She already has everything I need."

'For My People' Unusual, Moving

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Staff Writer

Unheralded and all but unannounced, an extraordinary dramatic experience unfolded Friday and Saturday nights in rejuvenated Brayton Theater before a small but enthusiastic audience.

"For My People . . . now!" was the title, an impressionistic look into the thinking processes of today's Negroes — as interpreted by author Frank Silvera and staged by the American Theater of Being.

Simply, almost primitively, this non-play attempts to lay bare the Negro's collective soul, its hates and fears, joys and frustrations — as Silvera conceives them.

A Caucasian reviewer cannot judge how completely or objectively the writer accomplishes his purpose of sketching the contemporary Negro mind and mood. I can say the production was ably, professionally done.

It is not a play, in the accepted sense. Instead, "My People" is a series of musical vignettes — somewhat like an oratorio, with monologues, dialogues and singing by a four-man, four-woman "cast."

* * * *

WEARING STRIPED blue-and-purple shirts or dresses reminiscent of slave clothing in the old South, the group offered 23 sketches in the style of well-known writers. Among these were Richard Wright, James Weldon Johnson, Paul Laurence Dunary, Carl Sandburg.

Topics ranged from raw anger with white supremacism — "Strong men raise their fists" — to sly digs into the more subtle bigotry of "Mr. and Mrs. Massa," who "understood us colored folk better than any other white folks."

There were other views of the Negro as well.

Some of the most biting cuts were reserved for those athletes and entertainers who "move out to Long Island instead of staying to help."

Included even were two numbers — "Miss Melerlee" and "Ol' Dos H'Yar" — portraying the Negro in his old, once-accepted role as a happy-go-lucky plantation singer. Shades of Uncle Tom!

Perhaps the most dramatically moving selection was "A Black Woman Speaks," done by well-known singer Ketty Lester, in a cameo role. She likened Negro and white women as "sisters bound by the same chain of bloody supremacy."

The cast, which assembled from across Southern California: Dick Williams, Gloria Edwards, Morris Schulhaus, Kirk Kirksey, Gail Peters, Carol Field and Julius Johnsen. Directing was Bea Richards.

Ed Bracken Theater's No. 1 'Glad Replacer'

NEW YORK (AP)—Just call Eddie Bracken the glad replacer.

"I'm the theater's No. 1 takeover guy for everybody," he amiably asserts. "The money's good, your feet stay on the ground and your hat fits."

Bracken currently is capering through "The Odd Couple," in a role inherited from Art Carney. Previous long Broadway engagements have been supplanting of Ezra Stone, Tom Ewell, David Wayne, Ray Walston and Ray Bolger.

* * * *

"HOW DID IT happen? Just lucky, I guess. Actually it's a great compliment to be asked to replace such a variety of performers."

The real reason for such a record is Bracken's addiction to greasepaint, manifested by a willingness to endure long runs and long tours. He stayed with one show four years, has compiled over a million miles of travel on a single airline.

"It seems I've played the road more than any other living American actor — including Alfred Lunt," he says.

Rossmoor Election Protested

By BARBARA KNESIS
Staff Writer

The thorny question of Rossmoor's annexation by Los Alamitos will go to the voters of both communities Sept. 20 but Capt. Robert F. Rife, a staunch protester of the merger, doesn't think this is "the sensible way" to handle such an election.

"Just suppose Los Alamitos voters say no and Rossmoor residents, God forbid, say yes. If they don't want us, what's the sense of disturbing the people in Rossmoor with an election," said Rife, 12100 Montecito Road, Rossmoor.

* * * *

HE CONTENDED the sensible way to handle the question would be to put it to the people of Los Alamitos first to see if they want Rossmoor.

"We are getting along fine here. There is no reason we can't continue on a neighborly basis without giving the Los Alamitos City Council a world of power."

The retired merchant marine captain said Rossmoor's 12,500 residents came there because they wanted a quiet, bedroom community atmosphere.

"We don't want to be drawn into a small city (population 9,200) which hasn't learned to crawl yet," he added.

He said three annexation proposals in the immediate area have failed in the last month. He laughed and then continued:

"That seems to be the trend."

Firehouse Woe Anew in Stanton

Stanton's strife-ridden fire department, hit by a series of resignations since reinstatement of its former chief, could lose another employe — the chief himself.

That is if there is a city ordinance which outlaws the rehiring of a city employe for one year after his resigning or being fired. Ex-Mayor Michael Antich, 11231 Ale Lane, told the city council he believed there is such an ordinance.

* * * *

THE COUNCIL turned the matter over to its attorney, Bernard Lambert.

Lambert said he expected to check it out before the next meeting.

Fire Chief Paul Harrison was removed from the post in March and named director of civil defense for the City without any salary cut.

However, Harrison was reinstated to the fire chief post July 1 after a closed door personnel hearing by the city council.

Resigning after the reinstatement were Norman Harrison, (no relation) battalion chief who had been acting as chief; Carl Green, fire marshal; and Jack Dunham, an engineer.

Reno Jury Talks Set by Gardner

Superior Court Judge Robert Gardner of the Orange County bench will be a classroom instructor for the next two weeks.

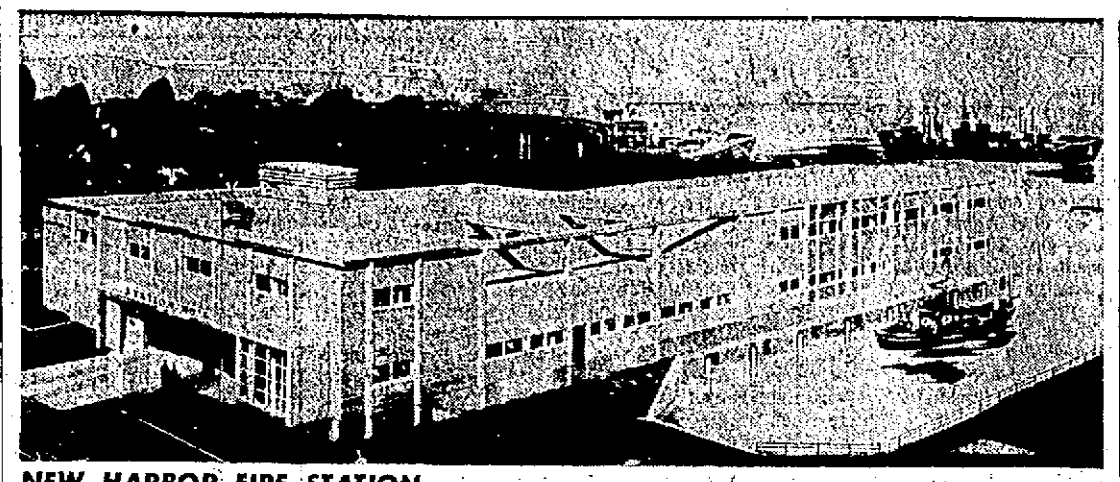

He will lecture at the University of Nevada in Reno, where the National College of State Trial Judges goes into session Monday for the two-week period.

* * * *

JUDGE GARDNER will lecture on jury trials, and how jurors should be selected and instructed.

Trial court judges from 50 states will be present for the college conferences now in their third year. Judge Gardner is the only Californian on the faculty.

During his absence, his duties as presiding judge of the criminal court will be handled by Judge Raymond Vincent.

NEW HARBOR FIRE STATION
Construction is under way this week on new San Pedro fire station at site adjacent to Pier 195. New Los Angeles Harbor fire boat will be housed in facility, as will a regular engine company. Architects' drawing shows how 20,000-square-foot building will appear when completed.

Thousands Spent Because A Small Insect Was Found

By ED KENYON

One June 21, about 5:30 p.m., County Agriculture Inspector John Caldwell was nearing the end of what for him was one of the routines of his job—inspecting insect traps that are placed about every five square miles in much of Los Angeles County.

Then, from a trap in the large back yard of retired longshoreman Charles Teuchert at 1845 W. 260th St. in Lomita, Caldwell extracted a small insect that was to make the day far from routine and was to precipitate an expenditure of money running into the thousands of dollars and of time lasting four months, and maybe more.

It was too late in the day to do anything about his find, but when the agriculture office in Los Angeles opened the next morning, Caldwell, a veteran of more than 30 years in the business, was at the door. An entomologist there agreed with Caldwell's opinion, but nevertheless the insect was sent by air freight to state entomologists in Sacramento the same morning. By early afternoon, final confirmation came—Caldwell's insect was indeed the dreaded Oriental fruit fly.

* * * *

IN THE weeks that have followed, county agriculture men have launched the biggest campaign in recent years in the area to determine if the find was an isolated one or the start of an infestation.

Through last week, a total of 796 man-hours had been expended in placing—and then checking—1,300 traps in a 70-square-mile area surrounding Lomita and including areas of Torrance, San Pedro, Wilmington and Long Beach.

In the traps was a substance called methyl uegenol, which reproduces the substance given off by female fruit flies to attract male fruit flies.

* * * *

SINCE THE original discovery, says Ralph W. Lichty, county agriculture commissioner, "we are still looking for a second Oriental fruit fly—and every day that goes by we breathe a little easier."

The fly found in Teuchert's small orchard, says Lichty, undoubtedly came in a shipment of fruit from Hawaii which somehow got through the tight scrutiny of agriculture inspectors posted at all points of arrival from outside the state.

The efforts made on the basis of finding one fruit fly may appear extreme to the uninitiated, admits Lichty, but when the possibilities of rapid multiplication of such insects that could threaten Southern California's $600 million fruit and vegetable crop are considered, "the money spent is very small when you consider that it's insurance against paying the millions a full-scale infestation would mean."

BECAUSE THE Oriental fruit fly generation numbers only 45 days on an average, the search will continue through two generations, or until about Oct. 1, says Lichty.

"The heavy concentration of traps should do the trick by itself," says Lichty. "We would be catching only male fruit flies, but this in itself should effectively halt reproduction."

If this should fail, agriculture men would step up the concentration of the same sex lure, which would be placed on small wafers.

* * * *

THE NEXT STEP would be importation of sterile male fruit flies from Hawaii, where they are produced to combat the menace there.

"A release of 50 sterile flies for every male we suspect to be present should do the trick," says Lichty.

Insecticides, whose use Lichty opposes, would be used "only as an absolute last resort."

Long before their use, he says, California's multi-million-dollar crop would be under embargo by other states and countries.

Freeway Landscape

A state contract award is scheduled for this week for landscaping a 1.2-mile length of the Long Beach Freeway from Willow Street to Wardlow Road.

The Los Angeles district office of the State Highway Division last week announced a low bid in the amount of $115,370.54 by Valley Crest Landscape, Inc., of Van Nuys. Officials in the Sacramento office must approve the bid before a final award.

Bellflower at Final Stage of Parking Mall Campaign

By DON KIRKLAND

The five-year battle for a sprawling, four-block parking mall in Bellflower's downtown shopping district may be only a year away from victory.

As early as next summer, say city officials, engineers hopefully will be putting the finishing touches on $600,000 worth of widespread improvements, designed to avert the same kind of downtown crises which have confronted downtown shopping sections of nearly every Southland community.

"This 'Downtown, USA' problem is one that we're going to beat before we've got it," says Chamber of Commerce manager Kenneth L. Barngrover, who helped spearhead the campaign.

* * * *

EARLY THIS week, the City Council added its blessing to the project by agreeing to hold public hearings on the assessment district which will be formed to finance it, and—more specifically—to contribute $400,000 to get it going.

This, city sources said, was a calculated move to help keep the customers in the shops of Bellflower.

By laying out 446 parking spaces in an atmosphere conducive to shopping, the city hopes to keep on inducing customers to buy at home, where the sales tax dollars go to support one of Los Angeles County's only three communities without a city-imposed property tax.

WHEN COMPLETED, the four separate parking lots will lie in an area stretching just west of the city's main shopping district along Bellflower Boulevard from Mayne to Flower streets.

PRIME WATER SPORTS MEET FOR L.B.

Sea Festival Grows to 19 Events, Scheduled for 26 Days in October

By JACK BALDWIN
Marine Editor

The Long Beach Sea Festival, which started out as a 10-day marine-orientated celebration, has grown into month-long event of international significance, supporters of the city-sponsored affair pointed out this week.

The event is now known as the California International Sea Festival. It is to be staged in Long Beach the entire month of October.

The calender as of this date, includes 19 events to be staged on 26 days during the month, according to Sandy Kemp, festival director.

* * * *

THE CITY HAS allotted $45,000 for the festival which is intended to dramatize the actuality that Long Beach is the marine sports center of the world.

To accomplish this goal Kemp and the Festival Boosters Committee have lined up some spectator and participant marine sporting events that are certain to bring international recognition to Long Beach.

Among the events having national and international interest is the longest and most rugged water skiing race held anywhere in the world, claims Kemp.

* * * *

AN EXPECTED 30 to 40 high powered speed boats will tow skiers coming here from across the nation to compete in the Long Beach to Avalon and return ski race.

The race will be held on Sunday, October 2.

During the weekend of October 15-16 some of the nation's top collegiate sail racing teams will compete in the Douglas Cup Regatta.

The Columbia Boat Company will furnish six identically rigged boats for the race.

Expressing a desire to enter are teams from Annapolis, the Coast Guard Academy, Purdue, Michigan State, Stanford, University of California, U.S.C., Washington State and Georgia Tech.

* * * *

MANY OF THE nation's sports writers will come here to witness the running of the grueling 185-mile Hennessy Cup Race around San Clemente and Catalina Islands. First boat to finish will win $3,000.

Some of the country's top drivers will come from the East Coast to compete against nine high-performance West Coast boats, according to the festival officials.

The event will be held on Saturday, October 15.

* * * *

MANY OF THE Hennessy Cup boats will compete for $10,000 in prizes for the winner of the longest and most challenging race ever run in local offshore waters. The two-day race will take the boats through 400 miles of open sea between Long Beach and San Francisco.

With the good purse the race is being hailed not only as the longest and roughest of its type but also the richest.

The racers will layover in Morro Bay during the two-leg race.

* * * *

OPENING DAY activities of the festival will include the grand fish-off for a $500 first prize in the Independent, Press-Telegram's Fishing Derby.

The fish-off will pit anglers who placed first and second during the derby to be held from August 20 to September 18. They will fish from a common boat — the prize money going to the angler landing the heaviest fish.

The kick-off of the festival's social event will be the Grand Shellbacker's Ball honoring those who have crossed the equator.

The invitational costume affair to be held on the festival's opening day will be attended by merchant ship officers, Coast Guard and Navy officers, and by many of the city's social set.

* * * *

THE FESTIVAL has planned several events to interest the avid angler. In addition to the I, P-T Fishing Derby, there will be at least three other fishing events.

One such event is the Long Beach Yacht Club Angler's Bill Fish Derby—October 1 to 15. The derby is unusual in that it allows anglers to fish competitively for marlin and broadbill without the confines of a tournament schedule or limitation as to area.

* * * *

THE DERBY IS open to any member of an organized yacht club or angling club. Light, medium, or heavy tackle will be allowed, state the derby's sponsors.

On Saturday, and Sunday, October 8 and 9, anglers will compete in a derby from the Belmont Pier during the Belmont Shore-Naples Aquatic Festival.

Several nights of family barge fishing competition have been planned by the event's sponsors.

* * * *

DURING THE following week, October 15 to 21, the city's sportfishing landings will award prizes for anglers catching the heaviest fish in several categories as well as a trophy for the largest fish caught during the week-long contest.

Climaxing all the fishing derbies will be the huge fish fry—hailed as the world's largest by Festival backers.

The fry and street dance will be staged in the Pierpoint Landing area.

An international water skiing competition and trick skiing exhibition on Sunday, October 16 is expected to attract thousands of water enthusiasts, both as participants and as spectators.

* * * *

SOME OF THE world's greatest skiers, Chuck Stearns, Butch Peterson, and Jane Welsh, will be competing.

An exhibition of trick, slalom, and kite flying will top the day's event.

A "hot boat" race sanctioned by the American Power Boat Assn. will be held on Saturday, Oct. 22!

The circle racing competition will include super stock, cracker box, hydroplanes and other classes.

The event, one of the last of the racing year, will enable drivers to compete for national standing.

The resources of three Long Beach Yacht clubs will be tapped during the staging of the One Design Regatta to be held on the weekend of the 22nd and 23rd.

Classes will range from the popular eight-foot, single-sail sabots up to 46-foot ocean racing boats. The event is one of the few one-design regattas enabling yachtsmen to test crew and equipment within a class on a boat-for-boat basis.

* * * *

THE RACE OF Champions, a two and a half hour speed-endurance test to be staged on Sunday, Oct. 23 will draw the interest of power boat fans.

Up for grabs is more than $5,000 in place money plus an additional $4,000 in lap money.

The boats must be prepared to race with no fuel stops at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

Festival backers have attempted to broaden interest in the month-long affair and have scheduled several "off the water" events.

The Never On Friday Club will sponsor a pops concert featuring nationally known musical groups in the popular field. The concert will be held on Oct. 22.

Of interest to art patrons will be the Long Beach Art Association's Art Festival featuring nautical art works.

* * * *

WORKS OF MANY prominent artists will be displayed in Bixby Park with the city's municipal band adding a musical touch to the event.

The area's Sea Scouts will show off their new marina facility to the public on Saturday, Oct. 8.

The Scouts will stage various competitive events to demonstrate the skills learned in the organization.

Two unique aquatic events are scheduled for the weekend of Oct. 8-9.

A marathon swim around Naples Island is expected to attract many of the top distance swimmers while an unusual boat race from Catalina to Alamitos Bay will be witnessed by many onshore spectators.

* * * *

THE BYNON Catalina-Long Beach race is limited to two-man crafts of any shape, length, design so long as the vessel is muscle powered. No form of sails, engines, or other means of propulsion will be allowed during the race.

Wind up to the 30-day festival will be a parade on the final day of the month. Floats and mobile exhibits representing commercial fishing, oceanographic research, water sports, and military units will dramatize the involvement of Long Beach in nautical enterprises, the festival sponsors claim.

Trial of U.S. Pilots Demanded, Reds Say

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI)—Resolutions "coming in from all parts of the country" condemn "the American escalation of the war in Viet Nam" and some demand that American pilots downed over North Viet Nam and taken prisoner "should be tried as war criminals."

The Czechoslovak news agency C.T.K. reported Saturday. It said the resolutions are being sent to the American and North Vietnamese embassies here.

Japanese War II Bomb Kills Three

Hiratsuka, Japan (UPI) — A World War II bomb left on a beach by the Imperial Army exploded Saturday, killing three Japanese and seriously injuring another.

Officials said four vacationers dug up the bomb from where it had been lodged for more than 20 years and dropped it onto a fire.

Friars Will Fete Sailors' Families

Families of Long Beach destroyer men serving off Viet Nam will be entertained by a Beverly Hills organization for three Sundays beginning July 31.

The Friars Club will be host for the luncheon and entertainment for some 100 wives and children on each day.

Ships represented are the destroyer tender USS Bryce Canyon and destroyers Walke, Larson, Evans and Keyes, all of Destroyer Squadron 231.

The Bryce Canyon will be hosted July 31, Evans and Keyes on Aug. 7 and Walke and Larson on Aug. 14.

Each Sunday's activity will start with a 1:30 p.m. brunch for dependents in the club dining room. Entertainment will be provided and gifts distributed to children.

Celebrity members of the club, headed by comedian George Jessel, also will visit with dependents during the afternoon.

Before returning to Long Beach the families will be taken to a movie.

Destroyer Division 231, commanded by Capt. Lewis E. Davis Jr., left Long Beach on June 9 and the Bryce Canyon on July 11.

Moslems Indicted

CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian prosecutor-general Saturday issued an indictment naming eight alleged members of the Moslem Brotherhood who were said to have renewed attempts to assassinate President Gamal Abdel Nasser and other top leaders to overthrow the regime.

THE ELIZABETH TAYLOR STORY

Nude Scenes in Films Absurd, Liz Says

This is the seventh of an eight-part series taken from the autobiography "Elizabeth Taylor" in which the controversial actress tells how she feels about herself as a woman, a wife, a mother and a sex symbol.

By ELIZABETH TAYLOR
Women's News Service

Richard and I hadn't done any serious acting together, nothing that's demanded anything of us, since Cleopatra. And you can't really call that very serious.

After we did "VIP's" I didn't get a film offer for what seemed like ages and ages. Richard and I were both panicky. I think our notoriety was a factor, but not a large one.

More important were all the accusations about "Cleopatra." The industry was convinced that we had cost "Cleopatra" extra millions by caprice —all of which we have proved to be false.

And I couldn't get health insurance. So we were risks. I didn't think I could get a job. So I grabbed "Sandpiper" and let them pay their million dollars.

* * * *

A LOT OF people, because the plot involves an illicit romance between a bohemian artist and a minister, may think that "Sandpiper" was written specifically for Richard and me in order to capitalize on our notoriety.

I did feel it necessary to see a rough cut and take out anything so pertinent to us that I would just die.

Actually, the script had been knocking around for several years, and at first they didn't ask Richard to be in it. Then, I had to talk him into doing it. We never thought it would be a nartistic masterpiece.

In "Sandpiper" I did a scene—very reluctantly—in which for a split second I'm nude to the waist but covering myself with my hands, so it's actually about as nude as a low halter neck.

When I did the scene, I had somebody standing in front of me with a towel while I covered myself with my hands.

I turned puce from head to foot. I won't even go swimming in a bathing suit in front of strangers, that's how much of an exhibitionist I am.

* * * *

I THINK nude scenes in films are absurd, and I think it's really strange the way women, respectable women, will strip for magazines.

The ones who don't need the money—it can only be a narcissistic complex, a vanity of the body so profound that they must show it. Or maybe they're just naive and think it will help their careers.

In "Sandpiper" we were playing two people in love, so it was not particularly difficult. I must say, when we looked at each other, it was like our eyes had fingers and they grabbed hold, and perhaps something special did happen.

Now we have done the film version of Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", a real blockbuster.

Richard and I went through a whole set of qualms over taking the roles. Let's face it, we were not obvious casting and a lot of people hooted at the idea.

For me, the age thing was wrong. I had never played a part like that. I couldn't imagine myself as Martha, and I couldn't imagine myself dominating Richard.

* * * *

IT WAS the most difficult part I had ever read and made me feel as though in my whole life I'd never acted, never interpreted a line.

Then I thought, Well, you never did know how to act. Then I thought, Well, you did a couple of things that were all right, and you felt the same way then. And, of course, no actress would ever turn that role down.

We got word to Albee that we wanted to know what his feelings were before we said yes or no. Albee was terribly sweet. He said he was absolutely delighted and if he could ever be of any help, he would be more than happy.

Mike Nichols, the director, and Ernie Lehman, the producer, decided I should be about 45. And then we did eight different makeups, and we all chose the same one. I liked it immediately.

Once I got all the trappings on, Martha just happened without anybody discussing it, without my even thinking much about it.

It was like stepping into somebody else's skin who was so remote from my own skin that it was like wearing a mustache and beard and an old long wig and cloak. So I had Martha to hide behind, so I'd lost Elizabeth Taylor.

* * * *

THERE WAS a freedom that I've never known before in a role. I felt much more experimental. Ultimately, of course, I'm not a schizophrenic, so there may have been some of me that came across, but not consciously or, I hope, even subconsciously.

I tried to cut all of me out. When I got into my Martha suit, I forgot me.

Take swearing. Until I was curbed by Richard, I used to curse in an almost deliberately kittenish way to shock people, to watch their reaction.

There's nothing cute about Martha at all. When she swears, it's for real. Martha swears in anger. I try never to swear in anger.

And Martha doesn't swear to shock people, because the whole consistency of Martha is one vast swear word, one blasphemy.

During the first few weeks of shooting, Martha completely took me over. When I felt the set, I couldn't take off my Martha suit.

SODDEN VULGARIANS

Glamour is a word that won't be applied to Elizabeth Taylor when she appears in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" She and her husband portray a pair of sodden middle-aged vulgarians.

RICHARD AND I would be out with friends and I'd hear myself saying to him, "For Chrissakes, shut up, I'm not finished talking."

And then the next morning I would think, That wasn't me, it was Martha. I had to fight to regain myself.

I guess it's like going to a psychiatrist. The more you begin to understand your problem, the more you can leave it behind. And we could be more secure about abandoning our roles because we got more confident that we could step back into them. But it was wild for a month.

If what turned out on film wasn't right, it was still the best I could do. Whether the final product is good or bad, the public will ultimately decide. But I've never been so happy doing a film.

Some day I would love to do a play with Richard on the stage. But I don't think I have the right voice. It's not big enough, though maybe I could train it.

* * * *

WHEN I WAS practicing for the poetry reading which Richard and I gave in New York during the "Hamlet" run, Philip Burton, Richard's foster father, made me learn to project my voice even though he were going to be using mikes.

He would sit at one side of our hotel room and say to me, "Now pretend I'm at the back end of the theater."

I said, "Phil, we're going to have a microphone."

He said, "Never mind, you must stand back from the microphone and not depend on it."

I'm not terribly proud of much that I've done as an actress, but I was proud of myself at that poetry reading. It was something I never thought I could do.

I didn't think I had the courage to face a live audience for the first time. I knew that 85% of them had come there and spent a great deal of money to see me fall flat on my face.

* * * *

RICHARD COULDN'T really face practicing with me till the night before, because I think he thought I would not be able to make it.

In the week after the poetry reading, we had over a half-million dollars' worth of offers in the United States alone—poetry readings, mind you.

GOP Urges Congressional Review of U.S. School Aid

By RAYMOND M. LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republican high command called Saturday for a congressional review of federal aid to schools to guard against "irreparable damage" to American education.

The demand by the National Republican Coordinating Committee was aimed specifically at administration of the 1965 law providing federal aid for primary and secondary schools.

With specific reference to education, the committee reiterated its support for changes in federal grant programs to provide fewer or no federal strings on how federla money is spent by the states.

The committee said financing was a key problem in all fields of education and that this could be solved best by a GOP-endorsed plan for giving the states a share of federal revenue without fixing terms and conditions for spending it.

* * * *

THIS APPROACH also would make it easier for school systems to raise teacher salary levels, it said.

The committee is composed of former GOP presidential nominees, congressional leaders, governors and other party officials. The education report was prepared by a task force headed by former Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio and approved by the coordinating committee at its June 27 meeting.

Acknowledging that the federal government has a part to play in guaranteeing educational opportunity, the report said this role must be carried out in a partnership arrangement protecting local school officials from federal interference.

It said that "lip service to that principle had been negated by the virtually unlimited powers given to the commissioner of education to establish criteria for federal aid."

Hence, it urged a congressional review of the program.

"THE URGENT need to bring about desegregation in public education must not be twisted by the vast new powers vested in the commissioner of education," the report said. "The American people are entitled to know whether the provisions of that act have resulted in dictation of the nature and content of local school programs.

"Unless an immediate review of the 1956 act's administration is conducted, irreparable damage may occur."

WATER-SKIING PACHYDERM MISS BIMBO TOPPLED OVER SHORTLY AFTER LEAVING SHORE

MISS BIMBO SKIES—IN MUD

No, Virginia...Elephants Don't Float

By WALT MURRAY

Would you believe a water-skiing elephant?

Several hundred spectators who lined railings along Sunset Bay, families who watched from their waterside patios and small children who scrambled up dirt hills at Huntington Marina almost believed.

But 10-year-old Miss Huntington Marina, a small-to-medium sized dark gray elephant, began to get cold feet as she stood in the Marina mud.

* * * *

IT APPEARED THAT even a bushel-basket of peanuts offered by another beauty queen, blonde Susie Bruderlin, Miss Huntington Beach, would fail to launch the reluctant pachyderm.

Miss Huntington Marina is really circus elephant named Miss Bimbo, billed as holding the world's water skiing record for elephants at four miles per hour, by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Huntington Marina publicity men hoped she'd better her own record, or at least set the world's water-skiing record for elephant at Huntington Marina.

* * * *

BY 4:30 P.M. when Miss Bimbo was led won to the bay, skeptical spectators were speculating that she'd never float.

"I hope it's shallow so they can get her if she sinks," said a six-year-old. "What if she drowns?" asked his worried little brother. "Can they give elephants artificial respiration?"

The pachyderm miss was led to the water's edge by her trainers, and a heavy pair of skis were lowered into the water by a crane.

Reluctant Miss Bimbo's mighty, but dainty four feet were chained to the skis, she shifted her weight for balance, and a motorboat started to tow her out.

Skis and elephant promptly toppled over.

Trainers scurried into the water to keep the floundering pachyderm's trunk above water and get her back to shore.

After a few more tries Miss Bimbo and her trainers gave up.

"I don't think she likes it," said the six-year-old.

Boats full of photographers who were circling Sunset Bay went home. The hundreds of spectators who came down to see an elephant water ski went home. And Miss Huntington Marina/Miss Bimbo was led back to her truck and taken home.

"I don't think she likes saltwater," one trainer said.

"Elephants can't water ski," said the six-year-old cynic, scorn in his voice.

And now we'll never know for sure.

It could only happen in Southern California.

Parade Pleads for Red 'Slaves'

By DAVID SHAW

A 23-car motorcade drove through downtown Long Beach and circled four area shopping centers Saturday, urging citizens to "pray for the one billion souls tortured, imprisoned and enslaved behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains."

The demonstration was called to remind Americans that this week is "Captive Nations Week"—"a time for people to express their sympathy and support for the aspirations of captive peoples."

* * * *

MISS DOLORES Lawless, who instigated the parade, said it was not sponsored by any organization.

"We're just a bunch of Americans concerned that the freedom-loving people of Communist countries have been abandoned," she said.

"We are constantly barraged with propaganda about Nazi atrocities of 20 years ago, but we hear nothing about the terrors of communism.

* * * *

"YOU CAN'T bring the people back to life after the Nazis killed them, so why don't we start worrying about the people living in Communist hell," Miss Lawless said.

"Let's do something for them, instead of trading with Russia and sending ballet companies over there to perform."

The demonstrators, given a police escort down Pine Avenue, following a loudspeaker truck carrying three men who called on area residents to fly the American Flag next week "While praying for the one-third of mankind that is subjugated and oppressed."

All the cars were draped with black crepe paper. They carried signs naming the countries under Communist rule and—in many instances—also carried the flags of those countries.

The motorcade started at the Bixby Knolls Shopping Center, circled centers in Lakewood and Los Altos, drove along Pacific Coast Highway, Pine Avenue and Broadway and disbanded in Belmont Shore after cruising along Second Street.

Dedicate New Site for Crippled Children

Dedication ceremonies and an open house will mark the formal opening Thursday of the new Long Beach Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society at 3770 E. Willow St.

Open house, featuring a tour and light refreshments, will be from 2 to 5:30 p.m. with dedication ceremonies set for 3:30 p.m., according to Albert G. Davis, general chairman, and Mrs. Burton W. Chace, honorary chairman of the invitational opening.

The 5,000-square-foot building, with its glass and concrete block exterior, is the first regional center to be built from the ground up by the society.

* * * *

FEATURES OF the building include two speech therapy rooms and one for psychological testing, all with mirrored viewing walls for observation by parents, student and educators; offices for the director and social workers, playrooms for the pre-school program and for children awaiting service appointments, a kitchen, conference room, a meeting room and special areas for secretarial services.

Funds for the new center, which is on land leased from Los Angeles County, came from special gifts and legacies. Services provided children, without charge, come from Easter Seal contributions.

Among those invited to preview the new center are the handicapped children and young adults of the Long Beach area participating in society services, their families, service groups, volunteer workers and officials representing Long Beach and Los Angeles County.

* * * *

CHAIRMAN Burton W. Chace and Frank G. Bonelli will represent the County Board of Supervisors. Long Beach Mayor Edwin W. Wade has presented the society with a proclamation naming July 21 as "Crippled Children's Society Day in Long Beach."

Others in attendance will include Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick; William C. Eldridge, society president; Ferdinand T. Fletcher, president of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of California; Ivy Baker Priest, former U.S. treasurer and board of directors member and actress Janet Blair, member of the board of trustees.

Music for the open house and for the dedication will be provided by the Long Beach Municipal Band with Charles Payne directing.

* * * *

A FEATURE of the dedication will be the raising of a flag by Boy Scouts of Troop 74. The flag, a gift from the Pilot Club of Long Beach, has flown over the Capitol in Washington and will be presented by Ruth E. Tay, president of the club.

The opening has become a community-wide project in Long Beach, as indicated by the committee chairmanships: invitations, Mrs. Margaret Darby of the Pilot Club, a society trustee, and a member of the Long Beach recreation department; refreshments, Mrs. Bruce R. Zacher of Alpha Chi Omega; hospitality, Mrs. Walker Brown of Alpha Gamma Delta; special services, Dr. Robert W. Anderson and Edwin L. Amstutz of Long Beach Uptown Kiwanis; press relations, Malcolm Marsh, Elks Club 888; and Easter Seal volunteers, Mrs. Ima Shafer, volunteer campaign director for the Long Beach area.

Other organizations involved include Zeta Tau Alpha, Children's Service League, Sertoma, La Sertoma, Lakewood Village Community Church, North Long Beach Women's Club, 19th District American Legion Auxiliary, Alpha Gamma chapter of Theta Sigma, Lakewood Aid League and Kappa Zeta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

Special donations are being sought for the swimming pool, poolhouse and workshop for which room is provided on the grounds, as well as for completion of furnishings and equipment in the main building.

TIME OUT AFTER 46 YEARS

Veteran Newsman Beck Takes Spectator Role

By BOB GEIVET

For 46 years, Verner C. Beck has been doing things; now he's going to do nothing.

Absolutely nothing.

For awhile, at least, he's just going to sit, and then sit some more, and watch the world go by. All this time, he has been watching it, and reporting it, and helping it along.

Beck, a newspaperman of the "old school" and schooled in the old traditions of the press, has been general manager of the world-famed Festival of Arts at Laguna Beach for 18 years.

THIS IS HIS last season; he's leaving when this year's edition, the 31st, wraps up its business at the end of August.

Beck was graduated from Denver University in 1920 as a journalism major, and he made newspapering his life's love. He has never regretted any of it—and only wishes he could do it all again.

While in the university, he joined the Sigma Delta Chi professional journalistic society, and has since held membership; he is active in the Orange County chapter, which he helped charter.

* * * *

HIS FIRST newspaper job was in Fort Morgan, Colo., but he decided soon thereafter "to join the trek to Southern California." He worked for the Ontario Daily Report, and 12 years later decided to take a fling at publishing. He took over the Coastline Dispatch at San Juan Capistrano—and so was born his love for Orange County.

It was while he was editing the South Coast News at Laguna Beach that Beck got interested in the Festival of the Arts. He became a director, and president of the board in 1948. Thereafter, he became its manager. He also became Laguna reporter for the Long Beach Press-Telegram.

Like newspapering, it's "all work," but it was fun, he said. Now, he's ready to let someone else have the fun.

YMCA Goal: Make Kids Drownproof

Tiny tot and bantam swim classes are in progress this summer at the downtown YMCA.

The classes are being offered to promote water safety and reduce the high number of drowning fatalities among small children, according to Robert Cassell, YMCA program director.

"Our prime purpose is to make children drownproof," he says.

* * * *

BEGINNING Monday and continuing through Sept. 10 the YMCA will hold half-hour classes that meet five days per week for two weeks.

Evening classes already are in progress.

Children three to five years old may register in the tiny tot program, while those six to eight are eligible for the bantam program.

SIXTY SEPARATE classes will be given in four sessions, which begin on Monday, Aug. 1, Aug. 15 and Aug. 29. They will meet from 8:30 a.m. to noon, 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. and 6 to 6:30 p.m.

Deadline for enrolling is the Wednesday before the first lesson. The fee for ten lessons is $10 per child.

Cassell says that after completion of the first sessions children who could not swim at all are swimming, floating and diving with no fear of the water.

TEACHING at the indoor YMCA pool, at 600 Long Beach Blvd., are Cassell, Dennis Hunt, Lyn Durham and Darla Nanomantube. Each instructor is assigned no more than five children per class, so individual instruction is possible.

An adult beginning swim class meets from 7 to 8 p.m. Monday night and adult intermediate class meets at the same time Wednesday.

A father and son swim class began Saturday night and is open to fathers and their sons who are eight to 14 years of age.

90 Bailiffs Gain Salary Class Step

From Our L.A. Bureau

Reclassification of about 90 civil bailiffs in the Superior Court so that they have full sheriff's deputy status has been approved by the County Civil Service Commission.

The reclassification will mean an 8.25% pay raise for the bailiffs. Their present salary range of $560-$696 will be raised to $641-$755.

* * * *

ACTUALLY, the bailiffs who serve in the civil departments of the Superior Court have been members of the Sheriff's Department, but drawing less salary than sheriff's deputies who are assigned to bailiff duty in the Superior Court's criminal departments.

The reclassification will put both civil and criminal departments on the same salary basis. The Civil Service Commission acknowledged that civil bailiffs frequently are assigned to the criminal courts.

The commission action concluded a two-year effort by the Los Angeles County Employes Association and the County Peace Officers Protective Association to win approval for the reclassification.

Bayonets Maintain Peace in Chicago

THE NATION

With bayonetted rifles at the ready, more than 1,500 National Guardsmen Friday night joined hundreds of Chicago police officers to keep the peace in the slum streets of the Windy City's West Side.

The riot-trained National Guardsmen from 15 Chicago area units were ordered out by Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner at the request of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley after three nights of shooting, looting and pitched battles between Negroes and police. Maj. Gen. Francis P. Kane, commander of the Guard, let it be known that his men meant business. He told newsmen, "If anybody shoots at my men, my orders are to shoot back—shoot to kill."

With the Guardsmen patroling the streets, the violence of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights subsided to scattered, minor incidents.

It was believed that tense calm resulted not only from the presence of the Guard and police, but from a "cool-off" agreement reached earlier in the day between Mayor Daley and Dr. Martin Luther King, civil rights leader who is spending the summer in Chicago.

THE RIOTING BEGAN in a small Negro neighborhood when officers arrested a man for reopening a fire hydrant that they had closed. It spread through three entire police districts and parts of others in the Negro community. The hydrant had been turned on by youngsters trying to cool off as a heat wave gripped the city.

The three nights of demonstrations claimed two lives, one a 14-year-old girl, killed by a stray bullet. At least 30 persons were wounded, including six policemen. Dozens of others were treated for injuries caused by thrown rocks and bricks, flying glass and fighting. More than 300 were arrested.

Mayor Daley asserted that Dr. King's staff was responsible for the violence. Said Daley:

"I don't think you can charge it to Martin Luther King directly, but surely some of the people that came in here have been talking for the last year of violence and showing pictures and instructing people on how to conduct violence—they're on his staff and they're responsible in a general measure. . . ."

A Daley aide said the mayor was referring to motion pictures of last year's Watts riots shown by a King staff member.

King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and a champion of nonviolence, said the films were shown for "just the opposite purpose—to show the negative results of rioting."

ONE OF THE MINOR points of the Daley-King "cool-off" agreement was perhaps the most important. The mayor agreed to put sprinklers on fire hydrants so that children can play in the water during heat waves.

Daley also conceded King's demands that more swimming pools and playgrounds be opened on the West Side.

Saturday morning it was hoped Chicago had "cooled off."

THE RIOTING DIDN'T reach into the quiet South Side section where eight student nurses from South Chicago Community Hospital lived in an apartment house converted to a dormitory, but death did.

Just before midnight Wednesday, a young man entered the nurses' apartment, forced them and a visiting girl friend, one by one, into a single room and bound them. Then, again one by one, he took eight of them into other rooms and strangled or stabbed them to death.

CORAZON AMURAO
Survived Massacre

There was one survivor, Corazon Amuran, from the Philippines, who rolled under a bed when the killer left the room with one of his victims. She told investigators that the slayer lulled the girls into complacency by sitting on the floor with them and telling them he only wanted money.

Long after the killer had left Miss Amurao freed herself of her bonds and ran to a window where she screamed for help.

Even veteran officers were shaken by the carnage they found. One described it as "the crime of the century."

Slain were Merlita Gargullo, 23; Valentina Pasion, 23; Suzanne Farris, 22; Patricia Ann Matusek, 21; Mary Ann Jordan, 20; Nina Schmale, 24; Pamela Wilkening, 20, and Gloria Jean Davy, 22.

At week's end law enforcement officers across the country were searching for Richard B. Speck, 25, a seaman. Fingerprints at the scene of the crime established his identity.

FROM THE CONTINENTAL Divide to the Atlantic, and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes, millions of Americans sweltered in a near-record heat wave. The nine days of heat claimed nearly 200 lives, 133 of them in the St. Louis metropolitan area, before cool air moved across the Midwest and East Friday to bring relief.

THOUSANDS OF WOULD-BE air travelers were still seeking other means of transportation Saturday as a machinists' strike against five major airlines continued into the second week. Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds, acting as mediator, said negotiators for the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists and the airlines were at "a serious impasse."

In an effort to ease the air travel snarl, the Civil Aeronautics Board Friday gave supplemental airlines authority to fly nearly 100 routes normally serviced by the struck carriers. Supplemental airlines are those which usually fly charter flights.

ESPIONAGE WAS BIG last week.

On Tuesday, FBI agents arrested William H. Whalen, 51, a retired Army lieutenant colonel. He was charged with conspiracy to give atomic weapon, missile and defense plans to Russian Embassy employes. The charge stated that Whalen had received $5,500 for information he passed to the Russians from 1959 to 1961 while he held a position with the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Whalen could be executed if convicted.

On Wednesday, the FBI revealed that two Czechoslovakian diplomats had tried to "bug" the office of a State Department official. They were thwarted by a State Department employe, Frank J. Mrkva, who pretended he was working for them. Actually, he was working for the FBI.

On Thursday, the Senate voted, 61-28, not to enlarge a Senate subcommittee that keeps an eye on the United States spy agency, the CIA. The fight for more control over the agency was led, and lost, by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

THE WAR

The air war held the spotlight last week as U.S. Navy and Air Force planes pressed attacks against targets in North Viet Nam. Cries of "war criminals" and "grave transgressions" were sounded from Hanoi and Peking.

In the action over North Viet Nam, American fliers outmaneuvered herds of SAM (surface-to-air missiles) and shot down three Red MIG fighters. Three U.S. planes also were lost, from ground fire. One pilot is missing in the week's action.

A U.S. spokesman described Thursday's action as "a big day in the north." American jets hammered a wide variety of targets with a record 114 missions—combat assignments that ordinarily involve from two to four planes.

Five Communist radar sites were among the targets. American pilots said they also destroyed or damaged 18 bridges and 43 cargo barges.

The prize was the Dap Cau Bridge, 19 miles northeast of Hanoi, a 510-foot link in the railway between Hanoi and Peking. The Air Force said photographs taken after the bombing showed the center spans of the bridge lying in the river.

South of the border, Guam-based B52 bombers pummelled suspected Viet Cong staging areas for three consecutive days.

IN AN APPARENT attempt to force a halt to bombing of North Viet Nam targets, the Hanoi regime continued to parade downed American fliers through the streets of the capital city and threaten to try them as war criminals.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Friday that if the Hanoi government should carry out its threats to try and execute the captive pilots, it would "set loose emotions in this country that would be hard to control."

Also on Friday, 18 Democratic senators called on North Viet Nam to reconsider its threat.

Striving anew for a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam conflict Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson flew to Moscow Saturday to attempt to get Kremlin leaders to help set up negotiations.

THE WEST

A craft that flies like a stone made its first flight over Edwards Air Force Base Tuesday and performed "beautifully, simply beautifully," according to test pilot Milton O. Thompson.

The wingless M2F2, designed to return astronauts to earth from orbiting vehicles, was dropped at 45,000 feet from a B52 bomber, fell away at 450 m.p.h. and landed 3½ minutes later on a dry lake bed.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration official was asked whether a rock or the M2F2 would reach the earth first if both were dropped from the same altitude. He said the rock would hit first, but "it would be close."

PROGRESS WAS MADE last week by Michigan labor mediator Ronald W. Houghton, asked by Gov. Edmund G. Brown to investigate worker elections at DiGiorgio Corp. ranches at Delano and Borrego Springs.

On Friday, the National Farm Workers Association called off its nationwide boycott of S&W food products produced by the DiGiorgio Corp.

The NFWA said it is recalling pickets and instructing those concerned with the boycott that it is complying with a recommendation by Haughton in the long-standing farm-labor and representation dispute.

The NFWA, DiGiorgio and the Teamsters Union agreed to abide by Haughton's recommendations, including new elections before Aug. 3. The Teamsters Union won the June 24 elections on DiGiorgio holdings, but the NFWA protested the results.

Cesar Chavez, director of the NFWA, called the agreement of the three parties a "hard-won victory for farm workers" and predicted his union will win in the new election.

REPUBLICAN GUBERNATORIAL nominee Ronald Reagan picked up 32,073 more votes than originally announced in the June 7 primary, Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan announced.

The state's official canvass, which counted all outstanding absentee ballots, also showed a gain of 15,262 for the man Reagan will oppose in November, incumbent Democratic Gov. Brown.

The biggest vote-getter in the state? Jordan, who led all partisan candidates in either party.

BAY AREA HOSPITALS, seeking to avert mass walkouts by more than 1,250 registered nurses, Friday night offered pay raises up to $615 a month during an 18-month period.

Hospital negotiators, meeting with representatives of the California Nurses Association and state medicare, said their proposals were in line with salaries suggested by the American Nurses Association.

The offer was lower than salary hikes given nurses at Eden Hospital in Castro Valley earlier last week.

The proposal included a provision for nurses in their first year at a hospital, with some prior experience, to earn $500 a month now, $530 in January and $560 in January 1968.

For nurses with more than four years' experience, the hospitals proposed an average 20.6% increase to a maximum of $615 in 1968.

THE SOUTHLAND

The aerospace industry will retain high employment, despite budgetary troubles generated by the Viet Nam War, a survey reveals.

The survey came on the heels of an announcement by Dr. Robert Seamans, deputy director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Seamans said NASA's budget request for $5.7 billion in the 1966-67 fiscal year has been trimmed to $5.012 billion, largely because of mounting war costs.

Seamans estimated about 25,000 California aerospace workers would lose their jobs because of slowdowns or cancellations of NASA contracts—principally on the Saturn and Apollo man-to-the-moon projects.

But the two major Southern California moon program contractors, Douglas Aircraft Co. and North American Aviation Inc., do not forecast any major reductions in their employment.

Net effect at Douglas, in fact, may be a gain in aerospace employment to complete other projects.

North American's Space & Information Systems Division, headquartered in Downey, and its Rocketdyne Division, which builds solid-fuel rocket engines, anticipates some reduction in the total work force over the next 12 months.

Like Douglas, however, North American expects to absorb the great majority of workers affected by any NASA cutbacks or spreadouts through intracompany transfers.

CLOSE 13TH CONVENTION

War 1 Veterans Install Slate

LOCAL EX-DOUGHBOYS ASSUME NEW DUTIES

By STEVE STOWE

Newly elected state department officers for the Veterans of World War I were installed with military precision Saturday at the close of the organization's 13th annual convention in the Lafayette Hotel.

Michael Locker, of Van Nuys, was installed as next year's state department commander before a crowd of 500. Escorted to the podium by the sergeant-at-arms, Locker took over leadership of the state's 24,000 members from Allan C. Meyers.

LOCKER WILL BE assisted by Senior Vice Commander Robert Beauchamp, of Citrus Heights and Junior Vice Commander Stanley Mutchler, of China Lake.

Two Long Beach area veterans also were elected to state offices. Francis X. Kenney, of 1404 E. Eighth St., was installed as chief of staff and R. Y. O'Shaughnessy, of 13271 Del Monte Drive, Seal Beach, became next year's judge advocate.

The organization's ladies auxiliary, which met for their 12th annual convention, also changed command. Geraldine Robar, of Paradise, was installed as department president for the auxiliary by outgoing president, Edna Clapp.

INSTALLED AS department senior vice president was Esther Hudson, of San Bernardino, and Rose Sherman of Fresno assumed the duties of department junior vice president.

Preceding the installation 14 couples of the veteran's drill team marched to the music of "Pack Up Your Troubles."

The convention closed with a flag ceremony and the initial business meeting of the new year. The convention was highlighted by support for the country's fighting men and praise for the veterans' role in current world affairs.

Baker Says Counties Are Shortchanged

Some place along the line, the counties have been shortchanged by the State of California in the matter of doing things, according to Orange County Supervisor David L. Baker of Garden Grove.

He said that the problem devolves around state-required acts by counties—which don't get paid enough for doing those things.—

For instance: the state requires the counties to provide facilities for the care of delinquent juveniles, those who need temporary shelter, and who are wards of the courts.

The state also requires the counties to have an agricultural commissioner, planning commission, air pollution control setup, and dozens of agencies and bureaus.

* * * *

IN MOST cases, Baker declared, the state does not reimburse the counties for its actual expenses; it usually operates on a formula of cost-division that was worked out years ago and which falls far short of present-day costs.

Baker said that the way the state handles apportionment of funds to help defray costs is ridiculous.

"The state's version of a 50/50 deal is one horse and one rabbit," he explained.

Baker disclosed that the problem came to attention of the Commission for California of Tomorrow, a study group set up by the State Supervisors' Association, of which he is a member. It considered 51 cases where it held the state's reimbursement was inadequate for costs required to be shouldered by the counties.

* * * *

ANOTHER MEETING of the group is set for Aug. 5 and 6 at Disneyland Hotel, Baker said, and the committee will probe "more deeply into the situation.

With a proper distribution of costs for support of agencies and services required by the state, the counties might share in millions of dollars, he declared.

The goal is not to eliminate the services now performed, but to get a proper disbursement of costs, Baker explained.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — More voters have registered for the July 26 Arkansas primary than for any previous primary, the state auditor's office announced.

A total of 687,631 persons registered, compared with 633,665 in 1964, the previous high for a primary.

In another film opening Wednesday in this area, James Garner co-stars with Sidney Poitier in a big-screen western, "Duel at Diablo." During one scene, above, Indian scout Garner learns from Swedish discovery Bibi Anderson that she is the mother of a half-Apache child. Academy Award-winner Poitier portrays an Army horse wrangler. Also appearing is Dennis Weaver.

New Area Films

Jerry Lewis' latest film, "Three on a Couch," opening Wednesday in this area, stars the comedian as an artist affianced to co-star Janet Leigh.

Miss Leigh is a psychiatrist who wants their wedding postponed until she can cure three attractive young women of their man-hating neuroses. Jerry, to speed up his own romance, dons a number of names and disguises and makes love to the girls—Mary Ann Mobley, Gila Golan and Leslie Parrish—until they find themselves cured.

It's an arduous example of amateur psychiatrics, helped along by James Best, playing a doctor and the artist's best friend.

The film was produced and directed by Lewis from a screenplay by Bob Ross and Samuel A. Taylor. Louis Brown composed and conducted the music.

Ed Bracken Theater's No. 1 'Glad Replacer'

NEW YORK (AP)—Just call Eddie Bracken the glad replacer.

"I'm the theater's No. 1 takeover guy for everybody," he amiably asserts. "The money's good, your feet stay on the ground and your hat fits."

Bracken currently is capering through "The Odd Couple," in a role inherited from Art Carney. Previous long Broadway engagements have been supplanting of Ezra Stone, Tom Ewell, David Wayne, Ray Walston and Ray Bolger.

* * * *

"HOW DID IT happen? Just lucky, I guess. Actually it's a great compliment to be asked to replace such a variety of performers."

The real reason for such a record is Bracken's addiction to greasepaint, manifested by a willingness to endure long runs and long tours. He stayed with one show four years, has compiled over a million miles of travel on a single airline.

"It seems I've played the road more than any other living American actor — including Alfred Lunt," he says.

EARL WILSON

Four-Colored Hair

NEW YORK — Sue Ann Langdon has been seen around Broadway with hair in five different colors . . . violet, blue, orange, yellow and green . . . leading a dog whose coat is five different colors.

Miss Langdon, the girl who made quite a splash on Jackie Gleason's television show, only to leave it in a dispute with Jackie over the necessity of rehearsing, was quite blithe about her hair color and the dog's hair color the other day in Gallagher's.

"It's just spray!" she said. "People look at the dog and say, 'Ohhh, the poor dog'—the poor dog!—she gets more attention that way than I do!"

Sue Ann is currently in five motion pictures but "A Fine Madness," in which she has a seduction scene with a rug cleaner, played by Sean Connery, landed her in Playboy magazine pretty much in the nude.

"About Playboy, I hesitated," she admitted. "Maybe my aunt and my mother will have some comments and they haven't told my Aunt Harriet yet. But if she says anything I'll tell her I was born that way and I can't understand why people are so prudish about nudity, anyway.

* * * *

IT'S ALL publicity, that's all it is, publicity."

"Well, what was your husband's reaction?" I asked. (She's married to Jack Emrek.)

"My husband looked at it as I do. Publicity is a necessary thing in our business. He happens to think that I have a cute body and he's not against other persons seeing it.

"Stardom in movies comes in devious ways and I don't think nudity is the big step, but appearing in the nude may be one of the steps, and it is not different today than it was many years ago when Harlow and Hedy Lamarr and others got famous going nude."

* * * *

MISS LANGDON has reached a co-starring stage in the five pictures she's in and believes she'll be a star before long.

"Well, I'll think that way, anyway," she says.

Sue Ann, whose background reads like a travel folder (she comes from Paterson, N.J.; St. Louis; Ann Arbor; Cedar Rapids; Pendleton, Ore.; Athens, W.Va.; Delaware, Ohio; Kingsville, Tex.; Denton, Tex.; Twin Falls, Idaho; Pocatello, Idaho; Butte, Mont.; New York and Hollywood), is a daughter of a former singing teacher, Grace Wallace Huddle, who taught in various colleges in those towns but is now in Ridge Crest, Calif., doing technical writing about space rockets.

"Did it hurt you when you suddenly left the Jackie Gleason Show?" I asked.

"Yes, it hurt that I didn't go on. I was supposed to do a sort of Carol Burnett thing. It would have been fabulous exposure."

"I didn't work too much after that for awhile, but I don't think it hurt me with other directors or producers because they know that Jackie is not an easy man to work with. Jackie is a beautiful talent but he's so good, he sort of rules that world that he's in. He tells them what to do and he can walk through it.

"When you get $300,000 a year, whether you work or not, it does something to you. You don't have to work, so I don't think he's as dedicated as he was."

SUE ANN said that after she left the Gleason show, she was approached to do a Playboy Playmate layout.

"They pay like $3,000 for the spread and it was important. I took it. Playboy approached me. But that exposing your body for two or three pages scared me; then I got the Steve Allen show for two or three shots and I didn't need it. I gave up the idea."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . . Barbra Streisand'll go apt.-hunting when she returns from London: "It will have to have everything—a projection room, a gym and plenty of room for future babies. I never want to move again!" . . . The seven paintings in Tony Curtis' "Don't Make Waves" film are by Tony's favorite artist: Tony Curtis . . . Abbe Lane arrived for a two-week stint in Reno's Harrah's with 20 gowns and 20 pieces of luggage.

George Gobel, rehearsing for "Odd Couple," said at the Plaza 9—he got sage advice from Bing Crosby: "When you think you have the audience in the palm of your hand—make sure nobody's stolen your ring" . . . Louis Armstrong's agent, Joe Glaser, set him for $1 million worth of bookings, through April . . . Announcer Lee Lampson rejoined ABC-TV after a fling in the antique business . . . Erroll Garner's fans'll give him a birthday cake after his Central Park concert Aug. 13.

George Jessel was signed by Hy Einborn to appear at resorts. First resort: In Tel Aviv . . . Helen Deutsch, who adopted "I'll Cry Tomorrow," for films, will write the "Velley of the Dolls" screenplay for 20th . . . A record shop in Jordan ran a contest to find lookalikes for the Rolling Stones. They got 22 entries—all girls . . . A famed film personality phoned a Beverley Hills drug store, angrily ordered 'em not to sell cigarettes to his children . . . Nadja Tiller, who posed nude for the late photographer Turhan Bey, will do the undraped bit again in "23 Girls and a Man."

Johnny Desmond said at the Hotel Edison Rum House he's opening a bar in W. 57th St. . . . Neighbors of a sidewalk cafe on 5th Ave. are trying to have it closed; they don't think it enhances the neighborhood . . . Judge Roy Hofheinz, showing his vast Astrodome to visitors, explains the plastic "grass" infield and outfield: "We don't water it—we send it out to be dry-cleaned."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A young girl said she's having trouble picking a birthday gift for her mother: "She already has everything I need."

'For My People' Unusual, Moving

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Staff Writer

Unheralded and all but unannounced, an extraordinary dramatic experience unfolded Friday and Saturday nights in rejuvenated Brayton Theater before a small but enthusiastic audience.

"For My People . . . now!" was the title, an impressionistic look into the thinking processes of today's Negroes — as interpreted by author Frank Silvera and staged by the American Theater of Being.

Simply, almost primitively, this non-play attempts to lay bare the Negro's collective soul, its hates and fears, joys and frustrations — as Silvera conceives them.

A Caucasian reviewer cannot judge how completely or objectively the writer accomplishes his purpose of sketching the contemporary Negro mind and mood. I can say the production was ably, professionally done.

It is not a play, in the accepted sense. Instead, "My People" is a series of musical vignettes — somewhat like an oratorio, with monologues, dialogues and singing by a four-man, four-woman "cast."

* * * *

WEARING STRIPED blue-and-purple shirts or dresses reminiscent of slave clothing in the old South, the group offered 23 sketches in the style of well-known writers. Among these were Richard Wright, James Weldon Johnson, Paul Laurence Dunary, Carl Sandburg.

Topics ranged from raw anger with white supremacism — "Strong men raise their fists" — to sly digs into the more subtle bigotry of "Mr. and Mrs. Massa," who "understood us colored folk better than any other white folks."

There were other views of the Negro as well.

Some of the most biting cuts were reserved for those athletes and entertainers who "move out to Long Island instead of staying to help."

Included even were two numbers — "Miss Melerlee" and "Ol' Dos H'Yar" — portraying the Negro in his old, once-accepted role as a happy-go-lucky plantation singer. Shades of Uncle Tom!

Perhaps the most dramatically moving selection was "A Black Woman Speaks," done by well-known singer Ketty Lester, in a cameo role. She likened Negro and white women as "sisters bound by the same chain of bloody supremacy."

The cast, which assembled from across Southern California: Dick Williams, Gloria Edwards, Morris Schulhaus, Kirk Kirksey, Gail Peters, Carol Field and Julius Johnsen. Directing was Bea Richards.

WINS GOLD CUP IN BREEZE AGAIN

Native Diver Gives 'Em Horse Laugh

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Native Diver, the "Black Bullet" of horse racing, became an unprecedented two-consecutive winner of the $162,100 Gold Cup Saturday at Hollywood Park when he massacred nine opponents in the 27th running of the nation's biggest summer race.

The seven-year-old gelding duplicated his feat of last year . . . almost.

In 1965, the speedy "bullet" waltzed the mile and one-quarter event in 2:00⅕ and was a five-length winner.

Saturday, he sped the classic distance in 2:00 flat and was merely the king by four and three-quarters lengths. Eased up, with his jockey looking back, the Diver made a farce of the great race for the second year.

He was like Sandy Koufax pitching a perfect game, Johnny Unitas throwing seven touchdown passes and Bill Russell obliterating NBA foes.

The favorite in the crowd of 55,686 didn't disappoint his supporters. He snatched the lead at the start and wagged his tail to the other fellows the entire distance. If thoroughbreds can laugh, Native Diver had a series of guffaws Saturday.

For those interested in the also rans, a 13-1 shot from England, O'Hara, wound up second, with the second-favorite, Travel Orb, a neck behind. Native Diver paid $4.80 straight, which was a steal at the price.

The Gold Cup — which netted a staggering $102,100 to the winner—can be summed up simply. Perris, owned by auto magnate Mel Burns of Long Beach, actually beat the "Black Bullet" out of the gate, but only for the time it takes for one to sneeze.

From that point, the race was over. Despite the fact that the "Bullet" had won only 3 of 10 races this year, the front-running speedster showed his class in the Gold Cup by realizing that he had no speed horses to compete with him.

"He knows how to run," explained his exercise boy Ernie Supiran. "If he gets out in front all by himself, nobody will ever catch him. He's a smart horse. He listens to you. There's no doubt that he's the greatest horse I ever sat on."

The Diver may not be the greatest horse in California history, but he has a few points in his favor. He busted his own California record with his 28th stakes victory . . . and jumped his lifetime earnings to $768,400, which now places him as No. 22 in the world in the bracket of dollars won.

The Diver also is a cinch to bag his second title of Hollywood Park's horse-of-the-year.

Jockey Jerry Lambert, who was a soldier at Fort Ord last year and earned a furlough to race the "Black Bullet" to victory in the '65 running of the Gold Cup, couldn't say enough about his champion after Saturday's chase.

"That big, black horse made no mistakes today and he ran a dynamite race," said the youngster. "I don't know how he could run any better than he did today or what he could do to make it any easier than it was.

"I know we got beat out of the gate by that other horse (Perris), but that didn't worry me. When we went, we went. I didn't see or hear anyone else from the time we got 10 yards from the starting gate until we hit the finish. We hugged the rail pretty good turning for home because I wanted to save every inch I could, going a mile and one-quarter.

"If there'd been someone coming at us I don't know if I would have done it, but it didn't matter. I took a slight hold of him coming to the wire, just enough to hold him together. But I was letting him bounce along because the Gold Cup comes only once a year. He didn't act like he was a year older today like in his first three races here (at Hollywood Park). He was the same old, great Diver as far as I was concerned."

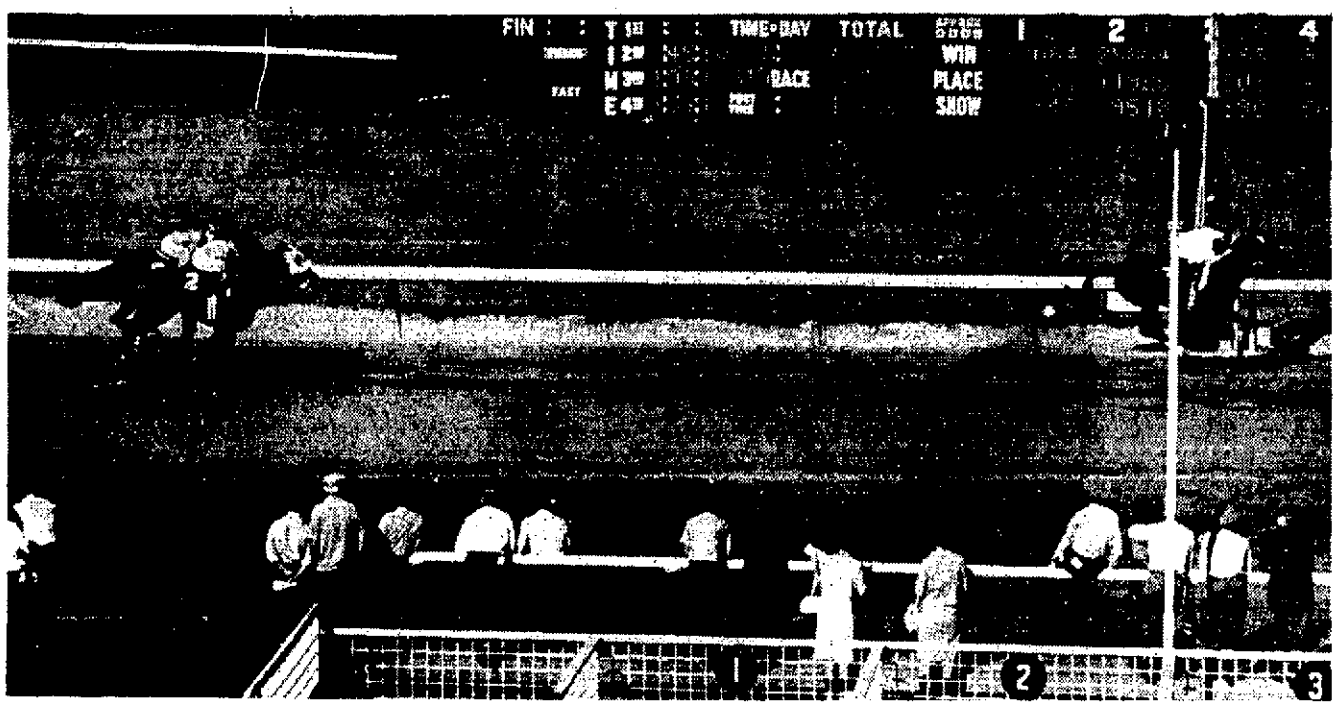

O'Hara's jockey, Don Pierce, had a pertinent after-race statement:

"I wish they'd retire that black sonofagun. I'm getting tired of looking at his rear end. O'Hara got bumped leaving the gate or else we might have been a couple of lengths closer early. I kept after him all the way, but we were not about to catch Native Diver."

The one-time resident of Lakewood, Bill Harmatz, was disappointed in Travel Orb's performance. "We beat that black horse before, but we couldn't today. We had no excuses. Native Diver is something else. I knew it before the race and it turned out true. Nobody would go out with the Diver and he had everything his own way. And you know how tough he is then. My horse ran his heart out, but what can you do?"

In trying to wheel a three-year-old into the winner's circle in this race, the nation's premier jockey Bill Shoemaker knew he had a tough assignment. As the third-favorite, Drin would have been only the second horse since Round Table (1957) to win the big one as a sophomore.

Commented Shoemaker, who participated in his first Gold Cup race in six years: "Drin flattened out. Maybe I should have gone to Chicago like I've done for a long time."

Rick Wrecks Jose's Hope

By ROSS NEWHAN

Although 19 teammates had encountered negative results, the University of Wisconsin psychology student, Rick Reichardt, was thinking positive as he came to the plate in the seventh inning Saturday.

"I was determined to break up the no-hitter," revealed Reichardt.

"There is a certain stigma attached to a team when it falls victim to a no-hitter and we've been doing so well that I wasn't going to let that happen."

With two strikes, Rick slapped a clean single to left to shatter the dreams of Jose Santiago. That Norm Siebern's fourth homer perforated the shutout with two out in the ninth was irrelevant, for Siebern's opportunity was provided only through Rick's rap.

On a day which began with Hall-of-Famer Bob Feller hurling a home-run contest, it was Boston's Jose Rafael Santiago who resembled an immortal, striking out 10 en route to the Big A's finest pitching performance yet.

His task was lightened by five unearned first-inning runs off Dean Chance (7-11), who succumbed, 7-1.

"You put so many games into the mixer and you're bound to come up with one of these," said manager Bill Rigney.

"We were lousy, and Santiago was great. I thought we might have to call a special Hall-of-Fame election."

From the mixer, the Angels have been extracting concrete results. The loss of a four-game winning streak did not alter the fact that the Angels are a team on fire.

The team that Reichardt saved from an insufferable "stigma" has won 9 of 13 and 21 of 32, retaining third place Saturday as Cleveland bowed.

That it rests where it does despite the combined 11-21 record of Chance and Marcelino Lopez is testimony to team effort and the miracle worker himself, William Joseph Rigney.

"You do not have to be told that Rigney commands the respect of his players," said Boston's captain, Carl Yastrzemski. "That is evident just watching his team play. It's especially evident in a close game when Rig draws the extra effort out of them."

Under the coaxing of the American League's senior manager, the Angels are 22-10 in one-run games.

"A manager's greatest asset is his ability to handle players," admitted Rigney. "All the other talents are wasted if he does not hold the respect of his players."

That respect is mirrored in statements by two major contributors to the Angels' current spree.

Said 37-year-old Jack

Everything's Just 'Rosy' for Rookie

By GEORGE LEDERER
Staff Writer

NEW YORK — Don Sutton is striking out more and John Roseboro is striking out less, which accounts for the Dodgers' move within striking distance of the league lead.

Sutton struck out a career high of 11 Saturday as the Dodgers trounced the Mets, 7-1, completing a three-game sweep and making it eight wins in the last 10 games by the world champions.

Roseboro struck the big blow, a two-run homer in the first inning to start Sutton on his ninth victory. Sutton's 9-7 record matches the top Los Angeles Dodger rookie mark compiled in 1958 by Stan Williams and leaves him six wins short of Joe Black's club record for a freshman, set in 1952.

The 21-year-old Sutton ran his string of scoreless innings to 11 before Ken Boyer's ninth-inning sacrifice fly produced the Mets' run. He has struck out 31 in the last 23 innings and has a season total of 123 in 134 innings.

At this pace, Sutton appears likely to become one of the top rookie strikeout pitchers on record. The best rookie total in recent years was compiled by Jack Sanford, who led the league with 188 while breaking in with the Phillies in 1957.

Roseboro, enjoying his new role as the Dodgers' cleanup hitter, hit his second homer in two days and sixth of the year after Willie Davis singled in the first inning.

In two games as the No. 4 hitter, Roseboro has driven in four runs with four hits in nine times up. In the previous 84 games, five Dodger cleanup hitters drove in only 26 runs.

"It makes no difference to me where I bat," said Roseboro. "Fourth, seventh or eighth, it's all the same. I don't feel any pressure."

U.S. Leading Russia in 'Feud' Swim

MOSCOW (AP) — United States swimmers won five of the nine events contested Saturday in the controversial five-nation meet, but the lone world record established was set by a 13-year-old Moscow girl in the 200-meter breaststroke.

Although the meet was to have been a Little Olympics, with the best swimmers from five countries competing, the 40 Russians and the 14 U.S. athletes made up virtually the entire field.

Only Russians and Americans won titles. Eight more events will be contested today. All are being held in the 50-meter open-air pool of Lenin Stadium in the Moscow suburb of Luzhniki.

Don Schollander of Lake Oswego, Ore., who won four gold medals in the 1964 Olympics, opened the meet by taking the 100-meter freestyle in 53.2 seconds, two-tenths of a second faster than at Tokyo.

Other U.S. winners were Charles Hickcox of Bloomington, Ind., the 100-meter backstroke; Martha Randall of Philadelphia the 100-meter freestyle; Susan Pitt of New Brunswick, N.J., the 100-meter butterfly and Judy Humbarger of Miami, Fla., the 400-meter freestyle.

Russian men won three events while Irinia Posdynakova was the lone Russian girl winner. She lowered the time for the breaststroke to 2:43 while beating Galina Prozmenshchkova, the 18-year-old winner of the gold medal at Tokyo and the holder of the old record at 2:45.4.

Cynthia Goyette of Detroit, was the first American to finish in this race, taking fifth place with 2:54.4.

Token teams from Bulgaria, Norway and Poland entered the meet, but none of their swimmers placed and the event turned into a Soviet-American match.

Hail Larrieu, Walker, Kings of the Distances

BERKELEY (AP) — Truck driver Ron Larrieu ran the fastest 10,000-meter race ever on American soil and Art Walker smashed his American triple jump record Saturday in the All-America Invitational track and field meet.

The meet replaced the scheduled United States-Poland dual from which the Poles withdrew following the lead of the Russians.

Larrieu, 29, from Santa Monica, went the gruelling 10,000 meters (six miles and 376.1 yards) in 28 minutes, 54.1 seconds. The best previous on an American track was 29.02 by Gerry Lindgren of Washington State.

The American record of 28:17.6 belongs to Billy Mills, who ran it at Augsburg, Germany, last year.

Larrieu was dueled all the way by Van Nelson, a St. Cloud (Minn.) State College sophomore. Nelson went ahead with a mile to go, but Larrieu's finishing sprint won out as the youngster finished in 28:55.5, second fastest on an American track.

Larrieu, a 116-pounder who drives a two-ton truck in Los Angeles, was one of the special invitees who joined members of the United States national squad for this meet.

Walker leaped 54-7¾ in the event, Poland's Jozef Schmidt holds the world record at 55-10½, set six years ago. If Poland had not followed the lead of Russia, stating opposition to the U.S. war effort in Viet

MISS BIMBO SKIES—IN MUD

No, Virginia...Elephants Don't Float

By WALT MURRAY

Would you believe a water-skiing elephant?

Several hundred spectators who lined railings along Sunset Bay, families who watched from their waterside patios and small children who scrambled up dirt hills at Huntington Marina almost believed.

But 10-year-old Miss Huntington Marina, a small-to-medium sized dark gray elephant, began to get cold feet as she stood in the Marina mud.

* * * *

IT APPEARED THAT even a bushel-basket of peanuts offered by another beauty queen, blonde Susie Bruderlin, Miss Huntington Beach, would fail to launch the reluctant pachyderm.

Miss Huntington Marina is—really circus elephant named Miss Bimbo, billed as holding the world's water skiing record for elephants at four miles per hour, by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce.

"Huntington Marina publicity men hoped she'd better her own record, or at least set the world's water-skiing record for elephant at Huntington Marina.

* * * *

BY 4:30 P.M. when Miss Bimbo was led won to the bay, skeptical spectators were speculating that she'd never float.

"I hope it's shallow so they can get her if she sinks," said a six-year-old. "What if she drowns?" asked his worried little brother. "Can they give elephants artificial respiration?"

The pachyderm miss was led to the water's edge by her trainers, and a heavy pair of skis were lowered into the water by a crane.

Reluctant Miss Bimbo's mighty, but dainty four feet were chained to the skis, she shifted her weight for balance, and a motorboat started to tow her out.

Skis and elephant promptly toppled over.

Trainers scurried into the water to keep the floundering pachyderm's trunk above water and get her back to shore.

After a few more tries Miss Bimbo and her trainers gave up.

"I don't think she likes it," said the six-year-old.

Boats full of photographers who were circling Sunset Bay went home. The hundreds of spectators who came down to see an elephant water ski went home. And Miss Huntington Marina/Miss Bimbo was led back to her truck and taken home.

"I don't think she likes saltwater," one trainer said.

"Elephants can't water ski," said the six-year-old cynic, scorn in his voice.

And now we'll never know for sure.

It could only happen in Southern California.

Parade Pleads for Red 'Slaves'

By DAVID SHAW

A 23-car motorcade drove through downtown Long Beach and circled four area shopping centers Saturday, urging citizens to "pray for the one billion souls tortured, imprisoned and enslaved behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains."

The demonstration was called to remind Americans that this week is "Captive Nations Week"—"a time for people to express their sympathy and support for the aspirations of captive peoples."

* * * *

MISS DOLORES Lawless, who instigated the parade, said it was not sponsored by any organization.

"We're just a bunch of Americans concerned that the freedom-loving people of Communist countries have been abandoned," she said.

"We are constantly barraged with propaganda about Nazi atrocities of 20 years ago, but we hear nothing about the terrors of communism.

"YOU CAN'T bring the people back to life after the Nazis killed them, so why don't we start worrying about the people living in Communist hell," Miss Lawless said.

"Let's do something for them, instead of trading with Russia and sending ballet companies over there to perform."

The demonstrators, given a police escort down Pine Avenue, following a loudspeaker truck carrying three men who called on area residents to fly the American Flag next week "While praying for the one-third of mankind that is subjugated and oppressed."

All the cars were draped with black crepe paper. They carried signs naming the countries under Communist rule and—in many instances—also carried the flags of those countries.

The motorcade started at the Bixby Knolls Shopping Center, circled centers in Lakewood and Los Alios, drove along Pacific Coast Highway, Pine Avenue and Broadway and disbanded in Belmont Shore after cruising along Second Street.

Giants, Pirates Both Dumped

HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Rozelle Knight on White Charger

The NFL-AFL pro football peace merger put the squeeze on AFL commissioner Al Davis, the exuberant man who once coached at USC, and established NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, the former Press-Telegram part-time sports dept. reporter, as probably the single strongest man in all of sports.

Davis was fit to be tied when he learned that Rozelle was going to be the sole commissioner over both leagues. Rozelle, the quiet man whose mother still resides in Lynwood, accepted his new role—which will become effective in 1970 when the merger is completed—in typical Rozelle fashion.

"If that's the way the owners want it, I'm very pleased to take on the added responsibility," Pete said.

When Davis was sold down the river by his AFL owners, quick-tempered Al was free to tell them what he thought of them. And he did. He also let them know that under no circumstances would he stay on in a secondary position . . . even before the new combine made overtures to Davis about an "advisory" or "assistant" post with Rozelle.

You have to understand Al to like him. He's a fast worker, makes some enemies when he treads upon certain toes, but he doesn't let any grass grow under his feet and he did a tremendous job solidifying the AFL to the point where the older NFL finally "recognized" the younger circuit.

He can't be blamed for being upset over the recent turn of events.

THE APPOINTMENT of Rozelle to run both leagues illustrated the difference in the way the two circuits operated. Davis, the AFL boss, (and his predecessor Joe Foss) never had any real say in bargaining. Davis, especially, was trapped in the most significant deal in pro football history. He was kept apprised and could suggest, but the owners carried the ball all the way.

In the NFL, Pete Rozelle called all the shots . . . through Tex Schramm, president of the Dallas Cowboys. And that's an interesting parlay.

When he was general manager of the Rams, Schramm hired Rozelle for his first pro football job, as the club's publicity man. ROZELLE'S ELEVATION TO COMMISSIONER IN 1960 COINCIDED WITH SCHRAMM'S ARRIVAL IN DALLAS TO BE GENERAL MANAGER OF THE NEW EXPANSION COWBOYS!

Pete and Tex are close friends, and Rozelle knows how to be discreet and a good negotiator. Hence, Schramm's appearance as Rozelle's front man in most of the negotiations which shot Davis from the saddle.

PROOF POSITIVE was Schramm's first comment on the merger: "This would not have been possible without Rozelle."

All evidence points to the authenticity of that statement. Rozelle laid down the ground rules for pro football peace, and they were followed almost all the way. Pete could have acted as the negotiator himself, except that he felt he might become emotionally involved. Sitting behind the scenes, he could evaluate the situation objectively and actually be in a stronger position to exercise his influence. He had to come out of it on top.

Rozelle has a corporate mind and already projects a study of pro football to see what direction the new National Football League will take when the four seasons leading to complete merger under one roof are up. Already, under Rozelle's direction, CBS is in the midst of a study right now.

A SECRET POWWOW in New York after the NFL meetings in Washington led to the pro grid peace. A group of other owners convinced dissidents Lou Spadia of San Francisco and Wellington Mara of the New York Giants that merger was the only way out of the dilemma created when the Giants signed the AFL's Pete Gogolak from Buffalo's lap.

The AFL went into the final peace talks with a firm agreement that both Davis and Rozelle remain as commissioners and that a third, impartial party be appointed to resolve all future conflicts.

Rozelle, Schramm and Company took care of that problem, with some strong help from their experienced NFL owners. Exit Al Davis.

IN THE MEANTIME, Davis won't suffer. He is independently wealthy through marriage and the merger vitiated his long-term contract so he'll have no trouble getting his commissioner's money, which is rumored to be $60,000 for the next five years.

If he desired, he could return to the Oakland Raiders. A prominent owner in the Western Division of the NFL has coveted Davis as a general manager for some time.

Al is deep-down upset that he wasn't able to complete the campaign he started for equality and which he's convinced would have happened if his owners hadn't shot him down.

PRO FOOTBALL will thrive under the merger, although the tang of competition will have gone from it.

Our friend Pete Rozelle was on shaky grounds because of the Gogolak affair . . . but he emerged from the merger as the knight on the white charger.

Santo's Hit Leads Cubs Past Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bill Hands and Ferguson Jenkins combined to pitch a five hitter and Ron Santo hit a two-run homer to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 4-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

It was the first time in a month that the Pirates scored less than two runs in a game.

The Cubs broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth on Santo's 20th home run behind a triple by Billy Williams. Successive singles by Ernie Banks, Randy Hundley and Byron Browne produced another run and kayoed Pirate starter Woody Fryman.

Hand's victory, his sixth against eight setbacks, was the first since June 11 after seven unsuccessful attempts. Before being forced to leave the game with a pulled back muscle at the start of the seventh, Hands yielded one run, four hits, fanned three and walked one.

The Pirates scored their run in the first inning on Gene Alley's triple and Roberto Clemente's single.

The Cubs tied it in the second. Hundley tripled and scored on Browne's grounder which careened off Fryman's glove. Bill Mazeroski retrieved the ball at second but threw home too late to get Hundley.

The loss went to Fryman, Pirate rookie ace who was rapped for four runs and nine hits in four and two-thirds innings. Fryman, who saw a personal win streak snapped at four, now has an 8-4 record.

Santo's homer was his sixth against the Pirates this season. He has also batted in 18 runs against Pittsburgh.

San Francisco Still on Top Despite 15-Inning Defeat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tony Gonzalez, who scored the tying run in the ninth inning, singled across the winning tally in the 15th as Philadelphia edged San Francisco 6-5 Saturday.

Despite the loss, the Giants maintained their one-game National League lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who lost to Chicago.

Bill White led off the 15th with a single against Joe Gibbon and was sacrificed to second. Gonzalez then rapped a single to left field, driving in White.

The Phillies tied the game 5-5 in the ninth when Gonzalez led off with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored one out later on a single by Phil Linz off Jim Davenport's glove at third.

The Giants broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth, taking advantage of Philadelphia errors by Cookie Rojas, White and Bob Uecker.

Willie McCovey, who singled in the first run in the inning, scored on Tom Haller's single and was followed across the plate by Jim Hart when Uecker let the throw from the outfield get away from him.

White came back with a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning.

White's homer followed a single by Harvey Kuenn and led to the removal of starter Ray Sadecki. The Phils tied the score in the ninth off Frank Linzy.

Linzy pitched 6⅓ strong innings but couldn't go any further. Gibbon came on starting the 15th and took his sixth loss in nine decisions.

The Giants blew numerous scoring opportunities in the extra innings.

Hal Lanier led off the 10th with a double. But Jim Davenport, who had homered earlier, failed in a sacrifice attempt and Lanier didn't score.

Tom Haller and Jesus Alou opened the 11th with singles. But Haller stayed on third as Tito Fuentes grounded into a doubleplay and Linzy flied out.

Willie McCovey doubled leading off the 13th but was thrown out at third on Jim Hart's bunt.

Orioles Pound McLain

Combined News Services

DETROIT — League-leading Baltimore snapped a four-game losing streak Saturday, climbing on Detroit's Denny McLain for six earned runs in the first two innings for an 8-2 victory over the second-place Tigers.

Dave McNally went all the way for Baltimore, allowing seven hits as the Orioles extended their lead to seven games.

The first five Orioles to face McLain, making his first start since the All-Star Game, reached base. Singles by Luis Aparicio and Russ Snyder and a walk to Frank Robinson preceded Brooks Robinson's two-run single.

Boog Powell singled, driving in Frank Robinson, and a sacrifice fly by Dave Johnson brought home Brooks.

Norm Cash got one run back for Detroit in the first with a solo homer.

But the Orioles continued their assault in the second. McNally singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Snyder's double. Frank Robinson greeted reliever Orlando Pena with a single, scoring Snyder.

Pena held the Orioles to two hits in the next three innings, on a run-scoring single by Andy Etchebaaren in the fifth following a walk to Curt Blefary and an error by Jake Wood.

Willie Horton accounted for the second Detroit run when he homered with two out in the sixth.

Pitcher's Error Gives Reds Win

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Al Jackson's wild throw on a tailor-made double play ball Saturday paved the way for two seventh inning runs which gave the Cincinnati Reds a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory was the Reds' second in four games since Dave Bristol became interim manager of the club Wednesday.

Dick Simpson was on second base and Tommie Harper was on first when Jackson fielded Vada Pinson's grounder, wheeled and threw into centerfield trying for a play at second base.

Simpson scored and Harper came home minutes later on a single by Pete Rose which sent Jackson to the showers with his eighth loss in 16 decisions.

Bill McCool, who replaced Red starter Jim O'Toole in the seventh inning, picked up the victory, his fifth against four losses.

Harper walked, took second on an infield out and scored on Tony Perez' single to give the Reds a one run lead in the first inning.

The Cards matched the run in the second inning on Mike Shannon's single and a double by Charley Smith and then went ahead 2-1 in the third inning when Lou Brock singled, stole second and came home on Tim McCarver's single.

Perez' double and a single by Deron Johnson tied the score at 2-2 in the fourth inning.

The Reds broke the tie in the sixth on Don Pavletich's single and a double by Tommy Helms.

Brock singled home a Cardinal run in the seventh to set the stage for the Reds' game winning rally.

ROSEWALL VS. LAVER IN PRO TENNIS FINAL

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)— Australians Ken Rosewall and Rod Laver set up another title match for today by winning in the semifinals of the $23,500 U.S. Professional Tennis Championships Saturday.

Rosewall, who beat Laver for the title last year, defeated fourth-seeded Butch Buchholz of St. Louis 6-0, 6-3, 6-2, in 56 minutes.

Laver stopped third-seeded Andres Gimeno 6-3, 6-3, 7-5 in 71 minutes.

Pinch Hits Push Chisox to Victory

CHICAGO (UPI) — Pinch hitters Smokey Burgess and Bill Skowron got back-to-back doubles Saturday to spark the Chicago White Sox to a four run sixth inning and a 7-2 triumph over Cleveland, their third straight win over the Indians.

Tommy Agee hit his 10th homer in the eighth to wind up Sox scoring.

Burgess' 10th pinch hit of the season came after three singles by Jerry Adair, Tom McCraw and Ken Berry had scored Adair with the tying run.

Burgess' blow, the 125th pinch hit of his career, scored both runners to put the Sox in front, and Skowron's two base hit, his first successful pinch hit in 14 appearances this season, drove in pinch runner Al Weis.

Skowron also scored as Don Buford beat out a bunt single and reliefer Jack Kralick threw the ball into right field for an error while attempting the putout at first.

Joel Horlen pitched the first six frames for the White Sox before Burgess batted for him and got his fifth win as Bob Locker limited the Indians to one hit in three innings in relief.

Cleveland starter Steve Hargen, who allowed five Sox runs before Kralick took his fifth loss. It was the 11th loss in the last 12 games for the Indians.

Minnesota Tops Nats

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—The Minnesota Twins struck for three runs in each of the first two innings Saturday, then went on to complete a three-game sweep of the Washington Senators 6-2 behind Dave Boswell's five-hit pitching.

Boswell, a 21-year-old right-hander, picked up his seventh victory despite some shoddy Minnesota fielding. The Twins committed three errors for the second game in a row, and Washington's first run was unearned.

Rain Halts Astros Tilt

ATLANTA (UPI) — Saturday's game between the Atlanta Braves and the Houston Astros was called at the end of the top of the sixth inning with the score tied at 1-1 because of wet grounds.

The umpires waited for more than an hour after a steady rain but found the field covered with water.

The Braves got their run in the fourth inning on Eddie Mathews' seventh home run and the Astros tied it in the fifth on John Bateman's 12th homer.

Clarke's Grand Slammer Gives Ford Initial '65 Win

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Horace Clarke's grand slam home run in the 10th inning powered the New York Yankees to a 9-5 win over the Kansas City Athletics Saturday and handed veteran Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford his first victory of the 1966 season.

It was Clarke's first homer of the year.

The blow came off Jack Aker and handed him his second loss against six wins. Ford's victory goes with four setbacks.

Four of the other five Yankee runs were batted in on home runs. Joe Pepitone hit his 21st of the year in the second inning and Tom Tresh hit his 9th of the year in the sixth inning, each with one man aboard.

The game-winning rally started off when Aker gave up a single to Lou Clinton and a double to Boyer with one away in the 10th. Roger Maris, pinch hitting for Ford, was walked to load the bases and set the stage for Clarke's blast over the right field fence.

The Athletics got a single run off Fritz Peterson in the second and then knocked him out of the box in the fifth inning on successive hits by Dick Green, Ozzie Chavarria, Phil Roof and Joe Nossek.

The A's picked up a single run in the seventh and then tied it with two out in the bottom of the ninth when Campy Campeneris bunted safely, was sacrificed to second and scored on Mike Hershberger's single.

NEW YORK (AP) —The New York Mets have requested permission to put rookie southpaw Dick Rusteck on the disabled list.

YMCA Goal: Make Kids Drownproof

Tiny tot and bantam swim classes are in progress this summer at the downtown YMCA.

The classes are being offered to promote water safety and reduce the high number of drowning fatalities among small children, according to Robert Cassell, YMCA program director.

"Our prime purpose is to make children drownproof," he says.

* * * *

BEGINNING Monday and continuing through Sept. 10 the YMCA will hold half-hour classes that meet five days per week for two weeks.

Evening classes already are in progress.

Children three to five years old may register in the tiny tot program, while those six to eight are eligible for the bantam program.

SIXTY SEPARATE classes will be given in four sessions, which begin on Monday, Aug. 1, Aug. 15 and Aug. 29. They will meet from 8:30 a.m. to noon, 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. and 6 to 6:30 p.m.

Deadline for enrolling is the Wednesday before the first lesson. The fee for ten lessons is $10 per child.

Cassell says that after completion of the first sessions children who could not swim at all are swimming, floating and diving with no fear of the water.

TEACHING at the indoor YMCA pool, at 600 Long Beach Blvd., are Cassell, Dennis Hunt, Lyn Durham and Darla Nanomantube. Each instructor is assigned no more than five children per class, so individual instruction is possible.

An adult beginning swim class meets from 7 to 8 p.m. Monday night and adult intermediate class meets at the same time Wednesday.

A father and son swim class began Saturday night and is open to fathers and their sons who are eight to 14 years of age.

90 Bailiffs Gain Salary Class Step

From Our L.A. Bureau

Reclassification of about 90 civil bailiffs in the Superior Court so that they have full sheriff's deputy status has been approved by the County Civil Service Commission.

The reclassification will mean an 8.25% pay raise for the bailiffs. Their present salary range of $560-$696 will be raised to $641-$755.

* * * *

ACTUALLY, the bailiffs who serve in the civil departments of the Superior Court have been members of the Sheriff's Department, but drawing less salary than sheriff's deputies who are assigned to bailiff duty in the Superior Court's criminal departments.

The reclassification will put both civil and criminal departments on the same salary basis. The Civil Service Commission acknowledged that civil bailiffs frequently are assigned to the criminal courts.

The commission action concluded a two-year effort by the Los Angeles County Employes Association and the County Peace Officers Protective Association to win approval for the reclassification.

WINS GOLD CUP IN BREEZE AGAIN

Native Diver Gives 'Em Horse Laugh

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Native Diver, the "Black Bullet" of horse racing, became an unprecedented two-consecutive winner of the $162,100 Gold Cup Saturday at Hollywood Park when he massacred nine opponents in the 27th running of the nation's biggest summer race.

The seven-year-old gelding duplicated his feat of last year . . . almost.

In 1965, the speedy "bullet" waltzed the mile and one-quarter event in 2:00⅕ and was a five-length winner.

Saturday, he sped the classic distance in 2:00 flat and was merely the king by four and three-quarters lengths. Eased up, with his jockey looking back, the Diver made a farce of the great race for the second year.

He was like Sandy Koufax pitching a perfect game, Johnny Unitas throwing seven touchdown passes and Bill Russell obliterating NBA foes.

The favorite in the crowd of 55,686 didn't disappoint his supporters. He snatched the lead at the start and wagged his tail to the other fellows the entire distance. If thoroughbreds can laugh, Native Diver had a series of guffaws Saturday.

For those interested in the also rans, a 13-1 shot from England, O'Hara, wound up second, with the second-favorite, Travel Orb, a neck behind. Native Diver paid $4.80 straight, which was a steal at the price.

The Gold Cup — which netted a staggering $102,100 to the winner—can be summed up simply. Perris, owned by auto magnate Mel Burns of Long Beach, actually beat the "Black Bullet" out of the gate, but only for the time it takes for one to sneeze.

From that point, the race was over. Despite the fact that the "Bullet" had won only 3 of 10 races this year, the front-running speedster showed his class in the Gold Cup by realizing that he had no speed horses to compete with him.

"He knows how to run," explained his exercise boy Ernie Supiran. "If he gets out in front all by himself, nobody will ever catch him. He's a smart horse. He listens to you. There's no doubt that he's the greatest horse I ever sat on."

The Diver may not be the greatest horse in California history, but he has a few points in his favor. He busted his own California record with his 28th stakes victory . . . and jumped his lifetime earnings to $768,400, which now places him as No. 22 in the world in the bracket of dollars won.

The Diver also is a cinch to bag his second title of Hollywood Park's horse-of-the-year.

Jockey Jerry Lambert, who was a soldier at Fort Ord last year and earned a furlough to race the "Black Bullet" to victory in the '65 running of the Gold Cup, couldn't say enough about his champion after Saturday's chase.

"That big, black horse made no mistakes today and he ran a dynamite race," said the youngster. "I don't know how he could run any better than he did today or what he could do to make it any easier than it was.

"I know we got beat out of the gate by that other horse (Perris), but that didn't worry me. When we went, we went. I didn't see or hear anyone else from the time we got 10 yards from the starting gate until we hit the finish. We hugged the rail pretty good turning for home because I wanted to save every inch I could, going a mile and one-quarter.

"If there'd been someone coming at us I don't know if I would have done it, but it didn't matter. I took a slight hold of him coming to the wire, just enough to hold him together. But I was letting him bounce along because the Gold Cup comes only once a year. He didn't act like he was a year older today like in his first three races here (at Hollywood Park). He was the same old, great Diver as far as I was concerned."

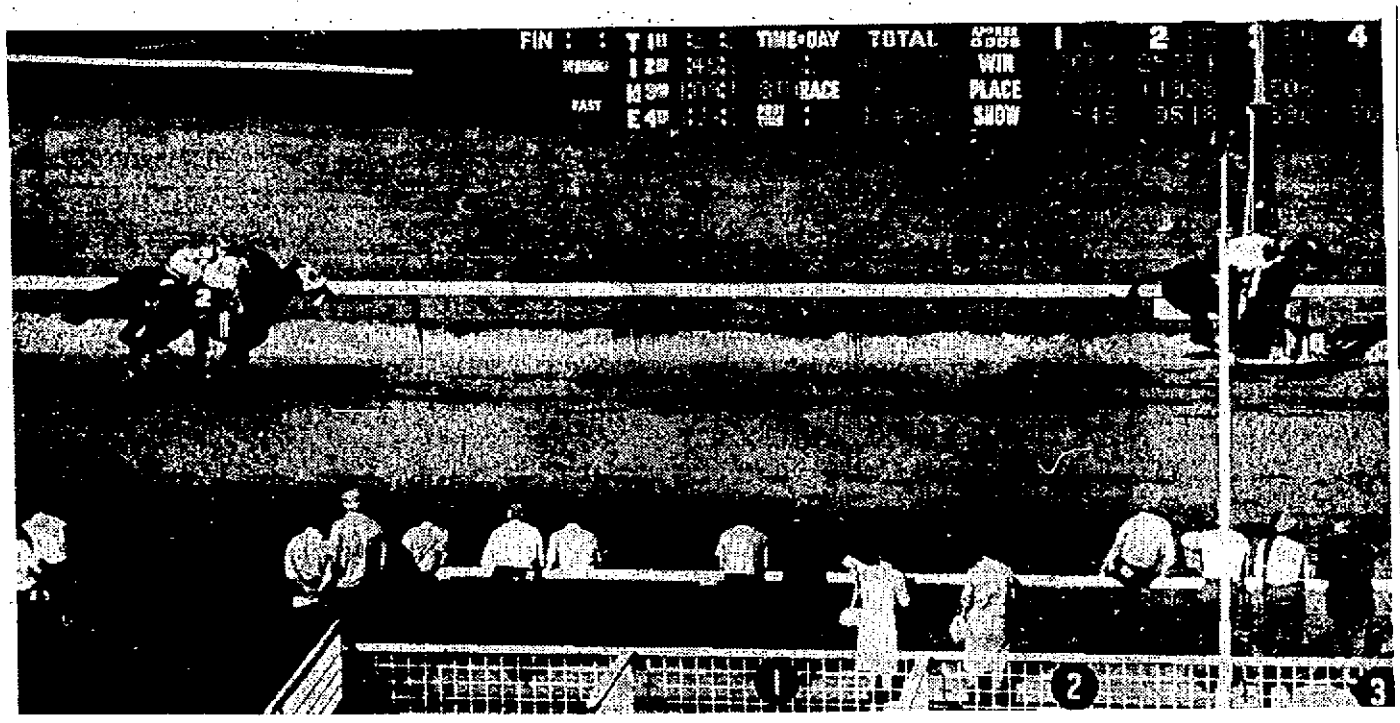

O'Hara's jockey, Don Pierce, had a pertinent after-race statement:

"I wish they'd retire that black sonofagun. I'm getting tired of looking at his rear end. O'Hara got bumped leaving the gate or else we might have been a couple of lengths closer early. I kept after him all the way, but we were not about to catch Native Diver."

The one-time resident of Lakewood, Bill Harmatz, was disappointed in Travel Orb's performance. "We beat that black horse before, but we couldn't today. We had no excuses. Native Diver is something else. I knew it before the race and it turned out true. Nobody would go out with the Diver and he had everything his own way. And you know how tough he is then. My horse ran his heart out, but what can you do?"

In trying to wheel a three-year-old into the winner's circle in this race, the nation's premier jockey Bill Shoemaker knew he had a tough assignment. As the third-favorite, Drin would have been only the second horse since Round Table (1957) to win the big one as a sophomore.

Commented Shoemaker, who participated in his first Gold Cup race in six years: "Drin flattened out. Maybe I should have gone to Chicago like I've done for a long time."

Rick Wrecks Jose's Hope

By ROSS NEWHAN

Although 19 teammates had encountered negative results, the University of Wisconsin psychology student, Rick Reichardt, was thinking positive as he came to the plate in the seventh inning Saturday.

"I was determined to break up the no-hitter," revealed Reichardt.

"There is a certain stigma attached to a team when it falls victim to a no-hitter and we've been doing so well that I wasn't going to let that happen."

With two strikes, Rick slapped a clean single to left to shatter the dreams of Jose Santiago. That Norm Siebern's fourth homer perforated the shutout with two out in the ninth was irrelevant, for Siebern's opportunity was provided only through Rick's rap.

On a day which began with Hall-of-Famer Bob Feller hurling a home-run contest, it was Boston's Jose Rafael Santiago who resembled an immortal, striking out 10 en route to the Big A's finest pitching performance yet.

His task was lightened by five unearned first-inning runs off Dean Chance (7-11), who succumbed, 7-1.

"You put so many games into the mixer and you're bound to come up with one of these," said manager Bill Rigney.

"We were lousy, and Santiago was great. I thought we might have to call a special Hall-of-Fame election."

From the mixer, the Angels have been extracting concrete results. The loss of a four-game winning streak did not alter the fact that the Angels are a team on fire.

The team that Reichardt saved from an insufferable "stigma" has won 9 of 13 and 21 of 32, retaining third place Saturday as Cleveland bowed.

That it rests where it does despite the combined 11-21 record of Chance and Marcelino Lopez is testimony to team effort and the miracle worker himself, William Joseph Rigney.

"You do not have to be told that Rigney commands the respect of his players," said Boston's captain, Carl Yastrzemski. "That is evident just watching his team play. It's especially evident in a close game when Rig draws the extra effort out of them."

Under the coaxing of the American League's senior manager, the Angels are 22-10 in one-run games.

"A manager's greatest asset is his ability to handle players," admitted Rigney. "All the other talents are wasted if he does not hold the respect of his players."

That respect is mirrored in statements by two major contributors to the Angels' current spree.

U.S. Leading Russia in 'Feud' Swim

MOSCOW (AP) — United States swimmers won five of the nine events contested Saturday in the controversial five-nation meet, but the lone world record established was set by a 13-year-old Moscow girl in the 200-meter breaststroke.

Although the meet was to have been a Little Olympics, with the best swimmers from five countries competing, the 40 Russians and the 14 U.S. athletes made up virtually the entire field.

Only Russians and Americans won titles. Eight more events will be contested today. All are being held in the 50-meter open-air pool of Lenin Stadium in the Moscow suburb of Luzhniki.

Don Schollander of Lake Oswego, Ore., who won four gold medals in the 1964 Olympics, opened the meet by taking the 100-meter freestyle in 53.2 seconds, two-tenths of a second faster than at Tokyo.

Other U.S. winners were Charles Hickcox of Bloomington, Ind., the 100-meter backstroke; Martha Randall of Philadelphia the 100-meter freestyle; Susan Pitt of New Brunswick, N.J., the 100-meter butterfly and Judy Humbarger of Miami, Fla., the 400-meter freestyle.

Russian men won three events while Irinia Posdynakova was the lone Russian girl winner. She lowered the time for the breaststroke to 2:43 while beating Galina Prozmenshchkova, the 18-year-old winner of the gold medal at Tokyo and the holder of the old record at 2:45.4.

Cynthia Goyette of Detroit, was the first American to finish in this race, taking fifth place with 2:54.4.

Token teams from Bulgaria, Norway and Poland entered the meet, but none of their swimmers placed and the event turned into a Soviet-American match.

Hail Larrieu, Walker, Kings of the Distances

BERKELEY (AP) — Truck driver Ron Larrieu ran the fastest 10,000-meter race ever on American soil and Art Walker smashed his American triple jump record Saturday in the All-America Invitational track and field meet.

The meet replaced the scheduled United States-Poland dual from which the Poles withdrew following the lead of the Russians.

Larrieu, 29, from Santa Monica, went the gruelling 10,000 meters (six miles and 376.1 yards) in 28 minutes, 54.1 seconds. The best previous on an American track was 29.02 by Gerry Lindgren of Washington State.

The American record of 28:17.6 belongs to Billy Mills, who ran it at Augsburg, Germany, last year.

Larrieu was dueled all the way by Van Nelson, a St. Cloud (Minn.) State College sophomore. Nelson went ahead with a mile to go, but Larrieu's finishing sprint won out as the youngster finished in 28:55.5, second fastest on an American track.

Larrieu, a 116-pounder who drives a two-ton truck in Los Angeles, was one of the special invitees who joined members of the United States national squad for this meet.

Walker leaped 54-7¾ in the event. Poland's Jozef Schmidt holds the world record at 55-10½, set six years ago. If Poland had not followed the lead of Russia,

Everything's Just 'Rosy' for Rookie

By GEORGE LEDERER
Staff Writer

NEW YORK — Don Sutton is striking out more and John Roseboro is striking out less, which accounts for the Dodgers' move within striking distance of the league lead.

Sutton struck out a career high of 11 Saturday as the Dodgers trounced the Mets, 7-1, completing a three-game sweep and making it eight wins in the last 10 games by the world champions.

Roseboro struck the big blow, a two-run homer in the first inning to start Sutton on his ninth victory. Sutton's 9-7 record matches the top Los Angeles Dodger rookie mark compiled in 1958 by Stan Williams and leaves him six wins short of Joe Black's club record for a freshman, set in 1952.

The 21-year-old Sutton ran his string of scoreless innings to 11 before Ken Boyer's ninth-inning sacrifice fly produced the Mets' run. He has struck out 31 in the last 23 innings and has a season total of 123 in 134 innings.

At this pace, Sutton appears likely to become one of the top rookie strikeout pitchers on record. The best rookie total in recent years was compiled by Jack Sanford, who led the league with 188 while breaking in with the Phillies in 1957.

Roseboro, enjoying his new role as the Dodgers' cleanup hitter, hit his second homer in two days and sixth of the year after Willie Davis singled in the first inning.

In two games as the No. 4 hitter, Roseboro has driven in four runs with four hits in nine times up. In the previous 84 games, five Dodger cleanup hitters drove in only 26 runs.

"It makes no difference to me where I bat," said Roseboro. "Fourth, seventh or eighth, it's all the same. I don't feel any pressure."

Rozelle Knight on White Charger

The NFL-AFL pro football peace merger put the squeeze on AFL commissioner Al Davis, the exuberant man who once coached at USC, and established NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, the former Press-Telegram part-time sports dept. reporter, as probably the single strongest man in all of sports.

Davis was fit to be tied when he learned that Rozelle was going to be the solo commissioner over both leagues. Rozelle, the quiet man whose mother still resides in Lynwood, accepted his new role—which will become effective in 1970 when the merger is completed—in typical Rozelle fashion.

"If that's the way the owners want it, I'm very pleased to take on the added responsibility," Pete said.

When Davis was sold down the river by his AFL owners, quick-tempered Al was free to tell them what he thought of them. And he did. He also let them know that under no circumstances would he stay on in a secondary position . . . even before the new combine made overtures to Davis about an "advisory" or "assistant" post with Rozelle.

You have to understand Al to like him. He's a fast worker, makes some enemies when he treads upon certain toes, but he doesn't let any grass grow under his feet and he did a tremendous job solidifying the AFL to the point where the older NFL finally "recognized" the younger circuit.

He can't be blamed for being upset over the recent turn of events.

THE APPOINTMENT of Rozelle to run both leagues illustrated the difference in the way the two circuits operated. Davis, the AFL boss, (and his predecessor Joe Foss) never had any real say in bargaining. Davis, especially, was trapped in the most significant deal in pro football history. He was kept apprised and could suggest, but the owners carried the ball all the way.

In the NFL, Pete Rozelle called all the shots . . . through Tex Schramm, president of the Dallas Cowboys. And that's an interesting parlay.

When he was general manager of the Rams, Schramm hired Rozelle for his first pro football job, as the club's publicity man. ROZELLE'S ELEVATION TO COMMISSIONER IN 1960 COINCIDED WITH SCHRAMM'S ARRIVAL IN DALLAS TO BE GENERAL MANAGER OF THE NEW EXPANSION COWBOYS!

Pete and Tex are close friends, and Rozelle knows how to be discreet and a good negotiator. Hence, Schramm's appearance as Rozelle's front man in most of the negotiations which shot Davis from the saddle.

PROOF POSITIVE was Schramm's first comment on the merger: "This would not have been possible without Rozelle."

All evidence points to the authenticity of that statement. Rozelle laid down the ground rules for pro football peace; and they were followed almost all the way. Pete could have acted as the negotiator himself, except that he felt he might become emotionally involved. Sitting behind the scenes, he could evaluate the situation objectively and actually be in a stronger position to exercise his influence. He had to come out of it on top.

Rozelle has a corporate mind and already projects a study of pro football to see what direction the new National Football League will take when the four seasons leading to complete merger under one roof are up. Already, under Rozelle's direction, CBS is in the midst of a study right now.

A SECRET POWWOW in New York after the NFL meetings in Washington led to the pro grid peace. A group of other owners convinced dissidents Lou Spadia of San Francisco and Wellington Mara of the New York Giants that merger was the only way out of the dilemma created when the Giants signed the AFL's Pete Gogolak from Buffalo's lap.

The AFL went into the final peace talks with a firm agreement that both Davis and Rozelle remain as commissioners and that a third, impartial party be appointed to resolve all future conflicts.

Rozelle, Schramm and Company took care of that problem, with some strong help from their experienced NFL owners. Exit Al Davis.

IN THE MEANTIME, Davis won't suffer. He is independently wealthy through marriage and the merger violated his long-term contract so he'll have no trouble getting his commissioner's money, which is rumored to be $60,000 for the next five years.

If he desired, he could return to the Oakland Raiders. A prominent owner in the Western Division of the NFL has coveted Davis as a general manager for some time.

Al is deep-down upset that he wasn't able to complete the campaign he started for eqiality and which he's convinced would have happened if his owners hadn't shot him down.

PRO FOOTBALL will thrive under the merger, although the tang of competition will have gone from it.

Our friend Pete Rozelle was on shaky grounds because of the Gogolak affair . . . but he emerged from the merger as the knight on the white charger.

Giants, Pirates Both Dumped

Santo's Hit Leads Cubs Past Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bill Hands and Ferguson Jenkins combined to pitch a five hitter and Ron Santo hit a two-run homer to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 4-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

It was the first time in a month that the Pirates scored less than two runs in a game.

The Cubs broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth on Santo's 20th home run behind a triple by Billy Williams. Successive singles by Ernie Banks, Randy Hundley and Byron Browne produced another run and kayoed Pirate starter Woody Fryman.

Hand's victory, his sixth against eight setbacks, was the first since June 11 after seven unsuccessful attempts. Before being forced to leave the game with a pulled back muscle at the start of the seventh, Hands yielded one run, four hits, fanned three and walked one.

The Pirates scored their run in the first inning on Gene Alley's triple and Roberto Clemente's single.

The Cubs tied it in the second. Hundley tripled and scored on Browne's grounder which careened off Fryman's glove. Bill Mazeroski retrieved the ball at second but threw home too late to get Hundley.

The loss went to Fryman, Pirate rookie ace who was rapped for four runs and nine hits in four and two-thirds innings. Fryman, who saw a personal win streak snapped at four, now has an 8-4 record.

Santo's homer was his sixth against the Pirates this season. He has also batted in 18 runs against Pittsburgh.

San Francisco Still on Top Despite 15-Inning Defeat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tony Gonzalez, who scored the tying run in the ninth inning, singled across the winning tally in the 15th as Philadelphia edged San Francisco 6-5 Saturday.

Despite the loss, the Giants maintained their one-game National League lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who lost to Chicago.

Bill White led off the 15th with a single against Joe Gibbon and was sacrificed to second. Gonzalez then rapped a single to left field, driving in White.

The Phillies tied the game 5-5 in the ninth when Gonzalez led off with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored one out later on a single by Phil Linz off Jim Davenport's glove at third.

The Giants broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth, taking advantage of Philadelphia errors by Cookie Rojas, White and Bob Uecker.

Willie McCovey, who singled in the first run in the inning, scored on Tom Haller's single and was followed across the plate by Jim Hart when Uecker let the throw from the outfield get away from him.

White came back with a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning.

White's homer followed a single by Harvey Kuenn and led to the removal of starter Ray Sadecki. The Phils tied the score in the ninth off Frank Linzy.

Linzy pitched 6⅓ strong innings but couldn't go any further. Gibbon came on starting the 15th and took his sixth loss in nine decisions.

The Giants blew numerous scoring opportunities in the extra innings.

Hal Lanier led off the 10th with a double. But Jim Davenport, who had homered earlier, failed in a sacrifice attempt and Lanier didn't score.

Tom Haller and Jesus Alou opened the 11th with singles. But Haller stayed on third as Tito Fuentes grounded into a doubleplay and Linzy flied out.

Willie McCovey doubled leading off the 13th but was thrown out at third on Jim Hart's bunt.

Orioles Pound McLain

Combined News Services

DETROIT — League-leading Baltimore snapped a four-game losing streak Saturday, climbing on Detroit's Denny McLain for six earned runs in the first two innings for an 8-2 victory over the second-place Tigers.

Dave McNally went all the way for Baltimore, allowing seven hits as the Orioles extended their lead to seven games.

The first five Orioles to face McLain, making his first start since the All-Star Game, reached base. Singles by Luis Aparicio and Russ Snyder and a walk to Frank Robinson preceded Brooks Robinson's two-run single.

Boog Powell singled, driving in Frank Robinson, and a sacrifice fly by Dave Johnson brought home Brooks.

Norm Cash got one run back for Detroit in the first with a solo homer.

But the Orioles continued their assault in the second. McNally singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Snyder's double. Frank Robinson greeted reliever Orlando Pena with a single, scoring Snyder.

Pena held the Orioles to two hits in the next three innings, on a run-scoring single by Andy Etchebaaren in the fifth following a walk to Curt Blefary and an error by Jake Wood.

Willie Horton accounted for the second Detroit run when he homered with two out in the sixth.

Pitcher's Error Gives Reds Win

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Al Jackson's wild throw on a tailor-made double play ball Saturday paved the way for two seventh inning runs which gave the Cincinnati Reds a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory was the Reds' second in four games since Dave Bristol became interim manager of the club Wednesday.

Dick Simpson was on second base and Tommie Harper was on first when Jackson fielded Vada Pinson's grounder, wheeled and threw into centerfield trying for a play at second base.

Simpson scored and Harper came home minutes later on a single by Pete Rose which sent Jackson to the showers with his eighth loss in 16 decisions.

Bill McCool, who replaced Red starter Jim O'Toole in the seventh inning, picked up the victory, his fifth against four losses.

Harper walked, took second on an infield out and scored on Tony Perez' single to give the Reds a one run lead in the first inning.

The Cards matched the run in the second inning on Mike Shannon's single and a double by Charley Smith and then went ahead 2-1 in the third inning when Lou Brock singled, stole second and came home on Tim McCarver's single.

Perez' double and a single by Deron Johnson tied the score at 2-2 in the fourth inning.

The Reds broke the tie in the sixth on Don Pavletich's single and a double by Tommy Helms.

Brock singled home a Cardinal run in the seventh to set the stage for the Reds' game winning rally.

ROSEWALL VS. LAVER IN PRO TENNIS FINAL

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)— Australians Ken Rosewall and Rod Laver set up another title match for today by winning in the semifinals of the $23,500 U.S. Professional Tennis Championships Saturday.

Rosewall, who beat Laver for the title last year, defeated fourth-seeded Butch Buchholz of St. Louis 6-0, 6-3, 6-2, in 56 minutes.

Laver stopped third-seeded Andres Gimeno 6-3, 6-3, 7-5 in 71 minutes.

Minnesota Tops Nats

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—The Minnesota Twins struck for three runs in each of the first two innings Saturday, then went on to complete a three-game sweep of the Washington Senators 6-2 behind Dave Boswell's five-hit pitching.

Boswell, a 21-year-old right-hander, picked up his seventh victory despite some shoddy Minnesota fielding. The Twins committed three errors for the second game in a row, and Washington's first run was uncarned.

Pinch Hits Push Chisox to Victory

CHICAGO (UPI) — Pinch hitters Smokey Burgess and Bill Skowron got back-to-back doubles Saturday to spark the Chicago White Sox to a four run sixth inning and a 7-2 triumph over Cleveland, their third straight win over the Indians.

Tommy Agee hit his 10th homer in the eighth to wind up Sox scoring.

Burgess' 10th pinch hit of the season came after three singles by Jerry Adair, Tom McCraw and Ken Berry had scored Adair with the tying run.

Burgess' blow, the 125th pinch hit of his career, scored both runners to put the Sox in front, and Skowron's two base hit, his first successful pinch hit in 14 appearances this season, drove in pinch runner Al Weis.

Skowron also scored as Don Buford beat out a bunt single and reliefer Jack Kralick threw the ball into right field for an error while attempting the putout at first.

Joel Horlen pitched the first six frames for the White Sox before Burgess batted for him and got his fifth win as Bob Locker limited the Indians to one hit in three innings in relief.

Cleveland starter Steve Hargen, who allowed five Sox runs before Kralick took his fifth loss. It was the 11th loss in the last 12 games for the Indians.

Rain Halts Astros Tilt

ATLANTA (UPI) — Saturday's game between the Atlanta Braves and the Houston Astros was called at the end of the top of the sixth inning with the score tied at 1-1 because of wet grounds.

The umpires waited for more than an hour after a steady rain but found the field covered with water.

The Braves got their run in the fourth inning on Eddie Mathews' seventh home run and the Astros tied it in the fifth on John Bateman's 12th homer.

Clarke's Grand Slammer Gives Ford Initial '65 Win

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Horace Clarke's grand slam home run in the 10th inning powered the New York Yankees to a 9-5 win over the Kansas City Athletics Saturday and handed veteran Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford his first victory of the 1966 season.

It was Clarke's first homer of the year.

The blow came off Jack Aker and handed him his second loss against six wins. Ford's victory goes with four setbacks.

Four of the other five Yankee runs were batted in on home runs. Joe Pepitone hit his 21st of the year in the second inning and Tom Tresh hit his 9th of the year in the sixth inning, each with one man aboard.

The game-winning rally started off when Aker gave up a single to Lou Clinton and a double to Boyer with one away in the 10th. Roger Maris, pinch hitting for Ford, was walked to load the bases and set the stage for Clarke's blast over the right field fence.

The Athletics got a single run off Fritz Peterson in the second and then knocked him out of the box in the fifth inning on successive hits by Dick Green, Ozzie Chavarria, Phil Roof and Joe Nossek.

The A's picked up a single run in the seventh and then tied it with two out in the bottom of the ninth when Campy Campeneris bunted safely, was sacrificed to second and scored on Mike Hershberger's single.

Met Hurler Hurt

NEW YORK (AP) —The New York Mets have requested permission to put rookie southpaw Dick Rusteck on the disabled list.

RICH ROBERTS

Gillman's On the Grill, Man

"I don't worry about the image. All I worry about is winning games."—Sid Gillman, coach of the San Diego Chargers.

ESCONDIDO—Sid Gillman is in a bigger hurry sitting still than anyone you ever saw.

A meeting with his assistant coaches is just breaking up, and the movie projector is still hot. So's Gillman.

The pose is casual—bermudas, a gray coach's T-shirt, one foot propped up—but it wouldn't fool anybody.

The cigar comes to the mouth too often, the hand slaps the thigh impatiently, the left leg twitches out a mad 16-to-the-bar beat that screams time's a-wasting.

It's rush hour for football, with too many things to do, too many things to think about doing.

"There's just no time," he says. "We're just fighting time all the time. We always wish we had more time."

Gillman, frankly, is not a newspaperman's dream, and the feeling, we suppose, is mutual. It was true in L.A. with the Rams and there have been times when it was true in San Diego.

Even at 55, with a comfortable home high on a hill overlooking Mission Valley, he hasn't mellowed noticeably.

It's just that Sid has refused to compromise his intense approach to the game for the sake of being popular. But, then, winning coaches are seldom unpopular with owners.

A BIT OF LEGEND has built up around the man . . . how he left his bride sitting in the rain in her wedding dress while he conducted practice . . . how he spent their last $25 back in the Depression to buy a used projector for watching football films . . . or how he wouldn't cut a rookie until he had finishing taping the kid's prize collection of jazz records.

True or not, it just goes to show that under this rough exterior there beats a heart of stone.

Jazz is one of a limited list of hobbies Sid allows himself, when he isn't looking at old football films, that is—jazz, golf and grandchildren. He has six.

"Jazz has changed more than football," Gillman says, reflecting his 32 years as a coach. "In style, it's completely different going through various stages. It's—well, right at the moment I'm more interested in football."

He snaps back quickly to the business at hand, which is sifting through more than a half-hundred youngsters who were disillusioned into thinking that pro football might be fun. There won't be many left when he gets through.

"It's not difficult," Sid says. "Somebody can't fit into the organization, the simplest thing to do—the fairest thing to him—is to let 'im go quick.

"They don't always understand. They go home and generally say, well, they didn't get a chance. You know, they have so much pride they hate to admit that possibly they didn't have the ability. But we don't worry about what they say."

GILLMAN'S TASK is even easier than usual this year. Despite the quantity of rookies, there is little quality. The Chargers' first six draft picks, eight of their first nine, were signed by the other league.

That is, it was the "other league" when they signed.

"The National Football League joined the American Football League!" is the way Sid sees it. "I'm all for it. Pro football in another year would have been on the way out."

However, Gillman is reluctant to declare the AFL competitive right now.

"That remains to be seen. I think we'll do all right. It depends upon our next expansion program. If we're silly enough to go the same route as we did the last trip (when the AFL took in Miami) we're gonna be hurt by it. The NFL gave nothing away (when it went into Atlanta). We were all hurt because we all gave up real good football players."

PERHAPS THE CHARGERS were hurt more than other AFL clubs because they also had lost their two giant linemen, Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison, who had played out their contracts to look for better deals. But Sid doesn't like to talk about that.

Nor will he admit to anticipation of meeting the Rams in an exhibition game next year.

"Well, that's just about what it will be," he shrugs. "another pre-season game. If we put any more emotional stress on it we're going to suffer during our later games."

Gillman is very large on the emotions of his players.

"We always fear that we haven't got everything done . . . always concerned about how the mental processes are going to work. This is the biggest concern. It's a simple job to prepare a team technically. We know what we have to do and we just go out on the field and drill it. But how do you drill for emotions?"

FANS GET EMOTIONAL, too, but Sid is better prepared to cope with this.

"We've got excellent fans. They're a sophisticated fan. We don't have the usual pro fan. Our fans come dressed up to the game. It's kind of a social event. They're very knowledgeable and appreciate good football.

"To assume that they don't boo is not realistic. But it's all right, as long as they pay their way into the stadium."

The Chargers number among their fans pro golfers Billy Casper and Phil Rodgers, a source of envy for Gillman.

"We go at it pretty good in the off-season, too, but we get our share of golf," he says. "I always get pretty good just about the time football season rolls around."

But again it's July and training camp and Sid is off looking for his assistants.

"They put in just as much time as I do," he says crisply, "or they wouldn't be here."

CAN NEW TALENT RESURRECT RAMS?

Allen Corners Market on Backers

By AL LARSON

As far as George Allen's concerned, the name of the game is defense.

Some people collect watch charms, but the Rams' new coach is intent on cornering the market on linebackers.

The latest addition is Myron Pottios, who gives Allen four backers with all-pro credentials. Last season the Rams were weak in this area, but it became evident that this situation was not so much from weakness as from inexperience.

Now with Pottios, Bill George, Pardee and Maxie Baughan, Allen has corrected a major problem area.

Pottios, 6-2, 240, will be playing his fifth season in the league. He has appeared in three Pro Bowl games, but the middle backer from Van Vuorhis, Pa., has been hampered by injuries nearly every season.

Did the trade come as a surprise?

"I was doing some fishing down in Macon, Ga., when I got a phone call that the Steelers wanted to talk to me," Pottios said.

"I called Danny Rooney and he told me that I'd been traded to the Rams. It really surprised me, but it'll give me a chance to be reunited with some old friends.

"I played with Joe Carollo and Joe Scibelli at Notre Dame, and have known some of the other guys."

Quickie quotes from defensive backs:

Irv Cross — "Measured speed is fine, but quickness, the ability to accelerate instantly, and experience are the things that count."

Eddie Meador — "I think almost every defensive back in the NFL could play offense. But not many offensive backs could play defense."

Players from 171 colleges and universities are among the veterans who have reported to NFL training camps.

In a game that took four days to complete, the Dallas Cowboys defeated the Ram rookies, 33-25.

Playing exclusively on offense Wednesday, the Rams scored four times. Then Saturday it was Dallas' turn to control the ball and the Cowboys punched over five touchdowns and added a 27-yard field goal by Chuck Durkee of Oklahoma State.

However, the Rams' defense did stiffen on several occasions as Kelton Winston of the Marines and George Youngblood of Cal State at L.A. intercepted passes and Steve Speers of Temple recovered two fumbles.

Dallas used three quarterbacks, including veterans Jerry Rhome and Craig Morton. Rhome completed 5 of 14 attempts for 121 yards and two touchdowns. Morton connected on 5 of 6 for 72 yards while rookie Alex Bowden zeroed in on 4 of 8 for 65 yards and one TD.

Dick Smith of Northwestern pulled in touchdown strikes of 24 and 42 yards from Rhome.

Jim Sidle of Auburn went over on a 10-yard run, Harmon Brannan of So. Mississippi ran two yards and Tom Richardson of Jackson State scored on a 27-yard pass from Bowden.

Brannan was the leading rusher, gaining 63 yards on 14 carries. Les Shy of Cal State of Long Beach picked up 26 yards on 6 carries.

Coach Allen was particularly pleased with the work of Darrell Hoover of Arizona State, Youngblood and Winston. "I thought all three played pretty well. Hoover and Youngblood were each in on seven tackles. We found out what we wanted to know."

Ram linebacker Doug January sustained a broken left hand and will be sidelined several weeks.

The final contingent of Ram veterans will check into camp today.

RAMS' NEWEST LINEBACKER CLUB

The Rams have plugged a woeful trouble spot on defense by acquiring veteran linebackers Maxie Baughan (55), Bill George (61) and Myron Pottios (68). The trio combines 24 years of NFL experience.

TUNISIAN STAR AT COLISEUM

The international track and field meet next weekend at the Coliseum has taken on even more of a foreign flavor with the announced appearance of Tunisia's Mohammed Gamoudi.

Gamoudi, winner of the Helms World Trophy for Africa in 1964, was the runner who challenged Billy Mills in the stretch run of the 10,000 meters in the Olympic Games at Tokyo.

Australian distance star Ron Clarke will challenge Gamoudi over 5,000 meters, along with New Zealanders Bill Baillie, Geoff Pyne and Jeff Julian, Derek Graham of Great Britain, and American George Young.

Nichols Takes Lead in Minnesota Golf

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Bobby Nichols, using a new putter and a different driver, shot a 5-under-par 66 Saturday to barge into the 54-hole lead in the $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic.

Nichol's three-round total of 200, 13 under par, wrested the lead from Jacky Cupit.

Nichols, who was behind Cupit by three strokes at the start of the third round, scrambled all over Keller golf course, but never took a bogey.

"I was chipping real well," said Nichols, former PGA champion who hasn't won a tournament since the Houston Golf Classic last year.

"I'm just thrilled to death with my new putter," he added. "It doesn't have a name, and you can't describe it. I don't know who makes it. It looks like a branding iron.

"I actually putted better Friday, and I drove the ball very poorly today. But I think I manage to play better in the rough anyway."

Nichols birdied the 18th while Cupit was taking a bogey on it. Cupit drove into the right trap, then missed the green and two-putted.

U.S. Open champion Billy Casper ballooned to a two-over 73 and shot up to 207 Saturday.

Nichols missed five greens, including four in a row, and said he wasn't hitting his drives well at all.

Nichols hit 15-foot putts on the first two holes for birdies that got him off to a fast start. He added birds with a five-foot putt on No. 7, a three-footer on No. 12 and a 25-footer on No. 18.

Larrieu, Walker Spike Sparklers

Nam. Walker and Schmidt would have met.

Walker's long leap and his second best of 54-6½ both bettered his pending American record of 54-4¼.

Sunshine with a fluctuating breeze prevailed for the first afternoon's events of the twn-day meet before a crowd of 12,500.

In an afternoon on which American stars planned outstanding performances as a challenge to the Iron Curtain countries, seven Edwards Stadium records were broken and two equalled.

In addition to those of Larrieu and Walker, marks were set by Ed Red, Pasadena, with a 270-4 javelin throw; Al Oerter, New York, with 205-6½ in the discus; Paul Wilson, Downey, and Bob Seagren, Glendale, each 16-6 in the pole vault; Pat Traynor, 49er Track Club of Long Beach, 8:47.2 in the 3,000 meter steeplechase, and the U.S. "A" 400 meter relay team.

The 400-meter foursome of George Anderson, Harold Busby, Tom Jones and Jim Hines was only one-tenth second off the world record, winning in 39.1.

Pert Charlette Cooke, the 18-year-old speedster from Los Angeles, made a runaway of the women's 400-meter event in 53.8, just four-tenths off her pending American record.

Charlie Greene of Nebraska won the 100 meter dash in 10.3, with Anderson of Southern University second in 10.4.

One of the day's best marks was a 45.7 400 meters by Lee Evans of San Jose City College.

He whipped a pair of the world's best. Theron Lewis, the small college champion, was second in 46.3, and Bob Frey of UCLA, AAWU titlist, was third in the same time.

U.S. Guys, Gals Hold Lead in Mexican Track Meet

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The United States, represented by two California squads, held the lead in both men's and women's divisions going into the second day of the Mexican Youth Institute International track meet Saturday, with hopes for continued success riding with the girls team from Mt. San Antonio College.

Mt. San Antonio and Cal State at San Diego are representing the U.S. in the four-nation meet against Mexico, Guatemala and Honduras.

Bradley Baer of San Diego State turned in a heave of 48-1 for the only first-place finish by an American on the men's side and Sherry Calvent of Mt. SAC put 39 feet for the girls' honors.

San Diego State held the lead in the men's standings with Mt. SAC in third place behind the University of Mexico.

Linda Greene of the Long Beach Comets won the 400-meter dash in 58.7. There are seven more women's events scheduled today and five for the men.

Arnie Set for All-Out Bid in PGA

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Defending champion Dave Marr heads a field of 171 of the nation's foremost golfers for the PGA championship starting Thursday and, of them all, Arnold Palmer will try the hardest to win it.

Because it's the only major title he never has won, Palmer has made no secret of the fact that "I'll give it everything extra I can."

"I really want this one," said Palmer, who is determined to join the select field of golfers who have accomplished the professional "Grand Slam."

Jack Nicklaus joined the group earlier this month when he won the British Open championship. Last year, Gary Player made it when he captured the U.S. Open.

BEFORE Nicklaus and Player, only the veteran Gene Sarazen and Ben Hogan had won the four big ones—the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the PGA.

"It seems to me it's my turn to make it now," declared Palmer, hoping that he will overcome the back nine jitters that plagued him in the U.S. Open last month and the British Open this month.

"I don't regard it as a particular mental hazard," said Palmer, "but I must admit I've been thinking about it."

RICH ROBERTS

Gillman's On the Grill, Man

"I don't worry about the image. All I worry about is winning games."—Sid Gillman, coach of the San Diego Chargers.

ESCONDIDO—Sid Gillman is in a bigger hurry sitting still than anyone you ever saw.

A meeting with his assistant coaches is just breaking up, and the movie projector is still hot. So's Gillman.

The pose is casual—bermudas, a gray coach's T-shirt, one foot propped up—but it wouldn't foot anybody.

The cigar comes to the mouth too often, the hand slaps the thigh impatiently, the left leg twitches out a mad 16-to-the-bar beat that screams time's a-wasting.

It's rush hour for football, with too many things to do, too many things to think about doing.

"There's just no time," he says. "We're just fighting time all the time. We always wish we had more time."

Gillman, frankly, is not a newspaperman's dream, and the feeling, we suppose, is mutual. It was true in L.A. with the Rams and there have been times when it was true in San Diego.

Even at 55, with a comfortable home high on a hill overlooking Mission Valley, he hasn't mellowed noticeably.

It's just that Sid has refused to compromise his intense approach to the game for the sake of being popular. But, then, winning coaches are seldom unpopular with owners.

A BIT OF LEGEND has built up around the man... how he left his bride sitting in the rain in her wedding dress while he conducted practice... how he spent their last $25 back in the Depression to buy a used projector for watching football films... or how he wouldn't cut a rookie until he had finishing taping the kid's prize collection of jazz records.

True or not, it just goes to show that under this rough exterior there beats a heart of stone.

Jazz is one of a limited list of hobbies Sid allows himself, when he isn't looking at old football films, that is—jazz, golf and grandchildren. He has six.

"Jazz has changed more than football," Gillman says, reflecting his 32 years as a coach. "In style, it's completely different, going through various stages. It's—well, right at the moment I'm more interested in football."

He snaps back quickly to the business at hand, which is sifting through more than a half-hundred youngsters who were disillusioned into thinking that pro football might be fun. There won't be many left when he gets through.

"It's not difficult," Sid says. "Somebody can't fit into the organization, the simplest thing to do—the fairest thing to him—is to let 'im go quick.

"They don't always understand. They go home and generally say, well, they didn't get a chance. You know, they have so much pride they hate to admit that possibly they didn't have the ability. But we don't worry about what they say."

GILLMAN'S TASK is even easier than usual this year. Despite the quantity of rookies, there is little quality. The Chargers' first six draft picks, eight of their first nine, were signed by the other league.

That is, it was the "other league" when they signed.

"The National Football League joined the American Football League!" is the way Sid sees it. "I'm all for it. Pro football in another year would have been on the way out."

However, Gillman is reluctant to declare the AFL competitive right now.

"That remains to be seen. I think we'll do all right. It depends upon our next expansion program. If we're silly enough to go the same route as we did the last trip (when the AFL took in Miami) we're gonna be hurt by it. The NFL gave nothing away (when it went into Atlanta). We were all hurt because we all gave up real good football players."

PERHAPS THE CHARGERS were hurt more than other AFL clubs because they also had lost their two giant linemen, Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison, who had played out their contracts to look for better deals. But Sid doesn't like to talk about that.

Nor will he admit to anticipation of meeting the Rams in an exhibition game next year.

"Well, that's just about what it will be," he shrugs, "another pre-season game. If we put any more emotional stress on it we're going to suffer during our later games."

Gillman is very large on the emotions of his players.

"We always fear that we haven't got everything done... always concerned about how the mental processes are going to work. This is the biggest concern. It's a simple job to prepare a team technically. We know what we have to do and we just go out on the field and drill it. But how do you drill for emotions?"

FANS GET EMOTIONAL, too, but Sid is better prepared to cope with this.

"We've got excellent fans. They're a sophisticated fan. We don't have the usual pro fan. Our fans come dressed up to the game. It's kind of a social event. They're very knowledgeable and appreciate good football.

"To assume that they don't boo is not realistic. But it's all right, as long as they pay their way into the stadium."

The Chargers number among their fans pro golfers Billy Casper and Phil Rodgers, a source of envy for Gillman.

"We go at it pretty good in the off-season, too, but we get our share of golf," he says. "I always get pretty good just about the time football season rolls around."

But again it's July and training camp and Sid is off looking for his assistants.

"They put in just as much time as I do," he says crisply, "or they wouldn't be here."

CAN NEW TALENT RESURRECT RAMS?

Allen Corners Market on Backers

By AL LARSON

As far as George Allen's concerned, the name of the game is defense.

Some people collect watch charms, but the Rams' new coach is intent on cornering the market on linebackers.

The latest addition is Myron Pottios, who gives Allen four backers with all-pro credentials. Last season the Rams were weak in this area, but it became evident that this situation was not so much from weakness as from inexperience.

Now with Pottios, Bill George, Pardee and Maxie Baughan, Allen has corrected a major problem area.

Pottios, 6-2, 240, will be playing his fifth season in the league. He has appeared in three Pro Bowl games, but the middle backer from Van Voorhis, Pa., has been hampered by injuries nearly every season.

Did the trade come as a surprise?

"I was doing some fishing down in Macon, Ga., when I got a phone call that the Steelers wanted to talk to me," Pottios said.

"I called Danny Rooney and he told me that I'd been traded to the Rams. It really surprised me, but it'll give me a chance to be reunited with some old friends.

"I played with Joe Carollo and Joe Scibelli at Notre Dame, and have known some of the other guys."

Quickie quotes from defensive backs:

Irv Cross — "Measured speed is fine, but quickness, the ability to accelerate instantly, and experience are the things that count."

Eddie Meador — "I think almost every defensive back in the NFL could play offense. But not many offensive backs could play defense."

Players from 171 colleges and universities are among the veterans who have reported to NFL training camps.

In a game that took four days to complete, the Dallas Cowboys defeated the Ram rookies, 33-25.

Playing exclusively on offense Wednesday, the Rams scored four times. Then Saturday it was Dallas' turn to control the ball and the Cowboys punched over five touchdowns and added a 27-yard field goal by Chuck Durkee of Oklahoma State.

However, the Rams' defense did stiffen on several occasions as Kelton Winston of the Marines and George Youngblood of Cal State at L.A. intercepted passes and Steve Speers of Temple recovered two fumbles.

Dallas used three quarterbacks, including veterans Jerry Rhome and Craig Morton. Rhome completed 5 of 14 attempts for 121 yards and two touchdowns. Morton connected on 5 of 6 for 72 yards while rookie Alex Bowden zeroed in on 4 of 8 for 65 yards and one TD.

Dick Smith of Northwestern pulled in touchdown strikes of 24 and 42 yards from Rhome.

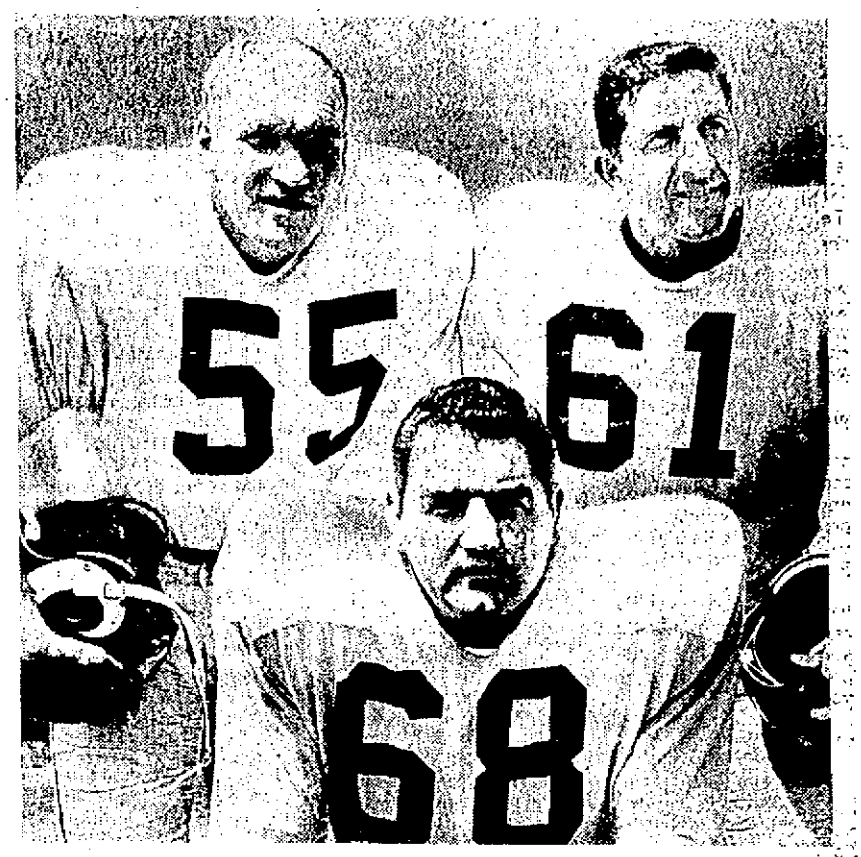

Jim Sidle of Auburn went over on a 10-yard run, Harmon Brannan of So. Mississippi ran two yards and Tom Richardson of Jackson State scored on a 27-yard pass from Bowden.

Brannan was the leading rusher, gaining 63 yards on 14 carries. Les Shy of Cal State of Long Beach picked up 26 yards on 6 carries.

Coach Allen was particularly pleased with the work of Darrell Hoover of Arizona State, Youngblood and Winston. "I thought all three played pretty well. Hoover and Youngblood were each in on seven tackles. We found out what we wanted to know."

Ram linebacker Doug January sustained a broken left hand and will be sidelined several weeks.

The final contingent of Ram veterans will check into camp today.

RAMS' NEWEST LINEBACKER CLUB

The Rams have plugged a woeful trouble spot on defense by acquiring veteran linebackers Maxie Baughan (55), Bill George (61) and Myron Pottios (68). The trio combines 24 years of NFL experience.

TUNISIAN STAR AT COLISEUM

The international track and field meet next weekend at the Coliseum has taken on even more of a foreign flavor with the announced appearance of Tunisia's Mohammed Gamoudi.

Gamoudi, winner of the Helms World Trophy for Africa in 1964, was the runner who challenged Billy Mills in the stretch run of the 10,000 meters in the Olympic Games at Tokyo.

Australian distance star Ron Clarke will challenge Gamoudi over 5,000 meters, along with New Zealanders Bill Baillie, Geoff Byne and Jeff Julian, Derek Graham of Great Britain, and American George Young.

Nichols Takes Lead in Minnesota Golf

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Bobby Nichols, using a new putter and a different driver, shot a 5-under-par 66 Saturday to barge into the 54-hole lead in the $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic.

Nichols' three-round total of 200, 13 under par, wrested the lead from Jacky Cupit.

Nichols, who was behind Cupit by three strokes at the start of the third round, scrambled all over Keller golf course, but never took a bogey.

"I was chipping real well," said Nichols, former PGA champion who hasn't won a tournament since the Houston Golf Classic last year.

"I'm just thrilled to death with my new putter," he added. "It doesn't have a name, and you can't describe it. I don't know who makes it. It looks like a branding iron.

"I actually putted better Friday, and I drove the ball very poorly today. But I think I manage to play better in the rough anyway."

Nichols birdied the 18th while Cupit was taking a bogey on it. Cupit drove into the right trap, then missed the green and two-putted.

U.S. Open champion Billy Casper ballooned to a two-over 73 and shot up to 207 Saturday.

Nichols missed five greens, including four in a row, and said he wasn't hitting his drives well at all.

Nichols hit 15-foot putts on the first two holes for birdies that got him off to a fast start. He added birds with a five-foot putt on No. 7, a three-footer on No. 12 and a 25-footer on No. 18.

Larrieu, Walker Spike Sparklers

Nam, Walker and Schmidt would have met.

Walker's long leap and his second best of 54-6½ both bettered his pending American record of 54-4¼.

Sunshine with a fluctuating breeze prevailed for the first afternoon's events of the two-day meet before a crowd of 12,500.

In an afternoon on which American stars planned outstanding performances as a challenge to the Iron Curtain countries, seven Edwards Stadium records were broken and two equalled.

In addition to those of Larrieu and Walker, marks were set by Ed Red, Pasadena, with a 270-4 javelin throw; Al Oerter, New York, with 205-6½ in the discus; Paul Wilson, Downey, and Bob Seagren, Glendale, each 16-6 in the pole vault; Pat Traynor, 49er Track Club of Long Beach, 8:47.2 in the 3,000 meter steeplechase, and the U.S. "A" 400 meter relay team.

The 400-meter foursome of George Anderson, Harold Busby, Tom Jones and Jim Hines was only one-tenth second off the world record, winning in 39.1.

Pert Charlette Cooke, the 18-year-old speedster from Los Angeles, made a runaway of the women's 400-meter event in 53.8, just four-tenths off her pending American record.

Charlie Greene of Nebraska won the 100 meter dash in 10.3, with Anderson of Southern University second in 10.4.

One of the day's best marks was a 45.7 400 meters by Lee Evans of San Jose City College.

Yankees First to Number Players

BASEBALL LORE: Some questions submitted by readers in recent days led to our researching on the national pastime. Following are a few facts we uncovered which might prove interesting to you.

One reader wanted to know which major league team was the first to number its players. That distinction goes to the New York Yankees, who used numbers for the first time on April 18, 1929 (opening day).

The Yankees assigned single digits to their regulars according to the batting order.

The numbers that year were "1" for the leadoff batter, Earle Combs, cf; 2, Mark Koenig, 3b; 3, Babe Ruth, rf; 4, Lou Gehrig, 1b; 5, Bob Meusel, lf; 6, Tony Lazzeri, 2b; 7, Leo Durocher, ss, and 8, Johnny Grabowski, c. Reserve catchers Benny Bengough and Bill Dickey wore Nos. 9 and 10. Dickey, of course, was destined to become the regular catcher early that season.

The pitchers were numbered from 11 to 20 excluding 13, while other reserves took numbers from 21 to 32.

MENTION OF NO. 13 brings to mind one of the most famous episodes dealing with numerology in baseball history.

It concerned Mort Cooper, the St. Louis Cardinal pitcher who changed uniform numbers with each victory he racked up.

The No. 13 jinx had plagued Cooper throughout his career and he headed into the 1942 season determined to break it. He had never been able to win more than 13 games—being stopped at that number no less than three times.

Strangely enough, No. 13 also happened to be his uniform number.

In August of '42, Mort reached 13 victories once again. This time he hit upon an idea to combat the jinx.

He exchanged his uniform No. 13 for No. 14 and promptly won his 14th game. For his next start, Mort borrowed No. 15 from his brother, Walker, and won again.

MORT WENT BACK TO NO. 14 briefly for a relief appearance and was charged with his seventh loss.

Cooper immediately returned to the progressive number system and didn't lose again . . winding up with a 22-7 record, a pennant for the Cardinals and the Most Valuable Player award for himself.

In the World Series, he went back to No. 14 and was charged with the Cards' only loss.

Ironically, the righthander returned to the 13-victory level in his last successful season in the majors—1946 with the Braves.

Trying a comeback with the Cubs in 1949, Mort was bombed in a single appearance and received his final release on . . . yes, you guessed it, the 13th of May.

WITH FOUR PITTSBURGH PIRATES heading the National League batting averages at the All-Star break, many fans have wondered about other teams with many hitters belting the ball so well.

One of the most fabulous hitting teams of all-time was the 1930 Philadelphia Phillies, who had eight men hit .313 or better . . . Chuck Klein, .386; Lefty O'Doul, .383; Pinky Whitney, .342; Barney Friberg, .341; Harry McCurdy, .331; Don Hurst, .327; John Sherlock, .324, and Spud Davis, .313.

The strange thing about the 1930 Phils, who had a remarkable team batting average of .315, is that they finished dead last with a 52-102 record. They had no pitching to go with their great slugging.

The record for most .300 hitters on one team is 11, a mark shared by the champion Cardinals of the same year, and the Philadelphia Athletics of 1927.

DESPITE THEIR BRILLIANT HITTING in '27, the best the Athletics could do in the American League race was finish a "poor" second.

For '27 was the year the Yankees won the pennant by 19 games with a 110-44 record.

The '27 Yankees, generally considered the greatest team in baseball history, had five men hit over .300 that season—all of them regulars. They were Gehrig, .373; Ruth and Combs, .356; Meusel, .337, and Lazzeri, .309.

Bulk of the club's power came from four men. Ruth hit his record 60 homers and batted in 164 runs; Gehrig had 47 homers and 175 RBI; Lazzeri, 18 home run and 102 RBI, and Meusel, eight homers and 103 RBI.

Four pitchers won 78 games among them—Waite Hoyt, 22; Wilcy Moore and Herb Pennock, each 19, and Urban Shocker, 18. Two others—Dutch Ruether (13) and George Pipgras (10)—accounted for 23 more.

Reichardt's Hit Saves Angels' Face

Sanford (9-2): "The old guys, especially those who knew him in the National League, have always admired Rig. It is a pleasure for us to contribute."

Said newest Angel, Minnie Rojas (3-2, 5 saves, 1.13 ERA): "The manager has confidence in me and I have confidence in the manager."

It is becoming difficult for the manager to retain his confidence in Chance, although Dean would have escaped the first unscathed had it not been for two errors by Jim Fregosi. Thus, Joe Foy's double and Mike Ryan's triple provided Santiago a cushion of five springs.

"I can't get upset with Fregosi," said Rig. "He's played better than anyone in the league during the last six weeks. This was just one of those games."

Santiago (9-6) has not often pitched one like it. In fact, he was 0-6 with Kansas City in 1964 and just 6-3 at Vancouver last season. The A's sold him to Boston in October of last year.

A 25-year-old righthanded native of Juan Diaz, Puerto Rico, Santiago walked four, received superlative support from third baseman Foy and shortstop Rico Petrocelli, and was nearing Cooperstown when Reichardt slapped a slider six inches shy of Yaz's desperate dive.

"He had great stuff and great control," said Rick. "I was just trying to hit the ball hard somewhere."

The shadow of Sandy Koufax hung over the Big A. Emulating Sandy, Santiago revealed that he now ices his arm after every start. It was, however, Reichardt who dispayed a cold, cold heart.

ANGEL OF DAY

RICK REICHARDT broke up no-hitter with seventh inning single and walked as Red Sox bounced Angels, 7-1.

Airline strike prevents Senators from arriving before 10:30 at International Airport. They will miss batting and infield practice . . . Angels will fly the Dodger charter to Cleveland tonight, opening 10-game trip Monday night . . . Reichardt recalled busting up Milt Pappas' no-hit bid after 7⅔ innings last year. George Scott and Joe Adcock each hit two homers off Peller, who also helped present plaques to all-CIF and all-City performers during special pre-game hoop-la.

Maury Limps Home Early to Repair Sprained Knee

NEW YORK — Dodger captain Maury Wills, injured in Friday night's game against the Mets, was flown to Los Angeles Saturday night and will miss the remaining games of the trip.

Wills sprained his right knee while diving after Mets pitcher Jack Fisher to complete a rundown play in the fourth inning Friday night. An inning later he pulled up lame while attempting to run out a bunt.

Wills said Friday, "It doesn't hurt," and he expected to be in the lineup Saturday. However, the knee stiffened overnight and Wills limped into the clubhouse.

Dr. Peter LaMotte of the Mets examined the star shortstop Saturday and recommended the trip home. Dodger trainers agreed because "we don't have the equipment to treat him here."

Wills has an appointment this morning with Dodger orthopedic specialist Dr. Robert Kerlan.

John Kennedy took over at shortstop and Jim Gilliam was at third base Saturday.

CASEY GIVEN HOME PLATE IN SALUTE

Casey Stengel was given a home plate autograph by more than 100 writers and baseball friends Saturday in a ceremony at Glendale's Stengel Field.

The ceremony at the little league field was a preview of Stengel's induction into baseball's Hall of Fame, set for July 25 in Cooperstown, N. Y.

Stengel told the little leaguers to "learn how to do everything right.

"Some of my best players weren't good at too much but did a little of everything all right and we made them stars," he said.

Richey Storms Into Clay Finals

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Second-seeded Cliff Richey and lanky weekend player Frank Froehling scored straight set victories Saturday to enter today's finals of the National Clay Courts tennis tournament.

Richey, the third seed in the country from Dallas, had no trouble whatever in disposing of Marty Riessen, Evanston, Ill., 6-1, 6-1, 6-3, in a match punctuated with temper flareups.

In the early part of the game, Riessen threw his racquet against a fence and Richey told the crowd to "shut up." Richey, on the following point, apologized to the crowd and settled down to a cool and calculated game that baffled the fourth-seeded Riessen.

Froehling, seeded eighth here although he says he's only a weekend player, had upset top-seeded Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Friday, and became the upset man of the tourney Saturday with a 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 victory over second foreign seed Owen Davidson of Australia.

Froehling, Coral Gables, Fla., broke the left-handed Australian in Saturday's first game of the first set, and Davidson never held a set lead after that until he successfully held service in the first game of the third set.

Miss Nancy Richey, Cliff's older sister, downed Kerry Melville of Australia 6-3, 6-4, to make the finals of the women's singles. Miss Richey will face second-seeded Stephanie De Fina, Hollywood, Fla., who downed Esme Emanuel, South Africa, 6-3, 7-5.

The women's doubles championships went to an Australian team for the first time in the clay court's history. Kerry Melville and Karen Krantzcke defeated the South African team of Miss Emanuel and Maryne Godwin, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

In men's doubles, Dennis Ralston teamed with Clark Graebner of Beechwood, O., to defeat the Australian team of Davidson and Bill Bowrey, 6-3, 10-8, to gain the finals. They meet Charles Pasarell and Froehling for the title.

Kaser Wins U.S. Public Links Golf

MILWAUKEE (AP) — In a match that warmed the hearts of many a duffer, Monty Kaser of Wichita, Kan., defeated Dave Ojala of Two Harbors, Minn., 6 and 5 in a scheduled 36-hole duel and won the National Public Links Golf Championship Saturday.

Kaser, 24, a payroll timekeeper at an aircraft factory, was nine over par for the Brown Deer course before closing out on the 31st hole with a par 4 as Ojala took one of his many bogeys.

Ojala was 17 over for the distance.

Ojala, 21, a pharmacy student at the University of Minnesota, never recovered when Kaser won the second, third and fourth holes in the morning round and took a 4-up lead at the luncheon break.

'68 Olympic Building Plans Finally Okayed

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, newly-appointed head of the 1968 Olympic Games organizing committee, said Saturday that Mexican president Gustavo Diaz Ordaz has approved the construction program for the world contest.

Ramirez Vazquez, a world-renowned Mexican architect, took over direction of the games preparation following Friday night's surprise "leave of absence" granted ex-president of Mexico Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

As president from 1958 to 1964, Lopez Mateos sponsored efforts which resulted in Mexico being chosen for the 1968 games. He was named a year ago to head the organizing committee but developed a brain clot that required surgery. The reason given for his separation was his recovery has not been going as well as desired.

Ramirez Vazquez said details of the program will be announced in the near future, and that work is being started.

During the last two years strong opposition had developed, especially among private enterprise organizations, against Mexico staging the Olympics. They argued the expenditure was too great a burden for a country that needed schools and hospitals.

TOP JUNIORS IN VIRGINIA INVITATIONAL

Gary Sanders of Los Coyotes CC, who won the Southern California Junior golf championship at El Niguel Friday, will play in Long Beach Monday.

Sanders, 17, is scheduled to tee off at 8 a.m. in the Virginia CC invitational, which has in the field all of the top Long Beach juniors, including defending champion Fred Good of Recreation Park.

SANDERS

Good won the first flight at El Niguel by a whopping 6-5 score in the title match.

only .233 last season, has soared to .302 with a .370 splurge since June 1 when he decided to become his own hitting coach. He decided there was too much emphasis on batting practice, so he skipped his against "that soft stuff."

"When you practice against that soft stuff our extra men throw, your timing is all off when you face the real thing. I wish our pitchers would throw batting practice instead of just tossing on the sidelines. It would help them as well as our hitters."

Roseboro has struck out only 10 times in the last 40 games.

There must be something to Roseboro's no-batting-practice theory because Walter Alston decided to skip Saturday's pre-game hitting.

The Dodgers didn't get much batting during the game, either. But it wasn't all their fault because six Met pitchers gave up 10 walks.

Starter and loser Dennis Ribant (4-4) had the best control, but he allowed five of the Dodgers' seven hits and was charged with four runs in two innings.

Rob Gardner and Jack Hamilton walked five and made two wild pitches in the ninth as the Dodgers scored thrice with the aid of only one hit, a single by Jim Lefebvre.

The Dodgers sent eight men to bat against Ribant, Bill Hepler and Darrell Sutherland, but scored only twice and two hits in the third inning.

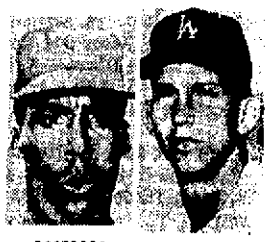

Lou Johnson, hitting in his ninth consecutive game as a starter, doubled off third baseman Chuck Hiller's glove for one run and Lefebvre drew a bases-full walk to make it 4-0. The Dodgers were held to two singles the rest of the way.

Sutton had a two-hitter going into the eighth and allowed five in all. A ground-rule double by Larry Elliot, a bloop single by Cleon Jones and Boyer's sacrifice fly produced the Mets' run in the ninth.

The Dodgers play a doubleheader in Philadelphia today with Claude Osteen (11-7) and Joe Moeller (0-1) pitching against Chris Short (10-5) and Ray Herbert (1-3).

In the trip final Monday, it will be Sandy Koufax against Larry Jackson.

Yankees First to Number Players

BASEBALL LORE: Some questions submitted by readers in recent days led to our researching on the national pastime. Following are a few facts we uncovered which might prove interesting to you.

One reader wanted to know which major league team was the first to number its players. That distinction goes to the New York Yankees, who used numbers for the first time on April 18, 1929 (opening day).

The Yankees assigned single digits to their regulars according to the batting order.

The numbers that year were "1" for the leadoff batter, Earle Combs, cf; 2, Mark Koenig, 3b; 3, Babe Ruth, rf; 4, Lou Gehrig, 1b; 5, Bob Meusel, lf; 6, Tony Lazzeri, 2b; 7, Leo Durocher, ss, and 8, Johnny Grabowski, c. Reserve catchers Benny Bengough and Bill Dickey wore Nos. 9 and 10. Dickey, of course, was destined to become the regular catcher early that season.

The pitchers were numbered from 11 to 20 excluding 13, while other reserves took numbers from 21 to 32.

MENTION OF NO. 13 brings to mind one of the most famous episodes dealing with numerology in baseball history.

It concerned Mort Cooper, the St. Louis Cardinal pitcher who changed uniform numbers with each victory he racked up.

The No. 13 jinx had plagued Cooper throughout his career and he headed into the 1942 season determined to break it. He had never been able to win more than 13 games—being stopped at that number no less than three times.

Strangely enough, No. 13 also happened to be his uniform number.

In August of '42, Mort reached 13 victories once again. This time he hit upon an idea to combat the jinx.

He exchanged his uniform No. 13 for No. 14 and promptly won his 14th game. For his next start, Mort borrowed No. 15 from his brother, Walker, and won again.

MORT WENT BACK TO NO. 14 briefly for a relief appearance and was charged with his seventh loss.

Cooper immediately returned to the progressive number system and didn't lose again . . winding up with a 22-7 record, a pennant for the Cardinals and the Most Valuable Player award for himself.

In the World Series, he went back to No. 14 and was charged with the Cards' only loss.

Ironically, the righthander returned to the 13-victory level in his last successful season in the majors—1946 with the Braves.

Trying a comeback with the Cubs in 1949, Mort was bombed in a single appearance and received his final release on . . . yes, you guessed it, the 13th of May.

WITH FOUR PITTSBURGH PIRATES heading the National League batting averages at the All-Star break, many fans have wondered about other teams with many hitters belting the ball so well.

One of the most fabulous hitting teams of all-time was the 1930 Philadelphia Phillies, who had eight men hit .313 or better . . . Chuck Klein, .386; Lefty O'Doul, .383; Pinky Whitney, .342; Barney Friberg, .341; Harry McCurdy, .331; Don Hurst, .327; John Sherlock, .324, and Spud Davis, .313.

The strange thing about the 1930 Phils, who had a remarkable team batting average of .315, is that they finished dead last with a 52-102 record. They had no pitching to go with their great slugging.

The record for most .300 hitters on one team is 11, a mark shared by the champion Cardinals of the same year, and the Philadelphia Athletics of 1927.

DESPITE THEIR BRILLIANT HITTING in '27, the best the Athletics could do in the American League race was finish a "poor" second.

For '27 was the year the Yankees won the pennant by 19 games with a 110-44 record.

The '27 Yankees, generally considered the greatest team in baseball history, had five men hit over .300 that season—all of them regulars. They were Gehrig, .373; Ruth and Combs, .356; Meusel, .337, and Lazzeri, .309.

Bulk of the club's power came from four men. Ruth hit his record 60 homers and batted in 164 runs; Gehrig had 47 homers and 175 RBI; Lazzeri, 18 home run and 102 RBI, and Meusel, eight homers and 103 RBI.

Four pitchers won 78 games among them—Waite Hoyt, 22; Wilcy Moore and Herb Pennock, each 19, and Urban Shocker, 18. Two others—Dutch Ruether (13) and George Pipgras (10)—accounted for 23 more.

CASEY GIVEN HOME PLATE IN SALUTE

Casey Stengel was given a home plate autograph by more than 100 writers and baseball friends Saturday in a ceremony at Glendale's Stengel Field.

The ceremony at the little league field was a preview of Stengel's induction into baseball's Hall of Fame, set for July 25 in Cooperstown, N. Y.

Stengel told the little leaguers to "learn how to do everything right.

"Some of my best players weren't good at too much but did a little of everything all right and we made them stars," he said.

Richey Storms Into Clay Finals

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Second-seeded Cliff Richey and lanky weekend player Frank Froehling scored straight set victories Saturday to enter today's finals of the National Clay Courts tennis tournament.

Richey, the third seed in the country from Dallas, had no trouble whatever in disposing of Marty Riessen, Evanston, Ill., 6-1, 6-1, 6-3, in a match punctuated with temper flareups.

In the early part of the game, Riessen threw his racquet against a fence and Richey told the crowd to "shut up." Richey, on the following point, apologized to the crowd and settled down to a cool and calculated game that baffled the fourth-seeded Riessen.

Froehling, seeded eighth here although he says he's only a weekend player, had upset top-seeded Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Friday, and became the upset man of the tourney Saturday with a 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 victory over second foreign seed Owen Davidson of Australia.

Froehling, Coral Gables, Fla., broke the left-handed Australian in Saturday's first game of the first set, and Davidson never held a set lead after that until he successfully held service in the first game of the third set.

Miss Nancy Richey, Cliff's older sister, downed Kerry Melville of Australia 6-3, 6-4, to make the finals of the women's singles. Miss Richey will face second-seeded Stephanie De Fina, Hollywood, Fla., who downed Esme Emanuel, South Africa, 6-3, 7-5.

The women's doubles championships went to an Australian team for the first time in the clay court's history. Kerry Melville and Karen Krantzcke defeated the South African team of Miss Emanuel and Maryne Godwin, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

In men's doubles, Dennis Ralston teamed with Clark Graebner of Beechwood, O., to defeat the Australian team of Davidson and Bill Bowrey, 6-3, 10-8, to gain the finals. They meet Charles Pasarell and Froehling for the title.

Kaser Wins U.S. Public Links Golf

MILWAUKEE (AP) — In a match that warmed the hearts of many a duffer, Monty Kaser of Wichita, Kan., defeated Dave Ojala of Two Harbors, Minn., 6 and 5 in a scheduled 36-hole duel and won the National Public Links Golf Championship Saturday.

Kaser, 24, a payroll timekeeper at an aircraft factory, was nine over par for the Brown Deer course before closing out on the 31st hole with a par 4 as Ojala took one of his many bogeys.

Ojala was 17 over for the distance.

Ojala, 21, a pharmacy student at the University of Minnesota, never recovered when Kaser won the second, third and fourth holes in the morning round and took a 4-up lead at the luncheon break.

'68 Olympic Building Plans Finally Okayed

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, newly-appointed head of the 1968 Olympic Games organizing committee, said Saturday that Mexican president Gustavo Diaz Ordaz has approved the construction program for the world contest.

Ramirez Vazquez, a world-renowned Mexican architect, took over direction of the games preparation following Friday night's surprise "leave of absence" granted ex-president of Mexico Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

As president from 1958 to 1964, Lopez Mateos sponsored efforts which resulted in Mexico being chosen for the 1968 games. He was named a year ago to head the organizing committee but developed a brain clot that required surgery. The reason given for his separation was his recovery has not been going as well as desired.

Ramirez Vazquez said details of the program will be announced in the near future, and that work is being started.

During the last two years strong opposition had developed, especially among private enterprise organizations, against Mexico staging the Olympics. They argued the expenditure was too great a burden for a country that needed schools and hospitals.

ARTHUR DALEY

Brooks Robinson Best Since Traynor

N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK—Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles came into the All-Star game as the major league leader in the key department, runs batted in. Then he used the game as a showcase for his extraordinary talents. He ripped out three hits, including a triple. He made three spectacular fielding plays. He was unanimously voted the outstanding performer of the mid-summer classic, a star among stars.

Baseball's best third baseman—he already is being compared with Pie Traynor, the Pirate nonpareil of yesteryear—accepted his designation with a quiet smile of satisfaction. Here's a guy who has life licked. He learned long ago to greet those twin imposters, triumph and disaster, with the same equanimity.

Such is his temperament, disposition, character and personality that he is fast establishing himself as the American League counterpart of Stan Musial, perhaps the best liked of all ball players by his fellow professionals, a group that is notoriously slow to engage in hero-worshiping to even the slightest degree. Brooks has the qualities that inspire popularity, respect and admiration.

LAST WINTER THE ORIOLES swung the deal of the decade—or maybe even of the century—when they sweet-talked the Cincinnati Reds into letting go of Frank Robinson, as lopsided a trade as ever was pulled. Once the season began the two Robinsons, Brooks and Frank, ripped the league apart to send Baltimore whirling toward a pennant. The average ball player would be envious of the newcomer who has taken away so much of the spotlight. But not Brooks.

"Frank makes us a better offensive ball club than we've ever been before," says Brooks with unselfish realism. "As far as I'm concerned, he's a better ball player than I am according to the batting averages. I've been No. 1 on this ball club and I've also been No. 2 behind Boog Powell and Jim Gentile.

"What's wrong with being No. 2? According to the ads, you just try harder. Frank has been good for me and we get along fine. We both sacrifice ourselves for the good of the team, and one reason I lead in runs batted in is because he's on base so much. But the way Boog has been going lately neither of us might make No. 1. Actually, it doesn't matter as long as we win the pennant."

His attitude is refreshing. But Brooks is a refreshing person in every respect. He was signed by the Orioles as an 18-year-old schoolboy from Little Rock in 1955, was shuttled back and forth to the minors, and withstood injury with a spartan fortitude. Here's a sample.

ONCE IN DETROIT HE CHASED a ball into a concrete ledge, which laid open his lower jaw and broke off parts of five teeth. He was semi-conscious on the ground when he heard the trainer's voice off in the distance.

"Call an ambulance," the trainer was saying. Brooks struggled to his feet.

"Didn't you ever see anyone shaken up before?" he asked. "Give me my glove and let's go on with this ball game."

With a bandage holding together his jaw. He came to bat in the next inning and drove in the winning run.

"I made a mistake," he said with his quiet smile, "in the first big league game I ever played. I was an 18-year-old kid who's just had a big year in the minors and I made two hits. I phoned my mother and dad to tell them that I was wasting my time in the minors. But I went 0 for 18, including 10 strikeouts, for the rest of the season. Then I suddenly realized that the big leagues mean work.

"I'VE BEEN WORKING HARD ever since. Then I slipped into that bad year in 1963. It really jolted me because I'd been making good progress up to then. In my final time at bat I made the biggest pressure hit of my career. I was batting .249, and anything under .250 was an utter disgrace. I just had to get a hit to raise my average to .251. So I did. If I remember correctly, it was off Denny McLain.

"At Vero Beach the next spring, I picked up a bat that Tommy Davis had been using. It was a little too heavy and a little too long for me. But I liked the feel of it and had my own model made to my own specifications. Everything got better after that."

It sure did. Brooks was too modest to mention a few facts. In that 1964 season, he batted .317 and was named the most valuable player in the American League. Now he and Frank are doing joint cannonading.

"They mean as much to the Orioles," says manager Hank Bauer, "as Mantle and Maris once meant to the Yankees. I just crank 'em up and turn 'em loose."

With them there's really not a No. 1 and a No. 2. They just take turns.

LONG BEACH YOUTH NATS' IRONMAN

Rate Casey Cox a 'Perfect Fireman'

WASHINGTON — "He's the kind of guy you like to have in your bullpen."

The speaker was Rube Walker, pitching coach for the Washington Senators. He was talking about Casey Cox, a strapping 24-year-old righthander who warmed up while Walker looked on.

"This kid has been a big help to the club," said Walker. "He's the perfect reliefer. He can pitch three or four days in a row if he has to, and he throws a good sinker ball. That's really all a good relief pitcher needs."

Walker's enthusiasm about the 6-foot, 5-inch, 200-pound Long Beach native is backed up by the statistics.

As of Friday, after the All-Star break, Cox had appeared in 41 of the Senators' 89 games more than any other pitcher. Cox' performance is even more impressive in light of the fact that the Senators are rich in relief pitching talent and he is only a rookie.

Cox has pitched 67⅔ innings while compiling a 2-3 won-lost record. He has given up 58 hits, 26 earned runs, 21 bases on balls, struck out 27 batters and has an earned run average of 3.44.

When Cox reported to the Senators' spring training camp in Florida, he didn't figure in manager Gil Hodges' 1966 plans.

"I wasn't counting on him, but he surprised us," Hodges commented. "He made the club in spring training. We certainly think highly of him now.

"He's got a good strong arm and he can throw every day. That's what this game has come to. You need fellows like that who can come in and bail out the starting pitcher."

Hodges, like his pitching coach, thinks Cox is more valuable to the team as a relief pitcher. "Your games are usually won or lost in the bullpen, and that's where he's been the most helpful to us."

He indicated that Cox would probably continue to pitch relief with little chance that he will be converted to a starting pitcher. At least not this year.

Cox thinks he is gaining confidence with each appearance. But he's found that unlike the minors, "your mistakes hurt you more in the big leagues."

His greatest thrill, Cox says, was his first major league win, which he received credit for when he beat Kansas City on Mother's Day.

Last month he got another big thrill as he pitched three strong innings against the California Angels at Anaheim as his family looked on.

He may get another chance to perform before the home folks today during the Senators' second visit to Anaheim.

A NAT WITH A BITE

WHEN YOU LEAD your team in pitching performances you've got to be in shape, so 24-year-old Casey Cox of Wilson High and Washington Senators puts in extra hours working under tutelage of pitching coach Rube Walker (above) and running with other pitchers (below). Manager Gil Hodges figures Cox may help shape a better future for Nats.

Majors or I'll Quit —Gentile

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) —Jim Gentile, banished to the minor leagues by the Houston Astros' says he will not play professional baseball next year unless he can return to the "good life" of the major leagues.

Astro manager Grady Hatton kicked Gentile off the Houston team when the slugger shattered a bat and bounced it past an umpire early last month.

The Astros sent Gentile to the Oklahoma City 89ers of the Pacific Coast League, and Hatton said the big first baseman would never play for him again in the majors.

"If I can't go back up, I'm quitting," Oklahoma Journal sports writer Doyal May quoted Gentile Saturday.

"They'd cut me $25,000 if I'd agree to play in the minors again," Gentile said. "Why, I couldn't take a cut like that. Nobody could."

Gentile said Oklahoma City fans "have been swell, but it's tough to play in the minors after the good life up there."

The 32-year-old former All-Star said he feared his playing days in the majors are over.

"It would be easier to accept if I was down here because I couldn't do the job in the big league" he said.

Outfield Astroturf Done; Test Tuesday

HOUSTON (AP)—A veteran outfielder believes the Astrodome's new synthetic outfield may make it tougher for a single to score a base runner from second base.

The $180,000 job of replacing the outfield's 90,000 square feet of natural grass with gigantic strips of tough nylon held together by zippers was completed Friday.

The Houston Astros and the Philadelphia Phillies meet Tuesday night in the first major league game to be played on a man-made outfield. The Astrodome's infield was converted to a nylon surface last March.

Gene Mauch, the Philadelphia manager is among those who have raised doubts about the new artificial grass known as Astroturf, but Jim Busby, Houston's third base coach and a major league outfielder 13 years, disagrees.

Mauch has expressed fear fraction will be a big problem and outfielders may have difficulty making quick starts and sudden turns and stops on such footing.

With manager Grady Hatton hitting fungoes, Busby went through an outfielder's toughest maneuvers and said the new surface is a great improvement.

"On the Astroturf you get a true hop on the ball," Busby said. "You just need to quicken your reactions for fielding quicker balls. I don't know why anyone won't like it."

Mamie's Hubby Wins Game, Hurt

LODI (UPI) — An overcapacity crowd Saturday night watched Lee Meyers pitch the Lodi Crushers to an 8-1 California League victory over the Reno Silver Sox while his actress wife, Mamie Van Doren, cheered in the stands.

Meyers — whose wife drew as much attention as the game — was hit in the foot in the fifth and sent to the hospital for X-rays. The injury didn't appear to be serious.

Shrine Grids Open Practice

By FRANK LIEBERMAN

Southern California's football inaugural takes place Thursday, July 28, at the Coliseum when the best of the California state preps clash in the 15th renewal of the Shrine North-South football contest.

The clubs arrived in Los Angeles Saturday. A kick-off luncheon at the Biltmore preceded visits to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. All proceeds from the clash will go to the hospital.

Today the teams will report to their training camps, the South at UCLA and the North at USC. Monday they will begin two-a-day drills to prepare for the classic. The game will be broadcast over KNX radio starting at 8:30.

Both coaches feel they can win, but also, all realize the underdogs in this annual game can easily come out on top.

Mentors for the North are Bob Muenter (Piedmont) and Bill Hume (Dos Palos). For the South Roy Jae (Reseda and Herb Hill, (Loara, Anaheim) will be at the helm.

The South leads in the series, having nabbed seven victories while losing four. There has been three ties, including last year's 7-7 knot.

Possibly the biggest upset came in 1957 when a record 85,931 gathered at the Coliseum to see the South's trio of Mickey Flynn, Randy Meadows and Jerry Mollett blanked by the North, 32-0.

Two touchdown underdogs, the North held the fauted trio to only 35 yards and the entire South contingent to only 57.

The Long Beach and Orange County areas will, as in previous games, be strongly represented.

In the past there have been such standouts as Gene Geselle (Anaheim '52), Gary Allen (Wilson '54), Dean Philpott (Anaheim '54), John Geyer (St. Anthony's '55), Bill Tomasic (St. Anthony's '56), Don Peter (Downey '56), Don Abbott (Anaheim '56), Dan Wasnick (St. Anthony's '56), Gary Frederick (Anaheim '57), Dave Okura (Downey '57), Jack Trumbo (Downey '57), Mickey Flynn (Anaheim '57) and Randy Meadows (Downey '57).

Shunned U.S. Cagers Head for N. Africa

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) —The U.S. College all-star basketball team will bypass Finland and journey directly to North Africa this week for a series of contests, having been shunned from Northern Europe by the refusal of Russian, Polish and Czechoslovakian teams to meet the U.S. contingent.

Col. Donald F. Hull, chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union, said he had to "regretfully cancel plans to take the team to Finland," and added, "it's not just a question of money, but time and geographical distance."

The U.S. team arrived in Munich from Vienna, where it downed the Austrian national team 104-81 earlier in the week, en route to Finland and what was to be the first stage of a prolonged tour of the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

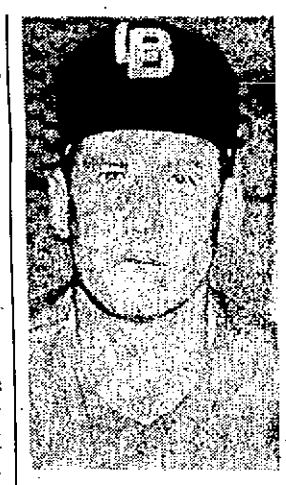

The Soviets, Poles and Czechs, however, cancelled the meeting last week, cabling the U.S. that "in view of the brutal escalation of the war and the recent bombing in North Viet Nam" they would not play against the American squad.

Finland had offered to pay for the American team's maintenance there, but not for transportation costs. The team is expected to fly to North Africa for games with Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia, but exact playing dates and locations were not disclosed.

Rodgers, Jones All-Star Pilots

Manager Joe Rodgers of the Long Beach Nitehawks and Dr. Dwane Jones of the Oxnard Kings will pilot the Western Softball Congress all-stars tonight as they meet the defending champion Pomona Bombers at Colonia Park in Oxnard.

The Stars were picked this year by the players. Such luminaries as Manny Ortega of Lakewood, Bob Wills of the Nitehawks, K. G. Fincher of the Gardena Merchants will be on the field.

LUCKY HUMISTON
'Calling All Players'

Softball Tourney in Long Beach

Veteran Western Softball Congress star Lucky Humiston will coach the Long Beach Naval Station Islanders softball team in tournament play next month.

Frank Kirkland, director of Special Services at LBNS, made the announcement Saturday.

Humiston, a captain in the Long Beach Fire Department, issued an invitation for tryouts for July 28.

Northern section play in the 11th District begins Aug. 15 and district competition on the 22nd, both in Long Beach.

"I plan to give anyone coming out a complete chance to make our team," Huiston said.

He brings a 15-year background in top-flight softball with him, having played with San Pedro, the Nitehawks and now with the Lakewood Lancers in the WSC.

"I will insist on an all-out effort, plenty of hustle, alertness on the bases and in the field," Humiston said.

Players interested are asked to contact Mary Spall, sports director of Special Services, on extension 1703.

Entries for L.B. Senior Golf Action Closing

Entry deadline is Monday for the fifth Long Beach Golfers Assn. Seniors tournament, although director Virgil Pylant will accept phone entries (GE 3-7036) the rest of the week.

The 36-hole medal play tournament begins Saturday at El Dorado. The age groups are 50-54, 55-59 and 60-up.

Salta Sweeps Ontario With 21 Base Hits

Salta Pontiac continued to make a runaway of the California Collegiate Baseball League Saturday by dumping Ontario, 7-1 and 7-4, in a doubleheader at Long Beach City College.

The twin wins boosted Salta's record to 14-1 in CCBL action. Over that period of time Joe Hicks' team has amassed a .350 team batting average, which was well shown Saturday with 21 hits in the two games.

John Clifton and John Hall picked up their fourth wins of the season. Hall had a one-hitter through seven innings before he tired and needed relief help.

ARTHUR DALEY

Brooks Robinson Best Since Traynor

N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK—Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles came into the All-Star game as the major league leader in the key department, runs batted in. Then he used the game as a showcase for his extraordinary talents. He ripped out three hits, including a triple. He made three spectacular fielding plays. He was unanimously voted the outstanding performer of the mid-summer classic, a star among stars.

Baseball's best third baseman—he already is being compared with Pie Traynor, the Pirate nonpareil of yesteryear—accepted his designation with a quiet smile of satisfaction. Here's a guy who has life licked. He learned long ago to greet those twin imposters, triumph and disaster, with the same equanimity.

Such is his temperament, disposition, character and personality that he is fast establishing himself as the American League counterpart of Stan Musial, perhaps the best liked of all ball players by his fellow professionals, a group that is notoriously slow to engage in hero-worshiping to even the slightest degree. Brooks has the qualities that inspire popularity, respect and admiration.

LAST WINTER THE ORIOLES swung the deal of the decade—or maybe even of the century—when they sweet-talked the Cincinnati Reds into letting go of Frank Robinson, as lopsided a trade as ever was pulled. Once the season began the two Robinsons, Brooks and Frank, ripped the league apart to send Baltimore whirling toward a pennant. The average ball player would be envious of the newcomer who has taken away so much of the spotlight. But not Brooks.

"Frank makes us a better offensive ball club than we've ever been before," says Brooks with unselfish realism. "As far as I'm concerned, he's a better ball player than I am according to the batting averages. I've been No. 1 on this ball club and I've also been No. 2 behind Boog Powell and Jim Gentile.

"What's wrong with being No. 2? According to the ads, you just try harder. Frank has been good for me and we get along fine. We both sacrifice ourselves for the good of the team, and one reason I lead in runs batted in is because he's on base so much. But the way Boog has been going lately neither of us might make No. 1. Actually, it doesn't matter as long as we win the pennant."

His attitude is refreshing. But Brooks is a refreshing person in every respect. He was signed by the Orioles as an 18-year-old schoolboy from Little Rock in 1955, was shuttled back and forth to the minors, and withstood injury with a spartan fortitude. Here's a sample.

ONCE IN DETROIT HE CHASED a ball into a concrete ledge, which laid open his lower jaw and broke off parts of five teeth. He was semi-conscious on the ground when he heard the trainer's voice off in the distance.

"Call an ambulance," the trainer was saying. Brooks struggled to his feet.

"Didn't you ever see anyone shaken up before?" he asked. "Give me my glove and let's go on with this ball game."

With a bandage holding together his jaw. He came to bat in the next inning and drove in the winning run.

"I made a mistake," he said with his quiet smile, "in the first big league game I ever played. I was an 18-year-old kid who's just had a big year in the minors and I made two hits. I phoned my mother and dad to tell them that I was wasting my time in the minors. But I went 0 for 18, including 10 strikeouts, for the rest of the season. Then I suddenly realized that the big leagues mean work.

"I'VE BEEN WORKING HARD ever since. Then I slipped into that bad year in 1963. It really jolted me because I'd been making good progress up to then. In my final time at bat I made the biggest pressure hit of my career. I was batting .249, and anything under .250 was an utter disgrace. I just had to get a hit to raise my average to .251. So I did. If I remember correctly, it was off Denny McLain.

"At Vero Beach the next spring, I picked up a bat that Tommy Davis had been using. It was a little too heavy and a little too long for me. But I liked the feel of it and had my own model made to my own specifications. Everything got better after that."

It sure did. Brooks was too modest to mention a few facts. In that 1964 season, he batted .317 and was named the most valuable player in the American League. Now he and Frank are doing joint cannonading.

"They mean as much to the Orioles," says manager Hank Bauer, "as Mantle and Maris once meant to the Yankees. I just crank 'em up and turn 'em loose."

With them there's really not a No. 1 and a No. 2. They just take turns.

LONG BEACH YOUTH NATS' IRONMAN

Rate Casey Cox a 'Perfect Fireman'

WASHINGTON — "He's the kind of guy you like to have in your bullpen."

The speaker was Rube Walker, pitching coach for the Washington Senators. He was talking about Casey Cox, a strapping 24-year-old righthander who warmed up while Walker looked on.

"This kid has been a big help to the club," said Walker. "He's the perfect reliefer. He can pitch three or four days in a row if he has to, and he throws a good sinker ball. That's really all a good relief pitcher needs."

Walker's enthusiasm about the 6-foot, 5-inch, 200-pound Long Beach native is backed up by the statistics.

As of Friday, after the All-Star break, Cox had appeared in 41 of the Senators' 89 games more than any other pitcher. Cox' performance is even more impressive in light of the fact that the Senators are rich in relief pitching talent and he is only a rookie.

Cox has pitched 67⅔ innings while compiling a 2-3 won-lost record. He has given up 58 hits, 26 earned runs, 21 bases on balls, struck out 27 batters and has an earned run average of 3.44.

When Cox reported to the Senators' spring training camp in Florida, he didn't figure in manager Gil Hodges' 1966 plans.

"I wasn't counting on him, but he surprised us," Hodges commented. "He made the club in spring training. We certainly think highly of him now.

"He's got a good strong arm and he can throw every day. That's what this game has come to. You need fellows like that who can come in and bail out the starting pitcher."

Hodges, like his pitching coach, thinks Cox is more valuable to the team as a relief pitcher. "Your games are usually won or lost in the bullpen, and that's where he's been the most helpful to us."

He indicated that Cox would probably continue to pitch relief with little chance that he will be converted to a starting pitcher. At least not this year.

Cox thinks he is gaining confidence with each appearance. But he's found that unlike the minors, "your mistakes hurt you more in the big leagues."

His greatest thrill, Cox says, was his first major league win, which he received credit for when he beat Kansas City on Mother's Day.

Last month he got another big thrill as he pitched three strong innings against the California Angels at Anaheim as his family looked on.

He may get another chance to perform before the home folks today during the Senators' second visit to Anaheim.

A NAT WITH A BITE

WHEN YOU LEAD your team in pitching performances you've got to be in shape, so 24-year-old Casey Cox of Wilson High and Washington Senators puts in extra hours working under tutelage of pitching coach Rube Walker (above) and running with other pitchers (below). Manager Gil Hodges figures Cox may help shape a better future for Nats.

Majors or I'll Quit —Gentile

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) —Jim Gentile, banished to the minor leagues by the Houston Astros' says he will not play professional baseball next year unless he can return to the "good life" of the major leagues.

Astro manager Grady Hatton kicked Gentile off the Houston team when the slugger shattered a bat and bounced it past an umpire early last month.

The Astros sent Gentile to the Oklahoma City 89ers of the Pacific Coast League, and Hatton said the big first baseman would never play for him again in the majors.

"If I can't go back up, I'm quitting," Oklahoma Journal sports writer Doyal May quoted Gentile Saturday.

"They'd cut me $25,000 if I'd agree to play in the minors again," Gentile said. "Why, I couldn't take a cut like that. Nobody could."

Gentile said Oklahoma City fans "have been swell, but it's tough to play in the minors after the good life up there."

The 32-year-old former All-Star said he feared his playing days in the majors are over.

"It would be easier to accept if I was down here because I couldn't do the job in the big league," he said.

Outfield Astroturf Done; Test Tuesday

HOUSTON (UPI)—A veteran outfielder believes the Astrodome's new synthetic outfield may make it tougher for a single to score a base runner from second base.

The $180,000 job of replacing the outfield's 90,000 square feet of natural grass with gigantic strips of tough nylon held together by zippers was completed Friday.

The Houston Astros and the Philadelphia Phillies meet Tuesday night in the first major league game to be played on a man-made outfield. The Astrodome's infield was converted to a nylon surface last March.

Gene Mauch, the Philadelphia manager is among those who have raised doubts about the new artificial grass known as Astroturf, but Jim Busby, Houston's third base coach and a major league outfielder 13 years, disagrees.

Mauch has expressed fear traction will be a big problem and outfielders may have difficulty making quick starts and sudden turns and stops on such footing.

With manager Grady Hatton hitting fungoes, Busby went through an outfielder's toughest maneuvers and said the new surface is a great improvement.

"On the Astroturf you get a true hop on the ball," Busby said. "You just need to quicken your reactions for fielding quicker balls. I don't know why anyone won't like it."

Mamie's Hubby Wins Game, Hurt

LODI (UPI) — An overcapacity crowd Saturday night watched Lee Meyers pitch the Lodi Crushers to an 8-1 California League victory over the Reno Silver Sox while his actress wife, Mamie Van Doren, cheered in the stands.

Meyers — whose wife drew as much attention as the game — was hit in the foot in the fifth and sent to the hospital for X-rays. The injury didn't appear to be serious.

DONNELL CULPEPPER

We Need Marina Reserved by Navy

By LEW ALLISON

Fishin' Around for Donnell Culpepper, on Vacation

Good news for boaters who live in Huntington Harbour and Sunset Beach was the announcement this week that a contract has been let for a new bridge across Anaheim Bay, between Seal Beach and Surfside. The new structure will give clearance to sail vessels wishing passage between the ocean side of the bay and the back bay areas of Sunset Beach.

But for the rest of the boating fraternity of our harbor area, forget it. Most of Anaheim Bay—the area from the ocean past Surfside Colony—is under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Naval Weapons Station, and these waters are barred to boaters unless they wear a decal the Navy issues to bona fide residents of Huntington Harbour or Sunset Beach who own a berth and a boat.

If a boat bears a decal, or if a resident of the area arranges with the Navy ahead of time to receive a guest arriving by water, the vessel traversing Anaheim Bay's restricted water from the tips of the jetties to 25th Street, Sunset Beach, may move sedately through. Any others intruding in the Navy's domain are subject to arrest, and are reported diligently. All traffic through this water is subject to strict speed limits.

As a matter of fact, the Navy is mighty strict about any kind of trespassing around its Seal Beach station. A fisherman or sightseers can't walk out on the rocks of either jetty at Anaheim landing, even though the west jetty is in the Sael Beach city limits on the public strand. Just what threat to U.S. security one of these intruders might be stretches the imagination, but there it is, and you're subject to fine if you cross the line.

Likewise, except for a small area under the bridge at the entrance, fishermen can't intrude on the Navy's side of Anaheim Bay at all—and the nine-square-mile station encompasses most of the bay and sloughs. Commercial bait men are barred from these richest areas, and there are no permits issued. No boat can move between the tips of the jetties to drop a line in the channel leading to the bay.

NOW IT ISN'T surprising that the Navy insists on strict security at its weapons station, although it is patently ridiculous to bar people from standing on Uncle Sam's jetty rocks. If one needs security clearance (!), okay, but one should be able to get permission to fish from the jetty where we fished for many years before the Navy cracked down.

But it's time for this area to take a good sharp look at the weapons station. It used to be isolated—as ammunition bunkers should be—except for inexpensive, scattered beach cottages. Now highly valuable developments are surrounding it—Huntington Harbour is an example. The Navy's fuel and weapons and ammunition are being surrounded by homes—and not cheap homes, either.

Miles of what should be a beautiful marina is restricted land and swamp, guarded against any and all intrusion.

This could be some of the most beautiful beach and commodious boat berths in California. Instead, it is tied up for military use. Long Beach Marina is crowded with waiting lists stretching years ahead, yet this large bay area lies undeveloped and untouchable.

Within the past few years beach property has rapidly filled up, and with the tremendous growth around Long Beach and Orange County the demand for recreation will multiply many times over. Surely there must be a better place for the Navy to store its weapons and fuel its warships than in the heart of this burgeoning suburban "bedroom" residential area.

Isn't it time we started looking toward development of Anaheim Bay for public use?

Sports In Brief

The modern relief pitcher enjoys a glittering status in baseball, comparable to the respect held by power sluggers.

Time was when the man in the bullpen was regarded as a pitcher who could not make the grade as a starter. But the Johnny Murphys, the Joe Pages, the Jim Konstantys' the Joe Blacks, the Sal Maglies and the Elroy Faces have added new dimensions to the stand-in role.

Clyde King, the scholarly pitching coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, believes the nucleus of a hurling staff is the bullpen.

"Check back through the years, and you'll find the pennant-winning teams had good bullpens," King said.

"In the old days relievers often were older pitchers who had lost their stuff. But today the men in the bullpen throw bullets. Of course, there are exceptions. Stu Miller, Hoyt Wilhelm and Face don't blaze 'em in anymore. But they still know how to pitch."

Commission Sets New Dove Dates

Split seasons for dove and bandtail pigeon hunting were set for Friday in a round-robin telephone "conference" called by the five members of the State Fish and Game Commission.

The commissioners marked off the two dove seasons for the Colardo River strip from Sept. 1 to 30 and Dec. 10 to 18. The earlier dates were established to coincide with the Arizona September season. For the rest of California, the dates will be Sept. 3 to Oct. 2, and the same Dec. 10 to 18.

Limits will be 12 doves per day, or 24 in possession any day except opening day.

The bandtail pigeon seasons will be Oct. 1-30 in the northern counties and Dec. 17-Jan. 15 in the south.

LONG BEACH, ORANGE WELL REPRESENTED

Shrine Grids Open Practice

By FRANK LIEBERMAN

Southern California's football inaugural takes place Thursday, July 28, at the Coliseum when the best of the California state preps clash in the 15th renewal of the Shrine North-South football contest.

The clubs arrived in Los Angeles Saturday. A kick-off Juncheon at the Biltmore preceded visits to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. All proceeds from the clash will go to the hospital.

Today the teams will report to their training camps, the South at UCLA and the North at USC. Monday they will begin two-a-day drills to prepare for the classic. The game will be broadcast over KNX radio starting at 8:30.

Both coaches feel they can win, but also, all realize the underdogs in this annual game can easily come out on top.

Mentors for the North are Bob Muenter (Piedmont) and Bill Hume (Dos Palos). For the South Roy Jae (Reseda and Herb Hill, (Loara, Anaheim) will be at the helm.

The South leads in the series, having nabbed seven victories while losing four. There has been three ties, including last year's 7-7 knot.

Possibly the biggest upset came in 1957 when a record 85,931 gathered at the Coliseum to see the South's trio of Mickey Flynn, Randy Meadows and Jerry Mollett blanked by the North, 32-0.

Two touchdown underdogs, the North held the tauted trio to only 35 yards and the entire South contingent to only 57.

The Long Beach and Orange County areas will, as in previous games, be strongly represented.

In the past there have been such standouts as Gene Geselle (Anaheim '52), Gary Allen (Wilson '54), Dean Philpott (Anaheim '54), John Geyer (St. Anthony's '55), Bill Tomasic (St. Anthony's '56), Don Peter (Downey '56), Don Abbott (Anaheim '56), Dan Wasnick (St. Anthony's '56), Gary Frederick (Anaheim '57), Dave Okura (Downey '57), Jack Trumbo (Downey '57), Mickey Flynn (Anaheim '57) and Randy Meadows (Downey '57).

Also Joe Avitia (Anaheim '57), Kent Peterson (Wilson '58), Bob Harris (Downey '58), Marshall Shirk (Anaheim '58), Jim Smith (Poly '58), Pete Yoder (Downey '58), Henry Enriquez (Mater Dei '58), Ferris Granier (Downey '59), Todd Jagerson (Poly '59), Dee Andrews (Poly '59), Denis Richman (Wilson '60), Mike Giers (Poly '60), John Kendrick, (Santa Ana '60), Willie Brown (Poly '60), Lonzo Irvin (Poly '60), David Richman (Wilson '60), Dick Litzinger Mater Dei '61), Ralph Peterson (Wilson '61), John Huarte (Mater Dei '61), and Tyrone Price (St. Anthony's '61).

They have been members of the South squad, and many have gone on to become college and even pro stars.

This year the South will be led from these areas again. Quarterbacks Pete Sanchez (Mater Dei) and Ron Fujikawa (Wilson) will call the signals, while Charles Aldridge (Westminster) will tote the ball from the fullback spot.

On the line will be Ron Brown (Mater Dei), Steve Lehmer (Loara) and Dallas Stahr (Santa Ana Valley). At the ends will be Terry DeKraai (Wilson) and Larry Stone (Anaheim).

CHEERS UP

Rainbow girls Jan Lamborn (left) of San Gabriel High, Heather Fleming (center) of Yucaipa, and Sandra Ladenburger of Artesia will lead cheers in 15th Shrine North-South high school playoff in Coliseum on July 28. Miss Ladenburger, a senior from Lakewood, is a member of the school's drill team, and has been a songleader for two years.

Shunned U.S. Cagers Head for N. Africa

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) —The U.S. College all-star basketball team will bypass Finland and journey directly to North Africa this week for a series of contests, having been shunned from Northern Europe by the refusal of Russian, Polish and Czechoslovakian teams to meet the U.S. contingent.

Col. Donald F. Hull, chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union, said he had to "regretfully cancel plans to take the team to Finland," and added, "it's not just a question of money, but time and geographical distance."

The U.S. team arrived in Munich from Vienna, where it downed the Austrian national team 104-81 earlier in the week, en route to Finland and what was to be the first stage of a prolonged tour of the Soviet Union. Czechoslovakia and Poland.

The Soviets, Poles and Czechs, however, cancelled the meeting last week, cabling the U.S. that "in view of the brutal escalation of the war and the recent bombing in North Viet Nam" they would not play against the American squad.

Finland had offered to pay for the American team's maintenance there, but not for transportation costs. The team is expected to fly to North Africa for games with Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia, but exact playing dates and locations were not disclosed.

Rodgers, Jones All-Star Pilots

Manager Joe Rodgers of the Long Beach Nitehawks and Dr. Dwane Jones of the Oxnard Kings will pilot the Western Softball Congress all-stars tonight as they meet the defending champion Pomona Bombers at Colonia Park in Oxnard.

The Stars were picked this year by the players. Such luminaries as Manny Ortega of Lakewood, Bob Wills of the Nitehawks, K. G. Fincher of the Gardena Merchants will be on the field.

LUCKY HUMISTON
'Calling All Players'

Softball Tourney in Long Beach

Veteran Western Softball Congress star Lucky Humiston will coach the Long Beach Naval Station Islanders softball team in tournament play next month.

Frank Kirkland, director of Special Services at LBNS, made the announcement Saturday.

Humiston, a captain in the Long Beach Fire Department, issued an invitation for tryouts for July 28.

Northern section play in the 11th District begins Aug. 15 and district competition on the 22nd, both in Long Beach.

"I plan to give anyone coming out a complete chance to make our team," Huiston said.

He brings a 15-year background in top-flight softball with him, having played with San Pedro, the Nitehawks and now with the Lakewood Lancers in the WSC.

"I will insist on an all-out effort, plenty of hustle, alertness on the bases and in the field," Humiston said.

Players interested are asked to contact Mary Spall, sports director of Special Services, on extension 1703.

Entries for L.B. Senior Golf Action Closing

Entry deadline is Monday for the fifth Long Beach Golfers Assn. Seniors Tournament, although director Virgil Pylant will accept phone entries (GE 3-7036) the rest of the week.

The 36-hole medal play tournament begins Saturday at El Dorado. The age groups are 50-54, 55-59 and 60-up.

Salta Sweeps Ontario With 21 Base Hits

Salta Pontiac continued to make a runaway of the California Collegiate Baseball League Saturday by dumping Ontario, 7-1 and 7-4, in a doubleheader at Long Beach City College.

The twin wins boosted Salta's record to 14-1 in CCBL action. Over that period of time Joe Hicks' team has amassed a .350 team batting average, which was well shown Saturday with 21 hits in the two games.

John Clifton and John Hall picked up their fourth wins of the season. Hall had a one-hitter through seven innings before he tired and needed relief help.

New Hampshire Lottery Race Ends in Deadheat; Mr. Right Dwyer Victor

Associated Press

New Hampshire's first lottery of the year, the $89,250 Rockingham Special, ended up in a deadheat for first between Jolly Jet and Sense before 25,116 fans Saturday at Salem.

Rockingham Park Stewards studied films of the race for several minutes before deciding the 3-year-old colts could not be separated at the finish of the mile and ⅛ test.

In other top Saturday races Mr. Right won the $82,350 Dwyer Handicap at Aqueduct, Bold Bidder nabbed the 31st edition of the Monmouth Handicap and Short Fall and Margarethen swept the $30,000 added divisions of the Beverly Handicap at Arlington.

At London, Aunt Edith won the $15,000 King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes with the American owned Hill Rise running fourth.

The crowd at Salem sat in stunned silence and then let out a roar as the dead heat was flashed. Tequillo was third, with plenty of daylight between him and the pace-setters.

Jolly Jet, owned by the Rowhatan Stable, and Sense of Rythm, sired by Native Dancer, refused to give ground as they hooked up in a personal duel turning into the stretch.

Jolly Jet moved on the inside, responding to the handling of jockey Nick Shum. Sense of Rythm, an 8-1 outsider owned by Alfred Vanderbilt, tried to charge past on the inside with Eddie Belmonte in the saddle.

The pair hit the wire in 1:49 3-5 on a fast track. The time was just two-fifths of a second off the Rockingham Record set by Beaupy last year.

Jolly Jet paid $5.60, $4.80 and $3.60, while Sense of Rythm returned $8.40, $7.40 and $6.60.

Mr. Right, who never had run farther than 1-1/16 miles, and apprentice jockey Ernest Cardone, who never had won a stakes race, combined talents for the victory in the Dwyer.

Cardone, a New York boy showing the way this year to veteran riders at Aqueduct, held Mrs. Peter Duchin's New Yorkbred son of Auditing together long enough to take the decision by a nose over Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs Exhibitionist.

Mr. Right, out of the money only once in seven starts this year but who had never the class he took on in the Dwyer, ran the 1¼ miles in 2:02 4/5 under 110 pounds. In earning $53,527.50 he paid $8.20, $4.60 and $3.60.

Exhibitionist, who returned recently from a successful Hollywood Park invasion, paid $9.80 and $3.60. Buffle returned $3 to show.

Bold Bidder won the hotly contested victory by a nose over Paoluccio in the Monmouth.

Bold Bidder was seemingly shut off at least three times in the stretch of the 1¼ mile race, but the John R. Gaines horse squeezed between Pluck, the third-place finisher, and Pupper State to win.

Bold Bidder paid $14.60, $7.60 and $4.20. Paoluccio returned $9.80 and $5.20 and Pluck's show price was $3.50. Time for the winner was 2:03 3/5.

Shot Fall's a 2-1 shot, win in the first half of the Beverly Handicap was by a wire over pace-setting Mary the Prince, while Margarethen's victory was by one and a half lengths over Cologne.

Shot Fall paid $51.60, $18.20 and $7.40 while earning $19,800.

Margarethen won the remainder of the purse while paying her backers $9.60, $5.40 and $3.80.

Aunt Edith, an English filly ridden by Lester Piggott, whipped American-owned Hill Rise with ease.

England's No. 1 filly last year, went off at 7-2 while Sodium, the Irish Derby winner, was the 6-4 favorite.

Stewards Suspend 3 for 'Dope' Violation

Three members of the thoroughbred racing colony at Hollywood Park were suspended Saturday by the Hollypark Board of Stewards in connection with the violation of Rule 1863 of the California Horse Racing Board.

Under this rule it is illegal for any person other than a licensed veterinarian to have in his possession a hypodermic needle or syringe within the enclosure of a race track or its stable area.

Trainer W. C. (Bill) Walters, who has been conditioning an 11-horse stable at the Inglewood track, and Dr. Robert A. Holmes, veterinarian from Hollywood, were suspended for the balance of the Hollywood Park meeting, which closes Monday, July 25, and their cases referred to the California Horse Racing Board.

Harry Tanahara, exercise boy from Los Angeles, was suspended for the balance of the meeting and for 30 days thereafter. During their periods of suspension, all three are denied the privileges of the grounds.

The stewards' ruling, made after a hearing Saturday, suspended Walters "for willful violation of Rule 1863." They suspended Holmes "for aiding and abetting a trainer in violation of Rule 1863 by furnishing him with hypodermic syringes and needles in the stable area." They suspended Tanahara "for assisting trainer W. C. Walters in a willful violation of Rule 1863."

HERE'S HOW I DID IT, KIDS

Joe DiMaggio, all-time Yankee great, shows admiring youngsters in hometown of San Francisco how he held bat 25 years ago when he set record of hitting in 56 consecutive games.

DiMag's Streak and Day It Ended---25 Years Ago

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Smiling, the big fellow signed his autograph for the youngster and said, "Have your Daddy tell you about me; you're too young to know."

Hovering a few feet away, the father answered, "I already have."

For this was Joe DiMaggio, and for him it was one of the frequent but seemingly welcome interruptions during breakfast at the Fisherman's Wharf restaurant which bears the DiMaggio name and is owned by his brothers Tom and Dom.

Exactly 25 years ago today, on July 17, 1941, an end came to DiMaggio's consecutve game hitting streak which still stands as the major league baseball record of 56 consecutive games.

Gray but still a trim 195 pounds, Joe doesn't live in the past, yet still considers the streak as the high point in a career with the New York Yankees which brought him Hall of Fame honors.

He vividly recalls the day it ended.

"I hit two balls down the third base line, right on the line. Ken Keltner of Cleveland grabbed both and the momentum carried him outside the foul line for the throws to first.

"Both times the ball and my foot arrived, bang, bang. That's how close they were, but the ball was first . . ."

He remembers the pressures mounting, not so much on the field but off, as he smashed the record set by Willie Keeler with hits in 44 straight games back in 1897.

"People became more and more interested and the well-wishers increased in numbers," he explains. "I had many invitations for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Well-wishers would come to the hotel room early in the morning.

"Lefty Gomez was my roommate and great friend. We would go to a lot of functions and didn't live the life of hermits. But Lefty helped keep order and he kept a lot of people away in a nice way."

During the record span, DiMaggio collected 91 hits including 16 doubles, four triples and 15 home runs. He doesn't figure the mark will last forever since "records are broken every day."

Today, his hobbies include golf and fishing. He owns his own boat, but brother Tom, the one who went to work instead of going into baseball, acts as the skipper. Dom, who starred with the Red Sox while Joe was with New York, lives in Boston but visits the brothers in San Francisco.

Constantly in demand, Joe attendts banquets throughout the nation and also works with youngsters in his home area. He has business interests but the plan of a couple years ago to establish a Fisherman's Bank has been abandoned.

"Too many problems arose," he explains.

DiMaggio golfs with Lefty O'Doul, who was his manager with the Pacific Coast League San Francisco Seals before he went up to the majors.

"I get a big kick out of working with kids," Joe says. "You run into a lot of types—some are serious, some characters. They have different personalities and it's fun to see these coming up."

DiMaggio maintains his interest in baseball but sees few games of the San Francisco Giants. An arthritic back condition demands exercise, but he objects to sitting in the chill breezes which frequent Candlestick Park.

"There's nothing wrong with baseball today," he declares. "People wonder why there aren't more .300 hitters and more 20-game pitchers. I can't put my finger on the answer. Maybe it's because pitchers are taken out of games faster and perhaps hitters are going in so much for the long ball."

TRY MOUNTAINS FOR OLYMPIC SIZE

Anyone Want to Get High?

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Penn State's distance runners are trying the Colorado mountains for size this week in the interest of science and the 1968 Olympic Games to be held in Mexico City.

Several of the Penn State runners went to Peru last summer to train high in the Andres to determine the effect of height on an athlete, especially a trackman.

Since Mexico City has an elevation of 7,349 feet, American Olympic officials are interested in how U.S. athletes should train.

When the athletes arrived with the research team in Peru, they felt exhausted. One said, "we couldn't have run a mile. It was just impossible."

They also suffered from a loss in appetite, drank less water and found themselves sleeping at least 10 hours a night.

"Performance by the athletes was poor by their stateside standards," the Penn State report continued. "At first, the runners could only run four short laps of the track before becoming totally exhausted."

Then the runners gradually became conditioned to running at that height and their performance improved.

On returning to University Park, however, they found they could run much better than they could before.

New Cabinet Post to Stress Road Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Undersecretary of Commerce Alan Boyd said Saturday that highway safety would be the major concern of President Johnson's proposed Department of Transportation.

Congress is currently working on bills to create the new cabinet office. Boyd, in charge of transportation matters for the commerce department, is reported in line to become the first transportation secretary.

Asked in a television interview why the government is so far behind in traffic safety, Boyd said the overall picture was so confused that a comprehensive approach has never been possible. He believed this would be corrected, once the new agency is set up, but conceded it would take a long time.

* * * *

BOYD REFUSED to blame the automobile industry for traffic deaths, which are running at the rate of 50,000 a year, a point emphasized by President Johnson when he asked congress for auto and highway safety laws.

He said it was hard to say whether the government or the car makers, or both, had been derelict but that he, for one, does not feel the industry has been building unsafe vehicles.

In any event, Boyd said, "the public interest has been aroused to an appreciation of the magnitude of the problem and is now ready to demand or support action by Congress." He replied, "No question about it," when asked if traffic safety was his major priority.

Boyd predicted that after Congress passed an auto safety standard law, the government "will act with great restraint, great intelligence and without trying too fast in an area where it does not really have the competence to start telling automobile manufacturers to do this, to do that, or do the other."

He said he expected to have interim standards developed by next Jan. 1 but that there would be nothing dramatic in that area. He said that first "we need to know what can be done, what it will cost and what the benefits will be, and it's going to take some time to do this."

Boyd said there was cause for uneasiness in the basic industry which has never been under any form of government regulation. "And now, at one fell swoop," he added, "we are proposing to undertake to prescribe performance standards for new cars. . ."

Oilworkers Set Sights on Job Security

By
HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The AFL-CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union has waved a red flag at the petroleum industry by putting guaranteed "income security" at the top of its 1967-68 wage contract demands.

This means a man would have to be kept on the payroll until he retires unless fired for just cause.

Industry leaders already are predicting "rough going" at the negotiating table on grounds the proposal would shear them of traditional management rights.

* * * *

THE UNION admits the goal is precedent-setting but says it is the only way to preserve jobs of men being displaced increasingly by machines, new work systems and plant shutdowns. It put no price tag on the cost but it could add up to millions of dollars.

Other demands, soon to be ratified by union locals, include a 36-cents-an-hour wage hike spread over two years, with 6 cents in the first year to be applied to improved medical-hospitalization insurance and the rest to direct wages.

Shift differentials, unchanged since 1957, would be raised 10 cents an hour in the early night shift and 20 cents on the "graveyard" or midnight shift.

The union would button up the package by requiring management to adopt equitable wage-retirement age-vacation plans.

* * * *

THIS CALLS for all companies manned by the union to agree to a uniform plan of optional retirement at age 62, instead of 65, with no actuarial reduction in pensions, and uniform paid vacations based on years of service. Sinclair agreed to such a contract in 1964.

The union committee said this would eliminate differences that have created industry unrest for two years, but reserved its biggest gun for job security.

"We propose that each contract provide that all present regular and permanent employes be guaranteed continued employment at the present or higher rate status until retirement on adequate pension," it said.

"This is a precedent-setting proposal which no doubt will bring on heavy negotiations with the industry and will be watched with interest by labor and management in many other industries."

* * * *

THE POLICY committee added frankly that "this is an attempt to protect members against further layoffs resulting from technological changes, new work methods instituted by management, contracting-out of work, and plant shutdowns."

The committee predicted that, "as usual, there undoubtedly will be a great reluctance on the part of management to go along, and the union likely will have to put up a hard fight."

The union's drive for job security is underscored by the fact its oil membership has dropped from 136,400 in 1955 to 85,000. Contracts covering 83% of the membership are coming up for renegotiation.

Rand 'Think Factory' in Policy Ferment

New York Times Service

SANTA MONICA — The Rand Corp., that vast, mystery-shrouded "think factory" overlooking the Pacific, is now observing its 20th anniversary at a time of internal change and ferment.

Rand was set up 20 years ago to establish, in effect, an arsenal of ideas to help cope with the nation's postwar problems of national security.

Since Rand has played an influential role in some of this nation's most important cold war decisions, the company's internal stresses and strains are being watched with keen interest far beyond Rand's own antiseptic, heavily guarded corridors.

* * * *

THE NONPROFIT institution began as a long-term research project under the aegis of the Air Force. Today, with Rand's total research contracts amounting to $23 million annually and its staff totaling 1,168, the Air Force still accounts for 68% of the company's research operations.

Though most of Rand's work is secret, some of its past achievements have become public knowledge. Rand was the first to conclude concrete studies demonstrating the feasibility of building space statellites. It helped get the intercontinental ballistic missile program under way by demonstrating to skeptical government officials that it was possible to develop nuclear warheads small enough and of high enough yield to be delivered efficiently by rockets of limited accuracy.

Its defense studies of the mid-1950s demonstrated that Soviet missiles could knock out all existing American bases and thus led the government to close down overseas Strategic Air Command bases at a saving of over $1 billion. Rand developed a system of "program budgeting" for the Air Force that has proven so efficient that the President recently ordered its adoption by most federal agencies.

* * * *

RAND SCIENTISTS continue today to study some of the most complex issues of the times. At present they are projecting possible environmental changes that would result from thermonuclear war. They are probing new systems for protecting carriers and air bases from missile attacks. They are examining new devices for detecting nuclear tests. They are delving into the history of insurgency and counter-insurgency in a typical Vietnamese village. They are probing the theoretical basis for weather control.

There is a degree of ferment within Rand, especially among those staff members who believe the company should slowly shift its focus from itsl present preoccupation wth military problems to a greater concern with problems relating to the human condition. Trustees, who include some of the nation's leading businessmen and educators, will shortly receive a report from a staff commitee proposing the specifics of such a change.

* * * *

THIS FERMENT is being encouraged by the widespread expectation that Rand's top management, which has headed the company since its inception, will undergo an overhaul this year starting with the expected retirement of Frank R. Collbohm, president. Some staff members believe that new management may be more receptive to a broadening of Rand's research objectives.

What will be Rand's future course? J.R. Goldstein, Rand vice president, thinks the company will in general pursue its present course, but he notes that, in recent years, Rand has slowly been increasing its attention to political science and economics as tools of national policy. Hence, more of its stlaff are working on sudies of the Soviet economy or the economics of underdeveloped countries than on purely military issues.

* * * *

IN RECENT YEARS, he notes, Rand also had undertaken contracts from the National Institutes of Health and the agency for International Developmen. At present however, contracts from the Air Force, Department of Defense and National Aeronautics and Space Administration still amount to 93% of Rand's total activity.

Some staff members believe this should change. "The nation needs a service like Rand to think about non-military problems," says Bruce L. R. Smith, author of the newly published study "The Rand Corporation" and a staff member of Rand for two years. Smith, who will join the faculty of Columbia University in the fall notes that some of the military problems assigned to Rand required 10 to 15 year of long-term study before a "payoff" was realized and he believes that research problems of similar complexity involving welfare and social problems should not be given a similar "deep think" treatment at Rand.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Stock Market Uncertain --No Conclusive Trend

By JAMES T. McCAUSLAND

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market showed no conclusive trend last week; rather, it lived from day to day with a sensitive ear for any news that might spark a rally or decline. Trading was moderate.

Talk of a traditional summer rally was pushed to the background and traders wondered in which direction the market would make its next decisive move.

The long-awaited flow of improved second quarter earnings reports finally began providing some needed stimulus.

* * * *

JUDGING FROM the corporation reports, many of them record highs, the boom in the economy is far from over but the major ingredient in any market advance—money—remained in a tight and uncertain position.

Britain, whose trade deficit suffered a severe setback as a result of the prolonged seamen's strike, enacted several emergency measures to strengthen the pound sterling. The most formidable was a hike of 1 point in its bank rate to 7%.

England's bank rate is similar to our discount rate which has a strong influence over the other lending rates. The move, then, added to fears that the Federal Reserve Board might jack the U.S. discount rate from 4½% where it has been since last December.

The board, however, took no such action when it met on Thursday.

* * * *

SPOT NEWS on the Viet Nam front had a generally adverse influence in the street but it was short-lived.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara said he saw no reason to expect a quick end to the conflict. He also announced a cutback in outlays for air munitions.

Many analysts claimed the prolonged airline strike had a dampening effect but the extent to which the strike actually affected the market was not easily determined. Lines hit by the walkout declined.

New car sales for early July, an economic barometer, declined 10.7% from the daily rate in the same period last year. The decline was steeper than the rate of decline in the past three months compared with 1965.

* * * *

THE DOW JONES industrial average fell 4.68 to 889.36 on the week and the rail indicator lost 2.06 to 231.24. The utility average, however, rose 0.40 to 135.03. The New York Stock Exchange's new common stock index showed a change on the week equivalent to a loss of approximately 19 cents in the price of an average share.

Techicians feel the market must penetrate decisively the 900 resistance area in the D-J industrila average before rally can be sustained and many fear if the market keeps backing off from this level, a test of the mid-May lows may follow.

Of the 1,568 issues traded on the week, 794 declined, 624 advanced and 150 remained unchanged. Seventy-one issues hit net highs for the year and 166 touched new lows.

Volume swelled to 20,014,770 shares compared with 24,794,026-share turnover in the previous holiday week and 19,025,980 shares in the same week a year ago.

* * * *

U.S. INDUSTRIES was the most active issue of the week, advancing 2½ to 22⅞ on 527,400 shares. Interest developed when it was rumored Sunshine Mining wanted to buy into the company. U.S. Industries said it had no knowledge of any such deal but on Thursday Sunshine announced plans to tender an offer for all of U.S. Industries stock.

Sperry Rand was in second place, seemingly out of habit more than any news development. It slipped ⅜ to 27½ on sales of 446,400 shares. Pan American World Airways, which announced plans to market a $175 million dollar convertible subordinated debenture, followed, falling 4½ to 70⅛ on 358,100 shares.

United Fruit, which doubled its earnings in the second quarter, jumped 4⅞ to 36½ on 3330,000 shares and Atlas Corp. Rounded out the top five, tacking on ½ to 3⅞ on sales of 331,300 shares.

* * * *

AIRLINES NOT hit by the strike had a pickup in business and a boost on the stock exchange. Kim soared 13½ and Delta jumped 6¼. American Airlines also improved.

National led the strike-afflicted lines into the minus column, decling 5¼ and TWA followed, losing 2½. Northwest and Eastern suffered mild setbacks.

But United tacked on ⅜.

Many rubber issues, widely recommended by analysts recently, hit highs for the year. U.S. Rubber surged 5¾, Goodrich 3⅛ and Goodyear rose 4¾.

Steels remained locked in a narrow range but motors fell back on the declining sales. General Motors and Chrysler each fell 1⅜ and ford dropped 1⅛.

* * * *

DUPONT FELL 6¾ in the firm chemicals but American Cyanamid and Monsanto improved on favorable second quarter earnings. Most drugs improved but Johnson & Johnson lost 3¾.

Electronics had another hectic week. Fairchild Camera, which can jump 10 points in either direction at a moment's notice, ended 1½ higher on the week. General Electric lost 2¼ despite improved second quarter sales and earnings. Many traders are wary with the company facing labor negotiations in the near future. Burroughs made good headway on improved earnings but IBM added only ¾.

Chicago & North Western started in the generally easier rails, jumping 4¼. New York Central fell 4¼ and Pennsylvania Railroad gave up 5½. American Telephone lost 1¾. Elastic Stop Nut jumped 11⅛ and the company said it had no specific reason for the stock's sudden popularity except its greatly improved earnings.

DONNELL CULPEPPER

We Need Marina Reserved by Navy

By LEW ALLISON
Fishin' Around for Donnell Culpepper, on Vacation

Good news for boaters who live in Huntington Harbour and Sunset Beach was the announcement this week that a contract has been let for a new bridge across Anaheim Bay, between Seal Beach and Surfside. The new structure will give clearance to sail vessels wishing passage between the ocean side of the bay and the back bay areas of Sunset Beach.

But for the rest of the boating fraternity of our harbor area, forget it. Most of Anaheim Bay—the area from the ocean past Surfside Colony—is under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Naval Weapons Station, and these waters are barred to boaters unless they wear a decal the Navy issues to bona fide residents of Huntington Harbour or Sunset Beach who own a berth and a boat.

If a boat bears a decal, or if a resident of the area arranges with the Navy ahead of time to receive a guest arriving by water, the vessel traversing Anaheim Bay's restricted water from the tips of the jetties to 25th Street, Sunset Beach, may move sedately through. Any others intruding in the Navy's domain are subject to arrest, and are reported diligently. All traffic through this water is subject to strict speed limits.

As a matter of fact, the Navy is mighty strict about any kind of trespassing around its Seal Beach station. A fisherman or sightseers can't walk out on the rocks of either jetty at Anaheim landing, even though the west jetty is in the Sael Beach city limits on the public strand. Just what threat to U.S. security one of these intruders might be stretches the imagination, but there it is, and you're subject to fine if you cross the line.

Likewise, except for a small area under the bridge at the entrance, fishermen can't intrude on the Navy's side of Anaheim Bay at all—and the nine-square-mile station encompasses most of the bay and sloughs. Commercial bait men are barred from these richest areas, and there are no permits issued. No boat can move between the tips of the jetties to drop a line in the channel leading to the bay.

NOW IT ISN'T surprising that the Navy insists on strict security at its weapons station, although it is patently ridiculous to bar people from standing on Uncle Sam's jetty rocks. If one needs security clearance (!), okay, but one should be able to get permission to fish from the jetty where we fished for many years before the Navy cracked down.

But it's time for this area to take a good sharp look at the weapons station. It used to be isolated—as ammunition bunkers should be—except for inexpensive, scattered beach cottages. Now highly valuable developments are surrounding it—Huntington Harbour is an example. The Navy's fuel and weapons and ammunition are being surrounded by homes—and not cheap homes, either.

Miles of what should be a beautiful marina is restricted land and swamp, guarded against any and all intrusion.

This could be some of the most beautiful beach and commodious boat berths in California. Instead, it is tied up for military use. Long Beach Marina is crowded with waiting lists stretching years ahead, yet this large bay area lies undeveloped and untouchable.

Within the past few years beach property has rapidly filled up, and with the tremendous growth around Long Beach and Orange County the demand for recreation will multiply many times over. Surely there must be a better place for the Navy to store its weapons and fuel its warships than in the heart of this burgeoning suburban "bedroom" residential area.

Isn't it time we started looking toward development of Anaheim Bay for public use?

Sports In Brief

The modern relief pitcher enjoys a glittering status in baseball, comparable to the respect held by power sluggers.

Time was when the man in the bullpen was regarded as a pitcher who could not make the grade as a starter. But the Johnny Murphys, the Joe Pages, the Jim Konstantys' the Joe Blacks, the Sal Maglies and the Elroy Faces have added new dimensions to the stand-in role.

Clyde King, the scholarly pitching coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, believes the nucleus of a hurling staff is the bullpen.

"Check back through the years and you'll find the pennant-winning teams had good bullpens," King said.

"In the old days relievers often were older pitchers who had lost their stuff. But today the men in the bullpen throw bullets. Of course, there are exceptions. Stu Miller, Hoyt Wilhelm and Face don't blaze 'em in anymore. But they still know how to pitch."

AN 11-YEAR-OLD girl from Riverfall, Calif., Liza St. John, snapped Liz Allen's string of preliminary victories at four Saturday with a first place in tricks during the second round of the Masters water ski tournament at Callaway Gardens, Ga.

Miss St. John calked up 3,208 points. She failed, however, to qualify for today's finals since she earned only 1,505 points during Friday's competition. Miss Allen had the highest two-day total of 6,385 points.

The men's slalom developed into a three-way battle with world champion Roland Hillier ahead. Leroy Burnett was second with Dennis Rahlves third.

VETERAN Marilynn Smith played brilliant golf despite one out-of-bounds shot Saturday and took the 36-hole lead in the Lady Carling Midwest Women's Open golf tournament.

"I played the best I have all year" said the 37-year-old professional after her par 72 gave her 147 for 36 holes and a one-stroke margin over Clifford Ann Creed, the first-day leader.

AN IOWA youth was struck on the back by a drive hit by U.S. Open champion Billy Casper in the Minnesota Golf Classic Saturday.

Kirk Alexander, 15, was taken to a hospital for observation, but was not believed seriously hurt.

CALIFORNIANS Bob Smith and Jim Wiechers moved into the finals of the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament by downing their foes in extra-hole matches Saturday.

A tourney record was set when Smith of Sacramento defeated Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla., 1-up with a par on the 42nd hole. In the short match of the day, Wiechers of Atherton, Calif., defeated Bob Murphy of Nichols, Fla., on the 37th hole.

Commission Sets New Dove Dates

Split seasons for dove and bandtail pigeon hunting were set for Friday in a round-robin telephone "conference" called by the five members of the State Fish and Game Commission.

The commissioners marked off the two dove seasons for the Colardo River strip from Sept. 1 to 30 and Dec. 10 to 18. The earlier dates were established to coincide with the Arizona September season. For the rest of California, the dates will be Sept. 3 to Oct. 2, and the same Dec. 10 to 18.

Limits will be 12 doves per day, or 24 in possession any day except opening day.

The bandtail pigeon seasons will be Oct. 1-30 in the northern counties and Dec. 17-Jan. 15 in the south.

Sherm Lewis Stars in Jets 'Twin' Drills

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (UPI) — Former All-America Sherman Lewis of Michigan State impressed the coaches during both workouts Saturday as Weeb Ewbank put his New York Jets through two more drill sessions.

Lewis, a 5-foot-9, 160-pound defensive back who played last year in Canada, turned in a 4.6 clocking for the 40-yard dash during the morning time trials and intercepted three passes during the afternoon passing drills.

New Hampshire Lottery Race Ends in Deadheat; Mr. Right Dwyer Victor

Associated Press

New Hampshire's first lottery of the year, the $89,250 Rockingham Special, ended up in a deadheat for first between Jolly Jet and Sense before 25,116 fans Saturday at Salem.

Rockingham Park Stewards studied films of the race for several minutes before deciding the 3-year-old colts could not be separated at the finish of the mile and ⅛ test.

In other top Saturday races Mr. Right won the $82,350 Dwyer Handicap at Aqueduct, Bold Bidder nabbed the 31st edition of the Monmouth Handicap and Short Fall and Margarethen swept the $30,000 added divisions of the Beverly Handicap at Arlington.

At London, Aunt Edith won the $15,000 King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes with the American owned Hill Rise running fourth.

The crowd at Salem sat in stunned silence and then let out a roar as the dead heat was flashed. Tequillo was third, with plenty of daylight between him and the pace-setters.

Jolly Jet, owned by the Rowhatan Stable, and Sense of Rythm, sired by Native Dancer, refused to give ground as they hooked up in a personal duel turning into the stretch.

Jolly Jet moved on the inside, responding to the handling of jockey Nick Shum. Sense of Rythm, an 8-1 outsider owned by Alfred Vanderbilt, tried to charge past on the inside with Eddie Belmonte in the saddle.

The pair hit the wire in 1:49 3-5 on a fast track. The time was just two-fifths of a second off the Rockingham Record set by Beaupy last year.

Jolly Jet paid $5.60, $4.80 and $3.60, while Sense of Rhythm returned $8.40, $7.40 and $6.60.

Mr. Right, who never had run farther than 1-1/16 miles, and apprentice jockey Ernest Cardone, who never had won a stakes race, combined talents for the victory in the Dwyer.

Cardone, a New York boy showing the way this year to veteran riders at Aqueduct, held Mrs. Peter Duchin's New Yorkbred son of Auditing together long enough to take the decision by a nose over Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs Exhibitionist.

Mr. Right, out of the money only once in seven starts this year but who had never the class he took on in the Dwyer, ran the 1¼ miles in 2:02 4/5 under 110 pounds. In earning $53,527.50 he paid $8.20, $4.60 and $3.60.

Exhibitionist, who returned recently from a successful Hollywood Park invasion, paid $9.80 and $3.60. Buffle returned $3 to show.

Bold Bidder won the hotly contested victory by a nose over Paoluccio in the Monmouth.

Bold Bidder was seemingly shut off at least three times in the stretch of the 1¼ mile race, but the John R. Gaines horse squeezed between Pluck, the third-place finisher, and Pupper State to win.

Bold Bidder paid $14.60, $7.60 and $4.20. Paoluccio returned $9.80 and $5.20 and Pluck's show price was $3.50. Time for the winner was 2:03 3/5.

Shot Fall's a 2-1 shot, win in the first half of the Beverly Handicap was by a wire over pace-setting Mary the Prince, while Margarethen's victory was by one and a half lengths over Cologne.

Shot Fall paid $51.60, $18.20 and $7.40 while earning $19.800.

Margarethen won the remainder of the purse while paying her backers $9.60, $5.40 and $3.80.

Aunt Edith, an English filly ridden by Lester Piggott, whipped American-owned Hill Rise with ease.

England's No. 1 filly last year, went off at 7-2 while Sodium, the Irish Derby winner, was the 6-4 favorite.

Stewards Suspend 3 for 'Dope' Violation

Three members of the thoroughbred racing colony at Hollywood Park were suspended Saturday by the Hollypark Board of Stewards in connection with the violation of Rule 1863 of the California Horse Racing Board.

Under this rule it is illegal for any person other than a licensed veterinarian to have in his possession a hypodermic needle or syringe within the enclosure of a race track or its stable area.

Trainer W. C. (Bill) Walters, who has been conditioning an 11-horse stable at the Inglewood track, and Dr. Robert A. Holmes, veterinarian from Hollywood, were suspended for the balance of the Hollywood Park meeting, which closes Monday, July 25, and their cases referred to the California Horse Racing Board.

Harry Tanahara, exercise boy from Los Angeles, was suspended for the balance of the meeting and for 30 days thereafter. During their periods of suspension, all three are denied the privileges of the grounds.

The stewards' ruling, made after a hearing Saturday, suspended Walters "for willful violation of Rule 1863." They suspended Holmes "for aiding and abetting a trainer in violation of Rule 1863 by furnishing him with hypodermic syringes and needles in the stable area." They suspended Tanahara "for assisting trainer W. C. Walters in a willful violation of Rule 1863."

HERE'S HOW I DID IT, KIDS

Joe DiMaggio, all-time Yankee great, shows admiring youngsters in hometown of San Francisco how he held bat 25 years ago when he set record of hitting in 56 consecutive games.

DiMag's Streak and Day It Ended---25 Years Ago

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Smiling, the big fellow signed his autograph for the youngster and said, "Have your Daddy tell you about me; you're too young to know."

Hovering a few feet away, the father answered, "I already have."

For this was Joe DiMaggio, and for him it was one of the frequent but seemingly welcome interruptions during breakfast at the Fisherman's Wharf restaurant which bears the DiMaggio name and is owned by his brothers Tom and Dom.

Exactly 25 years ago today, on July 17, 1941, an end came to DiMaggio's consecutve game hitting streak which still stands as the major league baseball record of 56 consecutive games.

Gray but still a trim 195 pounds, Joe doesn't live in the past, yet still considers the streak as the high point in a career with the New York Yankees which brought him Hall of Fame honors.

He vividly recalls the day it ended.

"I hit two balls down the third base line, right on the line. Ken Keltner of Cleveland grabbed both and the momentum carried him outside the foul line for the throws to first.

"Both times the ball and my foot arrived, bang, bang. That's how close they were, but the ball was first . . ."

He remembers the pressures mounting, not so much on the field but off, as he smashed the record set by Willie Keeler with hits in 44 straight games back in 1897.

"People became more and more interested and the well-wishers increased in numbers," he explains. "I had many invitations for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Well-wishers would come to the hotel room early in the morning.

"Lefty Gomez was my roommate and great friend. We would go to a lot of functions and didn't live the life of hermits. But Lefty helped keep order and he kept a lot of people away in a nice way."

During the record span, DiMaggio collected 91 hits including 16 doubles, four triples and 15 home runs. He doesn't figure the mark will last forever since "records are broken every day."

Today, his hobbies include golf and fishing. He owns his own boat, but brother Tom, the one who went to work instead of going into baseball, acts as the skipper. Dom, who starred with the Red Sox while Joe was with New York, lives in Boston but visits the brothers in San Francisco.

Constantly in demand, Joe attendis banquets throughout the nation and also works with youngsters in his home area. He has business interests but the plan of a couple years ago to establish a Fisherman's Bank has been abandoned.

"Too many problems arose," he explains.

DiMaggio golfs with Lefty O'Doul, who was his manager with the Pacific Coast League San Francisco Seals before he went up to the majors.

"I get a big kick out of working with kids," Joe says. "You run into a lot of types—some are serious, some characters. They have different personalities and it's fun to see these coming up."

DiMaggio maintains his interest in baseball but sees few games of the San Francisco Giants. An arthritic back condition demands exercise, but he objects to sitting in the chill breezes which frequent Candlestick Park.

"There's nothing wrong with baseball today," he declares. "People wonder why there aren't more .300 hitters and more 20-game pitchers. I can't put my finger on the answer. Maybe it's because pitchers are taken out of games faster and perhaps hitters are going in so much for the long ball."

TRY MOUNTAINS FOR OLYMPIC SIZE

Anyone Want to Get High?

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Penn State's distance runners are trying the Colorado mountains for size this week in the interest of science and the 1968 Olympic Games to be held in Mexico City.

Several of the Penn State runners went to Peru last summer to train high in the Andres to determine the effect of height on an athlete, especially a trackman.

Since Mexico City has an elevation of 7,349 feet, American Olympic officials are interested in how U.S. athletes should train.

When the athletes arrived with the research team in Peru, they felt exhausted. One said, "we couldn't have run a mile. It was just impossible."

They also suffered from a loss in appetite, drank less water and found themselves sleeping at least 10 hours a night.

"Performance by the athletes was poor by their stateside standards," the Penn State report continued, "At first, the runners could only run four short laps of the track before becoming totally exhausted."

Then the runners gradually became conditioned to running at that height and their performance improved.

On returning to University Park, however, they found they could run much better than they could before.

Oilworkers Set Sights on Job Security

By
HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The AFL-CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union has waved a red flag at the petroleum industry by putting guaranteed "income security" at the top of its 1967-68 wage contract demands.

This means a man would have to be kept on the payroll until he retires unless fired for just cause.

Industry leaders already are predicting "rough going" at the negotiating table on grounds the proposal would shear them of traditional management rights.

* * * *

THE UNION admits the goal is precedent-setting but says it is the only way to preserve jobs of men being displaced increasingly by machines, new work systems and plant shutdowns. It put no price tag on the cost but it could add up to millions of dollars.

Other demands, soon to be ratified by union locals, include a 36-cents-an-hour wage hike spread over two years, with 6 cents in the first year to be applied to improved medical-hospitalization insurance and the rest to direct wages.

Shift differentials, unchanged since 1957, would be raised 10 cents an hour in the early night shift and 20 cents on the "graveyard" or midnight shift.

The union would button up the package by requiring management to adopt equitable wage-retirement age-vacation plans.

* * * *

THIS CALLS for all companies manned by the union to agree to a uniform plan of optional retirement at age 62, instead of 65, with no actuarial reduction in pensions, and uniform paid vacations based on years of service. Sinclair agreed to such a contract in 1964.

The union committee said this would eliminate differences that have created industry unrest for two years, but reserved its biggest gun for job security.

"We propose that each contract provide that all present regular and permanent employes be guaranteed continued employment at the present or higher rate status until retirement on adequate pension," it said.

"This is a precedent-setting proposal which no doubt will bring on heavy negotiations with the industry and will be watched with interest by labor and management in many other industries."

* * * *

THE POLICY committee added frankly that "this is an attempt to protect members against further layoffs resulting from technological changes, new work methods instituted by management, contracting-out of work, and plant shutdowns."

The committee predicted that, "as usual, there undoubtedly will be a great reluctance on the part of management to go along, and the union likely will have to put up a hard fight."

The union's drive for job security is underscored by the fact its oil membership has dropped from 136,400 in 1955 to 85,000. Contracts covering 83% of the membership are coming up for renegotiation.

New Cabinet Post to Stress Road Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Undersecretary of Commerce Alan Boyd said Saturday that highway safety would be the major concern of President Johnson's proposed Department of Transportation.

Congress is currently workink on bills to create the new cabinet office. Boyd, in charge of transportation matters for the commerce department, is reported in line to become the first transportation secretary.

Asked in a television interview why the government is so far behind in traffic safety, Boyd said the overall picture was so confused that a comprehensive approach has never been possible. He believed this would be corrected, once the new agency is set up, but conceded it would take a long time.

* * * *

BOYD REFUSED to blame the automobile industry for traffic deaths, which are running at the rate of 50,000 a year, a point emphasized by President Johnson when he asked congress for auto and highway safety laws.

He said it was hard to say whether the government or the car makers, or both, had been derelict but that he, for one, does not feel the industry has been building unsafe vehicles.

In any event, Boyd said, "the public interest has been aroused to an appreciation of the magnitude of the problem and is now ready to demand or support action by Congress." He replied, "No question about it," when asked if traffic safety was his major priority.

Boyd predicted that after Congress passed an auto safety standard law, the government "will act with great restraint, great intelligence and without trying too fast in an area where it does not really have the competence to start telling automobile manufacturers to do this, to do that, or do the other."

He said he expected to have interim standards developed by next Jan. 1 but that there would be nothing dramatic in that area. He said that first "we need to know what can be done, what it will cost and what the benefits will be, and it's going to take some time to do this."

Boyd said there was cause for uneasiness in the basic industry which has never been under any form of government regulation. "And now, at one fell swoop," he added, "we are proposing to undertake to prescribe performance standards for new cars. . ."

Rand 'Think Factory' in Policy Ferment

New York Times Service

SANTA MONICA — The Rand Corp., that vast, mystery-shrouded "think factory" overlooking the Pacific, is now observing its 20th anniversary at a time of internal change and ferment.

Rand was set up 20 years ago to establish, in effect, an arsenal of ideas to help cope with the nation's postwar problems of national security.

Since Rand has played an influential role in some of this nation's most important cold war decisions, the company's internal stresses and strains are being watchced with keen interest far beyond Rand's own antiseptic, heavily guarded corridors.

* * * *

THE NONPROFIT institution began as a long-term research project under the aegis of the Air Force. Today, with Rand's total research contracts amounting to $23 million annually and its staff totaling 1,168, the Air Force still accounts for 68% of the company's research operations.

Though most of Rand's work is secret, some of its past achievements have become public knowledge. Rand was the first to conclude concrete studies demonstrating the feasibility of building space statellites. It helped get the intercontinental ballistic missile program under way by demonstrating to skeptical government officials that it was possible to develop nuclear warheads small enough and of high enough yield to be delivered efficiently by rockets of limited accuracy.

Its defense studies of the mid-1950s demonstrated that Soviet missiles could knock out all existing American bases and thus led the government to close down overseas Strategic Air Command bases at a saving of over $1 billion. Rand developed a system of "program budgeting" for the Air Force that has proven so efficient that the President recently ordered its adoption by most federal agencies.

* * * *

RAND SCIENTISTS continue today to study some of the most complex issues of the times. At present they are projecting possible environmental changes that would result from thermonuclear war. They are probing new systems for protecting carriers and air bases from missile attacks. They are examining new devices for detecting nuclear tests. They are delving into the history of insurgency and counter-insurgency in a typical Vietnamese village. They are probing the theoretical basis for weather control.

There is a degree of ferment within Rand, especially among those staff members who believe the company should slowly shift its focus from its present preoccupation wth military problems to a greater concern with problems relating to the human condition. Trustees, who include some of the nation's leading businessmen and educators, will shortly receive a report from a staff commitee proposing the specifics of such a change.

* * * *

THIS FERMENT is being encouraged by the widespread expectation that Rand's top management, which has headed the company since its inception, will undergo an overhaul this year starting with the expected retirement of Frank R. Collbohm, president. Some staff members believe that new management may be more receptive to a broadening of Rand's research objectives.

What will be Rand's future course? J.R. Goldstein, Rand vice president, thinks the company will in general pursue its present course, but he notes that, in recent years, Rand has slowly been increasing its attention to political science and economics as tools of national policy. Hence, more of its sttaff are working on sudies of the Soviet economy or the economics of underdeveloped countries than on purely military issues.

* * * *

IN RECENT YEARS, he notes, Rand also had undertaken contracts from the National Institutes of Health and the agency for International Developmen. At present however, contracts from the Air Force, Department of Defense and National Aeronautics and Space Administration still amount to 93% of Rand's total activity.

Some staff members believe this should change. "The nation needs a service like Rand to think about non-military problems," says Bruce L. R. Smith, author of the newly published study "The Rand Corporation" and a staff member of Rand for two years. Smith, who will join the faculty of Columbia University in the fall notes that some of the military problems assigned to Rand required 10 to 15 year of long-term study before a "payoff" was realized and he believes that research problems of similar complexity involving welfare and social problems should not be given a similar "deep think" treatment at Rand.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Stock Market Uncertain --No Conclusive Trend

By JAMES T. McCAUSLAND

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market showed no conclusive trend last week; rather, it lived from day to day with a sensitive ear for any news that might spark a rally or decline. Trading was moderate.

Talk of a traditional summer rally was pushed to the background and traders wondered in which direction the market would make its next decisive move.

The long-awaited flow of improved second quarter earnings reports finally began providing some needed stimulus.

* * * *

JUDGING FROM the corporation reports, many of them record highs, the boom in the economy is far from over but the major ingredient in any market advance—money—remained in a tight and uncertain position.

Britain, whose trade deficit suffered a severe setback as a result of the prolonged seamen's strike, enacted several emergency measures to strengthen the pound sterling. The most formidable was a hike of 1 point in its bank rate to 7%.

England's bank rate is similar to our discount rate which has a strong influence over the other lending rates. The move, then, added to fears that the Federal Reserve Board might jack the U.S. discount rate from 4½% where it has been since last December.

The board, however, took no such action when it met on Thursday.

* * * *

SPOT NEWS on the Viet Nam front had a generally adverse influence in the street but it was short-lived.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara said he saw no reason to expect a quick end to the conflict. He also announced a cutback in outlays for air munitions.

Many analysts claimed the prolonged airline strike had a dampening effect but the extent to which the strike actually affected the market was not easily determined. Lines hit by the walkout declined.

New car sales for early July, an economic barometer, declined 10.7% from the daily rate in the same period last year. The decline was steeper than the rate of decline in the past three months compared with 1965.

* * * *

THE DOW JONES industrial average fell 4.68 to 889.36 on the week and the rail indicator lost 2.06 to 231.24. The utility average, however, rose 0.40 to 135.03. The New York Stock Exchange's new common stock index showed a change on the week equivalent to a loss of approximately 19 cents in the price of an average share.

Techicians feel the market must penetrate decisively the 900 resistance area in the D-J industrila average before rally can be sustained and many fear if the market keeps backing off from this level, a test of the mid-May lows may follow.

Of the 1,568 issues traded on the week, 794 declined, 624 advanced and 150 remained unchanged. Seventy-one issues hit net highs for the year and 166 touched new lows.

Volume swelled to 20,014,770 shares compared with 24,794,026-share turnover in the previous holiday week and 19,025,980 shares in the same week a year ago.

* * * *

U.S. INDUSTRIES was the most active issue of the week, advancing 2½ to 22⅞ on 527,400 shares. Interest developed when it was rumored Sunshine Mining wanted to buy into the company. U.S. Industries said it had no knowledge of any such deal but on Thursday Sunshine announced plans to tender an offer for all of U.S. Industries stock.

Sperry Rand was in second place, seemingly out of habit more than any news development. It slipped ⅜ to 27½ on sales of 446,400 shares. Pan American World Airways, which announced plans to market a $175 million dollar convertible subordinated debenture, followed, falling 4½ to 70⅛ on 358,100 shares.

United Fruit, which doubled its earnings in the second quarter, jumped 4⅞ to 36½ on 3330,000 shares and Atlas Corp. Rounded out the top five, tacking on ½ to 3⅞ on sales of 331,300 shares.

* * * *

AIRLINES NOT hit by the strike had a pickup in business and a boost on the stock exchange. Kim soared 13½ and Delta jumped 6¼. American Airlines also improved.

National led the strike-afflicted lines into the minus column, decling 5¼ and TWA followed, losing 2½. Northwest and Eastern suffered mild setbacks.

But United tacked on ⅜.

Many rubber issues, widely recommended by analysts recently, hit highs for the year. U.S. Rubber surged 5¾, Goodrich 3⅛ and Goodyear rose 4¾.

Steels remained locked in a narrow range but motors fell back on the declining sales. General Motors and Chrysler each fell 1⅜ and ford dropped 1⅛.

* * * *

DUPONT FELL 6¾ in the firm chemicals but American Cyanamid and Monsanto improved on favorable second quarter earnings. Most drugs improved but Johnson & Johnson lost 3¾.

Electronics had another hectic week. Fairchild Camera, which can jump 10 points in either direction at a moment's notice, ended 1½ higher on the week. General Electric lost 2¼ despite improved second quarter sales and earnings. Many traders are wary with the company facing labor negotiations in the near future. Burroughs made good headway on improved earnings but IBM added only ¾.

Chicago & North Western started in the generally easier rails, jumping 4¼. New York Central fell 4¼ and Pennsylvania Railroad gave up 5½. American Telephone lost 1¾. Elastic Stop Nut jumped 11⅛ and the company said it had no specific reason for the stock's sudden popularity except its greatly improved earnings.

BURTON WESENBERG . . . City Manager of Bygone 'Cow' City

OLD CITY HALL . . . Site for Alpha Beta Market

SIGNS . . . In Growing City

New Freeway Boon to La Palma

Nearby School Boards Altered City's Destiny

A new, life-giving artery has been implanted in Southeastern Los Angeles County and Orange County —once the land of cows, chickens and haystacks.

It is the giant San Gabriel Freeway, which cuts a giant swath northward between Long Beach and Los Alamitos, between Lakewood and La Palma and between Bellflower and Artesia.

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Editor

A curious change has occurred in the thinking of the Southland homeowner; no longer does he abhor a freeway close to his home. In fact, recent house buyers are inclined to buy homes closer to the freeway.

This is the case in the north-south corridor created by the San Gabriel Freeway.

Vacant land is at a premium and some communities have only small parcels remaining to catch the developers' eye.

Of all the cities affected by the San Gabriel Freeway, La Palma (previously Dairyland) seems destined to feel the biggest surge of economic boost.

"We welcome it," says La Palma's City Manager Burton Wesenberg. "We're ready for it."

IN THAT SIMPLE statement is reflected a complete about-face on the part of La Palma's administration.

The dairy community was incorporated in 1955 with 500 people, 12,000 cows and 70,000 chickens and with the avowed intention by its residents and newly elected councilmen to forever remain a city of dairy farms.

If it had not been for the members of five nearby school districts — each of which covered a portion of La Palma—this could have been the situation today.

The school authorities realized the lower-priced agricultural land could be condemned for school sites more cheaply than in nearby residential areas.

* * * *

THE BOARD members looked—and they acted.

Within three years, the boards had condemned a total of 134 acres and the land was removed from the tax rolls.

The La Palma City Council also took a long, hard look. Its decision: condemnations and spiraling land values spelled doom to the plan of a "city of dairies forever."

A planning consultant was hired. A master plan was drawn. La Palma joined the ranks of other Southland cities on the move and discarded the name of Dairyland.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH LA PALMA covers but 1.7 miles, predictions set the city's population (642 in 1964) at 18,000 by 1975 or sooner.

The first residential development was 1,400 homes at an estimated cost of $70 million. More are to be announced soon.

Security Commission Business Is Assessed

Compiled from Special Dispatches to the Progress Section

Profits on the security commission business of member organizations of the New York Stock Exchange rose in 1965, but one out of five firms showed a loss, the Big Board reports.

Aggregate net profit on security commission business of the 374 firms covered in the survey was 5.8% after estimated Federal income taxes, Exchange President Keith Funston announced. This compares with a net profit of 3.6% for 310 firms in the 1964 survey.

Business Editor
Ken Chilcote
is on vacation. His column will be resumed upon his return.

A total of 87 firms lost money on their security commission business last year, compared with 107 in 1964, or one out of three.

If the least profitable and most profitable firms are eliminated in order to focus on the middle 50%, Funston noted, this gives a better "insight into the performance of a typical firm." When this is done, the aggregate net profit amounted to 4.3%, compared with 2.5% in 1964.

FUNSTON NOTED 1965 was the first year since 1961 that profit on gross commission income exceeded 5%, and the average for the 1961-65 period was 3.7%.

"If it were not for the extraordinarily high volume during the fourth quarter of 1965," the Exchange president observed, "the results last year might have fallen short of 1964."

The fact the sharp gains in volume came suddenly at the end of 1965 "could very well lead to some overstatement of the true profit picture," Funston added. Volume in this period rose more rapidly than the firms could expand their staffs and facilities, he observed. However, since the end of the year both hiring and expansion of operating capacity have been taking place at an accelerated pace.

A disturbing aspect revealed by the survey, Funston said, was that 60% of the firms which lost money on their security business last year received over half of their gross income from security commissions, and some received as much as 80% from this source.

Funston declared the 1965 figures "do not in any sense lessen my concern for the long-term profitability of the security commission business which remained well below that of other financial industries for 1965."

THE LOBBYIST WITH a difference—on the public payroll rather than paid by private interests—is giving U.S. cities a stronger voice in Washington, says a story in BUSINESS WEEK. The story is the first to appear in the magazine's new Cities Department.

The new breed of lobbyist appears as cities grow in economic importance—and as their problems grow. More than 10% of the federal budget goes to assist state and local governments, and probably two-thirds of that goes to urban areas. Other federal programs—urban renewal, welfare, Great Society, and education—are providing billions more for city needs.

The role of the city lobbyist is to sort through these programs and cultivate the funds most needed by his city. Competing with established private interest lobbyists, and with his own kind, the urban lobbyist is growing rapidly in numbers and effectiveness, the magazine points out.

AS THE NATION'S manpower supply continues to tighten, industry's employee demands are rising constantly, according to results of an independent national employment outlook survey conducted by Manpower Inc. The local Manpower office released results of the poll today.

The survey, covering 25 different industries, is conducted through Manpower's network of offices in 350 U.S. cities.

Twenty-nine percent of the businessmen queried forecast a need for additional employees during the third quarter of 1966, while 63% predicted stable employment in their firms. Only 3% said they look for a decrease, and 5% said they don't know.

Analysis of the industries polled nationally shows the greatest increases in employment during the third quarter are forecast in the beverage industry, apparel manufacturing and building construction.

The greatest stability is expected by printers, chemical and allied product wholesalers and retail auto dealers.

Third quarter decreases are expected by very few of the firms surveyed, with the largest percentage prediction a 7% decrease in banking.

EARNINGS IN THE domestic petroleum industry are "well below" those of industry generally and crude oil prices, by any standard, remain "depressed and inadequate," according to F. Allen Calvert Jr., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Calvert, who spoke before a statewide meeting of Michigan IPAA members, pointed out that recently there have been headlines emphasizing the increased earnings in petroleum industry in 1965. "It is true that the rate of return for oil, as well as for all U.S. industry, was up.

"However, I hope no one is misled by the headlines as to oil industry earnings. The rate of return for the domestic operations of 29 larger oil companies, as reported by Chase Manhattan Bank's 'Annual Financial Analysis of a Group of Petroleum Companies 1965,' was 11.3%—up 1.2 percentage points from 1964.

"But, according to Federal Trade Commission and Securities and Exchange Commission figures, the rate of return for all manufacturing industries in 1965 was 13%, up 1.4 percentage points from 1964 and the highest since 1959," he explained.

In each of the past 12 years, the rate of return for domestic petroleum was below the rate for all manufacturing, Calvert said. "Over the past 16 years, the return for oil averaged 0.7 percentage points below manufacturing and in 1965, the well-publicized 'record' year, oil was 1.7 percentage points below manufacturing in general—the biggest gap in six years."

Auto, Steel Slowdowns Showing

After four new highs, the Index levels off this week. Slightly larger than seasonal slowdowns in automobile and steel production affects the chart on the downside, but a big gain in electric power output helps to keep the overall Index figure near its record level of early July.

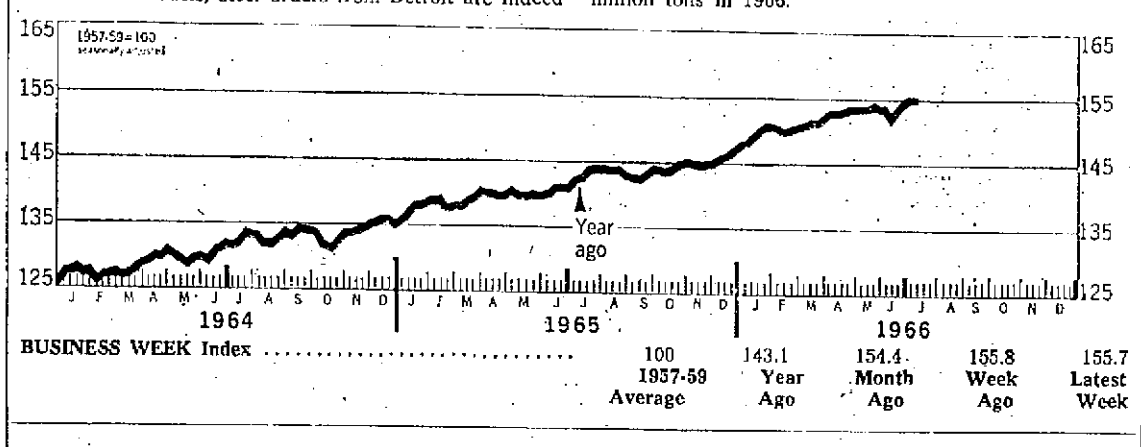

Steel has been an important element in the continuing forward drive of the economy this summer. And this has been true despite the well-publicized drop in auto manufacturing. The auto plants historically account for 20% of steel consumption in a given year, and as the auto plants ease off production because of higher-than-usual new car inventories and an earlier-than-usual changeover to the 1967 models, steel orders from Detroit are indeed affected.

But the slack has been quickly taken up. This week's Index component for steel, for instance, is off just 0.5% on a seasonally-adjusted basis.

THE REASON: a strong level of orders from other durable goods makers, particularly in the appliance field. Viet Nam plays a rising role, too, as steel shipments to makers of defense hardware already account for 5% of market volume, and are increasing sharply.

Steelmen now feel, in fact, that their well-balanced market could assure a record ingot production of 137-million tons in 1966.

FHA Orange County Analysis Shows Rate of Growth Slowing

Special To The Progress Section

The Federal Housing Administration has released its analysis of the Orange County housing market. The study estimates total demand for new housing at 18,650 units a year for the three years dating from July 1, 1965.

Estimated annual demand includes 17,000 sales units and 1,650 rental units. About "2,000 units of demand for sales housing are expected to be in planned unit developments or cooperatives." Rental demand does not include public low-rent housing or rent supplement housing.

Vacancy ratios as of July 1, 1965 were 3.1% for sales units and 13.9% for rental units. Both were "about the same as reported by the 1960 Census of Housing."

RECENTLY BUILDING activity, as measured by building permits authorized, turned down. The volume increased "from nearly 22,000 in 1960 to a peak of almost 37,000 in 1963, then dropped to 28,500 in 1964. The decline has continued in the current (1965) year, particularly in new multifamily units."

"Unemployment has been fairly moderate since 1958 and has rarely exceeded 6% of the civilian labor force." In July 1965, it was "slightly above 5%."

FAMILY INCOMES are expected to rise. In July 1965 the yearly median income of all families was about $8,450, after deduction of Federal income tax. This represented an increase of 24% since 1959.

The median yearly after-tax income of renter families in July, 1965, was about $6,725. By mid-1968, the figures are expected to increase to about $9,000 for all families and to about $7,050 for renter families.

Further increase in population is forecast, but the yearly rate is expected to be below that of the past 15 years. In July 1965 the population was estimated at 1,151,000. In the 1950-60 decade, the yearly rate of increase was 22.6%.

"SINCE THAT time the average growth rate has been about 12% a year; it is expected to decline to about 6.3% a year during the next three years.

INDUSTRY'S EMPLOYEE motivation campaigns are paying dividends on the fighting fronts in Viet Nam, according to the U.S. Air Force. Maj. Gen. Charles H. Terhune Jr., commander of the Air Force System Command's Aeronautical Systems Division, presented a citation to Honeywell's Aeronautical division recently, calling it "a model for the aircraft industry."

General Terhune said Honeywell's specialized controls and instruments are the type of equipment that "almost always spell the difference between success and failure." He said the company's STEP employee motivation program is already paying dividends to the armed forces in terms of combat effectiveness of military weapons systems in Viet Nam.

STEP (Strive Toward Error-free Performance) was instituted about a year ago and has achieved what General Terhune called "significant" cost improvements totaling more than $7 million. These savings were realized in such areas as improved manufacturing processes, engineering re-design methods, and streamlined administrative reporting and inventory control record keeping.

"FRANCHISING" IS BIG business. So much so, the Labor Department recently signed an agreement with a big eastern college for the training of 1,000 high school students in the franchise business. A franchise sets up a person—or a company—as an independent enterpriser, representing a larger firm with an established product line, service, and reputation.

The agreement was made to assist the franchising industry and expand a new job market . . . A recent survey on depreciation of money reveals that we in the United States are not the only ones having difficulty making money stretch. Declines in money value in 1965 surpassed the 10-year average in 31 of the 45 countries surveyed. In most of the countries spiraling food prices induced by production shortages of cereal grains and meat caused the shrinkage. For the 10-year period as a whole, the median rate of depreciation for the 45 countries was 3.3% a year.

AMERICAN TOURISTS TRAVELING abroad this summer can find American-style greeting cards to send home in no less than 75 countries around the world. In many of these countries greeting cards were almost unknown as recently as 10 years ago, a spokesman for Hallmark Cards pointed out, but now they are frequently available in both English and the language of the country.

In France, for example, Hallmark is producing greetings in French for domestic exchange, and its own English-language cards are imported from Great Britain and sold in resort hotels and gift shops frequented by tourists.

The custom of exchanging cards is catching on also in Japan, Germany and even in some African countries, and the company is producing cards in these countries in Japanese, German and Afrikaans. American tourists frequently select foreign language greetings to send home because of their novelty, even though those receiving them can't speak the language.

THINGS TO COME—If you're a "blues" fan and you like to play the harmonica there is a new mouth organ designed especially for you. Called the "Blues Harp," its 10-hole diatonic scale is similar to that of most harmonicas, but certain design changes are said to make it ideal when playing the "blues" . . . Water ski enthusiasts can now enjoy ski bindings that conform exactly to the bone structure of the feet, with complete foot comfort, it's claimed. The bindings, known as "Formulastic," are said to be tougher and more tear-resistant than other bindings. . . . If you like privacy, a new fence has been designed that permits you to look out, but makes it difficult for anyone to look in. The fence is perforatetd for free circulation of air and visibility.

NEWEST COMMUNITY

La Palma Landmark Homes Continue to Attract Buyers

Prices at Landmark Homes in La Palma continue to attract area homeseekers, according to Sales Manager R. C. Morrison. A down payment of just 5% is required, he adds, with flexible financing at 6% also available. According to Morrison, one of the features really appreciated at the East Lakewood Landmark homesite is the spacious 3-car garage.

Preview homeseekers are invited to visit the model area in the the city of La Palma now. Located at the intersection of Moody Street and La Palma Avenue, this newest Landmark Homes community will eventually comprise some 360 homes.

* * * *

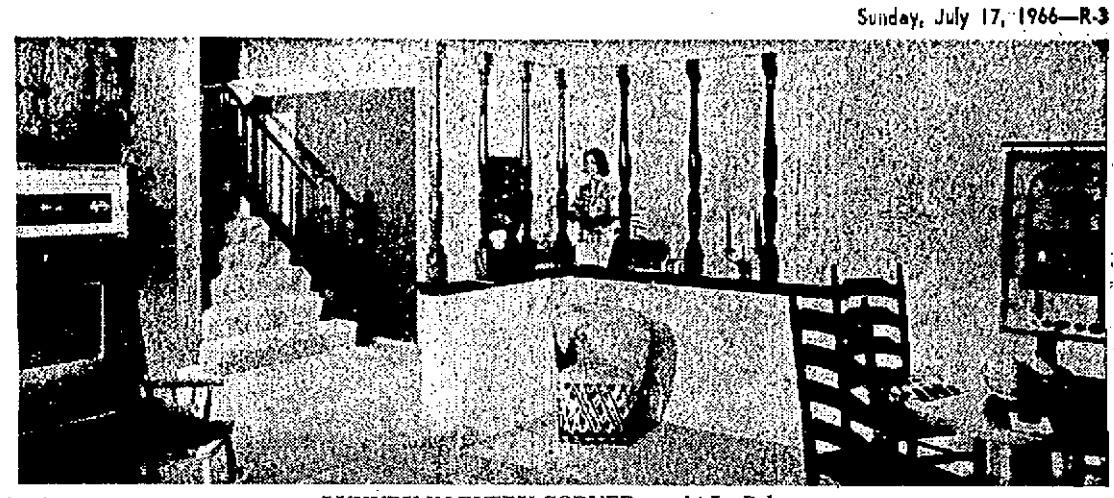

ALL HOMES ARE two-story and feature underground utilities, carpeting, fencing, landscaping, sprinklers, optional air conditioning, walk-in closets and the usual long list of Landmark Homes Exclusives.

A general plan for developing La Palma as the community of the "Ideal American City" has been approved by the city councilmen. The development of residential, commercial and industrial land is expected by 1975. The master plan calls for 490 acres of low-density residential housing, 88 acres in "town house" construction and 69 acres in high density apartments.

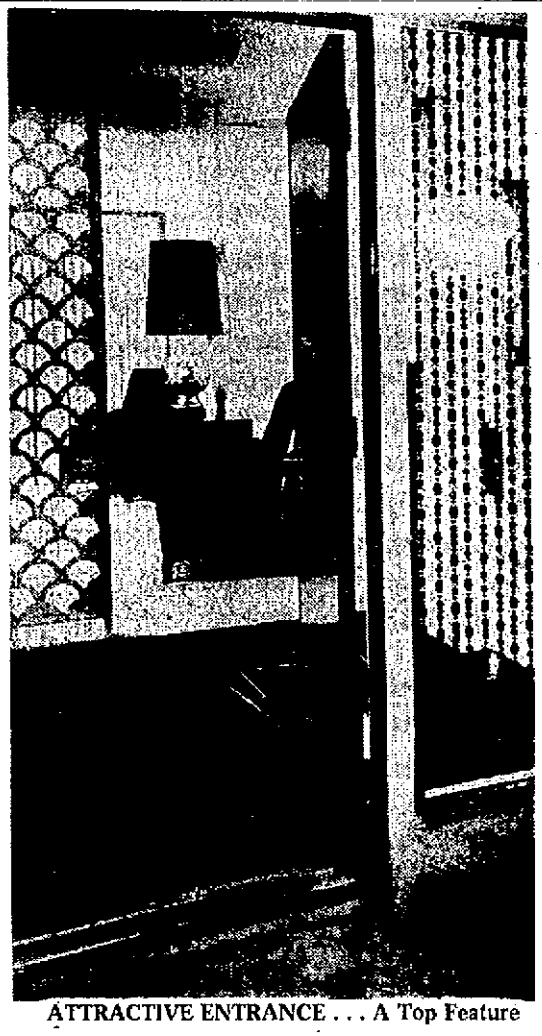

* * * *

LA PALMA IS considered prime property, only 15 miles from Los Angeles, and is located near the famed facilities of Disneyland and Knotts Berry Farm, in the heart of a rapidly developing commercial area.

Landmark projects now under construction comprise in excess of 1,500 homes. The Santa Ana-based building firm is located at 1538 North Century Boulevard.

* * * *

NEWPORT RIVIERA families live in two, three or four-bedroom townhouse homes, with either two or three baths.

On a year's lease basis starting from $225 a month, the apartments include nylon carpeting in all but utility areas, drapes, sun decks on some models, private fenced patios, fireplaces, family rooms and/or dens in additon to a host of other better living features.

The homes may also be purchased, with a two-story, three-bedroom, three-bath home priced at $24,950, under a unique new lease-option plan.

Four model townhouse apartments are open for admiration from 9 a.m. to dusk every day. Newport Riviera is located on Tustin Avenue, between Santa Isabel and Monte Vista Avenues, on the Costa Mesa side of Newport Back Bay.

Trade Up to luxury tri-level living...

Who says you have to move all the way to Orange County if you're looking for a moderately-priced home! Step up, move up to Ray Watt's Sun Ray Park in Dairy Valley. It's right around the corner from where you are today.

Just as many of your neighbors feel, you're probably at that stage when:

- your present home is too small for your growing family
- the neighborhood isn't what it used to be
- your present home is about to need some costly repair work
- you've built up a good equity in your home

If this sounds like you, you're our kind of people, and Sun Ray Park is your kind of community.

You'll find Southern California's finest trade plan tailor-made for you at Sun Ray Park. In many cases you'll make that step up with no money down. Your present home will more than cover the down payment.

Sun Ray Park has the perfect home for you and your family in the perfect Southland location. And now that the San Gabriel River Freeway is open — all the way from the San Diego Freeway to the San Gabriel Valley — you have immediate access to all of Southern California.

Come to Sun Ray Park today! You're just a short step away from that big step up!

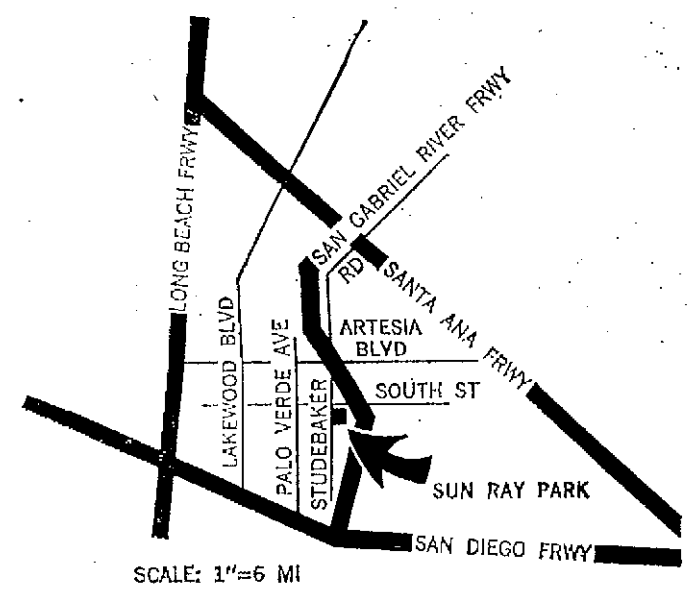

Sun Ray Park is conveniently located on Studebaker Road at South Street. The newly-opened San Gabriel River Freeway is only one minute away (use the South St. off-ramp). Sun Ray Park is only 10 minutes away from both the San Diego and Santa Ana Freeways. Beautifully furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Telephone 860-2408. A development of the R. A. Watt Company.

Freeway Means Convenience for Most Sun Ray Park Buyers

"Now that the San Gabriel River Freeway is completed, Sun Ray Park in Dairy Valley can add 'convenient location' to its lists of conveniences," notes R. A. Watt's regional sales director Wes Lohrey.

"The South Street ramp," Lohrey observes, "provides Sun Ray Park residents with instant access to this newest Southern California freeway, and from there you're on your way to any point in the Southland."

* * * *

THE SAN GABRIEL River Freeway interchanges with the Santa Ana and San Diego Freeways. It will also connect with the proposed Artesia Freeway, which in turn will link up with the Long Beach Freeway.

This convenient network of freeway transportation puts downtown Los Angeles, Orange County and other major industrial centers within easy commuting distance of Sun Ray Park.

* * * *

THE AWARD-WINNING homes at Sun Ray Park are priced from only $31,250. Included in the purchase price is a Balanced Power kitchen with O'Keefe & Merritt gas range and oven, automatic dishwasher and In-Sink-Erator food waste disposer.

Every home is carpeted wall-to-wall with 100% continuous filament nylon.

Sun Ray Park's sales office is located at Studebaker Road and Bigelow Street, one block south of South Street in Dairy Valley. The models and sales office are open daily from 10 a.m. until dark.

Near $4,000 Savings Is Realized at Rossmoor

A once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to save $3,966 on the purchase of a new home will be in effect this weekend at Rossmoor Townhouses, the $4 million subcommunity of homes immediately adjacent to Rossmoor Shopping and Business Center on Los Alamitos Boulevard.

Pete Blair, sales manager for Rossmoor Townhouses, said the almost $4,000 in savings has been made possible by continuation of the low 6% mortgage rate at Rossmoor despite the upping of the prevailing mortgage rate to 7% throughout the housing industry.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, Rossmoor Townhouses will continue to make available a plan for the purchase of homes for only $450 down.

Priced at $22,950 and $23,950, these three- and four-bedroom homes still offer a choice of exterior elevations and floor plans. A vast array of added features include GE medallion kitchens with built-in Americana oven and range, disposal, dishwasher, and combination washer-dryer.

* * * *

ROSSMOOR Townhouse residents have access to fun facilities including four pools, shuffleboard courts, putting greens, barbecue pits and a private modern club house. All exterior maintenance is taken care of by a professional staff.

Rossmoor Townhouses may be reached via the San Diego Freeway or Seventh Street to the Los Alamitos-Bay Boulevards exit, then north two blocks to Los Alamitos Boulevard.

Westhaven Grand Opening to Continue Through Weekend

Grand opening of the prestige community of Westhaven in Westminster and Fountain Valley will be continued this weekend with refreshments being served to all visitors today from 1 to 5 p.m., according to Larry Shields, builder-developer of the new 800-home community.

Westhaven, which occupies a 200-acre site, will also contain a park, several school sites and a shopping and business center when fully completed. The homes are available in a variety of one and two-story designs ranging from Mediterranean to ranch, Spanish and contemporary.

* * * *

THE GOLD Medallion homes offer a wide selection of floor plans with many features such as sunken living rooms in some models, family rooms, three-car garages and the new Patio Kitchen, with a special serve-through bar leading to the rear patio.

The homes contain from 1,450 to 2,650 square feet and are priced from $26,950 to $34,500, according to Frank McFarland, exclusive sales agent for the development.

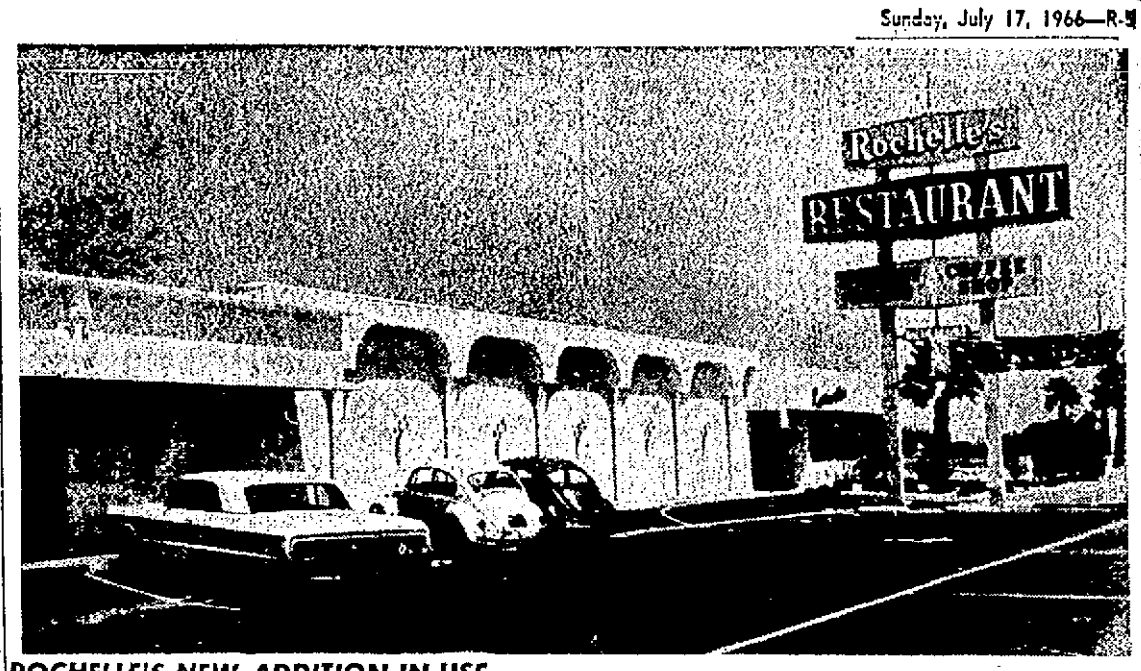

The model homes area, on Brookhurst Street between McFadden and Edinger Avenues, features four furnished and decorated model homes and an unusual sales and information center of Mediterranean styling, with a custom tile roof, stained glass windows and wrought iron grilles. This building will later become a part of the professional center planned in conjunction with the shopping and commercial complex of Westhaven, McFarland said.

* * * *

LOCATED IN THE center of Orange County, Westhaven is close to established shopping and business centers, schools, churches and a variety of recreational areas.

All utility lines in the new development are underground, affording residents a view unmarred by unsightly poles and wires.

Westhaven is ideally situated, just minutes from the Garden Grove-San Diego Freeways and Highway 39.

ROCHELLE'S NEW ADDITION IN USE

Rochelle's Restaurant, 3333 Lakewood Blvd., Long Beach, has put to use its $90,000 addition after recent grand opening ceremonies. MAX J. DURHAM . . . Tramped the Desert

Harbor Engineering Supervisor Retires

By ELLIOT ZWIEBACH

Max J. Durham, 60, retires from the Harbor Department on Aug. 1 after 31 years of municipal service.

The Durham family came to Long Beach from Galesburg, Ill., in 1908 and settled in an area of the city then known as "Zaferia."

While attending Polytechnic High School ("the only high school in the area"), he worked as a locker room boy and lifeguard at the YMCA and as a sports reporter on the Long Beach Press-Telegram.

MAJORING IN CIVIL engineering at UCLA, Durham also participated in basketball, baseball and swimming. He was commissioned as a second lieutenant in college ROTC and, following promotions during the war and in the reserves, retired as a lieutenant colonel last January.

Durham had to leave UCLA in 1929 because of the depression. He found work with the Colorado River Survey, now known as the Metropolitan Water District.

During his four years on the job he made four trips afoot from Pomona to the Colorado River, a distance of about 250 miles.

LATER, DURHAM worked as a construction inspector for the Survey, as an assistant engineer for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation on the Parker Dam and Central Valley projects, and as an engineering inspector for the Harbor Department.

Durham worked on the construction of army camps during the war and remained with the military as an engineering consultant for 10 years, living in Japan, the Philippines and China with his wife Dorothy and daughter Vicki.

He rejoined the Harbor Department in 1950 and has served it in various capacities since, most recently as harbor engineering supervisor, in charge of land management.

TO DURHAM, who resides at 5125 E. Ocean Blvd., retirement will not mean an end of activity. He intends to assist his wife in her real estate business, fish and continue his activities in the Uptown Kiwanis Club, the YMCA, the Military Order of World Wars, the Retired Officers Association and the Reserve Officers Association.

He also wants to become active in the Long Beach Historical Society.

NEWEST STATUS SYMBOL

Aluminum Prefabs for Second Homes

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A Pittsburgh businessman is capitalizing on America's newest status symbol—the second home.

Ivan Kaplan, president of Holiday Homes of Bridgeville, Pa., has been test-marketing prefabricated aluminum houses and lodges designed for casual use in the Pittsburgh area.

Kaplan at first geared the do-it-yourself structures to weekend use as skiing and hunting retreats but now envisions the houses as suitable for permanent residences.

The houses, built of honeycomb core snadwich panels, are constructed in two and three-bedroom models. They can be erected with a normal three-man crew in five days and dismantled in two days, making the home portable. The homes, in addition to being erected in the conventional way, can be put in place on elevated piers or foundation blocks or with a full basement.

* * * *

EACH PANEL and each extrusion is specifically numbered, making installation an easy procedure. The aluminum homes range in price from $1,100 for a 9' by 15' unit to $6,000 for a three-bedroomer.

Kaplan said a feature of the home is that it is relatively maintenance-free.

"We've had an incredible reaction from viewers who have inspected the homes," Kaplan said. "They have filled out thousands of questionaires, but we've been struck by a common factor which seems to have impressed them most. It's the maintenance-free quality of aluminum construction."

* * * *

HE SAID he feels the homes will receive a warm reception as a dual purpose vacation-retirement home.

"There's a market for them," he said.

Kaplan senses a potential of 40 million pounds of aluminum in vacation homes in the next five years. In projecting his figures to arrive at the 40-million-pound figure for the use of aluminum. Kaplan estimates each of his homes will use 4,000 pounds of the metal. He forsees the sale of 10,000 of these homes between now and 1971.

College Park Closer to Mountains With Completion of Freeway

Already enjoying the proximity of all beaches in the South Bay area, S. & S. Construction Co.'s College Park in Seal Beach now is figuratively closer to the mountains with the completion of the new 10-mile section of the San Gabriel River Freeway.

"This new segment of the freeway, linking Seventh Street in Long Beach with the previously opened section to the San Gabriel Valley, ties in with the Santa Ana, Garden Grove and San Diego Freeways," says sales manager Mark Bader.

* * * *

OTHER STIMULANTS of the increased home seekers traffic at the new development, Bader adds, are prices starting at $26,250 that appeal to first time home buy- features found in more expensive homes, and a choice of 42 exterior stylings and 11 floor plans.

Seven College Park models are open daily. The one and two-story and tri-level plans provide two to five bedrooms and living areas ranging from 1,300 to 2,250 square foot.

In addition to built-ins, the homes feature informal eating bars, kitchen nooks, and formal dining rooms. Some models have fireplaces in their master bedrooms.

* * * *

ALL COLLEGE PARK utilities are underground, and driveways are concrete. Walls and ceilings are lath and plaster for noise and fire resistance as well as easy maintenance.

Bader says conventional, VA and FHA terms are available with servicemen who qualify for 30-year loans being able to move-in with no downpayment.

College Park homes are just north of the Valley View Boulevard turnoff from the San Diego-Garden Grove Freeway.

PROMOTES TWO MEN

Robert L. Ashley (left), of Pico Rivera, and Thomas C. Casey, of Corona del Mar, members of the trust department, First American Title Insurance & Trust Company, Santa Ana, have been promoted to assistant vice presidents and assistant trust officers.

Orange Co. Firms Get 7 Contracts

Seven Orange County electronics firms have been awarded new contracts totaling more than $22 million for defense and space exploration.

Aeronutronic at Newport Beach was assigned three projects by the U.S. Missile Command. It will modify the guidance and control for the Shillelagh ground-to-ground missile system for Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, under a $1,327,000 contract.

* * * *

MODIFICATION and research for the Shillelagh system will cost $1,624,890 under an additional contract for the Missile Command at Huntsville, Ala., and a third contract for $1,015,560 is for guidance and control equipment for Shillelagh.

Autonetics at Anaheim got a U.S. Air Force order for $4 million for components for the Minuteman system, and an Army contract for $1.3 million for an automatic data processing facility for field equipment.

* * * *

HUGHES AIRCRAFT Co. of Fullerton was awarded a $2 million Army contract for 438 portable combat radio sets and 146 power packs.

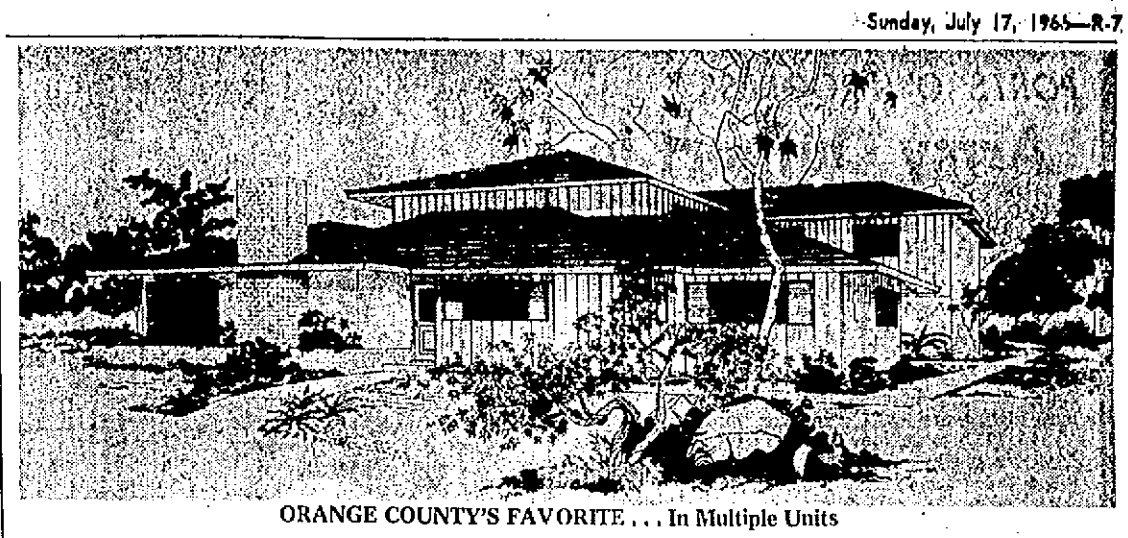

Fruehauf Corporation's military products division at Fullerton won a Defense Supply Center contract for $11 million for reusable metal shipping boxes for the military.

The initial shipment of 4,000 of the order of 25,000 boxes will be due in October, and Fruehauf said it will hire 400 more welders and shop helpers and start double shifts in its plant to meet the schedule.

Franciscan Fourplex Renting Quickly, Bayport Head Says

Franciscan fourplex apartments in Central Orange County have attained a remarkable success of both selling and renting quickly, with the latest of 21 deluxe apartment buildings 50% sold out, it was announced by Richard T. Brown, president of the Bayport Financial Corp.

This new group of multiple apartments, located across from the Anaheim Bowl and south of the Fed Mart Department store at Lincoln and Mueller, was chosen for the strategic location of shopping and easy access to all freeways.

Fifth in a series of fourplex apartment buildings, the Bayport Development Corporation, has sold more than 300 income units in the Franciscon developments in Garden Grove and Westminster in the past 36 months.

Bayport has conducted extensive research in the architectural design of multiple housing, as well as in the use of high quality materials on apartment houses.

A Franciscan fourplex contains an owner's suite, and three rental units. The owner's residence has three bedrooms, two baths, a distinctive fireplace in the living room and a private patio. The two bedroom apartments on the second floor have huge balconies, and the one bedroom unit on the ground level also has a private patio and a private entrance.

The apartments are selling with only 6.6% interest and on very long terms of financing, sales manager William Gordon stated.

From Long Beach to the Franciscan Apartments, take Carson Boulevard, east (to Orange County) or Lincoln and continue one mile east of Brookhurst to the corner of Lincoln (near the Anaheim Bowl) and Muller and turn north one block to the models.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

Army Outport in Busy War Effort

By JACK O. BALDWIN

Escalation of the Viet Nam war is reflected in figures released this week by the traffic manager of the Port of Long Beach.

Capt. John Rountree reported that during the past April the amount of Army Outport activity was almost eight times that of the same month a year ago.

In 1965, cargo moving across the Army Outport facility amounted to 11,176 short tons. A year later, this tonnage had jumped to 89,718 tons.

ANTICIPATING THE International Longshoreman's and Warehouseman's Union and the Pacific Maritime Association will reach an agreement on wage increases, ports and terminals up and down the coast are issuing emergency price increases for all cargo handling services involving labor. In the Northwest, rates have jumped 20%.

Effective July 21, railcar loading and unloading charges at Los Angeles and Long Beach will be increased by 17%.

ALTHOUGH THE TWO SOUTHLAND ports were effective in forcing the Port of San Diego to reduce the amount of free time it was granting for the use of docks and warehouses, the port has attempted to counteract the edict of the Federal Maritime Commission by drastically reducing its wharf storage rates.

LAST WEEK the Railway Express Agency inaugurated weekly container service from Long Beach-Los Angeles-San Francisco to Yokohama, Hong Kong and Manila.

REPRESENTATIVES OF A MAJOR Japanese trading company are negotiating with an area firm to buy sizeable quantities of coke for the Japanese aluminum and graphite electrode industries. If the purchase is made, the tonnage now moving through Lake Charles, La., will move instead through the Port of Long Beach.

Twenty-three students received certificates from Gene Kadow, 23rd District vice president of CREA, before 350 representatives from CREA members from all of Orange County.

Students must complete 24 units of college work with a satisfactory grade point average in order to qualify for the certificate. A total of 432 classroom hours of study plus outside reading comprise the course.

ROBERT PETERS, coordinator of Real Estate at SAC, explained the certificate is recognized throughout the state, and units are transferable to the University of California for a Real Estate major.

Peters said the program at SAC is under the direction of Frank Rediman, Business Division chairman, and is designed to upgrade the real estate profession.

Dilday Family Acquires Lakewood Mortuary

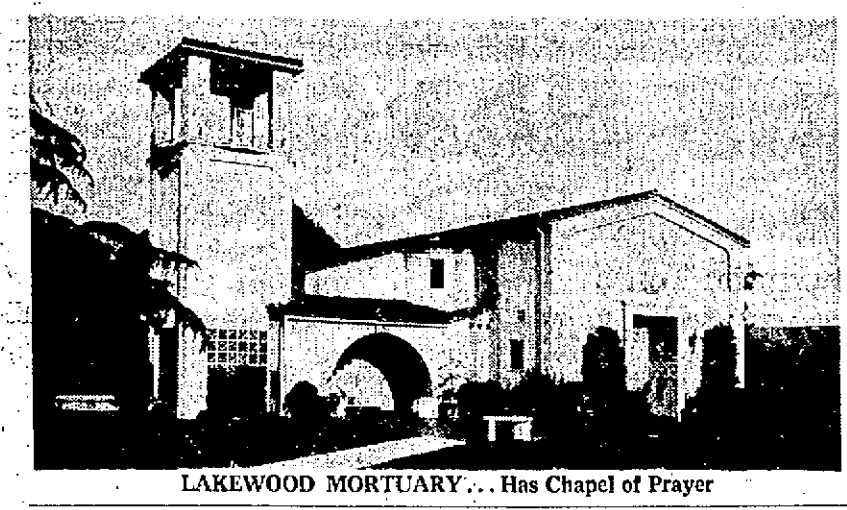

N. JACK DILDAY JR.

Initial step in a planned program of expansion for Dilday Family Funeral Directors has been acquisition of Lakewood Mortuary, 3936 Woodruff Ave., according to N. Jack Dilday Jr., vice president of the firm.

Francis F. Cannon, George L. Quirk and John G. Luyben Jr., previous directors, will remain as members of the Lakewood staff and will continue serving families of all faiths in the Long Beach, Lakewood, Paramount and Bellflower areas, Dilday said.

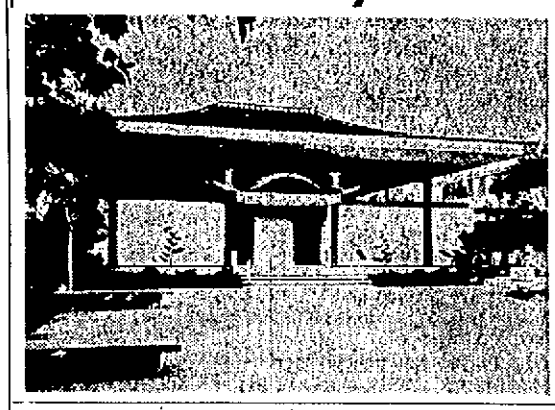

The new facility features the beautiful Chapel of Prayer, erected in 1961 and which seats 250 people, and more than an acre of parking space.

With purchase of Lakewood Mortuary, Dilday Family marks its 40th year of activity in the Long Beach area and offers the additional services of the downtown mortuary, 1250 Pacific Ave., both air and land ambulance service and flower shop facilities.

Sears Eyes Record Year in Advertising

Sears, Roebuck and Co. expects to top the $100 million mark for newspaper advertising this year, it was announced in Chicago by James W. Button, vice president in charge of merchandising.

This estimate is based on preliminary reports and forecasts from more than 790 Sears retail stores in every state except Alaska, he said. The company's retail advertising is placed locally by its retail stores.

Noting that the company is celebrating its 80th anniversary this year, Button said:

"We are proud to rank at the top among users of newspaper advertising, which has been the case for many years. The fact that our retail stores place this confidence in the power of newspapers, however, is not based on historical reasons.

"RATHER, IT IS tangible evidence that newspaper readership continues to reach new heights each year, and that newspaper advertising is regarded as the most effective way of bringing our merchandise message to the public."

In announcing the estimate for 1966 retail ad expenditures, Sears also reported newspaper advertising in 1965 reached a new record of $93,440,000. This represented an increase of $17 million over the previous year.

Pre-Fab Homes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Interest in the pre-fabricated house is on the rise, according to building specialists at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, who report nearly one out of every four new homes built in the United States last year was a pre-fab.

The number of pre-fabricated one-family houses built in 1965 was 232,829—24% of all one-family housing starts—and a 4% increase over 1964.

PPP Meeting Wednesday Noon at Club

Norm Woest, an assistant vice president for Title Insurance and Trust Company, Los Angeles, will present an illustrated-lecture program at Wednesday's meeting of the Petroleum Production Pioneers, Tom Harrison, vice chairman, announced.

The meeting is scheduled at noon at the Long Beach Petroleum Club.

* * * *

THE PROGRAM, entitled entitled "Yesterday," will take members on a tour of the Southland as it looked during the late 1800s and at the turn of the century.

The slides in the program have been made from photographs belonging to the famous historical collection of Title Insurance and Trust Company. This collection, which dated back to 1850, is one of the largest of its kind.

Long Beach Ad Club to Hear Houdyshell

Speaker at Thursday's noon luncheon at the Reef Restaurant of the Advertising Club of Long Beach will be Keith Houdyshell, vice president in charge of public relations at Belmont Savings.

His topic: "Do-It-Yourself Psychiatry."

ELEVATED

Norman A. Hodgson, assistant manager in First Western Bank's Long Beach main office since 1964, has been appointed assistant vice president in the same office, according to Vice President-Manager Max E. Nichols. Hodgson lives in Huntington Beach.

Priebe to Address Long Beach Realtors

Speaker at Tuesday's 7:15 a.m. breakfast meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors at the Crown Cafeteria will be Russell Priebe, director of planning and development, Long Beach Amusement Company.

Program chairman Week Morgan said Priebe's topic will be "The Redevelopment of the West Beach."

Airline Strike Hurts Supply of Produce

NEW YORK (AP)—The heat and the airline strike are shriveling supplies of fruit and vegetables in the nation's supermarkets.

Days of temperatures in the 90s and 100s have wilted lima beans in Wisconsin, burned peas in Minnesota, and cut the size of apricots and peaches in California and tomatoes in the middle Atlantic States.

"It has been rough on vegetables," a New York area supermarket spokesman said. "There has been considerable damage to the crops east of the Mississippi."

"It's not just the growing conditions," said a New York produce wholesaler. "You have to sell the produce quickly. You can't play with it too long in this weather."

* * * *

THE AIRLINE strike has added to the problem, cutting the supplies of strawberries and cherry tomatoes flown east from California.

Lobster lovers are suffering, too.

Shipments of lobster from New England to the Southwest, South and Midwest have been curtailed sharply.

Additional Model Home Open in El Dorado Park Estates, L.B.

Opening of an additional model home priced at $40,450 has evoked new interest in El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach, according to a spokesman for S. & S. Construction Co., the builder-developer.

A total of six furnished models may be viewed daily, no two homes in the walled community are exactly alike, and buyers may choose the custom-featured model they desire and locate it on the lot of their choice, the spokesman says, adding:

* * * *

"THE NEW MODEL features three bedrooms, 2½ baths and brick or Palos Verdes stone fronting is optional. It has an elevated formal dining room, step-down living room, family room with fireplace and wet bar, and near floor level tub in the bath for the master bedroom—all typical of the many, varied extras found in these homes."

Priced from $36,850 to $46,500, El Dorado homes offer a choice of 52 stylings in one and two-story and tri-level designs. Eleven floor plans meet the requirements of families of all sizes.

* * * *

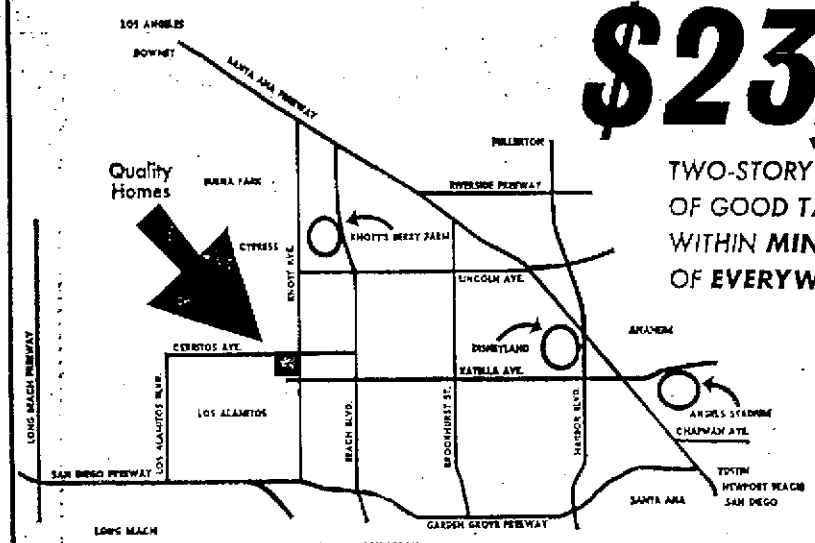

ALSO FEATURED are concrete driveways and lath and plaster walls and ceilings, as well as all-electric built-in kitchens and full carpeting. The homes are located only a short distance from the new El Dorado Park and Golf Course.

To reach the project, take the Los Alamitos turnoff from the San Diego Freeway, drive north to Spring Street, then left on Spring to the sales office and model homes.

Belmont Shore Showplace of 1920s Soon to Be Razed

In the 1920s, the Selover Mansion at 5420 E. Ocean Blvd. was the showplace of Belmont Shore. Now it is almost indistinguishable from dozens of other pre-war beach residences, and soon it will be razed to add to the city's beach area.

It is ironic that the mansion, once used as a tourist attraction to promote land sales, should leave no mark but the land.

The house, built by Samuel A. Selover, had most unusual features.

Selover, a realtor and one of the developers of Belmont Shore and Belmont Park, invested thousands of dollars in the mansion's basement, which came to be known nationally as The Cave.

* * * *

THE CAVE had an elaborate system of red, orange and blue lights that could be brightened or dimmed for varied effects.

The entranceway to The Cave was an 80-foot-long grotto with stalactities, crevices, pools and waterfalls, all specially lighted.

The Cave itself, a room 20 by 33 feet, had quartz and ornamental rocks imbedded in the ceilings and walls, and a floor of tile, imported from Belgium.

In its heyday The Cave included a kitchenette, sewing room, music room, lounge, dressing rooms, shower, billiard table, fireplace and barbaque.

* * * *

THE CAVE was formed on three sides by a 19-foot-high sea wall that served as part of the mansion's foundation. The roof of The Cave was the family patio.

The house originally served as the summer residence of the Selovers, who lived in Pasadena. It is not certain when the house was built. Not even Mrs. Lucille Selover, of 149 Siena Drive, remembers. She is the widow of Sam Selover's son and the oldest living Selover.

"It's been there for a very long time," she recalls, "I've been in Long Beach since 1924, and I can remember my husband's family coming down to the beach every summer for many years before that."

* * * *

WHEN THE Selovers made the summer home their permanent residence in 1926, they began adding rooms. During the 1930s, the first floor was the family living quarters, the second story was a guest apartment and the third floor was the servants' quarters.

When Selover's son, Howard, began college, a special apartment was added for him over the garage.

Since 1948, when Sam's widow, Clara, moved out of the house, the building has been rented out as four apartments.

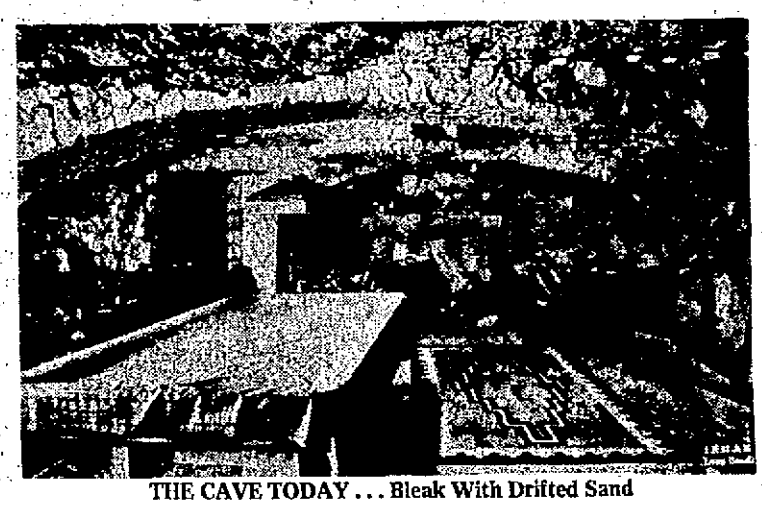

* * * *

LAST MONTH, the city purchased the Selover Mansion for $85,000 and intends to demolish it to provide additional beach facilities as part of its 30-year policy.

The exterior of the house is dilapidated. The Cave is even more so. Its elegance began to disappear after the earthquake in 1933, when the walls crumbled and sand began to seep in.

Despite thousands of dollars spent on trying to restore it, The Cave was never the same. Today the walls of the grotto are no longer attractive and the tile floor is buried under four feet of sand.

All that remains are the memories.

THE CAVE TODAY . . . Bleak With Drifted Sand

THIS WAS THE CAVE . . . Back in the 1920s

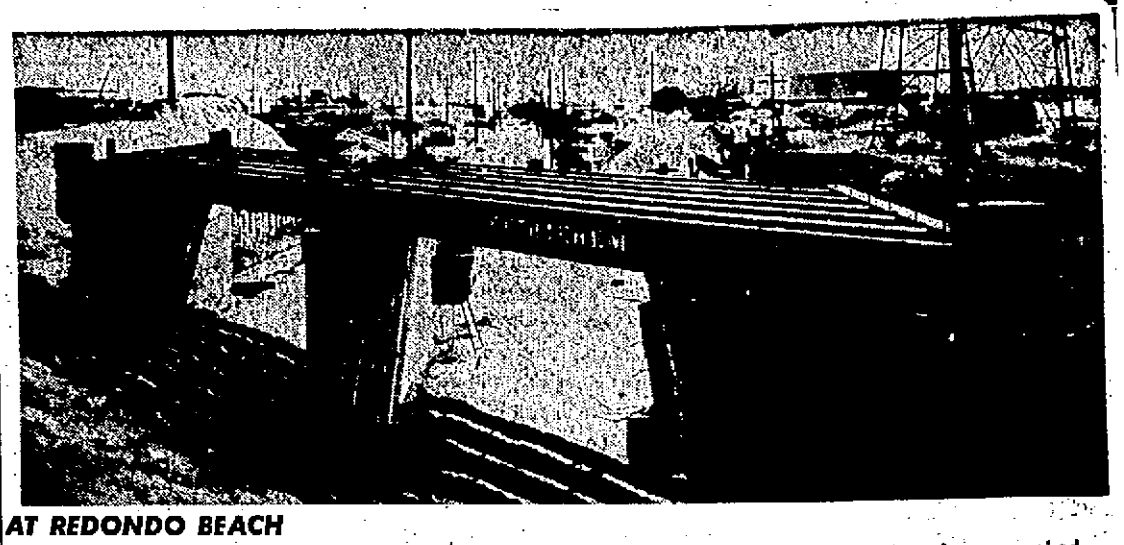

Smith Agency Staff Members Attend Meeting

Seven members of the Ronald A. Smith Agency, Equitable Life Assurance Society, Long Beach, participated in a four-day career advancement institute last week at the Newporter Inn.

They included Ronald A. Smith, Michael S. Newton, Tony A. Lynch, Ted Alexander, Howard Patrick, CLU, Robert W. Watson and Virgil F. Bunn. Qualification for the meeting was the result of sales records and policyholder service or development of successful agents.

Solar Flares

The high-energy particles from solar flares travel in well-defined streams that twist around one another.

AT REDONDO BEACH

Erected in two working days, 84-foot-long railroad bridge steel across Redondo Beach's Ripley Avenue extension heralds future reduction in heavy traffic congestion around city's principal shopping center. Ripley, which previously deadended at railroad embankment, is to be more used since Hawthorne Avenue and Artesia Boulevard, serving the center, have reached saturation of 50,000 cars a day each. Railroad bridge is 18 feet wide and boasts seven rows of girders fabricated from Bethlehem wide-flange steel beams. General contractor is Sully-Miller Contracting Co., Long Beach. Completion is scheduled in mid-August.

Walker & Lee Occupies New Executive Quarters

In a dramatic reorganization move designed to increase efficiency and streamline corporate function, Walker & Lee, Inc., pioneer California real estate concern, has consolidated its principal divisions and services in new executive quarters at 1477 South Manchester Ave., Anaheim.

The merged departments occupy 10,000 square feet, the complete fourth floor of the new Orange County Chamber of Commerce Building and here, according to Frank Hart, president of the firm, will be housed Special Sales Projects, formerly located at 2580 W. Lincoln Ave., Anaheim; Subdivision Sales-Acreage & Marketing Departments, which had been headquartered in Newport Beach; Commercial & Industrial Department, moving from offices at 730 N. Euclid Ave., Anaheim, and the Accounting Division, moving from 5505 Carson St., Lakewood.

* * * *

FOR THE present, the Residential Income & Investment Department will remain at its present address, 853 Atlantic Ave., Long Beach.

The move will bring all the Walker & Lee top executives together at the new hadquarters for the first time. They are DeWitt Lee, chairman of the board; Frank R. Hart, president and chief executive officer; William T. Chesney, senior vice president in charge of special projects; William H. McCabe, senor vice president in charge of resale division; William O. Thagard, senior vice president in charge of subdivision sales, commercial & industrial acreage & marketing research.

* * * *

IT IS BELIEVED the move to centralize executive and administrative functions will increase contact and communication with the widespread network of Walker & Lee from ETAOINto ETAOINET sales offices which extend from Ventura to San Diego Counties and whose personnel is involved in the sale of dozens of important subdivisions throughout the Southland.

With an enviable record of selling more than 70,000 homes, one of Walker & Lee's signal successes in the past year has been the successful development and sale of choice desert properties at La Quinta, where a planned community adjacent to hotel and golf course has had an amazing acceptance with more than 90% of the available sites marked "sold" by the season's end.

* * * *

North Long Beach REC Plans Forum

An open forum is planned at the breakfast meeting of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club at 8 a.m. Thursday at the Park Pantry, 17511 S. Susasa Road.

Bruce Kunkelm and Al Stack will act as moderators.

ANAHEIM PLANT EXPANDS

Expanded coating facilities at Fluorocarbon Company, Anaheim, include walk-in spray booth (at left) and huge oven (at right). Smaller oven in between has been in use by the firm which has highly developed process for spray-coating metal surfaces with Teflon, followed by controlled heat fusion.

Sully-Miller's Record of Safety Pays

Industrial Indemnity Company, workmen's compensation insurance carrier for the Sully-Miller Contracting Company of Long Beach, has presented the firm with a dividend check for $120,000, reflecting the success of Sully-Miller's accident prevention activities.

William S. Price, Los Angeles resident vice president for Industrial Indemnity, presented the dividend check to W. Duane Rash, Sully-Miller vice-president and treasurer.

The $120,000 dividend is a direct result of the safety program, set up under the direction of the safety engineering department of Leatherby Insurance Service and Industrial Indemnity's safety engineering staff.

* * * *

THIS OUTSTANDING safety program coupled with the carrier's claims analysis service has sharply decreased the firm's number of accidents—with a corresponding dramatic drop in their loss ratio—since its inauguration.

Sully-Miller owns 10 asphalt plants, several live rock plants, and has nearly 900 road construction employes. Construction activities include building roads, freeways, parking lots, playgrounds and other paving work; grading, earthmoving and preparation of home sites for tract builders.

SPACE SYSTEMS DIVISION

Torrance Men Head of Contractor Relations

Special to the Progress Section

Two South Bay Area residents head up the Contractor Relations and Small Business Division at the Air Force Systems Command, Space Systems Division, Los Angeles Air Force Station.

Thomas R. Schaus, chief of the division, who resides at 4218 Paseo Tortugas, and Lurman Neal, deputy chief, Ave., have been residents of Torrance for the past several years.

Contractors, both large and small, who wish to do business with the Air Force are briefed by the Contractor Relations Office relative to opportunities available. The contractors in turn register their capabilities in their areas of interest.

* * * *

THERE ARE approximately 3,000 contractors who are presently registered at the Space Systems Division.

All new proposed procurement (approximately $1.5 billion per year) are routed through the Contractor Relations and Small Business Office and a list of those contractors considered to be qualified for the particular procurement are furnished to the Contracting Officer for consideration.

Schaus and his staff are also responsible for the Department of Defense Contractor Performance Evaluation Program for those contractors doing work for the Space Systems Division.

This program was established by the Department of Defense to determine whether the government is getting a good product for its money and whether research and development work is being competently managed.

3 Mayfair Markets Opened

Supermarket history was made last week with the simultaneous opening of three new markets by Mayfair.

J. Earl Garrett, chief executive officer of Mayfair, stated: "This is the first time in history, to our knowledge, any supermarket company has opened the doors of three brand new stores at the same instant. These openings are indicative of expansion plans under way at Mayfair."

By special electronic hookup, the three ribbon cuttings were accomplished simultaneously. The mayors of the three cities, William Goedike of Inglewood, Dr. Bruce L. O'Dou of Montebello and Herman L. McGill of El Segundo, each standing at the door of the new store in his city received the telephonic signal from Garrett's office at Mayfair general offices and cut the door-opening ribbons at the same moment.

Furniture Dealers in Meeting

Several representatives of Long Beach-Orange County furniture companies will be attending the major wholesale home furnishings marketing week activities this week at the Western Merchandise Mart, San Francisco.

Theme of the week is "Small World, Big Market."

A spokesman for the local delegation said: "We think manufacturers are striving to give the consumer what she wants. We will bring back exciting new ideas, as well as furnishings for our customers."

Pool Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Swimming in pools equipped with underwater lights can result in severe injury and even death, according to a California industrial relations official.

George Sherman, chief of the division of Industrial Safety, says poorly maintained pool lights have caused "several deaths in the last few years and many persons have received electrical shock."

He advises that all underwater pool lights be inspected and maintained by a qualified electrician.

The ancient Romans built a network of roads totaling more than 50,000 miles.

Home owners in England from 1700 to 1851 had to pay a tax based on the number of windows in their houses.

To Frighten Robbers?

ISLAND, Ky. (AP) — The First Security Bank of Island has come up with a tropical gimmick that should strike fear in the breasts of any potential robber.

A sign at the bank reads: "Protected by Batman."

Prigmore Is Los Angeles Conference Participant

Bob Prigmore, president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors, will be a member of the faculty of the California Real Estate Association Annual Conference on Real Estate Office Administration scheduled for the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, Monday and Tuesday, and for the Hilton Hotel, San Francisco, Thursday and Friday.

Several members of the local board are expected to be in attendance to attend the workshops and hear the five speakers who will give practical help on how to operate a real estate brokerage office, especially during a tight money market.

The speakers will be Earl Nightingale of Chicago, sales and marketing consultant and radio, recording and platform personality who will talk on "Sales Motivation"; Jack Kreuger, Long Beach Realtor, speaking on "Recruiting and Hiring"; Bob Karpe, Bakersfield Realtor, on "Sales Management"; Art Leitch, San Diego Realtor, on "Retaining Real Estate Salesmen," and Tom Kiernan, Sacramento Realtor, speaking on "Salesman's Records."

Modern Fire Gear Overdoes It a Bit

LOUISVILLE (AP)—An old-fashioned method solved the problem for the Louisville Fire Department during a blaze at an apartment.

The department brought along such modern equipment as fog, dry powder, foam and carbon dioxide.

But when firemen entered the building, they found the blaze was caused by an overheated coffeepot.

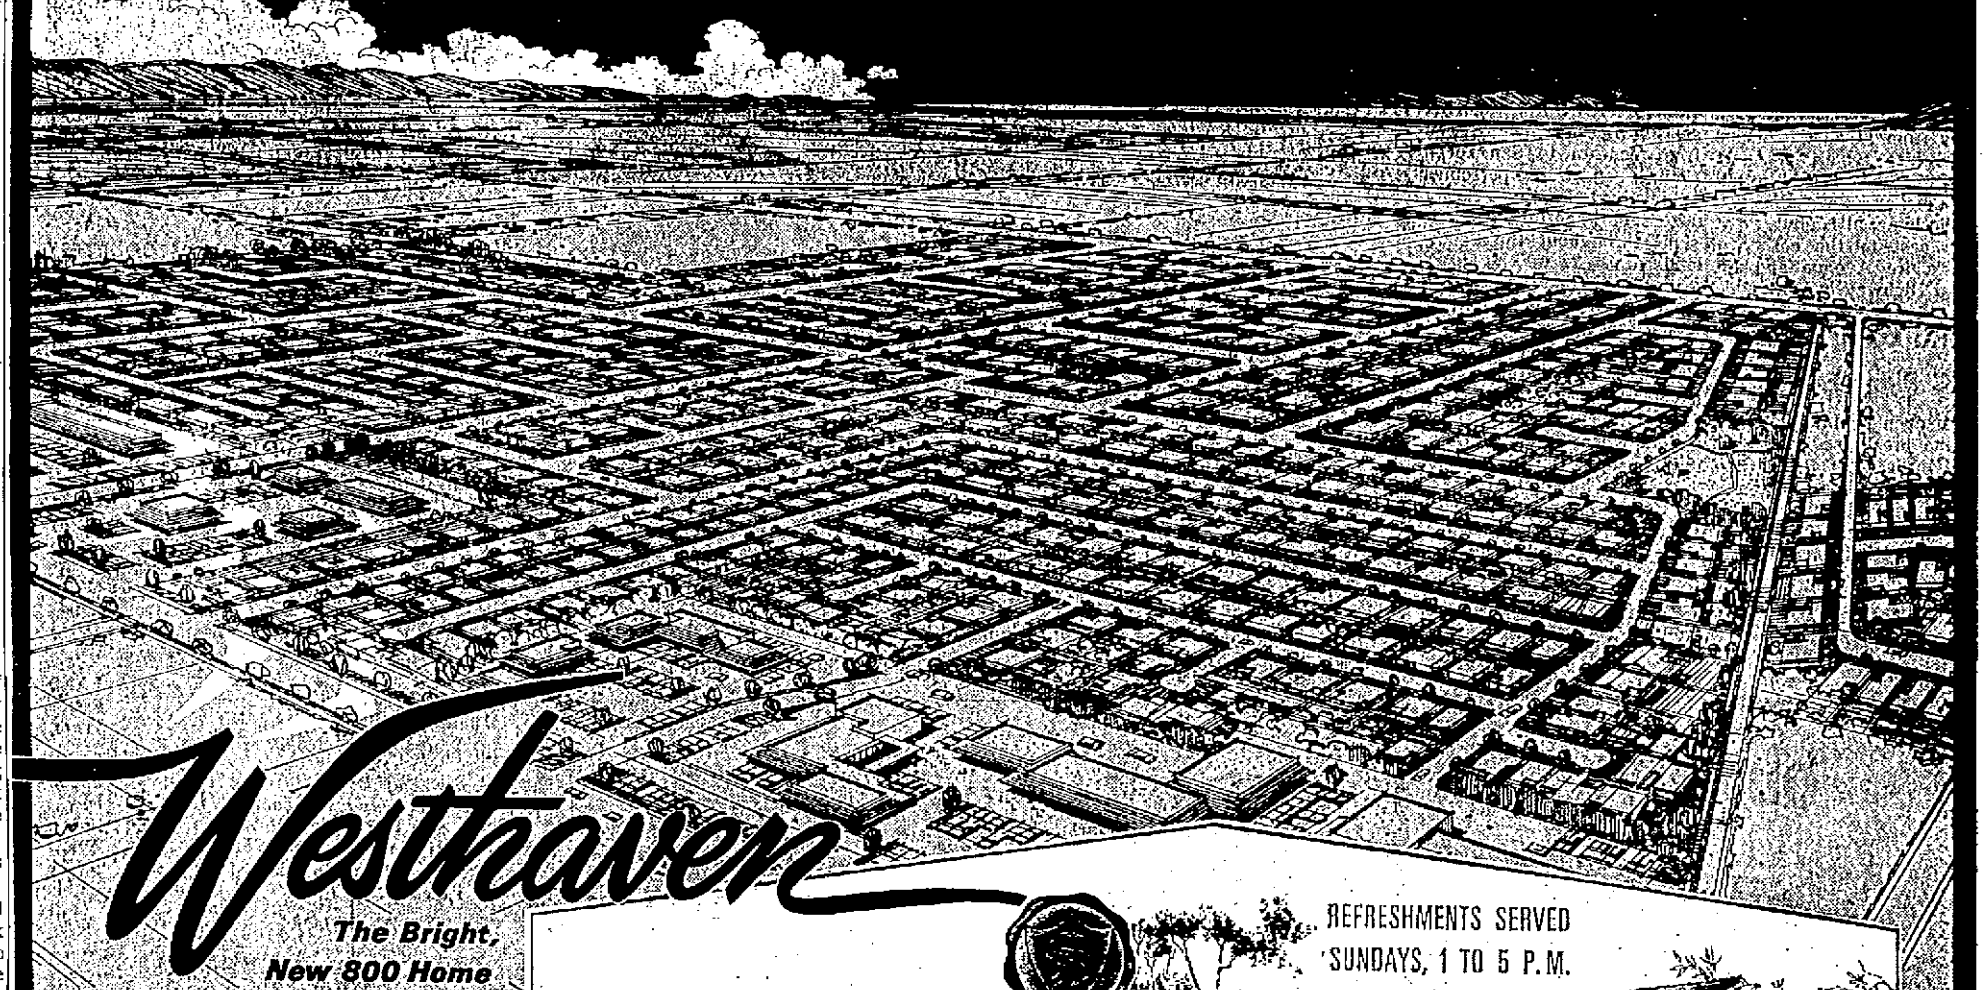

It was extinguished with a glass of water.

ARM AND THE MAN

Seemingly disembodied arm in foreground is that of an assembler at Worthington Corporation's compressor-engine division in Buffalo, N. Y. He reaches up from inside massive cast-iron base of diesel engine to align bolts that hold crankshaft in position. Other assembler uses torque wrench to tighten bolts. Engines of this type range up to 6,000 horsepower, are used extensively to generate electric power.

ARE NEW YORKERS GOING CALIFORNIAN?

Hips go undercover in pants, pants, pants

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
Fashion Editor

NEW YORK—Would you believe pants on Fifth Avenue? At the Guggenheim Museum?

That's a switch!

Could it be that sophisticated New Yorkers have gone Californian?

Back a couple seasons ago, when chic Manhattanites were swishing in and out of the best restaurants in their simple little black dresses and three-strand pearls, they turned up their collective noses at California's casual way with clothes.

When Seventh Avenue designers showed pants in their collections, the commentator always chortled:

"These are great for at-home parties . . . but not on the street, P-L-E-A-S-E!"

Not so today!

In the collections being previewed here during this 12-day fashion marathon held by the American Designer Series and the New York Couture Group, designers are anything but divided on the question. For fall and winter every major fashion house is offering trousers for street, at-home and glittering going-out.

All of a sudden, they're saying what Californians have known for years—that pants are a way of life.

It won't be uncommon, they say, to see pant-

PANTSUIT becomes favorite of get-around set . . . Junior Sophisticates puts red Melton double-breasted bush jacket for warm topping (above) over handsomely tailored pair of wider-then-usual pants in slate flannel topped with matching overblouse.

By JOYCE CHRISTENSEN

Familiar sights and sounds in the tiny, immaculately kept apartment of Threcia Paulman, 351 W. Sixth St., are the snip of scissors, hum of a sewing machine, and dozens of dolls in various stages of dress.

Explaining her doll-dressing hobby, pert grey-haired Miss Paulman, now 75, says, "When I retired two years ago, I had lots of time on my hands.

"I'd always been busy in my own church, First Methodist at Fifth and Pacific and then, in order to keep in touch with all my girlfriends, I joined Hymn Club at Baptist Church, Anchor Club at Presbyterian Church, Young at Heart Club at Christian Church and Goodwill Auxiliary."

Dolls, refurbished at Goodwill Industries, 800 W. Pacific Coast Highway, and then dressed by a team of volunteers such as Miss Paulman, are available at nominal prices in each of the seven Goodwill Stores in the Long Beach and Harbor areas, according to Mrs. Stephen R. Hemmi, chairman of the doll committee for 15 years. Volunteers to assist in the program of annually refurbishing some 10,000 dolls also are needed, Mrs. Hemmi stressed.

Still not busy enough to suit herself, she began aiding the doll dressing program at Goodwill and in a little more than two years has sandwiched the dressing of more than a thousand dolls in between her numerous church potlucks and meetings.

Using fabrics supplied by Goodwill and trims contributed by interested friends, she makes fashion plates of the already refurbished dolls, getting her ideas not from patterns, but from the fabrics and dolls themselves.

Hawaiian print becomes a muumuu; nets turn into petticoats; chiffons into party dresses; twills are soon converted to play clothes.

Most difficult assignments, Miss Paulman admits, were permanently hatted dolls, one with football helmet, an-

FUN IN DUPLICATE

Twins' families to frolic

Twinship will be secondary to everybody's fun when single-born and double-born get together next Sunday for Mothers of Twins' Club annual kingsize picnic.

Whole families will descend on El Retiro Park in Torrance early in the day with "pair-aphernalia" for babies' comfort, children's and parents' enjoyment.

Seventy-five families, none numbering less than 4, are expected for the event that usually attracts visitors and camera fans from everywhere in the park.

Planning held to a minimum — the "only way to fly with lots of little ones" — said chairman Mrs. Frank Karp, Torrance, but there'll be coffee served all day, baseball for dads and older lads, gifts for the children. Highlighting the summer social will be a parade and contest to determine winners in such categories as "most unalike boy twins," "most identical girl twins." Judges will have a personal interest in the contestants — they'll be 3 sets of teen-aged twins.

HELPING Mrs. Karp with arrangements are the club's newly installed prexy, Mrs. Jerome Steinbrecher, Torrance, and Mmes. Robert Jackson, Rolling Hills; William Brodysl, San Pedro; John Mancuso, Selmer Peterson, Gardena; Steve Sailors, Redondo Beach; Willis Stroub, Cleve Kimmel, John Donnelly, Lewis Eldredge, Howard DeCastro, Harry Wasti, Thomas Webb, Fred Casstevens, Torrance; Tom Leonard, Harbor City.

BelCanto class tunes up for appearance at Bowl

By MARGARET McKEAN

"It was a phenomenal success!"

Los Angeles County brochures aren't given to superlatives, usually. But they have an arty one out these days with golden colors to match the glowing accounts of "Sunday at the Bowl."

The Hollywood Bowl Sabbath series was inaugurated last year to "offer unknowns and artists an opportunity to display their talents." Almost 50,000 people came to hear the unknowns' music and to see the fameless artists' work.

"We had no idea that there'd be such interest!"

So this year the county's department of parks and recreation, in co-sponsorship with the Hollywood Bowl Association, is enjoying a much more expanded program and the spectators come in larger crowds every Sunday to hear jazz combos, chamber orchestras, folk singers, choral ensembles, band concerts.

On August 21 there will be a local group appearing from 1 to 2 p.m. They are the BelCanto Class, directed by Gardena musician Adrian Rosati and they come to practice from Wilmington, San Pedro, Lomita, Harbor City, Torrance, Gardena, Hermosa, Redondo, and Manhattan Beaches.

THEIR DIRECTOR is exuberant.

He believes that music, sung by everybody together, is "belcanto" beautiful is "belcanto"—beautiful music for free is old world charm at its best. The "old world" is part of Rosati, who was born there, served in Italy with the U.S. Forces, and returned to his adopted country with his Italian-born wife, Mirella.

The acceptance of his group for the Bowl concert is re-assuring to a man who is building a career in the various area recreation departments and YWCA's.

"It takes a while to build an interest in music, sometimes two class hours pass and no body shows up. But then magically, one interested person tells another, they begin to arrive in twos and threes and soon whole families come and sing together belcanto."

His Bowl concert group will incorporate classes he conducts at Live Oak Park, Manhattan Beach; Sportsmens' Park, Los Angeles; Everywoman's Village, Van Nuys; and, "if the classes catch on," there'll be people from Gardena where the city recreation department sponsors Rosati's classes on Saturday at Rowley Park and on Thursdays at Community Center.

HIS ENTHUSIASM and talent have caught more than L.A. county attention —Rosati will be part of a feature on Everywoman's Village to be published soon nationally in Parade magazine.

He's chosen two of his soloists for the Aug. 21 concert. They'll be Yetta Benson of Gardena and Mary Louise Ward of Redondo Beach.

As interest in the Sunday series builds, the brochure reminds readers that the beautifully landscaped grounds are perfect for family picnics, that the concerts are sans admission charges, but typical California postscript—"bowl parking, 50c."

WONDERFUL WASHINGTON

Arabian Knight toasts capital

By VIRGINIA WELDON KELLY

To understand the sumptuous entertainment of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, it is helpful to know some of the background. Saudi Arabia does not receive foreign aid. Also, in the Islamic world, hospitality is sacred and a king's receptions must be on a level suitable to his rank.

His Majesty is one of the last of the absolute monarchs. He is also religious head of his nation. Because Mecca, the holiest city of Islam, is in Saudi Arabia, King Faisal holds a special place with the devout of the Moslem world.

In preparation for his visit, a new wing including a grande salon, a royal dining room and other rooms were added to the already large embassy.

The decor of the immense two-story salon is ivory and gold. The walls are covered with ivory brocade. Folds of heavy ivory satin radiate from the vaulted ceiling to give an effect of accordion pleats in the desert tent of a potentate.

Invitations to two receptions to honor King Faisal were issued by Ambassador Sheikh Ibrahim Al-Sowayel.

PRESIDENT Johnson attended the first reception at 6:30 to which only men were asked. At 8:30 a thousand guests (men and women) were invited. Arab ambassadors hustled home from the first reception and then escorted their wives back to the buffet dinner.

Our hostess, Madame Al-Sowayel, was not present. Officials said she was in Europe. Several days ago, however, she was busily engaged in preparing for the King's arrival.

Old Saudi Arabian hands did not expect to see the ambassadress because ladies do not appear at social gatherings where there are men. But because King Faisal approves of education for women and is modernizing his country in some ways, some guests thought he might change the custom and invite his hostess to be present.

Vice President and Mrs. Humphrey dined with two of the King's brothers in the royal dining room. Secretary of State and Mrs. Rusk and other guests dined at small tables on the hillside lawns.

The tall, slender, hawk-faced King ate nothing. He siped hot tea between the two parties, and rested for a few minutes before greeting the throng of dinner guests.

IN ACCORD with Islamic law, no pork products and no alcohol were served. The favorite Arabic drink is orange juice or cola. There were three sumptuous buffets. On one, the kouzy (16 whole roast lambs with their heads tucked under a foreleg) were carved. The lambs were decorated with green rosettes. On another table there was the giant iced cake topped with 7 spun sugar minarets. There were also thousands of pieces of baklava and other Middle Eastern pastries. The Arabs love sweets.

On the central buffet, under the glittering crystal chandeliers, the service included 45 roast turkeys, 30 whole salmon, dozens of pheasants in plumage, 15,000 shrimps, hundreds of lobsters, punch bowls filled with salads, platters of rice pilaf, and dolmades (vine leaves stuffed with rice and meat), fresh fruits and many other dishes.

Robert Karrs reveal Melanie's engagement

At a family dinner party in Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Karr announced the engagement of their daughter, Melanie Anne, to Charles Sanford Munro, son of Mr. William Bennett Munro Jr., Pasadena, and Mrs. Bruce Munro of San Marino.

Graduating with honors from Millikan High School, Miss Karr attended California State College at Long Beach and the University of Oslo before completing work for her degree at USC, where she affiliated with Sigma Alpha Iota.

While at the University of Oslo she was selected to give radio and television broadcasts for the Norwegian Broadcasting System. Currently she is studying for her master's degree in performance at USC.

HER FIANCE, a USC graduate, affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau and was president of Alpha Epsilon Rho. Program director of the university's FM radio station, in 1964 he was selected one of USC's most outstanding students. In October he will enter Air Force Officer Training School at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio.

Grandparents of the engaged couple are the late Mrs. Zera Ellen Setterstrom, California poet; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie A. Karr of Chatanooga, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bruce of Pomona, Mrs. William Bennett Munro of Pasadena and the late Dr. Munro, historian and political scientist. Both Harvard and Stanford Universities use some of his 26 published works as standard textbooks.

The wedding will take place in February.

She wore for her wedding in West Los Angeles Methodist Church, a gown of silk organza over taffeta fashioned with empire bodice, kaubki sleeves and chapel train. Her headpiece was a silk organza chignon trimmed with lace medalions.

PRIZED CHAIR . . . when it comes to moving her cattle horn chair, Mrs. Don Bushini has to enlist aid of two men to lift it.

Staff photo by Chuck Sundquist

Their chair creates conversation, woes

By PAT McDONNELL
Staff Writer

So you think it would be fun to have a priceless museum piece in your living room?

A person who knows what it's like is Mrs. Don Bushini, 1750 Redondo Ave.

The museum piece is a chair made of perfectly matched cattle horns, hand-carved and fitted by a blind man.

It's unique qualities have befuddled insurance estimators unable to place a price on an irreplaceable object. But it's rumored a Texas rancher offered the Bushinis $5,000 for the chair.

However, imagine the dilemma of a housewife faced with the problem of fitting the massive creation of finely polished horns and unborn calfskin into a living room suite of Danish modern furniture.

"Have you ever seen a 200-pound man plunk himself down on a stilletto-legged chair?" said Mrs. Bushini.

"Well I do everytime a man spots the chair. Then I shut my eyes and hope the carpet still hasn't any holes in it."

It's nothing for the Bushinis, who own and manage an 18-unit apartment building, to have tenants knock at their door and bring in a couple of dozen friends to inspect the chair.

Despite the drawbacks which accompany ownership of a priceless piece of furniture, the Bushinis are proud of the chair given to them by its creator, Cloud Bryan.

Blinded at an early age, Bryan never has seen the chair which took him more than four years to make during the 1930s.

Each of the 14 pairs of perfectly matched horns was cleaned, sanded, polished and fitted with such precision not even a piece of paper can be placed between each joint.

Largest horns which serve as main arms of the 100-pound chair are more than 160 years old and measure nearly six feet. Bryan obtained the horns in 1920 from a prospector in Miniola, Tex., who discovered the remains of a herd of longhorn cattle buried in 1816 during a sandstorm.

Other matched pairs were carefully picked from collections owned by Denver ranchers.

Seat base and back of the 43-inch high chair are of hand-carved oak covered with unborn calfskin.

In 1950, Bryan moved to Long Beach and lived for 14 years at the Huntington Hotel, which the Bushinis managed.

Bryan, who now lives in a Long Beach rest home, gave the couple the chair when they expressed their appreciation for its unique composition and craftsmanship executed by a sightless man.

"Until we moved from the Huntington Hotel in 1963, we kept the chair on view for guests," Mrs. Bushini said.

"Since it can't be insured, we've been unable to loan it out for exhibition, but we are making arrangements for it to be placed in a museum where others can admire it."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brooks to celebrate golden date

That same day, from 3 to 5 p.m., open house will be held in the Brooks' home, 858 Pacific Ave., where friends and family will join the festivities. Three of Mrs. Brooks' sisters who will attend are Mrs. Cora Deering and Mrs. George Gay of Long Beach and Mrs. Lois McCauley of Borger, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brooks will celebrate their golden anniversary next Sunday. Married in 1916 in Floydada, Tex., they later moved to Phoenix, Ariz., where he was a building contractor and real estate broker. When he retired in 1954, they moved to Long Beach.

The couple will be honored at a noon anniversary dinner at the Crown Cafeteria by family members including their daughter, Mrs. Ralph Adams, five grandchildren. Only one grandson, stationed with the Air Force in France, will be unable to attend. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks also had a son.

Still a doll among dolls

other with an Army officers' cap. They both stayed at the bottom of the box for quite a while, she says.

But it is the 73 years preceding her "retirement" that read like a storybook, not the stories that little girls might weave around the dolls that people her world today.

"From the first moment I opened a geography book as a child, I knew I wanted to travel."

And travel she has.

Her nomadic existence began in her homestate of Nebraska and has taken her to all parts of the United States, including a two-year stay in Hawaii during the war years, into Mexico and Canada.

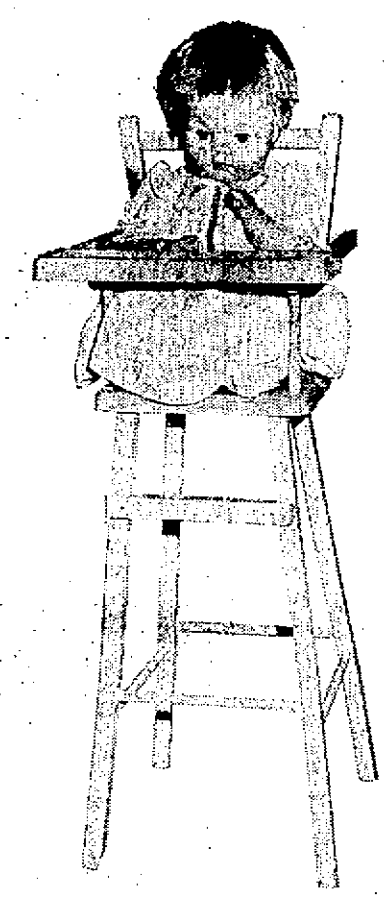

Her work has always been caring for the children of others, staying with a family for six months or a year, then traveling again until the money ran out.

"My first stops in a new city were always the Methodist Church and the YWCA. I've never used a written reference and I've never wanted for a job wherever I went. Usually the families urged me to stay, but I just had to see more of the country."

Today, a scrapbook lovingly kept, attests to the "families" she has all over the United States.

Since 1915, Long Beach has been "home base" for the sprightly "ex-gypsy" who admits that today the yen to travel is over.

"I wanted to see things while I was young and I'm glad I did it all when I did." And, with a twinkle in her eye, Miss Paulman adds, "At 75, it's a little easier to take a trip by turning the knob on the television set."

Roses bloom for Delta Zeta

Delta Zeta alumnae and friends will gather at noon Saturday in the Victor Hugo for traditional rose luncheon and a demonstration of flower arranging.

Decorations, using huge pink roses and greenery, will be made by Mrs. Lillian Colbert.

Reservations should be made by Monday with luncheon chairman, Mrs. Walter Adam, 2740 San Vicente Ave., or alumnae president, Mrs. C. Dean Page, 2660 Marber Ave. A special invitation is extended to Delta Zeta activities and their mothers.

DEAR ABBY

She prays for proper parakeet

DEAR ABBEY: Our son, who served with the Marine corps in Viet Nam, came home last month. As you can imagine, Don was pretty well tuckered out, so he just sat around the house resting and getting used to civilian life again. He also taught our parakeet how to swear.

Abby

Now fun is fun, but you should hear what he taught that bird to say! What if the preacher drops in one Sunday afternoon?

DON'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Get another parakeet and teach it how to pray for the one that swears.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of parents who decided to call it quits after 51 years of marriage? They have four married children, thirteen grandchildren, and three great-granchildren. They were never exactly lovebirds, but it never came to a real separation before.

I am the eldest daughter and Mama called me and told me to come and get her as Papa moved to a motel and she wasn't going to stay in the house alone. It's been three days, and Papa is still holed up in the motel.

My oldest brother called Papa and asked what he should tell people. Papa said, "Tell them I've entered my second childhood and I have the measles!" Then he slammed down the telephone. What should we tell people, and how can we get them back together?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Papa's explanation will do. Tell them nothing. "Love" will find a way.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CHECKING PACK DATE OF FOODSTUFFS . . . Lt. G. S. Steen Jr. (SC) USN inspects boxes of dehydrated foods loaded aboard U.S.S. Talladega (APA-208). Each package is equivalent to space taken by three 100-pound bags of potatoes. Ration-dense foods save 75% space taken for fresh eggs and milk, 87% of that for potatoes and 50% for canned beans.

Navy food ala 1966 destroys myth of sailor's chow

By ELLEN KREC

A myth has been shattered, and I am ready to take on a Sacred Cow!

It long has been the prerogative of the Navy man to complain about food in the service.

FOR MANY YEARS, contrary to that "myth", the services have been working to improve the food.

I was invited by the Field Food Service to try some of the new Ration-Dense food. This had been highly touted by a good friend who had enjoyed a full dinner of the Ration-Dense products.

As a cook who thinks food should be lovingly and carefully prepared, I could hardly raise as much enthusiasm . . . that is until I met Lt. G. S. Steen Jr. (SC) USN. Lt. Steen is not only handsome, he is also a dedicated Supply Corps Officer.

His first family includes a wife, Nanci, and 11-month-old John. His second family is the Field Food Service Team, which includes A. L. Rivers, CSCM A. L. McNary, CSCS; R. C. Ferro, CSC, and L. E. Bembry, CSCS, all under the management and technical control of the Navy Subsistence Office in Washington.

The Field Food Service Team is assigned to Naval Supply Center, Long Beach, under the command of Rear Adm. H. F. Kuehl, (SC) USN, for military control.

PURPOSE of this team is to "go where the action is," to help in food service, food preparation, sanitation, menu planning and training. These men are requested, not directed, to check food problems and they never are an inspection team.

THE TERM, Ration-Dense, was coined in 1954. It means more ration and less space. This is accomplished by using foods which are prepared by several methods, but dehydration is most important.

Most of the foods have a shelf-life of up to two years, replacing products with a short holding time. Some have been eaten after five years.

Consider the amazing amount of space saved—up to 92%—and the fact there's little room for error, because all you have to do in most cases is reconstiute the food with water, then either heat or chill and serve.

This could make TV dinners just too much work!

MY LUNCH was cooked by a very nice chef (and a good cook, too), A. L. Rivers, CSCM. It included an excellent omelette made with powdered eggs which bore no resemblance to powdered eggs you might have eaten in the past; crisp bacon that had been pre-cooked, canned, then just heated; applesause that tasted better than most fresh; a tall, cold glass of tomato juice made from the same concentrate that can also turn into sauces for spaghetti and pizza; sour cream that tasted as though it might have a little whipped cream added (and I enjoyed it by the spoonful); cottage cheese that was a little too sharp for my taste but could be excellent mixed with something (I wonder how it would be with some of the sour cream?) and bowls of shrimp you just wouldn't believe! These are dehydrated, and you just soak them in cold water for 20 minutes and chill. They are superior to fresh!

When I told Lt. Steen I had hoped for some samples to try at home, he assured me this would be possible and I came home with enough to spend the next two days trying them the Navy way and my way.

FIRST MORNING I served Navy omelettes and my best friend, husband, tells me they are almost as good as mine. He had applesauce that he thought was fresh and superb bacon.

I made a huge shrimp salad with chopped green onions and celery. For the dressing I used the sour cream and concentrate, just adding a bit of lemon and chopped sweet pickles. Marvelous! Everyone agrees on the shrimp.

PREPARING ROAST NAVY STYLE . . . A. L. Rivers, CSCM, checks roast with chef Oscar E. Newsome, CSSN. Beef is cooked without seasoning at 300 degrees to prevent 35% less shrinkage than by customary methods.

At Assistance League's Medallion tea

CONVERSATION — AND REACTION
. . . Mmes. Roger Enders (left), Reginald Barden caught by candid camera at Medallion tea.

WAITING TO SERVE GUESTS TEA
. . . Mmes. Harry Landis (left), Lloyd Whaley were among costumed hostesses.

Assistance League of Long Beach honored its 1966 debutantes at the traditional Medallion tea in League House, Fourth Street and Roswell Avenue, this past week.

League House, which houses the beautiful Howard Oriental collection, took on atmosphere of a Japanese tea garden as members of Assistance League, Rick Rackers and Las Hermanas, the latter two auxiliaries to the league, were welcomed by hostesses attired in traditional Japanese dress.

Centered on the tea table was a white porcelain Kuan-Yin surrounded by pink cherry blossoms imported from our Japanese sister city of Yokkaichi. Traditional tea cakes were among the delicacies served. Mrs. John W. Brooks, past president of the league, presided at the tea table. Miss Kay Matsumoto, attired in native dress, played selections on the Koto, a classical Japanese instrument.

The girls who will be presented were introduced by Mrs. Norman Scott, mother-deb chairman, as each mother presented her daughter the traditional inscribed gold medallions with their golden chains to be worn by the debs at the ball. The medallions are gifts of the league to the debutantes.

Mrs. Reginald Barden, tea chairman, was assisted by Mmes. William Nesbitt, Raymond Peterson and the 1965 provisional class.

The 18 presentees, daughters and granddaughters of members of the league and Las Hermanas, will make their bow at the seventh annual ball on July 30 at the Lafayette Hotel.

Series of shows to spotlight fall bridal wear

The date's been set, the church selected and honeymoon trip arranged. Next decision is attire for that all-important day.

Mindful of area brides-elect who have reached this stage in the nuptial game, Buffums' will present a formal showing of fall wedding ensembles for the bride and her entire entourage.

Creations to be shown include an empire gown of chiffon (left) by William Cahill. Crystal bugle beads detail fitted sleeves and yoke. Voluminous train cascades from back yoke.

Other leading designers of bridal fashions will be represented in showings to be launched at a 7:30 p.m. presentation Monday in Terrace Room of Buffums' downtown. A 7:30 p.m. program is slated Wednesday in Buffums' Lakewood. Designer Cahill will be on hand for a 7:30 p.m. showing July 26 at Buffums' Palos Verdes.

Understated look ideal for summer

Sleek, smart lines underscored with white create a most important fashion. Perky trim stands away from skirt in a smart flange effect that forms a double pleat at hemline. Side pointed bodice adds contrast in flattering face-framing effect. For a finely tailored look, add spaced stitching and covered buttons. Excellent for linens, silks, cottons.

Price $1. R-169 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 14 takes 2¾ yards of 39-inch fabric and 1 yard of 39-inch fabric for contrast. Standard body measurements for size 14 are: Bust 34, Waist 26, Hips 36.

Graduates seek office work

Expert offers six suggestions

Graduation is now past, and with this annual event will come a new crop of young ladies looking for office work.

There are many jobs open in the Long Beach-Harbor area. However, with the greater availability of help after graduation, employers can afford to be more selective.

For the girl who will be looking for her first job, Barbara Jones, District Manager of Western Girl, Inc., a firm specializing in providing temporary office workers, offers these six suggestions:

1. The very first impression will be made by appearance, so be clean and neat. Wear a dress suitable to an office.

2. The way a girl acts when she thinks she is alone and her guard is down is often a greater clue to her personality than the answers she might give in an interview. Be aware at all times that you are on display.

3. Fill out the job application neatly and accurately. Be ready with references and your social security number.

4. When you are called in for your interview, sit up straight, speak clearly and look directly at the interviewer. Do not smoke when being interviewed.

5. If you try to impress the interviewer other than by acting natural and being yourself, it will show through. Don't try it!

6. When the interview is over, thank the interviewer for the opportunity of discussing the job — then leave gracefully.

MRS. JONES SAYS that most employers call for a typing speed of 50 words a minute, stressing accuracy. Stenographers need to know composition and spelling as thoroughly as they know shorthand. And it isn't the beauty contest winner or the debutante who gets the job, but rather the girl who uses her office skills and also uses good common sense in dealing with everyday problems.

"Today's secretary is a far cry from the pioneer typewriter (the name given to both the girl and the machine in early days) in status, responsibility, working conditions and benefits," Mrs. Jones states. "The pioneer secretary was crashing a man's world, and believe me, the men moved over reluctantly. The early secretary took dictation, typed on primitive machines, kept the books and cleaned the office — and all on a salary of 10 dollars a week. Business life today has certainly improved for women."

Miss Desmond's troth to Philip Bryson announced

An early September wedding is planned by Eileen Desmond and Philip William Bryson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bryson, Long Beach.

Their engagement has been announced by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Gerald Desmond, Long Beach. She also is the daughter of the late Mr. Desmond, who served as city attorney of Long Beach.

BPW Harbor Section convenes on Sunday

Harbor Section of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will hold its summer breakfast meeting at 9:30 a.m. Sunday at the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St., hostessed by the four Long Beach units, Long Beach National, Manuel Nieto, Margaret Ives and Belmont Shore.

The program will feature a panel discussion of the international federation moderated by Mrs. Cravens Douglass of El Segundo. Mrs. Douglass is a former president of the state federation, former membership chairman of the national federation and has participated in International BPW Congresses and in the Hemispheric Frendship Conference for Women of the Americas in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Panel members include Agather Werner, Bell-Maywood Club; Margaret Bullington, Paramount-Hollydale; Olive Qualley, Hawthorne; and Peg Coale, International Mile Club.

Jacobs-Christopher names linked in betrothal announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Jacobs of Long Beach have revealed the betrothal of their daughter, Peggy, to Thomas A. Christopher Jr. His parents are Rear Adm. Thomas A. Christopher Sr., USN, and Mrs. Christopher of the U.S. Naval Station, Key West, Fla.

Miss Jacobs and her fiance are both graduates of St. Anthony's High School. She attended Long Beach City College and now attends Mount St. Mary's College, Los Angeles. He is a midshipman first class at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

Rebecca Fuller now Mrs. Edward Pereira

Rebecca Fuller, daughter of Mrs. Frances Allen Fuller, Anderson, S.C., became the bride of Lt. (j.g.) Edward H. Pereira in a military ceremony at the base chapel, Long Beach Naval Station, Saturday. He is the son of Mrs. Gwendoline Pereira, Coral Gables, Fla.

Mrs. Donald C. Klika and Lt. Eugene Triff attended the couple.

After a reception at Allen Center, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in Las Vegas. They will live in Long Beach.

She is a graduate of Forrest College in Anderson, S.C. A graduate of Evansville College, Evansville, Ind., he serves on the USS Bon Homme Richard CVA 31.

For its seventh annual summer production, Long Beach's unique teen-age company, Virginia Country Theater, will produce its first original musical comedy, "The Late Marty Washington Who Might as Well Be Dead" July 23 through 31 at 8:30 p.m.

Two members of VCT collaborated, John W. Harding, 18, who wrote the book and lyrics, and Bruce Polay, 17, who did the music and orchestration.

The cast of 30 has been in rehearsal more than five weeks under direction of Greg Killingsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Killingsworth, 4606 Virginia Road. Greg founded VCT in 1959 to provide an outlet for teen-agers' dramatic talents.

CAST MEMBERS, plus 15 other volunteers, double as technical crew, and an eight piece orchestra is conducted by Polay.

The plot concerns a modern airline pilot, Marty Washington, who is never on time. During vacation, he visits his aunt who has turned her home into "Squirrels' Lair," a treatment center for "all the nuts in town," including a frustrated chemist, a girl with loose morals, Benny, who thinks Marty is really George Washington, and an Agnes Gootch type trying to improve her lot. Beverly Burgess, 18 plays the psychologist who "tries to cure all the nuts."

There is no admission charge, but donations will be received. Those who wish may come at 8 p.m. to see a film telling the story of VCT. Seating is limited, so telephone reservations should be made to the Killingsworth residence.

IN JONSON'S SATIRE
Volpone (Frank Keith) looks on at intrigue between Canina (Vi Coulter) and Mosca (Duke Schneider)

Bawdy, earthy satire to caper at Magnolia

Earthy, bawdy, Ben Jonsons comedy "Volpone," satirizing human foibles and shortcomings, opens Thursday at Magnolia Theater, 835 Locust Ave.

Volpone, the fox, played by Frank Keith, is a rich Venetian grandee without children who pretends to be dying in order to draw gifts from those who pay court to him, hoping to become his heirs. Jonson's theme is greed and the corrupting influence of wealth. Fathers disinherit sons, husbands strangle their jealousy and all but prostitute their wives as Jonson deftly ridicules and jests.

OTHER MEMBERS OF the cast are Duke Schneider, Arthur Perkins, Earl Mills, Cliff Medaugh, Vi Coulter, Merrill Ann Hadden, Gary Bellis, Michael Katcher, Ralph J. Hamilton, Jim Baer, Glen Harrington, Bob Stone, Gerald Ruppel and Bob Woods.

Don Baurac directs. Performances will be on Thursdays and Sundays at 8 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. for four weeks.

This summer at CSLB-- clinic and all that jazz

California State College at Long Beach is one of two colleges which will host the first summer jazz clinics ever to be held in California.

Sponsored by the National Stage Band Camps, the summer jazz clinics are in their eighth year and during August will be held at six colleges and universities in the United States.

About 200 young musicians are expected to attend the session at CSLB Aug. 14 to 20. The clinic will feature improvisation, theory, arranging, stage band, combo ensembles and sectional training.

Head of the clinic is Leon Breeden, director of laboratory bands at North Texas State University.

The staff of professional musicians will emphasize the stage band movement and jazz in general.

SAYS William L. Fowler, member of the staff, composer and professor of music at the University of Utah: "Stage bands are large bands similar to name bands of the past, but they are for listening rather than dancing. Unlike the dance band, the tempo can be manipulated at will.

"The stage band movement is a serious attempt to teach any kind of music well. The modern musician must be able to play Brahms, too. He must be an all-round musician. We don't interfere with classical training—just add to it."

CLASSES at CSLB will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and workshops and entertainment will follow after dinner. Class ratio will be eight students for each faculty member.

Quartet to play in grove

Pacific String Quartet will play compositions by Haydn, Barber and Ravel at the third Concerts in the Grove program Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Soroptimist House patio at California State College at Long Beach.

Members of the quartet are violinists William Hymanson and Akira Endo, violist Donald Cole, and cellist Douglas Davis. They recently completed a transcontinental tour of the Midwest and East Coast.

A Juilliard graduate and member of the faculty of Santa Barbara's Music Academy of the West, Hymanson has concertized widely in this country and abroad and has appeared as soloist and concertmaster of the California Chamber Symphony on its State Department tour of 13 European nations.

ENDO, a member of Long Beach City College music faculty and former concertmaster of the Young Musicians Foundation Orchestra, has just been appointed musical director of Long Beach Symphony Orchestra.

Violist Cole has performed with such conductors as Stokowski, Klemperer, Walter, Monteau and Steinberg. Actively engaged in many Hollywood studio orchestras, he also has played with the London String Quartet.

A WINNER of the Merriweather Post National Music Contest, cellist Davis went on to receive first prize in the 1960 Hollywood Bowl competition, followed the next year by the first Piatigorsky Artist Award. His winning of honors in Moscow's international Tschaikowsky Competition resulted in a concert tour engagement in Russia.

Sponsored by Associated Students' special events committee, Concerts in the Grove will continue each Wednesday through Aug. 31. A free picnic area will be open at 5:30 p.m. Tickets for all performances are on sale at the box office.

Time to audition

The New Threater, formerly the Brayton, 2157 Atlantic Ave., will hold auditions for "The Beggars' Opera" Monday and Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m.

Students tapped for signal honor

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Charles M. Thompson, professor of art at California State College, Long Beach, sends the following information:

"Two CSLB master's candidates have had paintings accepted for the Butler Museum Annual Painting Exhibition in Ohio.

"This is a national, professional exhibition.

"This honor is roughly comparable to a journalism student being asked to write for the New York Times—or a music major to sing with the Met.

"The artists are Pete Mendez and Jim Simpson."

ROBERT BENTON, manager of San Pedro Art Association, has announced new plans for the association's gallery, 2317 S. Pacific Ave., San Pedro.

A costumed, live model workshop started Monday at 7 p.m., and a workshop got underway Thursday at 1 p.m.

Currently, the association has two shows on exhibit. Katherine Rosset is the artist featured at the gallery and Leslie Stone, Edna Kober, Joyce Stone and Dorothy Kosovac have paintings on exhibit at California Home Furnishings, 27700 Silver Spur Road, Palos Verdes Peninsula.

BEGINNING Monday, Santa Ana College instructor George Geyer will have a one-man exhibition at Comara Gallery, 8475 Melrose Place, Los Angeles. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, including Sundays. The show will run through Aug. 6.

Geyer, who joined the SAC faculty in 1964, has had previous shows at Los Angeles County Museum of Art, San Diego Museum of Fine Arts, La Jolla Museum of Fine Arts and the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York.

He also has exhibited at California State College at Long Beach, Cerritos College, UC Berkeley, UCLA and Washington State University.

Geyer's designs and colors are bold, presenting an original approach to the ancient art of pottery.

At Santa Ana College, Geyer is director of Gallery 45 on campus. A highlight of the year is the annual faculty art exhibit which features drawings, paintings and sculpture of the art department instructors.

A GROUP of paintings by artists from Iron Curtain Countries are among works by 200 contemporary European artists which may be seen at the Villa Pacific Art Festival Saturday and next Sunday in Huntington Beach.

Works of Hungarian freedom artists Oszkar Szanto, Stephano Falk and Dande, as well as work by other European artists, are on loan through Heller Gallery of Encino. Styles vary from modern impressionistic paintings of the Picasso and Dali school to classical pastoral landscapes, seascapes and street scenes.

From 2 to 5:30 p.m. both days, the exhibit will be shown in Villa Pacifica at Brookhurst Avenue and Hamilton Street. There will be no admission price.

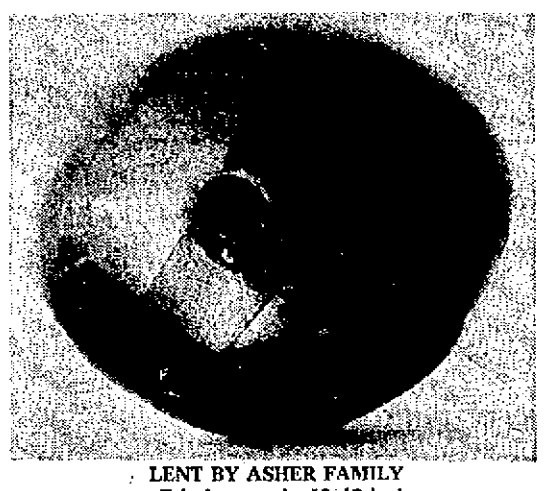

IN THE GALLERIES:

"Latitude 34 degrees—a saluate to Los Angeles from Buenos Aires," at Patrich Galleries, 853 N. La Cienega, thruogh Aug. 13. Paintings by Karl H. Baumann, Sergei Bongart, Ruth Engle Page, Gloria Stuart and Gerda With.

Experience, don't 'see' Price and Irwin show

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

A dual show of Kenneth Price's ceramics and Robert Irwin's paintings continues at Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd., through Sept. 4.

This is not an exhibit to be viewed; rather, it is one to be experienced. Only 25 persons at a time are permitted into the aseptically white rooms of the Lytton Gallery where these are displayed. The lighting is so skillfully handled that, somehow, the all-white is muted.

In the first room Price's eight larger works, roughly melon-sized, highly colored, glossy ceramics are presented on high pillars. Apertures in the ovoids reveal masses of glazed finger or worm-like forms inside. They are named in relation to their colors.

TO THE SIDE, in a smaller room, presented like jewels in lighted glass cases, are smaller works. Each is in its own environment, painted wooden frames containing velvet or fine sand on which the "specimen" rests. These seem to be broken-open eggs or pods, matrices for the kinds of forms seen-through in the larger works. Color is very intense against white. The craftsmanship is machine-perfect.

IN AN ADJOINING salon are the Irwins, five canvases which, at first blush, seems to be white, even against white walls. Closer scrutiny shows that these are covered with precisely plotted dots of color. Viewed from a distance of, say, five feet (depending on one's degree of myopia or astigmatism) the colors blush and bloom in a magical way. Looking does not work; sensing them is a heady experience.

FIRED, PAINTED CLAY
. . . small work by Price

There is a charge of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children to the Lytton Gallery which also contains the Natzler Ceramic Exhibit until Aug. 14, and American Paintings through July 31. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays, and until 10 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays.

A Cleanser That Beautifies
It is said that every time you wash your face you start a wrinkle, but now you can smooth and beautify the skin as you cleanse. No more taut dry skin when you use this cleansing milk that removes every trace of make-up with a dissolving action that leaves the complexion smoother, clearer and free from wrinkle dryness. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Jelvyn cleansing milk that gives the complexion a look of youthful beauty.

Adds to Candide

Leonard Bernstein has added six new musical numbers to the score of "Candide," a comic operetta on which he and Lillian Hellman collaborated.

Third week at Bowl

Metropolitan Opera singers Robert Merrill and Gianna d'Angelo will sing an aperatic program to usher in Hollywood Bowl's third week of Symphonies Under the Stars concerts Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. Thomas Schippers will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

The soloists will perform scenes from Rossini's "The Barber of Seville" and Verdi's "Rigoletto." The orchestra will play Durante's "Concerto Grosso No. 1" and Overture to "La Forza del Destino" by Verdi.

operatic program to usher in

THUDSDAY, Andre Watts, young American pianist who made his Bowl debut several years ago, will play MacDowell's "Concerto No. 2." Making his final appearance this season, Schoppers will conduct the Philharmonic in Overture to "School for Scandal" and "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber, and Apocalypse" by Gian-Carlo Menotti.

THE WEEK will close on a light note Saturday when Professor Peter Schickele brings his spoof concert to the Bowl, featuring works by P. D. Q. Bach, a spurious composer of the 18th century who is alleged to be the oddest of J. S. Bach's 20-odd sons.

The program will include "Pervertimento for Bagpipes, Bicycle and Balloons," the "Unbegun Symphony," a cantata titled "Iphigenia in Brooklyn" and an oratorio, "The Seasonings" S.½ tsp.

Appearing with The Royal P.D.Q. Bach Festival Orchestra will be Carol Neblett, soprano; Claudine Carlson, alto; John Ferrante, tenor; Arthur Edwards, bass; and the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Anka to tour

Singer-composer Paul Anka will star in a 14-city, two-week tour of Sweden during August, then will cover seven major cities in Czechoslovakia Aug. 24 through 30.

PETER SCHICKELE, HOT COMPOSITION

Jose Greco to premiere

Jose Greco and Company, foremost exponents of Spanish Dance, will bring an all-new program to Greek Theater for a week beginning July 25. "Carmen," a new ballet by Greco, will have its world premiere.

Spanish dance is unlike other dance forms in that there is nothing abstract in it. It depicts a concrete, definite thought, mood or action based on, or provoked by, a realistic event which may be romantic, dramatic, pastoral or humorous.

IN THE SPANISH dance, the male makes no compromise. He is unbending, dominant, always the master.

Rick Nelson co-stars with Rudy Vallee in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" which opens a two-week run Tuesday at Melodyland Theater, Anaheim.

CADET blue wool pantsuit by Oscar de La Renta for his fall collection for Jane Derby features jacket fitted high under arms and eased by two vents. Double rows of silver buttons run down from narrow standaway collar and mark pocket tabs. (Scarf cap by Halston of Bergdorf Goodman.)

CUDDLECOAT'S for corduroy . . . especially if it's for a pantsuit trimmed with lots of lynx giving luxurious feeling. Slim straight pants compliment pacesetter.

CALIFORNIANS HAVE BEEN IN FASHION FOR YEARS . . .

Pants on Fifth Avenue? Of course!

suited ladies lunching at P.J. Clarke's, the Ginger Man or Yellowfinger's Butcheria . . . antique-ing in the Village and along Third Avenue . . . boutique-ing in swinging East Side shops . . . or gallery-shopping on Madison Avenue.

THERE ARE pants, pants, pants and more pants. There are pants with straight legs and cuffs, flared legs and draw strings, fly fronts and hip-slung waistlines.

There are short pants and long pants, knickers and Bermudas, jewelled pants and sporty gabardines, jumpsuits and divided skirts.

WHAT GIVES them an "in" in haute couture this season is that pants have, at long last, met their match in jackets.

They've become tailored costumes, a total look from head to toe.

Hips go undercover, camouflaged by the elegant construction of woman-tailored riding coats and cavalier jackets, trench coats and plaid wrappers, doublets and tunics, smock tops and sandwich skirts.

The look adds up to dozens of ways to wear pants, all under the same new fashion term: Pantsuit!

DIMINUTIVE Adele Simpson, a favorite in the White House, does pantsuits for "going public in planes, trains or cars."

They come in three parts—or four if you buy matching skirt.

The fingertip jackets are tailored to a T, topping sleek trousers with a bit of flare (but not bell-bottom—that's out). All are wool with coordinated blouses.

Maurice Rentner's designer Bill Blass takes a short cut in pants. One tailored wool "suit" in subtly patterned brown tones has jacket-topped trousers of Jamaica shorts length. Knee-high cable knit socks and cable knit turtle-neck sweater complete the look.

Oscar de la Renta of Jane Derby is another who's decided that trousers are for any occasion.

He does an ankle-length outfit in yellow crepe that at first glance looks like a column-slim dress but proves to be a divided, pajama skirt . . . also, a short formal in line crepe that appears to be a dress from the front, just plain culottes from the back.

And when the pants-mad miss wants to go dancing, she slips into her black sequinned trousers with matching jacket, like a show girl about to break into a soft shoe.

Question is: Are masculine egos strong enough to tolerate the new "her" trouser suits that match his? Also, are husbands' wallets fat enough to buy suits for both himself and his wife?

After all, she'll have to have a few dresses, evening gowns and furs hanging in the closet, too.

More About New York

Besides the barefoot sandals that now shuffle along once ultra-chic Fifth Avenue, there's another California influence very much in evidence.

Color explodes in brilliant flashes on the sidewalks of New York, in smart boutiques—more especially on fashion ramps where fall-winter clothes are on parade.

Seventh Avenue designers aren't kidding about with color. If it's pink, it's pink and as bright as you could dye it. The same goes with yellow, green or red.

Newest in the fashion spectrum is purple for all categories of fashion from rugged tweeds to silky satins.

One word we haven't heard in two weeks of fashion previews is "youthquake!" Last season it was the word that shook the foundations of haute couture. They called it a fashion revolution.

This year it's more reaction than revolution . . . a real reaction in the return of common sense, pretty, wearable clothes with a knack of their own—less daring, less darling—more elegant, more luxurious.

Of course, we haven't seen topless-swimsuit Rudi Gernreich's collection yet. It's no telling what will come off then.

That'll be our fashion expose for Monday.

LEO RITTER'S SURPRISE: Shorts costume of greige and brown processed dyed lamb. Yoked jacket is cocoa brown and belted in matching leather over greige shorts marked by side buttons. (Hat by Emme.)

Bid rescues partner

If you wonder why South rebid a four card diamond suit instead of raising his partner's clubs the answer is they were using the Wolff convention.

This provides that if a player who has responded one over one rebids to three clubs over his partner's two no-trump rebid, a three diamond rebid is required.

The idea of the convention gives a player who makes a horrible response, such as North's one spade, a chance to get off the hook.

With a spade bust North would have continued to three spades and South would have had to pass. With his actual hand North simply dropped the bidding at three diamonds.

OF COURSE if North had passed at one diamond South would have played the hand right there. This would have been fine in this case. On other occasions North's pass would allow East and West to get into the bidding successfully.

Or, if South happened to have the right sort of hand for spades, the spade response would have led to a successful spade contract. In fact it is possible to set up plenty of South hands that will produce a spade game opposite North's collection of nothing.

South has several ways to make three diamonds. The simple way is to win the trump opening in his own hand.

He takes his ace of hearts, ruffs a heart in dummy, comes back to his hand with a high club, ruffs his last heart and pauses for breath.

Then he plays trumps and eventually loses two clubs, one spade and the ace of trumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Torres tell engagement of Robin Lynne

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Torres of Long Beach and Falls Church, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Robin Lynne, to William S. Hinton Jr., son of Lt. Col. William S. Hinton, USA, and Mrs. Hinton of Annandale, Va.

The bride-elect's father is currently serving in the office of the assistant secretary of defense at the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. The wedding will take place next June.

KD Alumnae note summer activities

Party planning will be on the agenda for Kappa Delta alumnae at 8 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Charles Hart, 600 E. Ocean Blvd.

Mrs. Gregory Howe, social chairman, will tell plans for annual Children's Day — an outing for KD mothers and their offspring — and for a late summer barbecue entertaining husbands and guests.

New members will be guests at a salad buffet at the home of Mrs. Robert Girardin as a finale to summer social events.

Mrs. Willis Eckloff of Pasadena, retiring province alumnae officer, has announced selection of the Long Beach association as outstanding group in the province for the third consecutive year.

MRS. JOHN P. ROBERGE

Newlyweds to reside in Alhambra

Barbara Lee Glantz and John Preston Roberge exchanged wedding vows in the presence of 150 guests Saturday at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

The bride, daughter of Lt. Cmdr. USN (Ret.) and Mrs. Jack Earl Glantz, 2266 Argonne Ave., wore a gown of antique ivory peau de sole.

She was attended by Karen M. Larson, maid of honor; Grace M. Rose, Marilyn K. Hobbs, Sharon Dronberger and Cheryl A. Hibbard, bridesmaids; and Elizabeth Van Valkenburgh, flower girl.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Roberge, Pasadena, asked Douglas E. Bott to serve as best man. Bruce Brunner, Theodore Grace, Robert Dronberger and James King were ushers.

THE COUPLE received felicitations at a reception in the Officers' club. On their return from a Las Vegas honeymoon, they will reside in Alhambra.

Mrs. Roberge was graduated from high school in Portugal and from Vanderbilt University where she was a member of Gamma Phi Beta. She was vice president of Panhellenic Council, and was a member of Newman Club and Tennessee Student Nurses Association. Her husband attended University of Hawaii.

Long Beach's Horatio Alger believes in treating guests to elegant delicacies

EDWIN J. WILSON

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Food Editor

He likes, admires and respects people. He awakens each morning REAL glad to be alive. He's always had a goal from which he's never deviated. AND he's a food editor's dream—he insists upon a hearty breakfast.

Total these pertinent facts, and you have today's Chef of the Week, Atty. Edwin J. Wilson. His career, coupled with his determination, makes Horatio Alger look like a piker.

Born in Florence, S.C., Wilson graduated with a bachelor's degree from Claflin College, Orangeburg, just in time to battle the depression. He spent that summer on the boardwalk at Atlantic City, pushing chairs.

Come winter, he became a presser for a wholesale cleaner and dyer.

AFTER A FULL YEAR of frugal saving, he enrolled at Howard University, Washington, D. C. to pursue his law degree. A night elevator operator job in the Broadmore Hotel, helped boost the exchequer for a year and a half.

Then World War II, the draft, and the Quartermaster Corps pre-empted his law studies. From 1941 to 1945, he went from "buck private" to 1st lieutenant.

Separated from the service, he worked for more than a year at Veterans Administration Hospital, Westwood, before applying for adult education teaching credentials in the Long Beach School system. He taught Civics and Negro History.

A year and a half at U.C.L.A. studying political science followed, before he returned again to law. He enrolled at Pacific Coast Law School, Long Beach, and worked 40 hours a week as custodian for the city, cleaning restrooms, sweeping floors and manning the jail elevator two nights a week.

After six more years as social worker, Bureau of Public Assistance, Wilson passed the bar in 1955.

APPOINTED to the City Planning Commission last July, Wilson serves on the International Beauty Congress, the American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, and is a subscribed life member to NAACP. He has served as secretary-treasurer Long Beach Bar Association for the past two years.

He and his wife, Marion, have a son, Edwin, Jr., who will graduate from U.C., Berkeley, in December. He, too, is heading for the bar.

Hobbywise, Wilson is a homebody. He and Marion enjoy Civic Light Opera, Community Playhouse and sports, as spectators. Also chess.

DOMESTICALLY, his assignment is a clean garage, and he dumps with careless abandon. Everything that isn't presently in use must go. Marion has become a great retriever in self defense.

Our "Chef" enjoys having guests; and of his recipe for Shrimp 'N Mushroom Elegante, he says, "It's the sort of rich, expertly seasoned main dish you're proud to serve your guests."

SHRIMP 'N MUSHROOM ELEGANTE

3 tblsp. butter or margarine
2 7-oz. pkgs. frozen shelled shrimp, partially thawed
½ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced

¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. dry mustard
Dash cayenne
2 cups light cream
3 tblsp. cooking sherry
¼ cup shredded Parmesan cheese
Parsley Rice

Melt 3 tablespoons butter in skillet. Add shrimp and mushrooms; cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, about 5 minutes or until mushrooms are tender and shrimp turn pink and are done. Remove from skillet and set aside.

Add ¼ cup butter to skillet; when melted, blend in flour and seasonings. Stir in cream all at once; cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and boils. Add shrimp and mushrooms to sauce; remove a few shrimp for garnish. Heat through 2 or 3 minutes. Stir in cooking sherry and cheese. Salt to taste.

Keep warm in chafing dish; trim with watercress and reserved shrimp. Serve over hot fluffy rice with snipped parsley.

Makes 6 servings.

Traveling with Stan Delaplane

SAN FRANCISCO — Here are some experiences going through Customs: England allowed me to take over limit cigarettes when I said I was going on to France in a week.

France: Didn't open my bags. Spain and Italy didn't ask me to open my bags. In Switzerland, the Customs man said: "If you have anything to declare, take your bags to that counter. If you haven't, you can leave." Germany made a very mild inspection.

Japan: Had me open the bags. Hong Kong: Had me open the bags. The Philippines passed me without even asking if I had anything to declare. Tahiti: Made a rather stiff inspection and questioned my typewriter. Was I going to leave it or sell it?

South America: Several countries questioned the typewriter. Argentina wrote the serial number in my passport and checked to see that I was bringing the typewriter out.

"WE WILL take a tour of the Orient and would like to know what we can bring back . . ."

Each person is allowed $100 worth duty free. That's retail value — what you actually paid for it. Anything given to you has to be declared. Same for clothing even though you've worn it.

* * * *

DON'T GO along with shops that offer to give you a receipt showing less than you paid. We all buy the same things. Customs men see them every day. Know what they cost, and such gimmicks just irritate them.

* * * *

WATCH OUT for anything that could have been made in Red China. It won't enter. Make the shop give you a Certificate of Origin from the U.S. Consul showing it was made in Hong Kong. Watch out for the carved furniture sold in Japan. Some of it comes from China.

"WE WOULD like to drive through the West on the most scenic route with some historical points to show the children."

Any Standard Oil station will give you a planning form to fill out. You send it in, and they send you a marked map and folders with background all along the route. It's free.

I did this recently. While I didn't agree with the entire routing, it's a matter of opinion. It certainly looked like a good basic starter.

Humble has a route planning department. You have to have their credit card, and become a member of their travel club. There's a small monthly membership fee, but quite a few benefits go with it.

* * * *

"WHAT ROUTE would you advise in Mexico to Mexico City? We go in December."

I like the West Coast route, Highway 15. It will be fairly cool then. Return through Laredo, the short route. It could be cold in the high country. I've run into snow on the pass between Toluca and Mexico City. If it gets too cold, turn off at Toluca on the road down to Ixtapan de la Sal and then to warmer Cuernavaca.

* * * *

"WE WOULD like to spend the winter months in Madeira which you recommend as inexpensive. Could you tell us the hotel?"

Reid's is the No. 1 hotel—Churchill used to come there to paint. Sadly, the price line sems to have broken. Three years ago, I paid $5 a day with three meals and the afternoon British tea. A recent price list shows it's now a minimum $10. And they now charge for tea.

They list a Pensao Quinta da Ribeira as de luxe at about $5.50—with all meals. And several first class hotels—Savoy, Santa Isabel—are listed at $7 or so with meals. Still a pretty well-priced island. Warm weather. Good food and wine.

Yes, I do answer mail directly. A self-addressed business size envelope helps. I often want to send bulky enclosures, and they don't stuff in those small envelopes.

2 ships sail to EXPO 67

Two modern American luxury liners, the Moore-McCormack passenger ships Argentina and Brazil, will become "cruising hotels" to the Canadian world's fair—EXPO 67—next summer in Montreal.

Both ships will make an 11-day cruise from New York to Canada, the Argentina sailing Aug. 12, 1967, and the Brazil Sept. 1, 1967.

Each liner offers all first-class staterooms. On board are two heated salt-water swimming pools, professional nightclub entertainment and dancing.

Pardon the error

South Pacific missionaries in the 1800s were first to establish a written language for Fiji. But, since they erred by picking an obscure, out-island dialect as being typical, the spellings they used conflict with general pronunciation of some words. Site of Fiji's jet airport, spelled N-a-d-i, is correctly pronounced "Na(n)-di." "Ya(m)boli," Fiji, and "Pa(n)go Pa(n)go," Samoa are other examples.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Meeting 'other' woman bad idea

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My 52-year-old husband had been seeing another woman. We've been married 16 years, have a 12-year-old daughter, and things seem to have gone to pot.

Joel told this girl all kinds of lies to get her to go out with him, and now he doesn't want her. I offered him a divorce, but he doesn't want one. I said we'd "forgive and forget," but he says he feels "unclean" and wants to get away by himself. That means quitting his job, and that just isn't the thing for a man his age to do.

This woman keeps writing him and calling him. I suggested the three of us get together and settle this thing, but Joel refuses.

I still love him, but he's made such a mess of things I don't know what to do; and he is making things worse instead of better. What would you suggest?

HURT

DEAR HURT:

Maybe getting away for a while would clear the cobwebs out of his head. But let's hope he doesn't quit his job to do it!

He's really mixed up, and about the only thing you can do is let him work this out for himself. Obviously the only way he can do that is to get away. In fact, I think I would insist he do just that and get back on the beam. You've done all—and more—that is expected of you.

M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Don't boys like good girls any more? I was going with a fellow of 21 (I'm 18), and after about seven months he expected more than I was about to give. He dropped me flat and is now going with another girl who is most generous with her favors (as common gossip has it).

I started going out with another boy, and after four months he decided I was "simple" because I wouldn't share his bed, and he quit coming around.

So, you see, I'm not having much luck with boys. But my shoulder is damp with the tears of some of the girls who weren't so "simple." Girls who thought they would keep their boy friends if they did what "everybody was doing."

I just don't know which way to go, to keep losing boy friends or to join the rest of the unhappy girls. I feel so left out and

DIFFERENT

DEAR DIFFERENT:

Just keep right on losing boy friends of the type you speak of. In fact the more of them you say "get lost" to, the better. You'll be awful glad, Miss Different, when the right fellow comes along. And I mean, glad, glad, glad!

Congratulations on being "different."

EXCITEMENT IN PRESCOTT

Spectacular Smoki Ceremonials Aug. 6

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

If you happen to visit Prescott, the old Territorial capital of Arizona, during the week or two you may hear rhythmic chants and the throb of toms-toms rising softly out of the evening stillness.

But don't be alarmed. These bizarre sounds, now in the rehearsal stage, reach an ear-splitting crescendo Aug. 6 when The Smoki People stage their annual Ceremonials before thousands of spectators.

The Smoki People is a "tribe" of several hundred Prescott whites who, in 1921, decided to "do something" to help preserve rapidly vanishing Indian dances.

As a result of detailed and continuing studies of rites of many Western and even Mexican tribes, they present authentic recreations of numerous ancient rituals.

* * * *

CEREMONIES begin at twilight on Smoki Mesa, on the outskirts of Prescott. Costumes, properties, dance steps, makeup, pantomime—all are brought to perfection. Every head and feather, every painted symbol, every gesture has significance, thanks to study of old reports made by the United States Bureau of Ethnology to the Smithonian Institution.

The result is awe-inspiring. Five thousand spectators who crowd the stands feel they have been taken back 300 years in history.

Before them is an impressive Indian pueblo. Lean-tos are set among the evergreens. There is a tantalizing fragrance as squaws dominate the scene, preparing food for hungry braves and papooses. The pulsating rhythm of tom-toms breaks the silence.

Then, in the twilight, the venerable sand painters emerge to place upon the ground their mystic symbols which tell the story of the rituals to follow.

* * * *

THE DANCES differ each year but always include the Smoki Snake Dance, one of the most spectacular ever conceived by the Redskin. Patterned after the famous Hopi Snake Dance in which live rattlesnakes writhe over gleaming bodies, this is actually a prayer for abundant rain and successful crops. Instead of rattlers, the Smokis use bullsnakes, but the effect is electrifying.

This year's Ceremonials also will include the Omaha Sacred Pole Dance, Cheyenne Sun Dance, Smoki Fertility Drum Dance, and the Zuni Hlahekwe or Dance of the Blue and White Corn Maidens.

About 175 Smoki People, some o them nationally known, participate in the rituals but none is allowed to use his name for publicity purposes.

Southern Californians who intend to witness the Ceremonials should make their reservations for tickets and motel - hotel accommodations well in advance. For tickets, address the Smoki People, Box 123, Prescott; for a place to stay, see your travel agent.

* * * *

WHILE in Prescott, enjoy some of the sights of the area, particularly beautiful Oak Creek Canyon by continuing north on Alternate Hwy. 89. Farther north on the same highway, 84 miles from Prescott, is Flagstaff, which, at 7,000 feet altitude, is a summer playground for many Arizonans. The area has many fine hotels, motels, guest lodges and trailer parks and a call at the Chamber of Commerce will provide a long list of worthwhile sights.

If you have the time, you could drive Hwy. 60 to Phoenix, and then up Hwy. 69 to Prescott, Alternate Hwy. 89 to Prescott, and home via Hwy. 66 to Kingman, and then on Hwy. 93 to Las Vegas.

There is always much to see at Phoenix and the Valley of the Sun. Legend City, a miniature Disneyland-like park again is open and fascinating tourists weekday evenings and afternoons and evenings on weekends with its Old West type buildings, western entertainment, and rides from antique cars to gondolas in the sky.

Another popular spot is Phoenix Zoo, open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A feature is trained animal shows held at 10:30 a.m. each Tuesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday at no extra charge.

Oxnard's Sports Festival, which began Saturday, will continue through Aug. 7 with more than 60 types of sporting events on the program including auto and motorcycle slaloms and races, surfing and sailing, women's track, swimming, tennis, softball, rifle shooting, judo, horseshoes and an all-star football game by 1966 graduates of 14 Ventura County high schools. Children under 8 are competing in swimming and baton twirling.

* * * *

The event, beginning Thursday and continuing through July 31, will include competition in surfing, swimming, surf boating, life saving, junior lifeguard championships with stars from some foreign countries among the entries.

* * * *

THE NATIONAL American Indian Dance Pow Wow will be held in Burbank's Starlight Bowl Thursday through July 31. Five hundred Indians in costume from 46 tribes from Mexico to the Pacific Northwest will compete for $2,000 in prizes. An arts and crafts exposition will be held in conjunction with the Pow Wow.

Bishop holds its Homecoming Bar-B-Que next Saturday. The meat is prepared in a special wine sauce and cooked in underground ovens; western-type beans are cooked in huge pots. Piute Indians who inhabit the area will dance in native costumes.

For winebibbers, a vintage chart is included; notes for the art buff, and health guidelines for wine drinkers and gourmets.—F. T. K.

'HANDS ACROSS THE SEA'

A course in English offered Americans

A London restaurant, The Diplomat is compiling a book on "English for Americans" to help U.S. visitors communicate with the natives.

It will work the same way as, say, a French-English dictionary—translating British into American so that American-speaking tourists can crash the language barrier.

Its usefulness is not particularly designed just for dining at The Diplomat. In fact, the menu there, one of London's elegant new restaurants, speaks a universal gourmet language—and it's mostly French anyhow.

* * * *

RATHER, the British-American dictionary is a "hands across the sea" public service on the part of the restaurant's operators, because they've seen too many American tourists stopped in their tracks by words that ought to mean the same thing in both countries—but don't. The restaurant, right around the corner from the American Embassy, is popular with Americans.

Here are some of the words being translated:

"Scheme." Don't raise an eyebrow if a businessman or public official freely admits he's working on one. To an Englishman scheme is simply a plan of action, free of all American connotations of shady or sinister.

"Engaged." If an Englishman tells you he's engaged, he's not saying, "Hands off, girls. I'm getting ready to get married." He's just telling you he has an appointment.

"Biscuits." Don't build breakfast around them. You'll get cookies.

"Chemist." Not necessarily a scientist in a laboratory. It could be the neighborhood drug store.

"Purse." Not your handbag, but the wallet that goes into it—or into your pocket.

"Chips." As in "fish and . . .") Most Americans expect potato chips—but they get French fries.

"Braces." English teenagers don't wear them on their teeth—and with good reason. In British English, braces are suspenders.

"Tube." Don't expect it to be full of toothpaste. It's the subway.

"Lift." Getting one has its ups and downs. It's an elevator.

"Public schools." Private schools.

"Bonnet." It could be fancy feminine headgear—or the hood of your car.

"Boot." There may be no footwork involved—it could be the trunk of your car.

Besides all these words with different meanings, there are also situations where the meanings are the same—but the words are different, the restaurant warns American visitors. For instance, if you order a tankful of gas, you'll be referred to a dentist's office. The British word is not gasoline or gas, but "petrol."

And "Lorry" is not somebody's aunt; it's a truck.

No hurricanes here

Due to its location and certain meteorlogical conditions, Dutch Aruba is one Caribbean island that has never been touched by a hurricane.

Brochure lists events in Alps

European-bound tourists can get more enjoyment from their trip with the help of a 12-page brochure listing all major events for 1966 in the seven Alpine countries.

The pamphlet gives the dates of sports, folkloric and entertainment activities as well as studies, congresses, trade fairs and exhibitions in Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Monaco, Switzerland and Yugoslavia.

Copies are available free by writing the Alpine Tourist Commission, P.O. Box 91, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Garden cruise

Gardening expert Gordon Baker Lloyd and his wife "Sassy," who conducted outdoor garden shows on television in the Los Angeles area for 12 years, will lead a 24-day "Garden Workshop" tour to Hawaii's four major islands aboard the Matson liner Lurline. The cruise starts Sept. 24 from San Francisco.

New Freeway Boon to La Palma

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Nearby School Boards Altered City's Destiny

A new, life-giving artery has been implanted in Southeastern Los Angeles County and Orange County —once the land of cows, chickens and haystacks.

It is the giant San Gabriel Freeway, which cuts a giant swath northward between Long Beach and Los Alamitos, between Lakewood and La Palma and between Bellflower and Artesia.

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Editor

A curious change has occurred in the thinking of the Southland homeowner; no longer does he abhor a freeway close to his home. In fact, recent house buyers are inclined to buy homes closer to the freeway.

This is the case in the north-south corridor created by the San Gabriel Freeway.

Vacant land is at a premium and some communities have only small parcels remaining to catch the developers' eye.

Of all the cities affected by the San Gabriel Freeway, La Palma (previously Dairyland) seems destined to feel the biggest surge of economic boost.

"We welcome it," says La Palma's City Manager Burton Wesenberg. "We're ready for it."

IN THAT SIMPLE statement is reflected a complete about-face on the part of La Palma's administration.

The dairy community was incorporated in 1955 with 500 people, 12,000 cows and 70,000 chickens and with the avowed intention by its residents and newly elected councilmen to forever remain a city of dairy farms.

If it had not been for the members of five nearby school districts — each of which covered a portion of La Palma—this could have been the situation today.

The school authorities realized the lower-priced agricultural land could be condemned for school sites more cheaply than in nearby residential areas.

* * * *

THE BOARD members looked—and they acted.

Within three years, the boards had condemned a total of 134 acres and the land was removed from the tax rolls.

The La Palma City Council also took a long, hard look. Its decision: condemnations and spiraling land values spelled doom to the plan of a "city of dairies forever."

A planning consultant was hired. A master plan was drawn. La Palma joined the ranks of other Southland cities on the move and discarded the name of Dairyland.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH LA PALMA covers but 1.7 miles, predictions set the city's population (642 in 1964) at 18,000 by 1975 or sooner.

The first residential development was 1,400 homes at an estimated cost of $70 million. More are to be announced soon.

The old La Palma City Hall Annex, now occupied by the Police Department, is to be razed to make way for a new Alpha Beta Market. Plans are ready for a civic center that will be the envy of larger neighbors.

For La Palma then, five inquisitive school boards and a new freeway altered the course of destiny.

Security Commission Business Is Assessed

Compiled from Special Dispatches to the Progress Section

Profits on the security commission business of member organizations of the New York Stock Exchange rose in 1965, but one out of five firms showed a loss, the Big Board reports.

Aggregate net profit on security commission business of the 374 firms covered in the survey was 5.8% after estimated Federal income taxes, Exchange President Keith Funston announced. This compares with a net profit of 3.6% for 310 firms in the 1964 survey.

Business Editor
Ken Chilcote
is on vacation. His column will be resumed upon his return.

A total of 87 firms lost money on their security commission business last year, compared with 107 in 1964, or one out of three.

If the least profitable and most profitable firms are eliminated in order to focus on the middle 50%, Funston noted, this gives a better "insight into the performance of a typical firm." When this is done, the aggregate net profit amounted to 4.3%, compared with 2.5% in 1964.

FUNSTON NOTED 1965 was the first year since 1961 that profit on gross commission income exceeded 5%, and the average for the 1961-65 period was 3.7%.

"If it were not for the extraordinarily high volume during the fourth quarter of 1965," the Exchange president observed, "the results last year might have fallen short of 1964."

The fact the sharp gains in volume came suddenly at the end of 1965 "could very well lead to some overstatement of the true profit picture," Funston added. Volume in this period rose more rapidly than the firms could expand their staffs and facilities, he observed. However, since the end of the year both hiring and expansion of operating capacity have been taking place at an accelerated pace.

A disturbing aspect revealed by the survey, Funston said, was that 60% of the firms which lost money on their security business last year received over half of their gross income from security commissions, and some received as much as 80% from this source.

Funston declared the 1965 figures "do not in any sense lessen my concern for the long-term profitability of the security commission business which remained well below that of other financial industries for 1965."

THE LOBBYIST WITH a difference—on the public payroll rather than paid by private interests—is giving U.S. cities a stronger voice in Washington, says a story in BUSINESS WEEK. The story is the first to appear in the magazine's new Cities Department.

The new breed of lobbyist appears as cities grow in economic importance—and as their problems grow. More than 10% of the federal budget goes to assist state and local governments, and probably two-thirds of that goes to urban areas. Other federal programs—urban renewal, welfare, Great Society, and education—are providing billions more for city needs.

The role of the city lobbyist is to sort through these programs and cultivate the funds most needed by his city. Competing with established private interest lobbyists, and with his own kind, the urban lobbyist is growing rapidly in numbers and effectiveness, the magazine points out.

AS THE NATION'S manpower supply continues to tighten, industry's employee demands are rising constantly, according to results of an independent national employment outlook survey conducted by Manpower Inc. The local Manpower office released results of the poll today.

The survey, covering 25 different industries, is conducted through Manpower's network of offices in 350 U.S. cities.

Twenty-nine percent of the businessmen queried forecast a need for additional employees during the third quarter of 1966, while 63% predicted stable employment in their firms. Only 3% said they look for a decrease, and 5% said they don't know.

Analysis of the industries polled nationally shows the greatest increases in employment during the third quarter are forecast in the beverage industry, apparel manufacturing and building construction.

The greatest stability is expected by printers, chemical and allied product wholesalers and retail auto dealers.

Third quarter decreases are expected by very few of the firms surveyed, with the largest percentage prediction a 7% decrease in banking.

EARNINGS IN THE domestic petroleum industry are "well below" those of industry generally and crude oil prices, by any standard, remain "depressed and inadequate," according to F. Allen Calvert Jr., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Calvert, who spoke before a statewide meeting of Michigan IPAA members, pointed out that recently there have been headlines emphasizing the increased earnings in petroleum industry in 1965. "It is true that the rate of return for oil, as well as for all U.S. industry, was up.

"However, I hope no one is misled by the headlines as to oil industry earnings. The rate of return for the domestic operations of 29 larger oil companies, as reported by Chase Manhattan Bank's 'Annual Financial Analysis of a Group of Petroleum Companies 1965,' was 11.3%—up 1.2 percentage points from 1964.

"But, according to Federal Trade Commission and Securities and Exchange Commission figures, the rate of return for all manufacturing industries in 1965 was 13%, up 1.4 percentage points from 1964 and the highest since 1959," he explained.

In each of the past 12 years, the rate of return for domestic petroleum was below the rate for all manufacturing, Calvert said. "Over the past 16 years, the return for oil averaged 0.7 percentage points below manufacturing and in 1965, the well-publicized 'record' year, oil was 1.7 percentage points below manufacturing in general—the biggest gap in six years."

Auto, Steel Slowdowns Showing

After four new highs, the Index levels off this week. Slightly larger than seasonal slowdowns in automobile and steel production affects the chart on the downside, but a big gain in electric power output helps to keep the overall Index figure near its record level of early July.

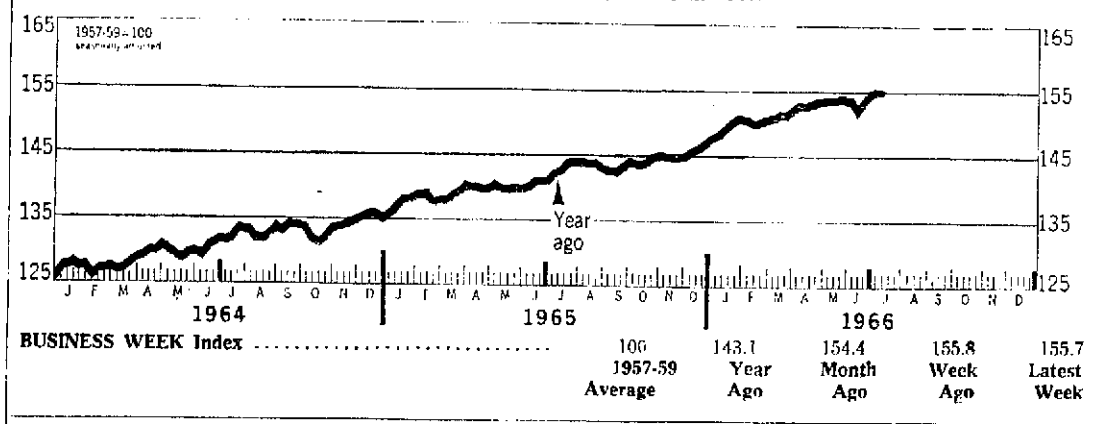

Steel has been an important element in the continuing forward drive of the economy this summer. And this has been true despite the well-publicized drop in auto manufacturing. The auto plants historically account for 20% of steel consumption in a given year, and as the auto plants ease off production because of higher-than-usual new car inventories and an earlier-than-usual changeover to the 1967 models, steel orders from Detroit are indeed affected.

But the slack has been quickly taken up. This week's Index component for steel, for instance, is off just 0.5% on a seasonally-adjusted basis.

THE REASON: a strong level of orders from other durable goods makers, particularly in the appliance field. Viet Nam plays a rising role, too, as steel shipments to makers of defense hardware already account for 5% of market volume, and are increasing sharply.

Steelmen now feel, in fact, that their well-balanced market could assure a record ingot production of 137-million tons in 1966.

INDUSTRY'S EMPLOYEE motivation compaigns are paying dividends on the fighting fronts in Viet Nam, according to the U.S. Air Force. Maj. Gen. Charles H. Terhune Jr., commander of the Air Force System Command's Aeronautical Systems Division, presented a citation to Honeywell's Aeronautical division recently, calling it "a model for the aircraft industry."

General Terhune said Honeywell's specialized controls and instruments are the type of equipment that "almost always spell the difference between success and failure." He said the company's STEP employee motivation program is already paying dividends to the armed forces in terms of combat effectiveness of military weapons systems in Viet Nam.

STEP (Strive Toward Error-free Performance) was instituted about a year ago and has achieved what General Terhune called "significant" cost improvements totaling more than $7 million. These savings were realized in such areas as improved manufacturing processes, engineering re-design methods, and streamlined administrative reporting and inventory control record keeping.

"FRANCHISING" IS BIG business. So much so, the Labor Department recently signed an agreement with a big eastern college for the training of 1,000 high school students in the franchise business. A franchise sets up a person—or a company—as an independent enterpriser, representing a larger firm with an established product line, service, and reputation.

The agreement was made to assist the franchising industry and expand a new job market . . . A recent survey on depreciation of money reveals that we in the United States are not the only ones having difficulty making money stretch. Declines in money value in 1965 surpassed the 10-year average in 31 of the 45 countries surveyed. In most of the countries spiraling food prices induced by production shortages of cereal grains and meat caused the shrinkage. For the 10-year period as a whole, the median rate of depreciation for the 45 countries was 3.3% a year.

AMERICAN TOURISTS TRAVELING abroad this summer can find American-style greeting cards to send home in no less than 75 countries around the world. In many of these countries greeting cards were almost unknown as recently as 10 years ago, a spokesman for Hallmark Cards pointed out, but now they are frequently available in both English and the language of the country.

In France, for example, Hallmark is producing greetings in French for domestic exchange, and its own English-language cards are imported from Great Britain and sold in resort hotels and gift shops frequented by tourists.

The custom of exchanging cards is catching on also in Japan, Germany and even in some African countries, and the company is producing cards in these countries in Japanese, German and Afrikaans. American tourists frequently select foreign language greetings to send home because of their novelty, even though those receiving them can't speak the language.

FHA Orange County Analysis Shows Rate of Growth Slowing

Special To The Progress Section

The Federal Housing Administration has released its analysis of the Orange County housing market. The study estimates total demand for new housing at 18,650 units a year for the three years dating from July 1, 1965.

Estimated annual demand includes 17,000 sales units and 1,650 rental units. About "2,000 units of demand for sales housing are expected to be in planned unit developments or cooperatives." Rental demand does not include public low-rent housing or rent supplement housing.

Vacancy ratios as of July 1, 1965 were 3.1% for sales units and 13.9% for rental units. Both were "about the same as reported by the 1960 Census of Housing."

RECENTLY BUILDING activity, as measured by building permits authorized, turned down. The volume increased "from nearly 22,000 in 1960 to a peak of almost 37,000 in 1963, then dropped to 28,500 in 1964. The decline has continued in the current (1965) year, particularly in new multifamily units."

"Unemployment has been fairly moderate since 1958 and has rarely exceeded 6% of the civilian labor force." In July 1965, it was "slightly above 5%."

FAMILY INCOMES are expected to rise. In July 1965 the yearly median income of all families was about $8,450, after deduction of Federal income tax. This represented an increase of 24% since 1959.

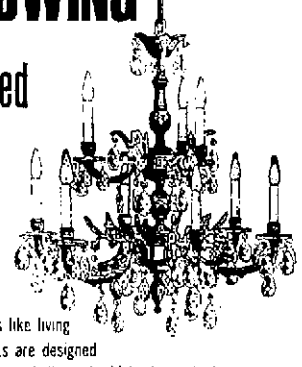

The median yearly after-tax income of renter families in July, 1965, was about $6,725. By mid-1968, the figures are expected to increase to about $9,000 for all families and to about $7,050 for renter families.

Further increase in population is forecast, but the yearly rate is expected to be below that of the past 15 years. In July 1965 the population was estimated at 1,151,000. In the 1950-60 decade, the yearly rate of increase was 22.6%.

* * *

"SINCE THAT time the average growth rate has been about 12% a year; it is expected to decline to about 6.3% a year during the next three years.

JAN DROMGOLD
New Executive Secretary

New Chief Aide for L.B. Mayor

Jan Dromgold, executive secretary of the Long Beach Convention and Visitors' Bureau, will succeed Vi Dovey as chief office aide to Mayor Edwin W. Wade and the City Council.

It will be the first change in that position in 30 years, since Mrs. Dovey's appointment in 1936.

"No one steps into Vi's shoes," said Mrs. Dromgold. "Nevertheless I am elated and thrilled. I consider it a great opportunity."

At the convention and Visitors' Bureau she has worked with city officials during the last six years in an activity largely subsidized by the city.

* * * *

HER TITLE, with the city will be executive secretary to the mayor and council, a newly-created job classification. The title of administrative assistant was created for Mrs. Dovey, who retired July 15. The new appointment is effective Aug. 1.

A native Californian, Mrs. Dromgold attended schools in Lomita and also Los Angeles City College. She worked as a volunteer for numerous civic organizations before taking a full-time job with the convention bureau. As one result of her volunteer service, she received an honorary life membership in the P-TA.

In recent years her duties have included those of office manager and controller, solicitation of conventions and making sure the delegates are properly welcomed and housed.

SHE IS ALSO a housewife and a mother. Her husband, Ray Dromgold, is an engineer with an oil tool instrument company. Their son, Gary, is serving in the Army.

Mrs. Dromgold's hobbies include boating, ham radio operation and photography. She is also active in the Long Beach Chapter of Executive Secretaries, Inc.

The mayor announced the appointment Saturday. Other councilmen had agreed to the selection at an earlier personnel conference.

5th, 6th Centuries Objects Unearthed

BEERSHEBA, Israel (AP)—Three Byzantine underground chambers of the 5th and 6th centuries were unearthed in excavations here for a new bus station, Mayor Eliahu Navi announced. Presumably burial places, they contain many small objects such as an ivory carved head, a cross-topped column, knives, coins and human bones. On the walls are faint drawings of men at prayer.

BILL CONFUSION This Has Gone About Far Enough

BADBY, England (UPI)—Nurse Mable Cope paid her electricity bill promptly with a $40.10 check.

A couple of days later, she got a receipt along with her check and a request that she write out another for the correct amount—40.08.

Miss Cope, 60, complied. But back came the check, plus a letter saying the receipt she held proved the bill already had been paid.

Now Miss Cope has received another letter which warns her: "Pay up or we cut the power off."

TITO ABANDONS CLOSE FRIENDS

Economic Reforms Loom in Yugoslavia

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Ridder Sr. are touring Europe. The following is another in a series of articles by Mr. Ridder.

By BERNARD H. RIDDER
President, Northwest Publications

VIENNA—It is scarcely a week ago that we were advised in Rome to go to Yugoslavia and observe for ourselves the great changes that are underway, involving some of the leading Communists of that country. We were told that the coming revolution, if you can dignify it by that name, would include many of the top men in the Red hierarchy.

Recently Tito, consummate fakir that he is, apologized for not acting sooner and removed two of his oldest and closest friends, his supposed successor, the vice president and party secretary, Rankovich, and the head of the secret police, Stephanovic.

Things have been going badly economically in Yugoslavia, in fact they have been going from bad to worse. Some time ago Tito found it necessary to form the Socialist Alliance in Belgrade, which now numbers about 8 million, of whom only a million are Communists. The Reds, wherever they are in power, are a small minority group holding power by revolutionary seizure.

The country was aware that those in charge were making a mess of it, as of course they could not do otherwise, since communism itself is to blame for the bad condition of the country. Now the people themselves and the world are stunned to ponder the meaning of the sudden shock and what could happen next.

That Tito abandoned his closest friends and fellow conspirators is proof that he did so to save his own skin. Now that the number two man has been fired and the powerful secret police apparatus has been smashed, anything could result in the near future, and the present surprise is only a beginning.

We can expect bold and sweeping reforms while, most important of all, the Communist Party of Yugoslavia is to divest itself of the excessive power to rule the country alone.

The Congress of Social Alliance will take its place in bringing about the changes necessary to restore the economy of the country. Tito, in his statement, admitted that the confidence of the people of Yugoslavia had been shaken and preferred to be the spokesman of the coming changes.

The resistance to the new order will be hard and bitter. It is only a generation ago that the Reds slew 350,000 small businessmen and farmers to make way for the new Communist world. Tito was the head of that incredible purge, and is now obliged to demote and degrade the very men who were his lieutenants in that disastrous enterprise. It must have been an agonizing decision for him.

It was prophesied in Rome, while we were there, that great reforms would be under way before long and that the profit system would be again restored. We hear there is great joy in the country, in the removal of the two old-time Communists who stood in the way of reform.

Ants Work Faster Than Freight Workers

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI)—An importer claims airport freight workers in this African nation cannot work as fast as a colony of ants. He told officials a shipment of dresses was delayed five days at the airport and in that time ants ate through cardboard boxes and ruined the clothes.

Fear Nurse Quality May Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Nursing Home Association said Saturday that unless most of the states raise their payments for public assistance patients the quality of nursing home care will diminish.

The association opens a two-day convention here July 19 to be devoted chiefly to the part the nation's nursing homes will play under Medicare.

Roy J. McDonald, association president, said in a statement that 53% of the patients in nursing homes receive public assistance. He said an ANHA survey showed that one-half of the 50 states are providing less than $7 a day for maximum care of such patients. Six states provide maximums of $10 a day while three pay $3.29 a day or less.

* * * *

A REPORT on the survey said "there is an inevitable relationship between the funds available and the quality of care that can be provided by a nursing home. Inadequate funds result in inadequate care unless private pay patients are able to subsidize the public assistance patients."

It said care rates in the 50 states, as of last Jan. 1, ranged from a low of $50 a month in Mississippi to $563 in Alaska. It added that 28 states provide maximum rates to $150 to $250 a month.

"The averages reported by 39 states showed one half paying an average of $145 or less," it said, "Twenty-five of these 39 paid an average of less than $5 a day."

McDonald said that too often some states "fail to provide rates of payment that permit strict enforcement of nursing home licensing standards." This will be mandatory under Medicare.

"It is imperative that both the federal and state governments establish realistic reimbursement formulae if we are to continue to improve the quality of care," McDonald said.

West German Aide Will Go to Moscow

BONN (AP)—Science Research Minister Gerhard Stoltenberg, 37, will fly to the Soviet Union this week as the first West Germany cabinet member to go there since Konrad Adenauer, then chancellor, went to Moscow in 1955.

Stoltenberg's announced mission is to open a German architecture show in Leningrade but a spokesman said he will strive for "a maximum of contacts."

L.A. Brace Yourself; Hon, 82 Feet Long, May Visit

(This is one of a series of articles by The Independent, Press-Telegram drama critic, now on leave to utilize the American-Scandinavian Foundation's 1966-67 theatrical award.)

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

"Our Los Angeles supervisors would never permit such a monstrosity to enter our County Museum!" said the over-dressed American tourist lady, her lurking smile undermining the ferocity of her statement.

Hon provoked her mixed feelings. Hon has been doing that for weeks now at Moderna Museet, Stockholm's Modern Museum. Modern Museum is the perfect place to put Hon (which means She) on reclining display. Hon is out of this world while representing our obsessions with technology. And Moderna Museet is a place where you have to go across the bridge into the forest on an island, through the trees, then in the clearing there is Modern Museet — out of this world and yet representing so much of what modern man feels, builds and sometimes thinks.

I found Hon hilarious and a genuinely strong artistic statement. I did not mention this to the young lady whose guest I was. She was disappointed with its interior mechanical contrivances. I found these intriguing, but since I was her honored guest and she had turned 21 that day and her father is an art dealer who represents Picasso and other top world painters, I thought it would be useless to start an argument.

* * * *

YOU CAN'T tell a "just-turned-21" anything, especially if she learned art at the feet of a learned art dealer. And she is both French and Swedish.

But I was impressed with Hon even after entering through what some critic called the ultimate source—an entry that many Southern Californians will be making if Hon's backers carry out their threat—and it has to be a threat—to invade California shortly.

Niki de Saint Phalle, the 36-year-old Frenchwoman (who else?) and Jean Tinguely and Per Olof Ultvedt, her co-sculptors who created Hon themselves seem confused as to what should the lady be likened.

They forewarn you that Honi Soit . . . evil is he who evil thinks—you know all that jazz—but in pinning down what Hon is they themselves double-talk:

* * * *

Hon: She
A Cathedral
A Factory
A Whale
Noah's Ark
Mama

* * * *

It may well be all of these things. I, however, doubt that Hon is the best woman in the world, but she may well be the biggest. The sculpture measures 82 feet long and 20 feet high and 30 feet larger—bigger than they grow Hons even in Hon-ey this is Texas . . ." That's Hon on the outside.

But it is not until you enter Hon—she is mostly black inside—that things really start popping. Inside there is a machine which destroys bottles coming from the soda fountain bar above. There is even a movie theater with 12 seats which shows old Greta Garbo movies. Hon also has wheels a-turning all the time and these expand her lungs and contract her whale of a heart.

It is a whale, a factory, a mama of an exhibit, well-conceived and its jangled technological nerve centers will tell those who come after what stress was like when the machine grew tired of man's non-communication and thtus scarred him with its own image.

Out of this strange remake came Hon—whoever she may be.

I think the show will give Los Angeles something to talk about.

SANDI HASSEY
Program Director

Sandi Hassey Named Y Program Director

Sandi Hassey, a 21-year-old graduate of California State College at Long Beach, is the newly appointed program director at the Los Altos YMCA, succeeding Kathy Jo Schutte.

Miss Hassey, daughter of Mrs. Clara K. Hassey, 4215 E. Eleventh St., will be in charge of the Tri-Gra-Y program for elementary school girls and the Junior Tri-Y program for junior high school girls.

She received all her formal education in Long Beach educational institutions. She attended Bryant Elementary School and Jefferson Junior High School before being graduated from Wilson High School in 1962. She attended Long Beach City College before being graduated from Cal State this June with a B.A. degree and a major in sociology.

The vivacious Miss Hassey is not a newcomer to YMCA work, having started as a volunteer to a Tri-Gra-Y club when she was a sophomore in college. Prior to her permanent appointment as program director, she worked part-time as a staff member on the Tri-Gra-Y and Family Special Interest programs at Los Altos.

When she is not occupied with YMCA work, which is not very often, she enjoys skiing and going to the beach.

Basic Salary Provided for Dental Clinic Head

Orange County has reached agreement to pay $10,000 toward the annual salary of a coordinator to direct an expanded dental clinic at the Orange County General Hospital.

Earlier, the county supervisors agreed to post $20,000 to remodel and redecorate Building 40 at the hospital, now used for a clinic staffed by the Orange County Dental Society volunteers.

The dentists had outlined a plan to set up a dental college teaching program in connection with their volunteer work with indigents, including children. The clinic was set up to provide needed services to children, then expanded to care for adults facing dental surgery.

Under the society's plan, the clinic would be expanded to 14 chairs and provide all types of services under a working arrangement with the Loma Linda University's college of dentistry, Riverside. The $10,000 salary item pledged by the county would be for the university professor who coordinates the program, it was explained.

New Census Means Cash for Cypress

The city of Cypress has authorized the Federal Bureau of Census to conduct a special census in October at an estimated cost of $4,200.

The nose count conceivably could bring $17,000 more into city coffers because of an increased share in taxes collected by the state.

The state returns portions of gasoline and other revenues to the cities, based on their population.

Monies returned to Cypress are based on an April population estimate of 18,500 made by the State Department.

"We were 19,000 as of July 1 and expect to be about 21,000 by October," Darrel Dalton, assistant city manager, said.

He said Cypress has been growing at an annual rate of 4,000 for the last two years.

Near $4,000 Savings Is Realized at Rossmoor

A once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to save $3,966 on the purchase of a new home will be in effect this weekend at Rossmoor Townhouses, the $4 million subcommunity of homes immediately adjacent to Rossmoor Shopping and Business Center on Los Alamitos Boulevard.

Pete Blair, sales manager for Rossmoor Townhouses, said the almost $4,000 in savings has been made possible by continuation of the low 6% mortgage rate at Rossmoor despite the upping of the prevailing mortgage rate to 7% throughout the housing industry.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, Rossmoor Townhouses will continue to make available a plan for the purchase of homes for only $450 down.

Priced at $22,950 and $23,950, these three- and four-bedroom homes still offer a choice of exterior elevations and floor plans. A vast array of added features include GE medallion kitchens with built-in Americana oven and range, disposal, dishwasher, and combination washer-dryer.

* * * *

ROSSMOOR Townhouse residents have access to fun facilities including four pools, shuffleboard courts, putting greens, barbecue pits and a private modern club house. All exterior maintenance is taken care of by a professional staff.

Rossmoor Townhouses may be reached via the San Diego Freeway or Seventh Street to the Los Alamitos-Bay Boulevards exit, then north two blocks to Los Alamitos Boulevard.

Next Week

The title of the article is "Me? A Little League Manager? There's Nothing to It!" If that's confusing and if it hints at contradiction it is because there is nothing more confusing than being manager of a baseball team populated by hyper-active, scatter-brained, unpredictable 10 and 12 year olds. For the report of one such manager, see next week's Southland Magazine for "Me? A Little League Manager? . . ."

CONVERSATION, PLEASE

Teen-Agers Sound Off

By Linda Jones

I WISH MY PARENTS would remember they were young once, too, and let me make my own mistakes. . . Why can't my dad ever give me a chance to explain? . . . My mother says I make her nervous . . . Stop analyzing me and help me analyze my parents! These expressions are some of the innermost feelings of young people today.

I am a 1966 high school graduate, a member of the most analyzed, push-pulled, probed, studied generation to appear on the American scene.

Social scientists have asked us many things but they rarely bother to inquire how we feel about our own particular sets of parents. How would we change them? How do we believe family life could be made smoother, happier? What causes arguments between ourselves and our seniors? Is punishment old fashioned? Do they give us too much money or not enough?

The encompassing question has yet to be asked: "What is your advice to your parents?"

I decided to ask that question along with several others pertinent to the subject, in a questionnaire answered by more than 100 junior and senior students in one of the Long Beach high schools. This report is a summary of their opinions and their collective advice.

* * * *

FAMILY fights? I found that 37% of the girls have as many as once-a-week fights with their parents, compared to 28% for the boys. The balance indicated only occasional verbal altercations. Many of these "family feuds" could be prevented, students felt, if the proper relationship between the parents and teenagers existed.

Too many parents feel that they know what's right and wrong because they are older and more experienced. Of course they are, but, as one student put it, "They won't even wait to let me say I'm sorry, but just tear right in to me. They won't listen."

Another student said, "My mother automatically says 'No' to everything that will take me out of a one mile radius of home. Frankly, if she would let me give all the good reasons why I think I should be allowed on an excursion BEFORE she says no, I'd be more inclined to shut up."

Students feel they are acutely aware of the pitfalls —moral and otherwise — which threaten them, but parents won't recognize their modern sophistication. In fact, such sophistication tends to frighten them. They want their children to be well-educated, but when it comes right down to it, they are frightened by the amount of knowledge their children possess.

THE PLEA, "They should try to understand me!" is echoed by both the girls and the boys, and they pinpoint this lack of understanding to the surprising amount of non-interest of which many parents are guilty. If they'd just take time to savor a little taste of what their young people do in their spare time, this knowledge would help in digesting one another's views. The students point out that we, as teenagers, are asked to stay home once in awhile to "see what it's like," but why can't they venture into our so-called "wild and weird world?" I didn't say intrude, I said venture. How? Here is a summary of advice.

LISTEN to us. Ask us questions. Investigate the clubs we join. Meet the people we like. Don't let a group of us frighten you out of the house. Talk to us. Talk to us. Talk to us! One boy commented, "I'm flattered when the father of a girl I am dating asks me questions about myself and courteously asks me to have his daughter in by a certain time. I feel important, and it is certainly obvious that he thinks his daughter is pretty important!"

And when we slip from grace? With all the family fights, I thought there would have been more punishments than this survey indicated. About 60% of the girls said their parents never really followed through with the punishments they set, and 52% of the boys said the same. Only two girls and three boys admitted they had no punishments inflicted upon them.

SEVERAL commented in the same vein as one senior girl. "If I could go back to when I was younger, I would want my parents to be more strict with me." Parents nowadays really have a confusing time of it, not knowing which way to turn. Take for example, this provocative comment concerning punishments. "My friends brag about their punishments like they brag about their boy friends. Parental restrictions seem to be a status symbol."

With so many young people driving and the added opportunity to be out late, many arguments and punishments concern curfews. In my survey 53% of the boys and 55% of the girls are given active access to the family car, with 7 girls and 4 boys owning their own. Some 80% of the boys are under no curfew, while 73% of the girls are limited. The boys indicated theirs is a more lenient curfew because they must take their dates home and their parents don't want them to have to say, "I'm sorry, we'll have to go now because my parents want me home at midnight." Some boys chafe because their parents don't make allowances for this extra male duty and they would like to be allowed a degree of judgment in the matter.

There are other sources of parent-teenage frictions, but those in the area of money and household chores are not as important to youngsters as some might imagine. Only 3 boys and 3 girls admitted that they did nothing to help in the home, even though each received an allowance. The average for the high school students who received allowances was a whopping $5 a week. However, 53% of the boys and 38% of the girls stated they received none. Many felt that they should receive at least a small weekly payment, not for the things they wanted or did, but to teach them the value of money and to give them a sense of responsibility toward spending and saving. Of those who received no allowance, some earned their own money, while the rest were

Grand opening of the prestige community of Westhaven in Westminster and Fountain Valley will be continued this weekend with refreshments being served to all visitors today from 1 to 5 p.m., according to Larry Shields, builder-developer of the new 800-home community.

Westhaven, which occupies a 200-acre site, will also contain a park, several school sites and a shopping and business center when fully completed. The homes are available in a variety of one and two-story designs ranging from Mediterranean to ranch, Spanish and contemporary.

* * * *

THE GOLD Medallion homes offer a wide selection of floor plans with many features such as sunken living rooms in some models, family rooms, three-car garages and the new Patio Kitchen, with a special serve-through bar leading to the rear patio.

The homes contain from 1,450 to 2,650 square feet and are priced from $26,950 to $34,500, according to Frank McFarland, exclusive sales agent for the development.

The model homes area, on Brookhurst Street between McFadden and Edinger Avenues, features four furnished and decorated model homes and an unusual sales and information center of Mediterranean styling, with a custom tile roof, stained glass windows and wrought iron grilles. This building will later become a part of the professional center planned in conjunction with the shopping and commercial complex of Westhaven, McFarland said.

* * * *

LOCATED IN THE center of Orange County, Westhaven is close to established shopping and business centers, schools, churches and a variety of recreational areas.

All utility lines in the new development are underground, affording residents a view unmarred by unsightly poles and wires.

Westhaven is ideally situated, just minutes from the Garden Grove-San Diego Freeways and Highway 39.

Q. Which Pope was first to have a Swiss guard?—J.G.

A. Pope Julius II. In 1505, a period marked by fighting and unrest, he realized that he and the possessions of the church needed protection. Because the Swiss had a reputation as invincible fighters, he recruited 150 Swiss soldiers as his personal bodyguard.

Q. Name the largest Japanese battleship sunk by the U.S. Navy in World War II. —D.W.

A. The Musashi and the Yamato, sister ships having a displacement of 72,809 tons at full load, were both sunk by U.S. Navy carrier-based aircraft (both bombs and torpedoes). These were the largest battleships ever designed and built by any nation. The Musashi sank in Philippine waters on October 24, 1944, after six attacks. The Yamato sank in Japanese waters on April 7, 1945, after three attacks.

Q. Why has the Music Critics Circle of New York stopped making its awards? —F.Y.

A. After an existence of 24 years, the Circle disbanded in 1965. The principal reason was the great number of new musical works that are now presented in New York each year. The Circle's awards, made for outstanding new works heard in New York each season, were open to composers of all nationalities. In 1965, when there more than 200 new works eligible for consideration, Circle members found themselves unable to give a fair hearing to all of these and to choose among them.

MAX J. DURHAM . . . Tramped the Desert

Harbor Engineering Supervisor Retires

By ELLIOT ZWIEBACH

Max J. Durham, 60, retires from the Harbor Department on Aug. 1 after 31 years of municipal service.

The Durham family came to Long Beach from Galesburg, Ill., in 1908 and settled in an area of the city then known as "Zaferia."

While attending Polytechnic High School ("the only high school in the area"), he worked as a locker room boy and lifeguard at the YMCA and as a sports reporter on the Long Beach Press-Telegram.

MAJORING IN CIVIL engineering at UCLA, Durham also participated in basketball, baseball and swimming. He was commissioned as a second lieutenant in college ROTC and, following promotions during the war and in the reserves, retired as a lieutenant colonel last January.

Durham had to leave UCLA in 1929 because of the depression. He found work with the Colorado River Survey, now known as the Metropolitan Water District.

During his four years on the job he made four trips afoot from Pomona to the Colorado River, a distance of about 250 miles.

LATER, DURHAM worked as a construction inspector for the Survey, as an assistant engineer for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation on the Parker Dam and Central Valley projects, and as an engineering inspector for the Harbor Department.

Durham worked on the construction of army camps during the war and remained with the military as an engineering consultant for 10 years, living in Japan, the Philippines and China with his wife Dorothy and daughter Vicki.

He rejoined the Harbor Department in 1950 and has served it in various capacities since, most recently as harbor engineering supervisor, in charge of land management.

TO DURHAM, who resides at 5125 E. Ocean Blvd., retirement will not mean an end of activity. He intends to assist his wife in her real estate business, fish and continue his activities in the Uptown Kiwanis Club, the YMCA, the Military Order of World Wars, the Retired Officers Association and the Reserve Officers Association.

He also wants to become active in the Long Beach Historical Society.

Philco Aeronutronic Set to Occupy New Building

Philco Corporation's Aeronutronic Division, Newport Beach, will occupy research and development facilities for advanced electronics programs at Santa Ana this month, Aeronutronic General Manager John B. Lawson announced.

The 39,000-square-foot building, to be called the Aeronutronic Santa Ana Engineering Facility, is located at 3519 W. Warner St.

It is being subleased to Aeronutronic by the Otis Elevator Company, New York, through Coldwell, Banker & Company, Newport Beach.

The facility will house members of the newly formed Advanced Electronics activity including personnel and equipment from Aeronutronic's Blue Bell, Pa., Radar Projects Center and from Aeronutronic's Reconnaissance and Electromechanical Programs, at Newport Beach. Other Philco personnel will occupy the area in the Blue Bell facility formerly occupied by Aeronutronic.

THE RADAR PROJECTS Center at Blue Bell, formerly a part of Philco's Communications and Electronics Division, was transferred to Aeronutronic two years ago as part of the Advanced Electronics activity within Engineering at Aeronutronic.

"This new facility and the transfer of the Blue Bell radar center to Santa Ana," Lawson said, "is aimed at consolidating our efforts and strengthening our position in advanced electronics and radar."

NEWEST STATUS SYMBOL

Aluminum Prefabs for Second Homes

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A Pittsburgh businessman is capitalizing on America's newest status symbol—the second home.

Ivan Kaplan, president of Holiday Homes of Bridgeville, Pa., has been test-marketing prefabricated aluminum houses and lodges designed for casual use in the Pittsburgh area.

Kaplan at first geared the do-it-yourself structures to weekend use as skiing and hunting retreats but now envisions the houses as suitable for permanent residences.

The houses, built of honeycomb core snadwich panels, are constructed in two and three-bedroom models. They can be erected with a normal three-man crew in five days and dismantled in two days, making the home portable. The homes, in addition to being erected in the conventional way, can be put in place on elevated piers or foundation blocks or with a full basement.

* * * *

EACH PANEL and each extrusion is specifically numbered, making installation an easy procedure. The aluminum homes range in price from $1,100 for a 9' by 15' unit to $6,000 for a three-bedroomer.

Kaplan said a feature of the home is that it is relatively maintenance-free.

"We've had an incredible reaction from viewers who have inspected the homes," Kaplan said. "They have filled out thousands of questionaires, but we've been struck by a common factor which seems to have impressed them most. It's the maintenance-free quality of aluminum construction."

* * * *

HE SAID he feels the homes will receive a warm reception as a dual purpose vacation-retirement home.

"There's a market for them," he said.

Kaplan senses a potential of 40 million pounds of aluminum in vacation homes in the next five years. In projecting his figures to arrive at the 40-million-pound figure for the use of aluminum, Kaplan estimates each of his homes will use 4,000 pounds of the metal. He forsees the sale of 10,000 of these homes between now and 1971.

A Championship for the Rams?

Go Ahead and Snicker, but a New Coach, New Tactics Give Rise to New Hope . . .

By Al Larson

AS THE RAMS were saying before they were interrupted by the championship playoffs and the Pro Bowl and a spring of discontent, things are looking up.

At the risk of extracting sneers and a few guffaws, the Rams are here to tell you this may be the year of their comeback. Not the start of their comeback, but THE year.

The Rams, in a word, are talking championship 1966.

(There will be a slight pause for assorted wisecracks.)

If you will recall, the Southern California entry in the National Football League closed out the '65 season with three high-voltage triumphs and a tension-filled, narrow setback at the hands of the champion Baltimore Colts. That was enough to provide the veterans with optimism.

Using that record as a launching pad the new coach, George Allen, disassembled the squad, culled out some dead weight, earmarked a sackful of hangers-on for early disposal and completed a cross-country search for available talent.

THE RESULT IS THAT Allen, who will welcome the veterans into camp at Chapman College in Orange today, has hitched up his trousers, taken a deep breath and predicted a Western Division championship for '66.

A major change has come to the Rams organization in the so-called off months since Allen was plucked from the Chicago Bears staff over the violent remonstrations of the ogre of the gridiron, Papa Bear George Halas. (There was a court fight over Allen's services, you'll remember, a fight in which both sides claimed victory. The only way to decide the victory, though, is to observe which team Allen is coaching these days.)

It's believed Allen has instilled a new spirit in the team that hasn't won a championship since 1955, the team that has won only 15 of 56 games over the past four seasons while annually finishing in a "wait 'til next year" posture.

ONE OF THE MOST important changes has been an about-face in Ram policy of many years that saw tested veterans traded for untested draft choices.

"You won't see us giving away veterans for young stars any more," Allen said assuringly. "The future will take care of itself. My concern is with now."

With this his "modus operandi," Allen has proceeded to rebuild the Rams' linebacking corps, manned by three rookies last year, by acquiring veterans Maxie Baughan from Philadelphia, Myron Pottios from Pittsburgh and Bill George from Chicago, and luring Jack Pardee out of retirement. In five of Allen's first seven trades he obtained battle tested players in exchange for future draft choices, a complete reversal of past policy.

He added running back Tom Moore from Green Bay to bolster a sagging offensive machine and bought defensive backs Irv Cross and Claude Crabb from the Eagles to shore up the pass defense.

IF THE PLAN HAS a ringing similarity to the one employed by Vince Lombardi when he built the Green Bay Packers into "Title Town, USA," you're right.

"Vince got Willie Davis from Cleveland, which was a heck of a trade," Allen points out. "He also picked up Henry Jordan and Tom Quinlan, all defensive players, that helped them tremendously right off." (Note: The Packers vaulted from last to first in two seasons with the arrival of Lombardi in 1959.)

"My thesis is to win in 1966. We're not building for the future. Every move we make is predicated on THIS YEAR," Allen emphasizes. "And I've tried to bring in players who have been on championship teams. I feel this winning tradition will rub off on the others."

He thinks the Western Division of the National Football League is so well balanced that a 9-5 season could win the championship.

"I don't think any team is so outstanding it could beat that record. There are no weak sisters. The Chicago Bears are the team to beat, and have the most balance both ways. The big trouble in this division is that you can improve and still not notice it in the win-loss column."

Last year Green Bay and Baltimore tied for the title with 10-3-1 records.

ALLEN SAYS the hardest thing for him to realize is that the Rams haven't had a winning season since 1958. "It will take 110% effort to reverse the trend. I want every player, the 40 who make the squad, to develop an intense pride in being a Ram."

He put the message on paper and sent a copy to each player. The fight talk also

Meet George Allen, the Ram Boss

Though George Allen, 42, has been head coach of the Rams for nearly six months, most of that time has been spent behind closed doors plotting an extensive overhaul of a team that has sputtered for nearly a decade. He is something of a mystery man. Here, in an exclusive interview for Southland Magazine, is an insight to the young man who is chief mechanic in the overhaul:

George Allen, on the subject of pride:

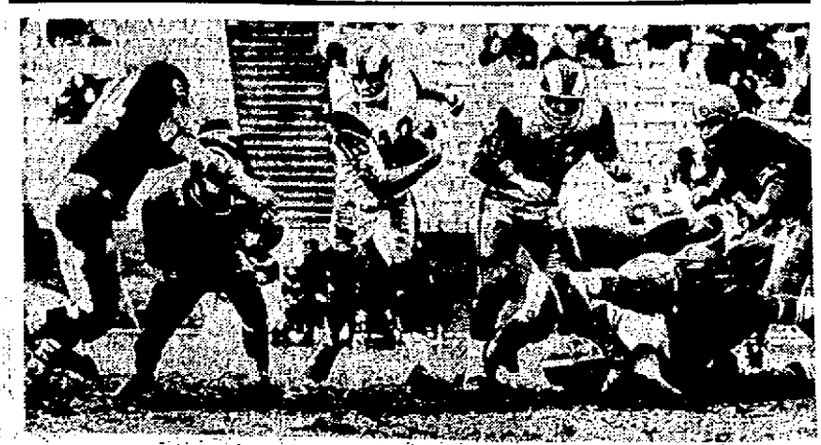

"It is important that everyone on the Rams team be proud of the organization, but this is not enough. To be proud of being a Ram and then lose game after game is not the pride I mean. Pride in being a winner is what I'm after."

George Allen, on his coaching philosophy:

"I'm not a screamer or yeller by nature and I do not try to coach that way. Speak softly and treat all football associates as gentlemen until they prove they warrant other treatment.

"There are no men with magic who are coaching in

Rams will be 2-quarterback team, says new coach, with runs of Roman Gabriel (above) and passing of Bill Munson (cover) both being utilized.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Please inform us on GOWEN.—H. G., Long Beach, A. J., Garden Grove.

McGOWEN is from Mac Gobhain meaning "armorer and blacksmith." The name progenitor was a Scotch artisan who made steel armor to protect knights who served the king. McGowen clan lands were in Perth and Inverness, north Scotland. The original family chief joined Clan MacPherson in a fierce battle with Clan Davidson in 1396. After the bloody combat the MacGowen chief and nine MacPhersons remained alive; to avoid surrender the last Davidson drowned himself. Irish McGowens were natives of Tipperary and Clare. The clan shield is silver, emblazoned with a rampant red lion between three green rosettes. Along the shield's top is a boar head between two gold fleurs-de-lis on a blue stripe.

MISS RULE: May we learn about DI PIAZZA?—E.D., Long Beach.

DI PIAZZA refers to this family's Italian forefather who resided on the "piazza" or "town-square" in medieval Italy, and who took his name from his home location.

MISS RULE: Could you explain McPARTLIN? —E.M., J.M., C.M., Long Beach.

McPARTLIN, formerly the Gaelic clan-name MacPharthalain, means "Descendents of Bartholomew." The Biblical Bartholomew translates from Hebrew as "Son of the furrows; a farmer." The McPartlins were prominent in Tyrone and Armagh, north Ireland, and in Scotland.

MISS RULE: Please explain JIRASEK.—E.J., R.J., Long Beach.

JIRASEK was derived from the Slavic central European name Jiriczek. This was a sweet nickname endowed fondly on a child by his parents, and means "Little linnet-bird."

MISS RULE: Would you explain ALTHAUS. —H.R., Long Beach.

ALTHAUS represents a German lineage whose ancestral home decription became their surname. "Alt-Haus" denoted "Old manor house." The Althaus armorial shield is red, emblazoned with a gold-crowned, silver lion holding in its paws a silver church.

MISS RULE: May we have data on BUSTAMANTE?—Y.B., Wilmington.

BUSTAMANTE, a Spanish name, has an unusual significance, meaning "large chested man with a cloak." This described a forefather notable for his strength and a short cloak of striking colors. The Bustamante shield is gold, emblazoned with thirteen circular red spots in three rows of four each, with a single spot at the bottom. Anastasio Bustamante of Spanish ancestry, was an early 19th century president of Mexico.

MISS RULE: May we learn about HEFFERN, HEFFERNAN.—W.H., Los Alamitos, E.V., Long Beach.

HEFFERN and HEFFERNAN of Ireland began as the clan O'Heimhrin of County Mayo. In the 10th Century this name designated "Sons of the young and swift one." The Hefferman shield is red on the lower half, green on the upper half, crossed by a gold stripe. On the green section are three gold crescents.

MISS RULE: Please explain KAESLER and KIESLAR.—R.K., Anaheim, F.K., Long Beach.

KAESLER and KIESLAR both began in Germany. These names traced to the ancient Teutonic hero name

A Riotous and Ribald Career Nears Its End—Very, Very Quietly

It's a Mellow 65 for Rudy Vallee

ON THE MARQUEE at Anaheim's Melodyland Theater this week it will say "Rudy Vallee In . . ." About half those who hurry past on their way to the Disneyland parking lot would say, "Who?"

But to a good many among the other half, the half that doesn't listen to musical gibberish and wolf down hamburgers and

By Jerome Hall
Editor, Southland Magazine

drive with one foot on the throttle and one hand on the horn, it will come as a distinct shock to realize that Rudy Vallee this month turns 65.

Was it that long ago that a brash young fellow out of Maine made headlines with gangsters and show business greats at the same time, whose crooning lulled a troubled nation into relaxation, making it forget its economic worries for the moment through his weekly radio broadcasts?

And was it that long ago that he took up his megaphone and sent a restless generation scurrying from the speakeasies into the dance halls to listen to his nasal renditions of "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover" and "My Time Is Your Time" and everybody's favorite, "When the Pussywillow Whispers to the Catnip," not to mention "99 Out of 100 Want to Be Loved"?

Rudy Vallee? Sixty-five?

THOSE FAMILIAR with the riotous, sometimes-ribald private life of the man who was the world's first crooner will be tempted to smirk just a bit at the thought of Rudy Vallee reaching such a milestone, for here was a man who lived a full measure of scandal and success, who knew a generous portion of achievement and failure, of good fortune and bad.

Today it is a mellowed Rudy Vallee who prepares for his first stage appearance in this area, a two-week engagement at the Anaheim theater in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." It is the play that marked Vallee's comeback a half-decade ago in a highly successful Broadway run that spanned 1,400 performances in more than three years. He plays a stuffy corporate magnate in a wacky satire on big business.

He also has played the role in road companies all over the United States, but only once before in Southern California, that at a San Fernando Valley theater. Seldom, in fact, has Vallee performed in Southern California through his 40-year career, though it has been his home for the past quarter century.

Home to Vallee is a castle in the sky that perches on the doorstep of Hollywood. It is a Southern California landmark, though few get to see it, for it is reached by a winding road and at the top of the mountain there are forbidding stone gates that frighten off the timid. Through the dining room window on one side is a panorama of the San Fernando Valley, on the other Catalina Island.

A visit with Vallee is a memorable experience and talking with him is like a guided tour through four decades of show business. His estate is a 35-year-old Spanish villa that houses every piece of sheet music, every phonograph record, every saxophone and even every radio script from his career. Yes, every megaphone, too.

Row after row of dust-covered radio scripts, thousands of orchestrations, sit beside a huge collection of photographs saved through the years.

These are memorabilia of what might be called the good old days, the days when a 60-minute radio show presided over by Vallee each week—the Fleischmann Hour—mesmerized a nation. On this radio show were launched the careers of Joe Penner, Bob (Bazooka) Burns, Alice Faye, the Mills Brothers, Kate Smith and Frances Langford. Tommy Dorsey was a $50-a-week trombonist in Vallee's orchestra. Eddie Cantor made his first coast-to-coast broadcast on the Fleischmann Hour. Too, Bob Hope, Red Skelton and Milton Berle were regulars on Vallee's show long before they hit it big.

BUT THAT WAS the long, long ago and today Vallee admits to being flattered by public attention. He says the high points of his social life are casual altercations with people in the market or at a restaurant. "They just want to say hello because it makes them remember a lot of nice things in their past lives," he says.

Vallee holds strong opinions about show business today in general as well as his part in it, which may come to a conclusion after he finishes the filming, now under way, of "How to Succeed . . ."

He dismisses the noisy, hip-tossing entertainment of the present day as "nothing, nothing at all. It has no relationship to show business. There has been no real change in show business over the course of my association with it. In the good theater, in the motion pictures that are worth while, there has been the same strain of genuine entertainment. There has always been the bad stuff, too, that wasn't worthy of recognition."

He says he has no explanation for the jumping and hollering entertainment of today. "I don't pretend to understand it and I don't want to understand it. I can't see why kids would buy those horrible records, but then I don't like kids anyway and this just solidifies my point of view."

Though oft-married, Vallee never had any children of his own. "I never wanted any. I just don't like them. I've never been ashamed to admit that. Some people don't like cottage cheese. I don't think I have to make any excuses. I've been perfectly content with dogs for my companionship on an idle afternoon."

THE ONLY SUBJECT Vallee is hesitant to discuss is the often-repeated charge that he is a tightwad. Those who are familiar with the huge sums of money that have dwindled through his hands would understand an ultra-conservative approach to finances by Vallee, but he vigorously denies any validity to the charge.

"I don't often talk about it," he said slowly, hesitantly. "It's a loaded question, like when did you stop beating your wife? I don't feel I have to defend myself. Anybody who knows me knows a lot of money has gone through my wallet.

"If something comes beautifully packaged, I keep the package. I abhor waste. I can't stand to see a waste of energy or a waste of talent or a waste of anything else. Another reason I got that reputation is because I so often eat in cafeterias, especially in New York. That's another way of avoiding waste—a waste of time waiting for my food when I'm in a hurry. Cafeteria food is the best anywhere, I might add, and not all people who eat in them do it to save money.

"It's strange how people will draw conclusions from innocent characteristics of a person. I've never had a chauffeur, so peo-

College Park Closer to Mountains With Completion of Freeway

Already enjoying the proximity of all beaches in the South Bay area, S. & S. Construction Co.'s College Park in Seal Beach now is figuratively closer to the mountains with the completion of the new 10-mile section of the San Gabriel River Freeway.

"This new segment of the freeway, linking Seventh Street in Long Beach with the previously opened section to the San Gabriel Valley, ties in with the Santa Ana, Garden Grove and San Diego Freeways," says sales manager Mark Bader.

* * * *

OTHER STIMULANTS of the increased home seekers traffic at the new development, Bader adds, are prices starting at $26,250 that appeal to first time home buy- features found in more expensive homes, and a choice of 42 exterior stylings and 11 floor plans.

Seven College Park models are open daily. The one and two-story and tri-level plans provide two to five bedrooms and living areas ranging from 1,300 to 2,250 square foot.

In addition to built-ins, the homes feature informal eating bars, kitchen nooks, and formal dining rooms. Some models have fireplaces in their master bedrooms.

* * * *

ALL COLLEGE PARK utilities are underground, and driveways are concrete. Walls and ceilings are lath and plaster for noise and fire resistance as well as easy maintenance.

Bader says conventional, VA and FHA terms are available with servicemen who qualify for 30-year loans being able to move-in with no downpayment.

College Park homes are just north of the Valley View Boulevard turnoff from the San Diego-Garden Grove Freeway.

Orange Co. Firms Get 7 Contracts

Seven Orange County electronics firms have been awarded new contracts totaling more than $22 million for defense and space exploration.

Aeronutronic at Newport Beach was assigned three projects by the U.S. Missile Command. It will modify the guidance and control for the Shillelagh ground-to-ground missile system for Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, under a $1,327,000 contract.

* * * *

MODIFICATION and research for the Shillelagh system will cost $1,624,890 under an additional contract for the Missile Command at Huntsville, Ala., and a third contract for $1,015,560 is for guidance and control equipment for Shillelagh.

Autonetics at Anaheim got a U.S. Air Force order for $4 million for components for the Minuteman system, and an Army contract for $1.3 million for an automatic data processing facility for field equipment.

* * * *

HUGHES AIRCRAFT Co. of Fullerton was awarded a $2 million Army contract for 438 portable combat radio sets and 146 power packs.

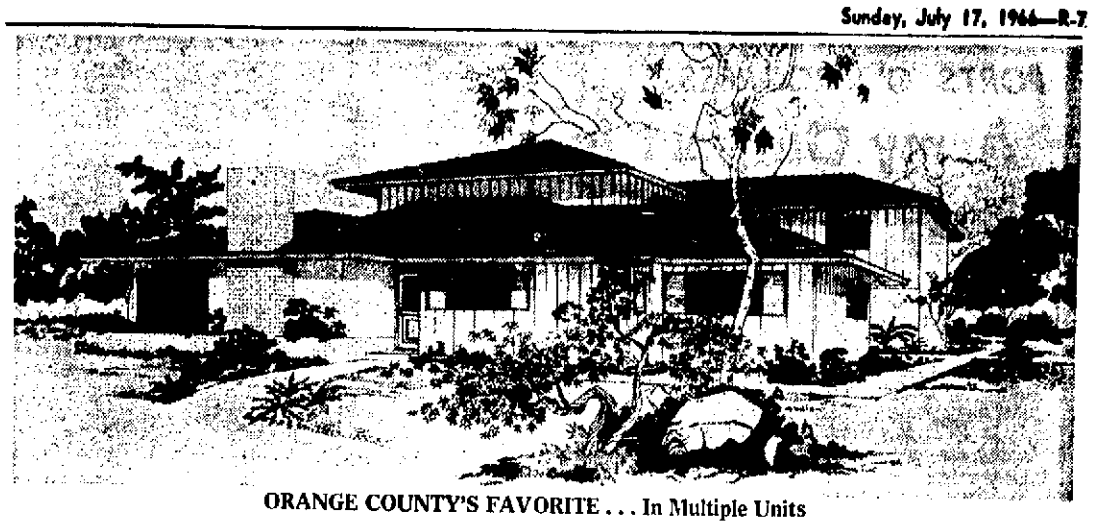

Fruchauf Corporation's military products division at Fullerton won a Defense Supply Center contract for $11 million for reusable metal shipping boxes for the military.

The initial shipment of 4,000 of the order of 25,000 boxes will be due in October, and Fruehauf said it will hire 400 more welders and shop helpers and start double shifts in its plant to meet the schedule.

Franciscan Fourplex Renting Quickly, Bayport Head Says

Franciscan fourplex apartments in Central Orange County have attained a remarkable success of both selling and renting quickly, with the latest of 21 deluxe apartment buildings 50% sold out, it was announced by Richard T. Brown, president of the Bayport Financial Corp.

This new group of multiple apartments, located across from the Anaheim Bowl and south of the Fed Mart Department store at Lincoln and Mueller, was chosen for the strategic location of shopping and easy access to all freeways.

Fifth in a series of fourplex apartment buildings, the Bayport Development Corporation, has sold more than 300 income units in the Franciscon developments in Garden Grove and Westminster in the past 36 months.

Bayport has conducted extensive research in the architectural design of multiple housing, as well as in the use of high quality materials on apartment houses.

A Franciscan fourplex contains an owner's suite, and three rental units. The owner's residence has three bedrooms, two baths, a distinctive fireplace in the living room and a private patio. The two bedroom apartments on the second floor have huge balconies, and the one bedroom unit on the ground level also has a private entrance.

The apartments are selling with only 6.6% interest and on very long terms of financing, sales manager William Gordon stated.

From Long Beach to the Franciscan Apartments, take Carson Boulevard, east (to Orange County) or Lincoln and continue one mile east of Brookhurst to the corner of Lincoln (near the Anaheim Bowl) and Muller and turn north one block to the models.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

Army Outport in Busy War Effort

By JACK O. BALDWIN

Escalation of the Viet Nam war is reflected in figures released this week by the traffic manager of the Port of Long Beach.

Capt. John Rountree reported that during the past April the amount of Army Outport activity was almost eight times that of the same month a year ago.

In 1965, cargo moving across the Army Outport facility amounted to 11,176 short tons. A year later, this tonnage had jumped to 89,718 tons.

ANTICIPATING THE International Longshoreman's and Warehouseman's Union and the Pacific Maritime Association will reach an agreement on wage increases, ports and terminals up and down the coast are issuing emergency price increases for all cargo handling services involving labor. In the Northwest, rates have jumped 20%.

Effective July 21, railcar loading and unloading charges at Los Angeles and Long Beach will be increased by 17%.

ALTHOUGH THE TWO SOUTHLAND ports were effective in forcing the Port of San Diego to reduce the amount of free time it was granting for the use of docks and warehouses, the port has attempted to counteract the edict of the Federal Maritime Commission by drastically reducing its wharf storage rates.

LAST WEEK the Railway Express Agency inaugurated weekly container service from Long Beach-Los Angeles-San Francisco to Yokohama, Hong Kong and Manila.

REPRESENTATIVES OF A MAJOR Japanese trading company are negotiating with an area firm to buy sizeable quantities of coke for the Japanese aluminum and graphite electrode industries. If the purchase is made, the tonnage now moving through Lake Charles, La., will move instead through the Port of Long Beach.

We're Headed for the Moon and Beyond... but Is There

An Impossible Journey?

By Jack O. Baldwin

WHILE MAN HAS been successful in reaching hundreds of miles into outer space, he has barely scratched the surface in his efforts to duplicate Jules Vernes' fictional trip to the center of the earth.

The problems to be encountered to accomplish such a journey are so tremendous that man may never make it!

Consider a few—just a few—of the problems scientists will have to evaluate and solve before an explorer can plant a flag at the center of the earth.

If man is to make the 4,000-mile trip he will have to make it in some kind of an inner space capsule. But of what materials shall this capsule be made?

AT THE EARTH'S center temperatures reach as high as 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit. One of the toughest materials on the surface of the earth, hafnium carbide, used on nose cones of space rockets, melts at 7,000 degrees.

New concepts in engineering design not yet dreamed of by even the most imaginative scientist will have to be developed to withstand the tremendous pressures to be encountered during the journey. Near the earth's core pressures will rise to 3,000,000 pounds per square foot!

If an inner space capsule is built, how can it be tested to determine if it can withstand the great subterranean pressures? So far, on the surface man has been able to produce only a pressure of 300,000 pounds per square foot—a tenth of that to be encountered near the earth's molten core.

What will be the power source that will drive the capsule? Nuclear power plants are relatively small for the amount of power they can deliver. The power needed to push a submarine through a salty liquid is infinitesimal compared to the energy needed to push a subterran through solid rock. A nuclear power plant to drive a subsurface vehicle would be of necessity far bulkier than that on a submarine.

THE UNLIMITED source of below-the-surface temperatures could be used as a power source. What kind of an engine would be capable of harnessing this heat and converting it to forward motion?

Regardless of the type of engine used or how much power it could develop, if it were made of metal it might not ever develop enough power to overcome the gigantic holding power of the earth's tremendously strong magnetic fields.

An engine built entirely of non-magnetic metal is a challenging problem to confront engineers of the future.

To avoid wondering around aimlessly underground like an earthworm presents a problem of navigation that will tax the genius brains of tomorrow's most intelligent computers.

If surface crews wish to follow the "flight" of the manned capsule below ground, new tracking devices will have to be designed and built.

The method the underground vehicle will use to dig is way to the center of our globe may be one of the lesser problems to be solved. Possible techniques include use of ultrasonic sound waves to shove aside the dirt, minerals, oil and diamonds as the vehicle bores downward.

Some type of a ray that would convert the solid matter ahead of the capsule into energy could be developed. It could be—but it hasn't yet!

If the vehicle leaves a hole behind it like a gopher this creates a problem back on the surface.

A man-made volcano.

Up from the bowels of the earth would come lethal gases under such great pressure no present blow-out preventer could harness. Up from the depths would come white-hot lava to bubble up like water from a broken main.

IF INSTEAD of creating a hole behind it, the capsule filled the space behind it like an earthworm, the capsule or rocket-like vehicle would need power to journey to the center of the earth—and back. Or it could proceed straight through the center and out on the other side, thus fulfilling the childhood ambition of many a boy who wanted to "dig a hole clear to China."

Overcoming all other difficulties and assuming man does reach the center of the earth, so great will be the pull of gravity—the force that holds people on the earth's surface even though it is upside down—that no power on earth, or in it, may let the craft escape back to the surface.

Like an astronaut lost in outer space, a terranaut could drift forever locked in the confines of inner space.

Answers or means of solving some of these problems may come from scientists working on Project Mohole.

The project is an effort to drill a hole 20 miles down through the crust of the earth to reach the level of the mantle. The project is named for the Yugoslav scientist, Prof. Andrija Mohorovicic, who discovered the earth's mantle in 1909 while a professor at the University of Zagreb.

If successful, the penetration will be four times greater than the deepest oil well which bottomed at a depth of 25,340 feet in a Pecos County, Texas, oil field.

Part of the equipment for the project sponsored by the National Science Foundation is currently under construction in San Diego.

SITE OF THE attempt to drill to the earth's mantle is in the ocean near Maui in the Hawaiian Islands.

Scientists, while admitting it is a little hole they will be drilling, out of it they hope to get a lot of information that one day may solve some of the problems of inter-earth exploration.

Even with this new knowledge it may be that man may have to wait until he has minerals mined from the surface of the moon and has harnessed the sun's cosmic rays before he can blast-in on a journey to the center of the earth.

Sun 'n' Salt Photos

By A. C. MacLeod

THE old-time salt waited until the sun was over the yardarm to splice the mainbrace. Today, when the sun is over the yardarm the photographer gets his camera out of its seagoing togs and starts shooting. High noon and a bright blue water dotted with white sails will stir the pulse of even the most casual snapshooter.

With more and more people taking to the water with boats of their own it is almost inevitable that you will be invited to a day afloat sometime this summer, even if you have yet to consider the purchase of your own craft.

Naturally, too, you will want to take your camera along to record the event.

We said "seagoing togs" and we meant just that. It doesn't pay to take a camera aboard a small boat without some sort of protection against the bouncing it may get if there is any kind of sea running and you are aboard a fast boat.

IF YOU don't own a field-case, a good seagoing make-do is always at hand. Place the camera in a clear plastic bag such as those in which shirts come back from the laundry and wrap the camera in its plastic bag in a towel.

The plastic bag will protect the camera against moisture. If it is a real wet day with plenty of wind driven spray, you can shoot with the camera in its plastic cover by cutting an opening for the lens and working the controls through the plastic. A rubber band, a sunshade or a filter ring will hold the plastic in place around the lens.

Incidentally, a skylight or haze filter is not only desirable for its filtering effect but also to protect the costlier lens against spray if you are on salt water. It will not change exposure. The towel will protect the camera if it falls out of a bunk or a seat when the boat heels.

You will want to take some pictures aboard, but unless it is a full-fledged yacht you will have to work in rather cramped quarters. Too many pictures will come out looking much the same unless you use care in selecting your viewpoint. Get the helmsman at the wheel or working over a chart, get everyone at lunch time, perhaps shooting from the cabin top. Get the passengers and crew doing something and plan on plenty of close-ups.

Don't step backward to get a longer viewpoint and step over the side.

It's Wired for Beauty

By Ellen Krec

A HOUSE WIRED for beauty as well as sound—that's the home in Long Beach's Country Club area owned by Dr. and Mrs. Earl D. Donaldson.

Their home originally was designed to accommodate two teenagers and was purchased by the Donaldsons to give their two children opportunities to enjoy similar experiences.

The home has been redecorated completely and some advantageous structural changes made.

With an ability to ferret out interesting antiques and their personal good taste, the Donaldsons have accomplished exactly what they hoped for . . . a home for living, entertaining and for two teenagers.

Dr. Donaldson says he "eliminated and illuminated!" since lighting left a great deal to be desired. The orthodontist with a hobby of lighting and sound developed many unusual effects in both as replacement-additions.

A monolithic light at the entrance of this distinctive home is taupe wrought on a pedestal of used brick. Originally it was bright enough to light the entire neighborhood but was subdued by using black electrical tape around the fluorescent tube.

The shingle lap and stucco exterior is accented by silver birch trees and shrubs of various textures and colors, some to flower and others to provide background.

The gold-and-white foyer is lighted by a swirl of wrought iron leaves with tiny bulbs in the centers. The light makes a fine background for a favorite Carrara marble bust of an English maid. The long narrow window behind the statuary lends a translucent effect to the marble.

The major structural change was in the living room. A massive stone fireplace previously had been surrounded by cupboards and book-cases and a raised hearth covered the full length of the room. All of the bookcases and cupboards, along with a portion of the hearth, were removed to allow for badly-needed window space. The front of the living room was completely opened with glass—and this presented another wiring project. The antique white draperies allowed for a simple valance and under this a fluorescent light that gives a lovely glow in the evening and eliminates the use of more lamps.

The shortened fireplace hearth created an entrance into the fern garden. This can be closed with draperies that are illuminated. However, the garden is so refreshing no one ever closes it off. The garden was conceived to bring beauty to an already-fenced four-foot space. This area was dark and the fence so close in that draperies always were closed.

With the acquisition of a carved boy and dolphin at one of the many auctions the Donaldsons attend, the garden was started. The two art objects were converted into a fountain with water pouring into an attached shell. The rest was simple, or so thought the Donaldsons.

They started with exotic ferns and as the plants died, they replaced them with monkey foot, asparagus and fatshedera ferns, using these on the fence as well as in hanging baskets. The effect was cool serenity.

Bronze and plum are the predominant colors in the living room. A plum-and-gold glass lamp along with a royal purple coat of arms was the basis for the accessory color. The two Italian carved chairs are covered with bronze silk shantung to blend with bronze-and-green sectionals encircling the fireplace. Wedge-shaped tables in avocado separate the sectionals to complete the circle.

An onyx-and-gold server shares part of this room. This is held in position by two gold Grecian consoles and is flanked by torch lights originally planned for outside. The background here is an antique mirror.

Sears Eyes Record Year in Advertising

Sears, Roebuck and Co. expects to top the $100 million mark for newspaper advertising this year, it was announced in Chicago by James W. Button, vice president in charge of merchandising.

This estimate is based on preliminary reports and forecasts from more than 790 Sears retail stores in every state except Alaska, he said. The company's retail advertising is placed locally by its retail stores.

Noting that the company is celebrating its 80th anniversary this year, Button said:

"We are proud to rank at the top among users of newspaper advertising, which has been the case for many years. The fact that our retail stores place this confidence in the power of newspapers, however, is not based on historical reasons.

"RATHER, IT IS tangible evidence that newspaper readership continues to reach new heights each year, and that newspaper advertising is regarded as the most effective way of bringing our merchandise message to the public."

In announcing the estimate for 1966 retail ad expenditures, Sears also reported newspaper advertising in 1965 reached a new record of $93,440,000. This represented an increase of $17 million over the previous year.

Airline Strike Hurts Supply of Produce

NEW YORK (AP)—The heat and the airline strike are shriveling supplies of fruit and vegetables in the nation's supermarkets.

Days of temperatures in the 90s and 100s have wilted lima beans in Wisconsin, burned peas in Minnesota, and cut the size of apricots and peaches in California and tomatoes in the middle Atlantic States.

"It has been rough on vegetables," a New York area supermarket spokesman said. "There has been considerable damage to the crops east of the Mississippi."

"It's not just the growing conditions," said a New York produce wholesaler, "You have to sell the produce quickly. You can't play with it too long in this weather."

* * * *

THE AIRLINE strike has added to the problem, cutting the supplies of strawberries and cherry tomatoes flown east from California.

Lobster lovers are suffering, too.

Shipments of lobster from New England to the Southwest, South and Midwest have been curtailed sharply.

Additional Model Home Open in El Dorado Park Estates, L.B.

Opening of an additional model home priced at $40,450 has evoked new interest in El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach, according to a spokesman for S. & S. Construction Co., the builder-developer.

A total of six furnished models may be viewed daily, no two homes in the walled community are exactly alike, and buyers may choose the custom-featured model they desire and locate it on the lot of their choice, the spokesman says, adding:

* * * *

"THE NEW MODEL features three bedrooms, 2½ baths and brick or Palos Verdes stone fronting is optional. It has an elevated formal dining room, step-down living room, family room with fireplace and wet bar, and near floor level tub in the bath for the master bedroom—all typical of the many, varied extras found in these homes."

Priced from $36,850 to $46,500, El Dorado homes offer a choice of 52 stylings in one and two-story and tri-level designs. Eleven floor plans meet the requirements of families of all sizes.

* * * *

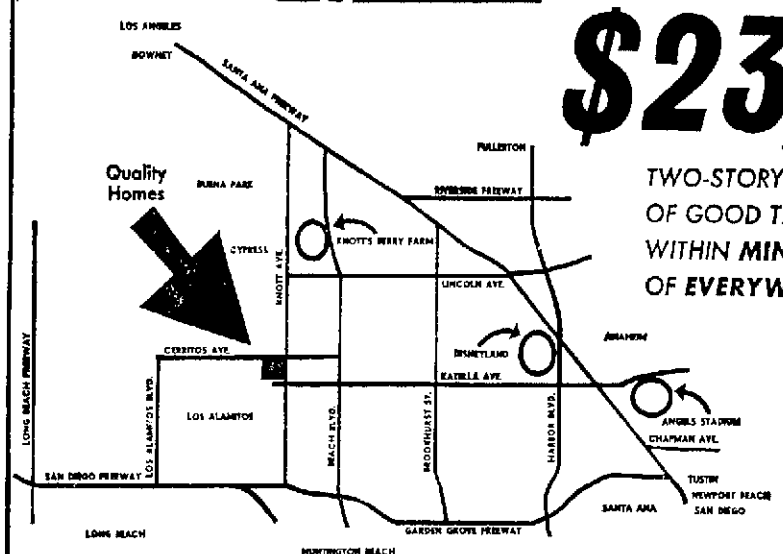

ALSO FEATURED are concrete driveways and lath and plaster walls and ceilings, as well as all-electric built-in kitchens and full carpeting. The homes are located only a short distance from the new El Dorado Park and Golf Course.

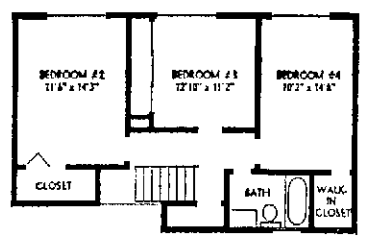

To reach the project, take the Los Alamitos turnoff from the San Diego Freeway, drive north to Spring Street, then left on Spring to the sales office and model homes.

Bronze sectionals form circle about natural stone fireplace in formal living room. Hanging lamp (rear, right) is antique wrought iron with painted flowers.

This area also is shared by a pecan gateleg table used for more formal dining.

An additional problem was solved in the 40-foot hall. This previously was lined with closets and displayed a barren appearance. The Donaldsons lined one side of the long wall with all of the family paintings, including a lithograph belonging to Mrs. Donaldson's mother. This can be considered antique but the family treasures it because two children portrayed resemble Diane and Dean Donaldson when they were small. The other side of the wall was left intact; the only change was the use of recessed drawer pulls to reduce snagging of clothing.

The master bedroom is the ultimate in elegance with a plum velvet headboard outlined with gold wrought-iron and matching velvet spread. Since all closet and drawer space is behind doors, there is plenty of room for a chaise and a small gold antique commode. This room has its own little foyer and bath. Both blend with the master bedroom to create a small suite.

Both Dean and Diane wished to have the bedroom off the pool. To solve this, it was decided to make a little jewel of a guest room of that space.

This is a rare house indeed, with two distinct "pool rooms." The pool guest room is in a champagne and a blue that "reaches out" to the pool through glass doors. The furniture is small in keeping with the size of the room and the bed-sofa is both attractive and functional. The exciting touch in this room is the lighting—a brass, gold and crystal, Tiffany-type hanging lamp that drops from a chain over an antique gold [illegible] some of the unusual accessories were found at auctions.

The other pool room, in contrast to the elegant sitting room, really has a pool table. The room is an old-fashioned poolroom complete with 1914 green felt-topped table, an elephant's foot for an ash container and significant poolhall cartoons done by an artist named Meyers—who has never shot pool! The glass sliding doors cleverly were painted with pool cues and balls to prevent break through. The Donaldson family spends much time in the poolroom and most of their activities take place around the lop-sided-lollipop-shaped pool.

The patio has been wired for sound, light and for heat. This area is completely exposed but can be used all year because of heating units installed by the family wiring expert.

Another useful auction accumulation are two old sewing machines converted into an outdoor table-server. Children especially love to eat at these because they can pedal at the same time. Two very practical rooms are directly off the patio. One is a completely tile-lined bath-dressing room, the other a utility room also containing a stove for patio cooking.

Completing the pool circle is the den. This is a marvel of light and sound. Its beamed ceiling is lined with several square, recessed, individually-controlled lights that can burn high or dim, depending on the candle-power desired. The walls all are paneled in ash and a theater-size stereo is hidden behind part of the paneling. This was installed by Dr. Donaldson and, to allow sound to come forth, he bored holes in the paneling, giving a Moorish effect.

This room is the family activity center and all the furniture may be moved at a moment's notice, on brass casters, for dancing. The colors in this room are bold blues and greens. Mrs. Donaldson, whose forte is antiquing, did the old Spanish chairs in forest green.

The dining area between the den and kitchen is furnished attractively in filigreed wrought iron. This is all black to carry out a theme created by the acquisition of a black antique Spanish chandelier.

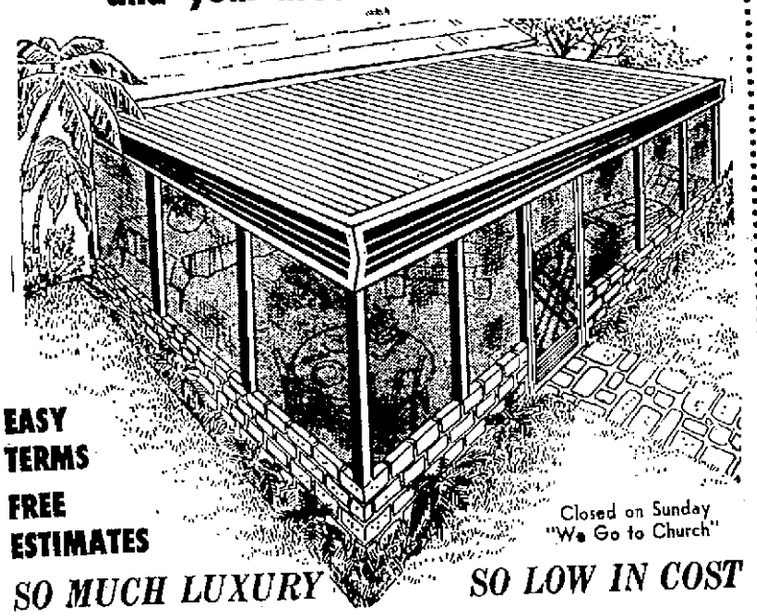

The walk-through kitchen is soft yellow with birch cabinets and has a step-in pantry.

Dean's room is very masculine with molded leather and plywood chairs. A woven Spanish bedspread in gold creates the color scheme. Dean designed and made the antique sword holder from wood, felt and an old German helmet. He is prone to leave out his sports equipment, especially his skis, because he "just likes to look at them." He inherited the stereo and television set from the previous house because he has all built-ins and had room for them.

Diane's room is flowery and fluffy with nosegay-and-bow wallpaper and matching twin bedspreads. Her own seafoam velvet chaise and the furniture, with the exception of the gold wrought iron headboards, is painted avocado.

Belmont Shore Showplace of 1920s Soon to Be Razed

In the 1920s, the Selover Mansion at 5420 E. Ocean Blvd. was the showplace of Belmont Shore. Now it is almost indistinguishable from dozens of other pre-war beach residences, and soon it will be razed to add to the city's beach area.

It is ironic that the mansion, once used as a tourist attraction to promote land sales, should leave no mark but the land.

The house, built by Samuel A. Selover, had most unusual features.

Selover, a realtor and one of the developers of Belmont Shore and Belmont Park, invested thousands of dollars in the mansion's basement, which came to be known nationally as The Cave.

* * * *

THE CAVE had an elaborate system of red, orange and blue lights that could be brightened or dimmed for varied effects.

The entranceway to The Cave was an 80-foot-long grotto with stalactities, crevices, pools and waterfalls, all specially lighted.

The Cave itself, a room 20 by 33 feet, had quartz and ornamental rocks imbedded in the ceilings and walls, and a floor of tile, imported from Belgium.

In its heyday The Cave included a kitchenette, sewing room, music room, lounge, dressing rooms, shower, billiard table, fireplace and barbaque.

* * * *

THE CAVE was formed on three sides by a 19-foot-high sea wall that served as part of the mansion's foundation. The roof of The Cave was the family patio.

The house originally served as the summer residence of the Selovers, who lived in Pasadena. It is not certain when the house was built. Not even Mrs. Lucille Selover, of 149 Siena Drive, remembers. She is the widow of Sam Selover's son and the oldest living Selover.

"It's been there for a very long time," she recalls. "I've been in Long Beach since 1924, and I can remember my husband's family coming down to the beach every summer for many years before that."

* * * *

WHEN THE Selovers made the summer home their permanent residence in 1926, they began adding rooms. During the 1930s, the first floor was the family living quarters, the second story was a guest apartment and the third floor was the servants' quarters.

When Selover's son, Howard, began college, a special apartment was added for him over the garage.

Since 1948, when Sam's widow, Clara, moved out of the house, the building has been rented out as four apartments.

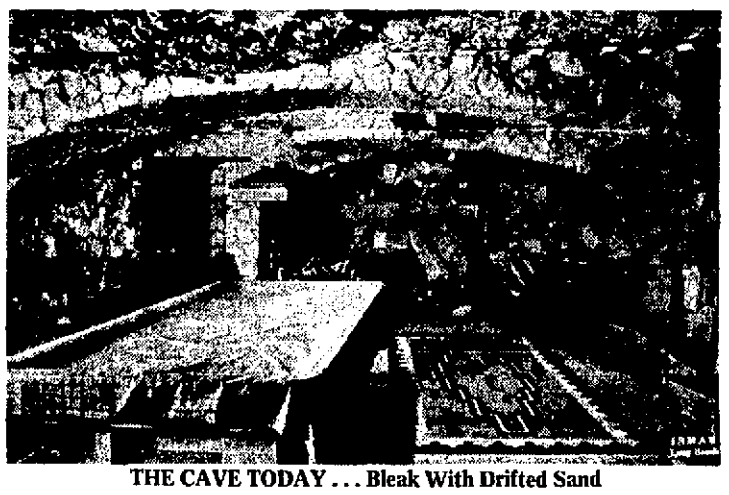

* * * *

LAST MONTH, the city purchased the Selover Mansion for $85,000 and intends to demolish it to provide additional beach facilities as part of its 30-year policy.

The exterior of the house is dilapidated. The Cave is even more so. Its elegance began to disappear after the earthquake in 1933, when the walls crumbled and sand began to seep in.

Despite thousands of dollars spent on trying to restore it, The Cave was never the same. Today the walls of the grotto are no longer attractive and the tile floor is buried under four feet of sand.

All that remains are the memories.

AT REDONDO BEACH

Erected in two working days, 84-foot-long railroad bridge steel across Redondo Beach's Ripley Avenue extension heralds future reduction in heavy traffic congestion around city's principal shopping center. Ripley, which previously dead-ended at railroad embankment, is to be more used since Hawthorne Avenue and Artesia Boulevard, serving the center, have reached saturation of 50,000 cars a day each. Railroad bridge is 18 feet wide and boasts seven rows of girders fabricated from Bethlehem wide-flange steel beams. General contractor is Sully-Miller Contracting Co., Long Beach. Completion is scheduled in mid-August.

An Irish Paradox

ON THE STAGE OF politics in the 19th century there appeared a long-run tragedy. It was the Irish national movement. Born out of the potato famines of the 1840s, the drama was played against the background of the feudalistic absentee landlord system which kept the nation in direst economic serfdom. The key to breaking this stranglehold maintained by the English lay in self-rule for Ireland.

The foremost supporter of autonomy was Charles Stewart Parnell who flashed across the stage like a meteor in the 1870s and 80s and held his Gaelic countrymen in the palm of his left hand while with his right he tweaked the beard of John Bull, symbol of the most powerful and influential nation in the world at that time.

PARNELL WAS A paradox. An aristocrat by birth and by his manner, he looked down his nose at his raffish colleagues and followers. Owner of an estate, he led the fight against his fellow landlords. He was a Protestant leader of a predominantly Roman Catholic country. He was reticent and eloquent, unlearned to the point of ignorance yet possessed of a mind which cut to the very center of complicated and cloudy issues.

The extraordinary rise to power of the "uncrowned king of Ireland" and his Miltonian fall over the illicit love of a married woman is chronicled in the biography "THE PARNELL TRAGEDY" by Jules Abels (The MacMillan Company $7.95).

IT IS THE FASCINATING story of a great and strange man who led Ireland to the brink of achieving its dream only to shatter that dream in his own destruction.

Abels' writing is thoroughly authentic and readable and, on the whole, objective, although he does seem to come down hard on the Irish Roman Catholic clergy and its role in Parnell's downfall.

A No-Guff War Chronicle

By Buck Lanier

MIDWAY: TURNING POINT IN THE PACIFIC. By Vice Adm. (ret.) William Ward Smith. Thomas Y. Crowell Co., $4.95.

JAPANESE FLEET Admiral Yamamoto was a standout among the Japanese high command. He knew that Japan had to win World War II within a year after Pearl Harbor.

He correctly estimated the manpower and industrial potential of America. His goal was to lure the Pacific Fleet into a decisive action at Midway.

He did not know, however, that the U.S. had broken the Japanese Imperial Code and also that his chief deputy, Adm. Nagumo would "choke," causing three carriers to be lost in five minutes. Armed and fueled planes were aboard.

THE AUTHOR of "Midway," one of the four flag officers at Midway, was on the heavy cruiser Astoria, commanding the screen for the carrier Yorktown. He draws on his own experience during the June 4-8, 1942, battle, plus interviewing Navy and government officials, studying Japanese war records and talking with many survivors.

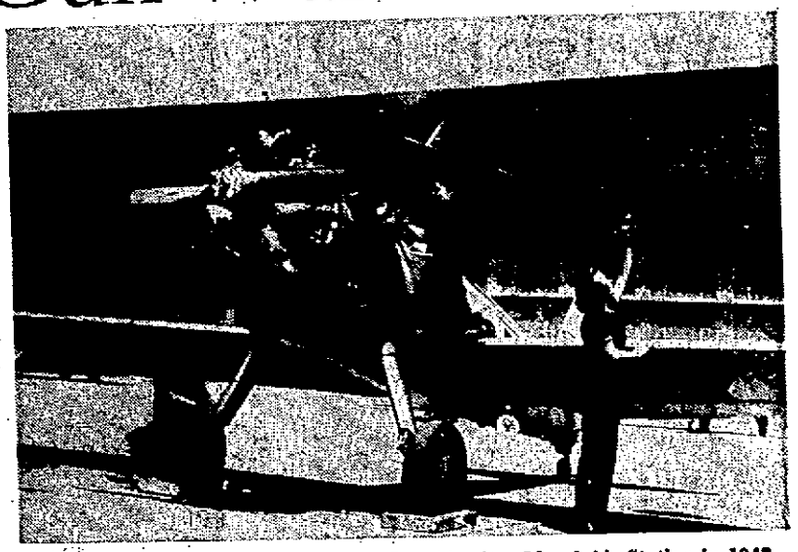

Navy fighters were used for the first time at Midway and Adm. Smith vividly recounts the air action—some of it sending U.S. torpedo bomber pilots into eternity.

The admiral makes no bones about the U.S. having a considerable amount of luck, too.

BUT EVEN more refreshing in the book is the amazing lack of guff which has marred the postwar memoirs of more than one eminent American commander.

As his account unfolds the reader sees continuing credit given to enlisted men and junior officers, who he maintains, "were mostly responsible for victory at Midway."

One of his interesting revelations, too, is about the Navy, "dry" since 1914, becoming "wet" in a make-sense way. It was all legal.

OF WAVES AND WINGS—Waves at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station in 1943 give a Navy trainer a checkup. These craft were fondly dubbed "Yellow Perils" and are the main "characters" in Joe James' "TEACHER WORE A PARACHUTE," A. S. Barnes, $5.95, a book about Navy flight instructing in World War II.

A VIEW OF THE CHILD

HERE ARE books to help parents better understand their children:

THE INTELLIGENT PARENT'S GUIDE TO CHILD BEHAVIOR: Understanding the Child from Birth to Adolescence" by Beatrix Tudor-Hart. (Delacorte, $5).

This book discusses eating, sleeping, discipline, learning to read, write and adjust happily to other persons. The author, a British educator, stresses the importance of physiological influences on human development, behavior and intelligence.

Stepparents, it must be admitted, have a pretty rough time—perhaps even as rough as many of the stepchildren. "THE SUCCESSFUL STEPPARENT" by Helen Thomson (Harper & Row, $4.50) is a guide to stepparents experiencing the wearying but hopefully rewarding task of bringing up someone else's children. The author, in one chapter, discusses candidly the plight of stepparents who don't like children—particularly their stepchildren.

Despite the fact that they once were children, most adults have forgotten what it is like to be a "young citizen," maintains Leontine Young in "LIFE AMONG THE GIANTS, A CHILD'S EYE VIEW OF THE GROWN-UP WORLD" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95). She warns parents to expect children to be extremely honest and extremely observant.

Battleground of Old

ROLL, JORDAN ROLL. awesome but troubled history of its peoples. By Robert St. John, Doubleday, $5.95.

WHILE THE Jordan River Valley is the birthplace of three great religions, with their Old and New Testaments and Koran, all preaching love of fellow man, it is, paradoxically, also the battleground of unending wars dating back to Joshua.

Robert St. John, noted foreign correspondent of radio and now prolific author and researcher on the Middle East, traces in "Roll, Jordan Roll" the physical course of the river from its source on Mt. Hermon to its Dead Sea terminus, as it relates to the

CANNIBALISM AND HUMAN SACRIFICE. By Garry Hogg. Citadel, $5.95.

In some parts of the world a man sighing for the good old days is likely to pat his stomach nostalgically as he does so. Cannibalism and human sacrifice are dying out, though they remain in a few odd corners. This book discusses the practices among the Australian aborigines, the Fijians, the Aztecs, the Maoris, in Indonesia and in the Amazon basin. There is a fascinating chapter of the Leopard Societies of Sierra Leone.

A SOUND OF HORSES. By David Alexander. Bobbs-Merrill, $6.50.

They call it the sport of kings, but even the commissars go for it, for horse racing fills the stands even in Soviet Russia. It was Charles II who gave horse racing its biggest boost when he imported quantities of Arabian mares into England. Ninety per cent of today's race horses are direct descendants of Eclipse, bred in 1764 by the Duke of Cumberland. From Pancho Villa's men sneaking through the Mexican army's lines to watch the races at Juarez, to the great champion Kelso's love of chocolate sundaes, this is a mine of information of the sport.

LANDMARKS IN GREEK LITERATURE. By C. M. Bowra. World, $8.95.

Greek literature, which began in the 8th century B.C. with a handful of broken texts "scratched or painted on vases or carved on stone" and reached full glory in the Homeric epics, is Western man's most precious cultural heritage. C. M. Bowra's desciptive and critical history of the finest of the Grecian works is invaluable as a reference for students but its consideration of the gigantic achievements of the Greek philosophers, historians and dramatists, of the Greek epics and lyric songs, and of the golden orators, makes this learned survey a reading pleasure for the nonstudent as well.

THE FINE ART OF HYPOCHONDRIA or HOW ARE YOU? By Goodman Ace. Doubleday, $3.95.

Walker & Lee Occupies New Executive Quarters

In a dramatic reorganization move designed to increase efficiency and streamline corporate function, Walker & Lee, Inc., pioneer California real estate concern, has consolidated its principal divisions and services in new executive quarters at 1477 South Manchester Ave., Anaheim.

The merged departments occupy 10,000 square feet, the complete fourth floor of the new Orange County Chamber of Commerce Building and here, according to Frank Hart, president of the firm, will be housed Special Sales Projects, formerly located at 2580 W. Lincoln Ave., Anaheim; Subdivision Sales-Acreage & Marketing Departments, which had been headquartered in Newport Beach; Commercial & Industrial Department, moving from offices at 730 N. Euclid Ave., Anaheim, and the Accounting Division, moving from 5505 Carson St., Lakewood.

* * * *

FOR THE present, the Residential Income & Investment Department will remain at its present address, 853 Atlantic Ave., Long Beach.

The move will bring all the Walker & Lee top executives together at the new hadquarters for the first time. They are DeWitt Lee, chairman of the board; Frank R. Hart, president and chief executive officer; William T. Chesney, senior vice president in charge of special projects; William H. McCabe, senor vice president in charge of resale division; William O. Thagard, senior vice president in charge of subdivision sales, commercial & industrial acreage & marketing research.

* * * *

IT IS BELIEVED the move to centralize executive and administrative functions will increase contact and communication with the widespread network of Walker & Lee from ETAOINto ETAOINET sales offices which extend from Ventura to San Diego Counties and whose personnel is involved in the sale of dozens of important subdivisions throughout the Southland.

With an enviable record of selling more than 70,000 homes, one of Walker & Lee's signal successes in the past year has been the successful development and sale of choice desert properties at La Quinta, where a planned community adjacent to hotel and golf course has had an amazing acceptance with more than 90% of the available sites marked "sold" by the season's end.

All units offer tenants the convenience and features of a home; providing plenty of functional design and luxury appointments. And most important—rentals are kept at a modest budget level."

* * * *

BROOKSHIRE Square Apartments are walking distance to the St. Raymond School, grammar and high schools, shopping and many sources for exploring the possibility of employment.

Tenants have a choice of one, two or three bedrooms, featuring convertible dens and double baths. Rentals start at $125. Children or adult sections are available.

ANAHEIM PLANT EXPANDS

Expanded coating facilities at Fluorocarbon Company, Anaheim, include walk-in spray booth (at left) and huge oven (at right). Smaller oven in between has been in use by the firm which has highly developed process for spray-coating metal surfaces with Teflon, followed by controlled heat fusion.

Sully-Miller's Record of Safety Pays

Industrial Indemnity Company, workmen's compensation insurance carrier for the Sully-Miller Contracting Company of Long Beach, has presented the firm with a dividend check for $120,000, reflecting the success of Sully-Miller's accident prevention activities.

William S. Price, Los Angeles resident vice president for Industrial Indemnity, presented the dividend check to W. Duane Rash, Sully-Miller vice-president and treasurer.

The $120,000 dividend is a direct result of the safety program, set up under the direction of the safety engineering department of Leatherby Insurance Service and Industrial Indemnity's safety engineering staff.

* * * *

THIS OUTSTANDING safety program coupled with the carrier's claims analysis service has sharply decreased the firm's number of accidents—with a corresponding dramatic drop in their loss ratio—since its inauguration.

Sully-Miller owns 10 asphalt plants, several live rock plants, and has nearly 900 road construction employes. Construction activities include building roads, freeways, parking lots, playgrounds and other paving work; grading, earthmoving and preparation of home sites for tract builders.

Garden Tips

VIBURNUM ROBUSTUM handsome tall growing shrub blooms during the winter season. The dense clusters of whitish flowers add needed winter color. This handsome rugged shrub is mildew proof, and is just as "minimum care a garden shrub" as any of the evergreens sans attractive flowers.

BE CAREFUL how often you water your ivy ground cover or ivy leaf geranium ground cover. Keep them too moist and you're likely to cause a fungus condition. The fungus causes ivy leaves to have brown spots, and ivy leaf geranium leaves to wilt, dry, and branches die back.

SHAMEL ASH TREES growing in lawns should be deeply watered periodically to encourage roots to grow down. Lawn watering only, causes roots to grow lazy and grow near lawn surface, consequently roots sometimes push up the lawn.

HIBISCUS AND GARDENIA flower buds should stop dropping now. The spring flower bud drop was mainly due to erratic weather conditions. Buds developed normally during spell of mild or warm weather. Soon as cool overcast days took over, buds dropped.

PLANT YOUNG CORRAL BELL PLANTS now, and next spring they'll burgeon forth with lovely sprays of red color small flowers. Even when the plants aren't blooming, the low mounding plant clumps are attractive as informal edging plants along a driveway, walk, edging and sunny flower bed or rose bed, or patio.

CUT OUT STUBBY, several-inches long side branches of roses to allow more air circulation for the brush. Removing them helps roses develop more bloom branches.

MAKE YOUR GARDEN hose cut down on bugs infestation of your plants by hosing the foliage with sharp stream of water.

TREES GROWING in lawns usually don't get enough water, hence the roots near the lawn surface. They should be slowly soaked at least once a month throughout the summer season.

GIVE ROYAL BIRD of paradise deep drinks of water. Feed them a balanced plant food that contains more phosphoric acid than potash, to encourage plant to bloom more.

Engines of this type range up to 6,000 horsepower, are used extensively to generate electric power.

3 Mayfair Markets Opened

Supermarket history was made last week with the simultaneous opening of three new markets by Mayfair.

J. Earl Garrett, chief executive officer of Mayfair, stated: "This is the first time in history, to our knowledge, any supermarket company has opened the doors of three brand new stores at the same instant. These openings are indicative of expansion plans under way at Mayfair."

By special electronic hookup, the three ribbon cuttings were accomplished simultaneously. The mayors of the three cities, William Goedike of Inglewood, Dr. Bruce L. O'Dou of Montebello and Herman L. McGill of El Segundo, each standing at the door of the new store in his city received the telephonic signal from Garrett's office at Mayfair general offices and cut the door-opening ribbons at the same moment.

Pool Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Swimming in pools equipped with underwater lights can result in severe injury and even death, according to a California industrial relations official.

George Sherman, chief of the division of Industrial Safety, says poorly maintained pool lights have caused "several deaths in the last few years and many persons have received electrical shock."

He advises that all underwater pool lights be inspected and maintained by a qualified electrician.

Modern Fire Gear Overdoes It a Bit

LOUISVILLE (AP)—An old-fashioned method solved the problem for the Louisville Fire Department during a blaze at an apartment.

The department brought along such modern equipment as fog, dry powder, foam and carbon dioxide.

But when firemen entered the building, they found the blaze was caused by an overheated coffeepot.

It was extinguished with a glass of water.

COIN ROUNDUP

2 Big Meets

By Maurice M. Gould

THE WORLD'S leading coin group, the American Numismatic Association, with more than 27,000 members, will be holding its Diamond Anniversary convention Aug. 16-20. The top brass of the numismatic world will appear in person for the occasion and excellent educational programs and business meetings will be among the highlights. All activities will be at Chicago's Pick-Congress Hotel.

Dealers from every part of the world will have bourse tables and millions of dollars of coins will be on exhibit, competing for fabulous prizes.

Congress has passed a bill providing for the striking of the ANA 75th anniversary medal at the United States Mint in conjunction with convention. This piece will be considered a national medal.

During the same month, another fabulous convention will be held by the Canadian Numismatic Association, the second largest group of collectors in the world. It will be held at the New Marlborough Hotel in Winnipeg on Aug. 25, 26 and 27.

While this will not be the huge size of the ANA get-together it will nevertheless be a convention patterned along the same lines. Many hundreds of Americans are members of this organization and look forward to attending each year.

Today we read much about the many different varieties of Lincoln cents—extra dots, lines, odd strikings, odd dates, etc., and there seem to be a tremendous number of new collectors who have become fascinated with this field.

It was in 1955 that a cent was discovered that created as much interest as anything in this field in the past 50 years. That was the 1955 double-die cent, which shows a double date. It is said that approximately 31,000 of these pieces exist and prices have steadily risen until this coin is in the $200 to $350 class.

Many errors have been made at the Mint over the years and these pieces are eagerly sought after by the mint-error collector. One early example is the 1801 large cent with three errors. This piece has only one stem to the wreath instead of two; the "U" in the word "United" was made into "II"; and the fraction, which should read "1/100," reads "1/1000."

Pity Alcoholic M.D.s

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Editor

PITY THE ALCOHOLIC doctor. His chances for licking his disease are far less than those of other alcoholics.

The new finding is surprising, for doctors who are narcotics addicts have a far better rate of cure than addicts among the laity.

A doctor alcoholic who stopped drinking eight years ago has told Medical Tribune, a doctors' newspaper, that about 75% of alcoholics who voluntarily go to Alcoholics Anonymous for help are successful.

"But with doctors this drops to less than 50%," he says.

The doctor says that physicians are "the world's worst patients." Some tend to be arrogant, he explains, and humility is a necessity for a patient seeking a cure for alcoholism.

It's estimated that 5,000 to 10,000 doctors in the U. S. are problem drinkers.

THE STRANGE case of the "double whammy syndrome" is described in Archives of Internal Medicine.

Double whammy is the ability to voluntarily pop out one's eyeballs temporarily.

Dr. Barnett Berman of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine tells of one patient who had popped his eyes for a livelihood for about 30 years.

The patients, who worked in carnivals, had been written up in a medical journal years before, and at that time doctors feared propulsion of the eyeballs might prove injurious.

But Dr. Berman says there was no sign of injury to the optic nerve or to the eye itself. Visual impairment never materialized.

ANOTHER REPORT on a pulmonary disease caused by contact with pigeons and parakeets has appeared in a medical journal.

Called bird-breeder's lung, it's a hypersensitive reaction marked by fever, shivering, malaise, loss of weight, coughing and shortness of breath.

Among pigeon fanciers, attacks tend to come five to six hours after exposure to the pigeons' habitat. Among parakeet fanciers, however, onset of the disease tends to be insidious, and patients have advanced lung damage when first examined by a physician.

Bird-breeder's lung is similar to another disease known as farmer's lung, according to doctors at the Institute of Diseases of the Chest in London, England.

AGRICULTURAL scientists have produced a miniature white hog for use as a laboratory animal.

The miniature adult hog weighs about 175 pounds, compared to a normal adult hog weighing about 650 pounds.

Physiologically, hogs are much like humans. They are subject to many of the same disorders. Full-size hogs, however, are rather unwieldy for lab use. Thus the move to breed still smaller hogs for the nation's drug-testing program.

PREHISTORIC MAN lived on average of less than 20 years, according to evidence from fossils.

In that time few reached 40.

Most citizens of ancient Rome died before 30. And inscriptions on old tombstones indicate that the average life span in the U. S. around 1880 was only 35.5. Now it's up to 70.

A government agency now predicts that by the year 2000, the average lifetime will have risen to 74 for men and 78.9 years for women.

AFTER AGE 25, the suicide rate on university campuses rises considerably, researchers note. Which means, they say, that many more suicides can be expected on campuses, what with the great increase in the number of graduate students. The report is in the Journal of the American College Health Association.

Teen-Agers Reply

reduced to asking for money whenever they need it.

EVERYONE who received an allowance felt that they earned it rather than considering it a gift and indicated they preferred it that way. Chores brought no gripes. The survey indicated all the time-honored home chores were still in fashion, including for the girls: 32% housework, 32% washing dishes, 13% ironing and 10% babysitting younger brothers and sisters. The boys seem to get by with 15% general chores, 20% lawn mowing, 10% washing dishes and 10% washing the car. To help with the boys' money problems, 10% held part-time jobs.

Apparently then, few young people resent "pitching in" with the family's work. But how many parents approach their children with a work command in a negative, quarrelsome fashion anticipating resistance? One student noted, "It's the tone of voice that upsets me. My mother grouchs at me before I've even had a chance to smile and tell her that I'll be happy to help. Then I'm grouchy right back." Another boy added, "When my father asks me why I have not mowed the lawn, I spend ten minutes giving him ten reasons why I haven't. If he says 'go mow the lawn' I say okay, and do it." The consensus among teenagers seems to be: Ask us cheerfully, we'll do it cheerfully.

The largest area of protest against parents from the young of both sexes was that they wished their parents would pack up their bustles and high-topped shoes, pit them in their buggies and run them back to the Nineteenth Century. The biggest sore spot on the teenage psyche is that parents are too old-fashioned and narrow-minded. Following is a potpourri of their comments.

WHAT DO parents have against independence? It's been proven that many teenagers get off on the wrong foot and defy their parents because they haven't enough freedom . . . Parents just won't let go . . . They treat us as sub-normal ten-year-olds . . . If they are just trying to protect us, they should make sure we know what we are being protected from . . . Some parents overwarn to a degree that he or she makes a neurotic out of a youngster and he never gets away from parental domination . . . Some parents think spoiling makes up for over-protection . . . We don't want to be pampered poodles.

Several noted that their smaller brothers and sisters were pests, but they hoped their parents wouldn't spoil them as they had been spoiled but would give them a chance to take on responsibilities.

It may seem that growing up or rearing children is a giant headache for both sides and only filled with problems. Never is there a peaceful moment and never can families get along. This conclusion is only partly true, for 35% of the girls and an amazing 43% of the boys were completely satisfied with their parents and wouldn't change them for the world. Many felt, when asked how they'd change their parents if they could, that it wasn't their place to change them—and they really didn't want to. They realized that their mothers and fathers were imperfect human beings only trying to protect them through their love and trying to help them grow safely to maturity.

Some remarked that they were aware that punishments are for their own good and they hoped to rear their children in the same way as had their parents.

This fact may seem surprising to many weary Moms and Dads who are convinced their teenagers think they are terrible old grouches who don't care about them.

SEVERAL bragged about the sage advice that parents give them. "My parents let me use my own judgment on the hours I keep on the following basis: I can't do anything after midnight that I couldn't do before!" Another bit of advice, "They don't want me to drive with more than my date in the car; there's NO safety in numbers." Such a new slant might prevent more than one accident.

In summary, then, what are these young people trying to say to their parents? As one of them, the theme is obvious to me. Simply stated it is, listen to us; we are smarter than you think.

Of course, we shall do stupid and inept things. But again, listen to us; give us the chance to say we are sorry, and THEN explain how we can learn from our mistakes. Punish us when we deserve it, and don't just threaten — follow through. Don't be afraid to ask for our help — but accept it cheerfully. We deserve the chance to contribute.

Finally, the independence we crave probably will be the last thing you are willing to relinquish, but as we fight with you for it and we win a little, bit by bit, be a graceful loser. In the long run you become the winner of the love and respect of a brand-new young adult.

ARE NEW YORKERS GOING CALIFORNIAN?

Hips go undercover in pants, pants, pants

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
Fashion Editor

NEW YORK—Would you believe pants on Fifth Avenue? At the Guggenheim Museum?

That's a switch!

Could it be that sophisticated New Yorkers have gone Californian?

Back a couple seasons ago, when chic Manhattanites were swishing in and out of the best restaurants in their simple little black dresses and three-strand pearls, they turned up their collective noses at California's casual way with clothes.

When Seventh Avenue designers showed pants in their collections, the commentator always chortled:

"These are great for at-home parties... but not on the street, P-L-E-A-S-E!"

Not so today!

In the collections being previewed here during this 12-day fashion marathon held by the American Designer Series and the New York Couture Group, designers are anything but divided on the question. For fall and winter every major fashion house is offering trousers for street, at-home and glittering going-out.

All of a sudden, they're saying what Californians have known for years—that pants are a way of life.

It won't be uncommon, they say, to see pant-

IDA MAE, appealing product of the volunteer seamstress pictured at right, awaits a new home.

By JOYCE CHRISTENSEN

Familiar sights and sounds in the tiny, immaculately kept apartment of Threcia Paulman, 351 W. Sixth St., are the snip of scissors, hum of a sewing machine, and dozens of dolls in various stages of dress.

Explaining her doll-dressing hobby, pert grey-haired Miss Paulman, now 75, says, "When I retired two years ago, I had lots of time on my hands.

"I'd always been busy in my own church, First Methodist at Fifth and Pacific and then, in order to keep in touch with all my girlfriends, I joined Hymn Club at Baptist Church, Anchor Club at Presbyterian Church, Young at Heart Club at Christian Church and Goodwill Auxiliary."

Dolls, refurbished at Goodwill Industries, 800 W. Pacific Coast Highway, and then dressed by a team of volunteers such as Miss Paulman, are available at nominal prices in each of the seven Goodwill Stores in the Long Beach and Harbor areas, according to Mrs. Stephen R. Hemmi, chairman of the doll committee for 15 years. Volunteers to assist in the program of annually refurbishing some 10,000 dolls also are needed, Mrs. Hemmi stressed.

Still not busy enough to suit herself, she began aiding the doll dressing program at Goodwill and in a little more than two years has sandwiched the dressing of more than a thousand dolls in between her numerous church potlucks and meetings.

Using fabrics supplied by Goodwill and trims contributed by interested friends, she makes fashion plates of the already refurbished dolls, getting her ideas not from patterns, but from the fabrics and dolls themselves.

Hawaiian print becomes a muumuu; nets turn into petticoats; chiffons into party dresses; twills are soon converted to play clothes.

Most difficult assignments, Miss Paulman admits, were permanently hatted dolls, one with football helmet, an-

Make Camping a Pleasure

By Steve Ellingson

THERE'S ONE item that makes camping a pleasure for everyone and that's a suitable camp kitchen. The one pictured here with actress Mary Ann Gaba has more conveniences than you can shake a frying pan at.

It's a streamlined version of those used many years ago when people crossed the country in covered wagons. You will notice that it has compartments for cooking utensils, dishes of all kinds, canned goods and various food containers. In fact, it contains in a well planned space, practically all of the items that you use daily in your kitchen at home.

Of all times when you want to have conveniences, it's when you're on a vacation. And of all people, the cook should have the best working conditions.

Camping chores are lightened with a build-it-yourself kitchen, shown with Mary Ann Gaba.

NOTICE HOW the top folds up to give you easy access to those items you use most frequently. The partition that holds the cups lifts up and out also. When the front is opened, it gives you lots of table top working space. It's easy to carry, there are handles on both sides. Just fill it up, load it in your car or boat and away you go.

Anyone can build this inexpensive camp kitchen in a couple of evenings when he uses the full size pattern. You simply trace the pattern parts on wood, saw them out and finally put them together.

To obtain the full size camper's kitchen pattern No. 213 send $1 by currency, check or money order to Southland Magazine Patterns Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

FUN IN DUPLICATE

Twins' families to frolic

Twinship will be secondary to everybody's fun when single-born and double-born get together next Sunday for Mothers of Twins' Club annual kingsize picnic.

Whole families will descend on El Retiro Park in Torrance early in the day with "pair-aphernalia" for babies' comfort, children's and parents' enjoyment.

Seventy-five families, none numbering less than 4, are expected for the event that usually attracts visitors and camera fans from everywhere in the park.

Planning held to a minimum — the "only way to fly with lots of little ones" — said chairman Mrs. Frank Karp, Torrance, but there'll be coffee served all day, baseball for dads and older lads, gifts for the children. Highlighting the summer social will be a parade and contest to determine winners in such categories as "most unalike boy twins," "most identical girl twins." Judges will have a personal interest in the contestants — they'll be 3 sets of teen-aged twins.

HELPING Mrs. Karp with arrangements are the club's newly installed prexy, Mrs. Jerome Steinbrecher, Torrance, and Mmes. Robert Jackson, Rolling Hills; William Brodysl, San Pedro; John Mancuso, Selmer Peterson, Gardena; Steve Sailors, Redondo Beach; Willis Stroub, Cleve Kimmel, John Donnelly, Lewis Eldredge, Howard DeCastro, Harry Wasti, Thomas Webb, Fred Casstevens, Torrance; Tom Leonard, Harbor City.

BelCanto class tunes up for appearance at Bowl

By MARGARET McKEAN

"It was a phenomenal success!"

Los Angeles County brochures aren't given to superlatives, usually. But they have an arty one out these days with golden colors to match the glowing accounts of "Sunday at the Bowl."

The Hollywood Bowl Sabbath series was inaugurated last year to "offer unknowns and artists an opportunity to display their talents." Almost 50,000 people came to hear the unknowns' music and to see the fameless artists' work.

"We had no idea that there'd be such interest!"

So this year the county's department of parks and recreation, in co-sponsorship with the Hollywood Bowl Association, is enjoying a much more expanded program and the spectators come in larger crowds every Sunday to hear jazz combos, chamber orchestras, folk singers, choral ensembles, band concerts.

On August 21 there will be a local group appearing from 1 to 2 p.m. They are the BelCanto Class, directed by Gardena musician Adrian Rosati and they come to practice from Wilmington, San Pedro, Lomita, Harbor City, Torrance, Gardena, Hermosa, Redondo, and Manhattan Beaches.

THEIR DIRECTOR is exuberant.

He believes that music, sung by everybody together, is "belcanto" beautiful is "belcanto"—beautiful music for free is old world charm at its best. The "old world" is part of Rosati, who was born there, served in Italy with the U.S. Forces, and returned to his adopted country with his Italian-born wife, Mirella.

The acceptance of his group for the Bowl concert is re-assuring to a man who is building a career in the various area recreation departments and YWCA's.

"It takes a while to build an interest in music, sometimes two class hours pass and no body shows up. But then magically, one interested person tells another, they begin to arrive in twos and threes and soon whole families come and sing together belcanto."

His Bowl concert group will incorporate classes he conducts at Live Oak Park, Manhattan Beach; Sportsmens' Park, Los Angeles; Everywoman's Village, Van Nuys; and, "if the classes catch on," there'll be people from Gardena where the city recreation department sponsors Rosati's classes on Saturday at Rowley Park and on Thursdays at Community Center.

HIS ENTHUSIASM and talent have caught more than L.A. county attention —Rosati will be part of a feature on Everywoman's Village to be published soon nationally in Parade magazine.

He's chosen two of his soloists for the Aug. 21 concert. They'll be Yetta Benson of Gardena and Mary Louise Ward of Redondo Beach.

As interest in the Sunday series builds, the brochure reminds readers that the beautifully landscaped grounds are perfect for family picnics, that the concerts are sans admission charges, but typical California postscript—"bowl parking, 50c."

A Mellow 65 for Rudy Vallee

ple assume I was too tight to spend the money for one. The truth is I just like to drive my car myself. I enjoy doing things for myself. I've never had a manicure in a barber shop. I remember that I didn't even like my mother to tuck me in at night. I'd rather do it myself." (Incidentally, he is a rock-ribbed Republican.)

THE MAJOR REGRET of his life is that no one, it seems, ever took him seriously. In fact, he says, "It has been the curse of my life. Maybe it's because I have a weak face or something," says Vallee from behind pink cheeks, sparkling blue eyes and from under a full head of grayed hair.

"From as far back as I can remember, people have been telling me how to handle my career, how to run my life. Nobody will pay any attention to me even when I explain how foolish they are for not using the seat belts in their cars (Vallee has been a vociferous booster for auto safety belts since a serious crackup in 1953. He credits seat belts with saving his life. "I think there ought to be a law requiring everybody to use them and if you are caught without them fastened you should go immediately to jail without even a trial," he says.

It was probably his first brush with motion pictures that set the stage for his station in the public view—a position that often provokes snickers and guffaws at the mere mention of his name. "How green was my Vallee" is a common recollection of his pre-World War II film endeavors, a phrase that still makes him bristle. In all the years since '29 he has been trying to erase the memory of that first movie—"The Vagabond Lover"—and its egg-laying premiere at the Globe Theater in New York when half the first-nighters walked out during the showing.

He has taken movie roles that cost him considerable amounts of money in lost theater and nightclub bookings trying to recoup, but still he admits he will never forget that bitter disappointment. Though ensuing Vallee pictures were not cinemagraphic masterpieces by any stretch of the imagination—even Vallee's imagination—and are curios on late-night television, he says even today of that film debut some 37 years ago: "It is shown only in penitentiaries and comfort stations and the odor still remains in theaters where it played."

BUT IT'S BEEN a bitter-sweet life, one that Vallee says was "awfully good" in spite of courtroom and backstage slugging matches surrounding his ill-fated marriages and ill-advised show business associations. He regrets the tens and hundreds of thousands of dollars that slipped through his fingers, for today he is comfortably well off but still considers himself a working man.

"If I could have, I would have retired several years ago," he admits. "But I didn't make the big money people associate with the top names who are still going today who have been around as long as I have. I didn't get in on the ground floor in oil stocks or Palm Springs real estate. Every dime I have made I made with hard work and sweat. Five and six shows a day on a theater stage and then a full night in a club up until 4 a. m. and recording and radio shows wedged in between. Nothing has come easy."

In one breath he will recount uncountable incidents of bad luck, thievery, skulduggery that cost him a week's pay, a month's royalties, as much as two years' income from a daily nightclub job at the Villa Vallee, now the Copacabana in New York. ("I'm the greatest pushover of all time.") But in the next breath he'll tell you "I had the most important thing and I had it good. I had health. I was never sick a day in my life and if you've got good health, you've got everything."

VALLEE HAS MELLOWED graciously. His stride is still strong and his stamina undiluted. He played three years and five weeks in the stage production "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" without missing a day.

Few of the misfortunes of his four-decade brush with boisterousness and broadcasting anger him any longer. He smiles a wry smile when he recalls the time he signed a contract at the Villa Vallee to play for 40% of the cover charge, a deal that figured to make him a rich man, only to find "eleven clauses in fine print that I didn't read that nullified the 40% and made me work two years for nothing plus winding up paying for my own meals."

Today he seems content with his wife of 17 years, a quiet marriage to the former Eleanor Kathleen Norris, who was a 21-year-old college girl when they wed. He spends his idle time keeping up his vast collection of souvenirs gathered over nearly 40 years since "I burst upon an astonished American public with a pretty good saxophone and a totally untrained voice that made everybody feel kind of comfortable."

Today he is recognized as a polished Broadway performer and his varied credits in recent years have brought him applause from the ranks of show business.

If Rudy Vallee has spent all the years since the film "The Vagabond Lover" trying to escape the echoes of ridiculing laughter, he may have made it.

He Has Brains--Plus

By Eleanor Avery Price

WE THINK of the late Albert Payson Terhune as a collie fancier only, because of his beautiful writings on this working breed. But the airedale terrier somewhere along the line must have stolen a big part of his heart. Reprinted from Nature Magazine in the fine book, "The Complete Airedale" (Howell Book House) by Gladys Brown Edwards, are these words of Terhune:

"Among the mine pits of the Aire, the various groups of miners each sought to develop a dog which could outfight and outhunt and outthink the other miners' dogs. Test of the first-named virtues were made in intermine dogfights. Bit by bit, thus, an active, strong, heroic, compactly graceful and clever dog was evolved—the earliest true form of the Airedale.

"Then the outer world's dog fancier got hold of him and shaped and improved him into the show-type airedale of today. The process was not long, for the newly evolved dogs were quick to adapt themselves to their creators' wishes. Out of the experiments emerged the modern airedale. He is swift, formidable, graceful, big of brain, an ideal chum and guard. There is almost nothing he cannot be taught if his trainer has the slightest gift for teaching. To his master, he is an adoring pal. To marauders he is a destructive lightning bolt. In the Southwest and elsewhere these traits have been made use of by numerous sportsmen. Airedales do the work of pointers and setters and other hunting dogs. For nose and steadiness and snappy retrieving and for finding fallen birds, these field-trained airedales have given surprisingly good accounts of themselves.

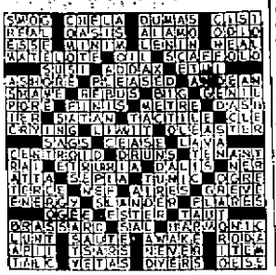

"THERE IS nothing thrown away in an airedale's makeup. Every inch of him is in use. Compact, wiry, he is "all there." No flabby by-products. A perfect machine, a machine with a brain plus. He shows phenomenal powers of brain and instinct found in few other dogs. Fashion can never rule the airedale out of existence. Too many people have learned to value him above any other breed. He is here to stay. He has won his right to permanence." (The airedales I've known were great!)

Meet George Allen

this league. You still must have top men . . . players and coaches . . . to win. Perhaps the top duty of any head coach is to work long and hard to insure a team of getting these top men, be it by trade, draft or signings.

"Repetition is another key to teaching football and I mean repetition almost to the point of boredom.

"Experience is so important in this game. I think we have added something like 33 years playing experience to our three-man linebacking corps by off-season deals in which we acquired Maxie Baughan, Jack Pardee, Bill George and Myron Pottios. It will make us a much better team, believe me."

George Allen, on the team's future:

"I am not concerned with a three-year plan, or even a two-year plan for winning. We are going all-out to win in 1966 and not devote any time or energy to a long-range program. Every move, every trade, every waking minute will be devoted to just that—success in 1966."

George Allen, on his outside interests:

"I've never thought about it much but I guess I do not have many interests other than football. I enjoy greatly my pet project of working in behalf of a Sioux Indian tribe in Pine Ridge, South Dakota. I spend a lot of time helping them raise funds to buy equipment for their athletic teams. Not too long ago they made me an honorary chief of their tribe. It was a great honor."

George Allen, on the Rams' new regular-season training base in Long Beach:

"I think this is most important. Our coaches now have the finest working accommodations, and offices in the NFL. The players will like the training facilities immensely."

A Ram Title?

has been mailed to season ticket subscribers.

"Pride comes in degrees," Allen says in his all-out pitch. "It is important that all of us are proud of the Rams' organization and we expect you to be proud when you make the Rams team. But this is not enough. To be proud of being a Ram and then lose game after game is not the pride I mean. Pride in being a WINNER is what we're after. We must pay the price to become a winner, a proud winner. I am proud to be with the Rams; proud to be a member of a fine organization, one with a great past and even finer future."

Another point Allen makes, which should come as good news to Ram fans, is that he believes in using two quarterbacks when two have comparable ability.

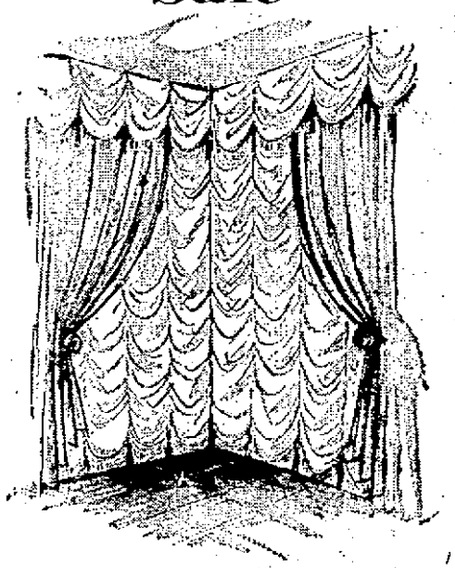

"I think we have the two best young quarterbacks in the game, Roman Gabriel is very good at executing the play-action pass (fake run). And he's so hard to bring down. Bill Munson beat us (the Bears) in the Coliseum. He has quick hands and he can scramble, too. They're different types, but if I have a problem, it's a nice problem to have."

His theory of offensive football is: 1—Be completely sound in everything you do; 2—You don't win with fancy stuff or surprises. "You win with soundness and no indecision."

All this may be a tall dream, but as far as HALAS-ucinations are concerned, Allen won't experience his first one until Sept. 16 when the Rams meet the Bears. That's the big day Papa Bear Halas takes the witness stand in the Coliseum.

WONDERFUL WASHINGTON

Arabian Knight toasts capital

By VIRGINIA WELDON KELLY

To understand the sumptuous entertainment of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, it is helpful to know some of the background. Saudi Arabia does not receive foreign aid. Also, in the Islamic world, hospitality is sacred and a king's receptions must be on a level suitable to his rank.

His Majesty is one of the last of the absolute monarchs. He is also religious head of his nation. Because Mecca, the holiest city of Islam, is in Saudi Arabia, King Faisal holds a special place with the devout of the Moslem world.

In preparation for his visit, a new wing including a grande salon, a royal dining room and other rooms were added to the already large embassy.

The decor of the immense two-story salon is ivory and gold. The walls are covered with ivory brocade. Folds of heavy ivory satin radiate from the vaulted ceiling to give an effect of accordion pleats in the desert tent of a potentate.

Invitations to two receptions to honor King Faisal were issued by Ambassador Sheikh Ibrahim Al-Sowayel.

PRESIDENT Johnson attended the first reception at 6:30 to which only men were asked. At 8:30 a thousand guests (men and women) were invited. Arab ambassadors hustled home from the first reception and then escorted their wives back to the buffet dinner.

Our hostess, Madame Al-Sowayel, was not present. Officials said she was in Europe. Several days ago, however, she was busily engaged in preparing for the King's arrival.

Old Saudi Arabian hands did not expect to see the ambassadress because ladies do not appear at social gatherings where there are men. But because King Faisal approves of education for women and is modernizing his country in some ways, some guests thought he might change the custom and invite his hostess to be present.

Vice President and Mrs. Humphrey dined with two of the King's brothers in the royal dining room. Secretary of State and Mrs. Rusk and other guests dined at small tables on the hillside lawns.

The tall, slender, hawk-faced King ate nothing. He siped hot tea between the two parties, and rested for a few minutes before greeting the throng of dinner guests.

IN ACCORD with Islamic law, no pork products and no alcohol were served. The favorite Arabic drink is orange juice or cola. There were three sumptuous buffets. On one, the kouzy (16 whole roast lambs with their heads tucked under a foreleg) were carved. The lambs were decorated with green rosettes. On another table there was the giant iced cake topped with 7 spun sugar minarets. There were also thousands of pieces of baklava and other Middle Eastern pastries. The Arabs love sweets.

On the central buffet, under the glittering crystal chandeliers, the service included 45 roast turkeys, 30 whole salmon, dozens of pheasants in plumage, 15,000 shrimps, hundreds of lobsters, punch bowls filled with salads, platters of rice pilaf, and dolmades (vine leaves stuffed with rice and meat), fresh fruits and many other dishes.

Robert Karrs reveal Melanie's engagement

At a family dinner party in Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Karr announced the engagement of their daughter, Melanie Anne, to Charles Sanford Munro, son of Mr. William Bennett Munro Jr., Pasadena, and Mrs. Bruce Munro of San Marino.

Graduating with honors from Millikan High School, Miss Karr attended California State College at Long Beach and the University of Oslo before completing work for her degree at USC, where she affiliated with Sigma Alpha Iota.

While at the University of Oslo she was selected to give radio and television broadcasts for the Norwegian Broadcasting System. Currently she is studying for her master's degree in performance at USC.

HER FIANCE, a USC graduate, affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau and was president of Alpha Epsilon Rho. Program director of the university's FM radio station, in 1964 he was selected one of USC's most outstanding students. In October he will enter Air Force Officer Training School at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio.

Grandparents of the engaged couple are the late Mrs. Zera Ellen Setterstrom, California poet; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie A. Karr of Chatanooga, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bruce of Pomona, Mrs. William Bennett Munro of Pasadena and the late Dr. Munro, historian and political scientist. Both Harvard and Stanford Universities use some of his 26 published works as standard textbooks.

The wedding will take place in February.

Party Sunday to honor newlywed Kip Bogles

MRS. G. H. (KIP) BOGLE

Mr. and Mrs. Cloyce H. Bogle will entertain Sunday at their home, 4150 Chestnut Ave., at a post nuptial reception honoring their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. (Kip) Bogle.

She wore for her wedding in West Los Angeles Methodist Church, a gown of silk organza over taffeta fashioned with empire bodice, kaubki sleeves and chapel train. Her headpiece was a silk organza chignon trimmed with lace medalions.

In the entourage were Mrs. Stephen M. Pfaff, matron of honor; Graham H. Humphrey, best man; Carol Mary Snead and Mrs. Barry Dayton, bridesmaids; Charles Phelps and Richard R. Hartley, ushers.

The newlyweds will honeymoon in Guadalajara prior to establishing their first home in Los Angeles.

Those Bloomin' Marigolds

By Joe Littlefield

AFRICAN MARIGOLDS with large pompom-like vivid orange or bright yellow color flowers resembling chrysanthemums, dahlias or carnations are fast growers and bloom easily. Water them generously and fertilize them twice during their active growth; you'll have lots of blooms 'way into the early fall season. These annuals grow nearly 3 feet tall and same spread, therefore, should be planted at the back part of the sunyy flower part of the sunny flower perennial flower bed. Pinch out the tips when plants are 8 inches or so tall and you'll encourage them to grow bushier.

African marigolds (above) supply bright, showy yellow or deep orange flowers in your garden.

French marigolds in orange, yellow or two-tone colors are dwarf sun-loving annuals. Planted in front of blue asters or the fuller upright growing bedding blue petunias, dwarf French marigolds provide an interesting color contrast in combination plantings.

All of us enjoy colorful flowers and some to cut for indoor decoration. Zinnias, asters, gloriosa daisies, amaranthus, celosias and petunias planted now in sunny areas would grow fastest and bloom quickest, too.

COLEUS provide showy colorful foliage in the shade garden. Fuchsias will furnish "dancing dolls flowers" and budding begonias brighten up the shade garden throughout the summer and well into fall.

Delphiniums that bloomed earlier will flower again. The second Pacific hybrids blooming crop of flower stems are much shorter than the first blooming crop of huge flower spikes.

Sow seeds now of true perennial delphiniums and next year you may have four or five crops of flowers. These delphiniums are the bellamossum and belladonna type. One color is light blue, the other a dark blue. They produce a dozen or more spikes of blossoms about 2 feet high. They'll mildew if planted too close together even in inland areas and must have lots of air circulation if planted near the coast.

As weather gets hot and we still set out plants, let's not forget that soil should be moist before setting out annuals, perennials, shrubs or trees from containers. One of the quickest ways to be sure the soil is moist is to fill the plant holes with water. Refill the holes a second time, and when water has soaked into the soil, then put some form of organic coarse material into the plant holes, mix with soil dug out to make the holes and set out the plants. Water well afterwards. (Should you set out the plants in dry soil, actually you are watering the soil rather than the plants because the dry, parched soil quickly absorbs the moisture before plant root balls may have an opportunity to absorb all the moisture needed.)

THIS SAME planting principle applies to setting out tomatoes. Plant some tomatoes right now. Assuming plants get normal watering and you periodically spray or dust them for possible pests or fungus problems, you cannot keep those tomatoes from holding their blossoms, setting fruit, and the fruit ripening!

Y'see, tomatoes are heat loving vegetables. They not only love the hot days, but the mild to warm nights as well. Dig holes 6 inches wide and 6 inches deep. Set out the plants in the bottom of the large holes. Gradually fill soil in around the plants as they grow taller, till you've filled the soil level with surrounding ground, then make a circular furrow to soak the soil thereafter. Planting tomatoes with this method helps the plants produce masses more of roots which in turn helps the plants grow huskier and naturally produce more fruit.

Gardeners' foremost basic problem during the hot summer season is sensible watering. Evening is a good time to water plants, excepting those that are fungus-prone, because the weather then is cooler. Every precious drop of water soaks into the soil. Fungus prone plants should be watered only in the forenoons.

GARDEN CLUBS

The Long Beach Fuchsia Society will hold a pancake breakfast from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. today at the home of J. E. Thompson, 3736 Falcon Ave.

Featured speaker will be Southland Magazine garden columnist Joe Littlefield. Also scheduled is an afternoon garden tour followed by refreshments.

Clarissa Harris of Calimesa, Calif., national staff member of the African Society of America, will speak Thursday at the monthly meeting of the Long Beach African Violet Society.

The meeting opens at 11 a.m. in the Woman's City Club, 1309 E. Third St., with a social hour and plant sale. In charge of these activities are Mrs. Margaret Chapman, Mrs. Eleanora Reisner, Mrs. Erna Newton and Mrs. Carolyn Rector.

Mrs. Harris, the featured speaker, will conduct an afternoon workshop dealing with soil mixes and fertilizers.

The Long Beach parent chapter of the American Begonia Society will meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room, 3901 Atlantic Ave.

Speaking will be Howard B. Criswell, an authority on insecticides, sprays and other garden equipment.

More than 10,000 individual dahlias will be on display Saturday and Sunday when the Inglewood Dahlia Society presents its annual exhibition, at Darby Memorial Park, 3400 W. Arbor Vitae, Inglewood.

Those wishing to exhibit may contact show secretary Louise McKelvey, 962 Franklin St., Santa Monica, or show chairman Herbert Priess, 926 N. Eucalyptus Ave., Inglewood.

The free show is open Saturday from 2 to 10 p.m., and from 10 a.m. through 6 p.m. on Sunday.

So you think it would be fun to have a priceless museum piece in your living room?

A person who knows what it's like is Mrs. Don Bushini, 1750 Redondo Ave.

The museum piece is a chair made of perfectly matched cattle horns, hand-carved and fitted by a blind man.

It's unique qualities have befuddled insurance estimators unable to place a price on an irreplaceable object. But it's rumored a Texas rancher offered the Bushinis $5,000 for the chair.

However, imagine the dilemma of a housewife faced with the problem of fitting the massive creation of finely polished horns and unborn calfskin into a living room suite of Danish modern furniture.

"Have you ever seen a 200-pound man plunk himself down on a stilletto-legged chair?" said Mrs. Bushini.

"Well I do everytime a man spots the chair. Then I shut my eyes and hope the carpet still hasn't any holes in it."

It's nothing for the Bushinis, who own and manage an 18-unit apartment building, to have tenants knock at their door and bring in a couple of dozen friends to inspect the chair.

Despite the drawbacks which accompany ownership of a priceless piece of furniture, the Bushinis are proud of the chair given to them by its creator, Cloud Bryan.

Blinded at an early age, Bryan never has seen the chair which took him more than four years to make during the 1930s.

Each of the 14 pairs of perfectly matched horns was cleaned, sanded, polished and fitted with such precision not even a piece of paper can be placed between each joint.

Largest horns which serve as main arms of the 100-pound chair are more than 160 years old and measure nearly six feet. Bryan obtained the horns in 1920 from a prospector in Miniola, Tex., who discovered the remains of a herd of longhorn cattle buried in 1816 during a sandstorm.

Other matched pairs were carefully picked from collections owned by Denver ranchers.

Seat base and back of the 43-inch high chair are of hand-carved oak covered with unborn calfskin.

In 1950, Bryan moved to Long Beach and lived for 14 years at the Huntington Hotel, which the Bushinis managed.

Bryan, who now lives in a Long Beach rest home, gave the couple the chair when they expressed their appreciation for its unique composition and craftsmanship executed by a sightless man.

"Until we moved from the Huntington Hotel in 1963, we kept the chair on view for guests," Mrs. Bushini said.

"Since it can't be insured, we've been unable to loan it out for exhibition, but we are making arrangements for it to be placed in a museum where others can admire it."

lin associated with tapestries? H.W.

A. Gobelin is the name of a family of dyers who founded a dye-works in Paris in the middle of the 15th Century; this plant developed into a famous tapestry works. The industry was bought by Louis XIV in 1662, and after the French Revolution, ownership passed to the state. Some of the designs woven during Louis XIV's time were done by the royal painter, Le Brun. Gobelin tapestries are noted for their excellent workmanship, dyes, and materials.

Q. If a tree is cut down, do the roots keep on living? T.M.

A. This depends on whether the stump or root-crown sprouts. With only a few exceptions, like redwood, most conifers do not sprout and the root system therefore dies after the tree is cut down. Most hardwoods sprout, particularly when young, and some or all of the root system continues to live as long as there are living sprouts. If sprouts and shoot are cut off as fast as they appear, the roots will finally die and no more sprouts will issue.

Gourmet's Guide

Southland Dining at its Finest in the Long Beach and Orange County Area

I WASN'T surprised when host Arnold Vann told me that the phone at his Tenderloin restaurant in Long Beach rings constantly, with scads of people seeking reservations for prime rib dinners.

That's not news, because it's well known around town that this fashionable, scenic restaurant at 4363 Atlantic Ave. serves a fabulous prime rib au jus dinner for the unpretentious sum of $1.95.

I was a bit surprised, however, when Vann informed me that many customers phone to reserve end cuts of prime rib. I had't realized that the roasted ends (cooked well-done, instead of medium or rare) were so popular.

But Vann really flabbergasted me when he revealed that hordes of people phone The Tenderloin to reserve prime rib bones — and not for their dogs, either.

"Bones?" I said. "Are you kidding?" Vann definitely wasn't. Each of the restaurant's prime rib roasts contains 12 meaty bones. They are served on a special barbecued rib dinner for $1.50 which includes three beefy bones cooked in a delectable barbecue sauce. Also included are superb soup or salad; steaming Idaho baked potato; garden fresh string beans, garlic toast and beverage. The bones are so scrumptious the restaurant hasn't been able to keep up with the demand, which is why astute patrons phone to reserve theirs in advance.

The guests also enjoy the four different ways the restaurant prepares its savory string beans. One night the string beans are offered in a cream sauce the next night in a mild mustard-onion sauce; then in a tomato-bacon-onion sauce; and finally, in a sauce prepared with a rich chicken soup base.

Included are superb round of roast beef, baked ham, sea food, roast lamb and other entrees, accompanied by soup or salad, potato, vegetable, blueberry muffins or cheesebread, beverage and a fancy dessert.

Still a doll among dolls

other with an Army officers' cap. They both stayed at the bottom of the box for quite a while, she says.

But it is the 73 years preceding her "retirement" that read like a storybook, not the stories that little girls might weave around the dolls that people her world today.

"From the first moment I opened a geography book as a child, I knew I wanted to travel."

And travel she has.

Her nomadic existence began in her homestate of Nebraska and has taken her to all parts of the United States, including a two-year stay in Hawaii during the war years, into Mexico and Canada.

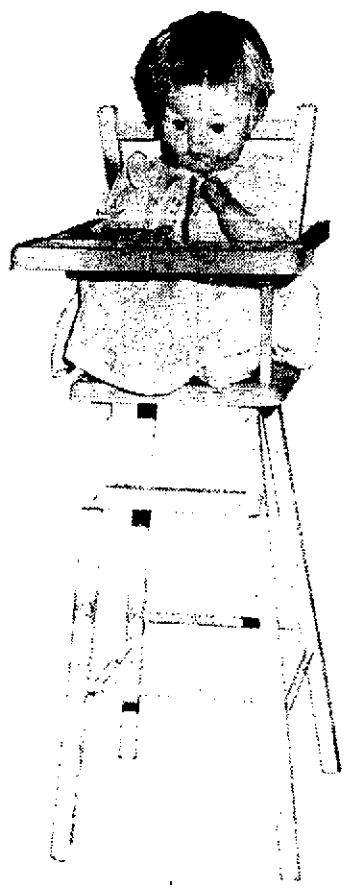

Her work has always been caring for the children of others, staying with a family for six months or a year, then traveling again until the money ran out.

"My first stops in a new city were always the Methodist Church and the YWCA. I've never used a written reference and I've never wanted for a job wherever I went. Usually the families urged me to stay, but I just had to see more of the country."

Today, a scrapbook lovingly kept, attests to the "families" she has all over the United States.

Since 1915, Long Beach has been "home base" for the sprightly "ex-gypsy" who admits that today the yen to travel is over.

"I wanted to see things while I was young and I'm glad I did it all when I did." And, with a twinkle in her eye, Miss Paulman adds, "At 75, it's a little easier to take a trip by turning the knob on the television set."

DEAR ABBY

She prays for proper parakeet

DEAR ABBEY: Our son, who served with the Marine corps in Viet Nam, came home last month. As you can imagine, Don was pretty well tuckered out, so he just sat around the house resting and getting used to civilian life again. He also taught our parakeet how to swear.

Abby

Now fun is fun, but you should hear what he taught that bird to say! What if the preacher drops in one Sunday afternoon?

DON'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Get another parakeet and teach it how to pray for the one that swears.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of parents who decided to call it quits after 51 years of marriage? They have four married children, thirteen grandchildren, and three great-granchildren. They were never exactly lovebirds, but it never came to a real separation before.

I am the eldest daughter and Mama called me and told me to come and get her as Papa moved to a motel and she wasn't going to stay in the house alone. It's been three days, and Papa is still holed up in the motel.

My oldest brother called Papa and asked what he should tell people. Papa said, "Tell them I've entered my second childhood and I have the measles!" Then he slammed down the telephone. What should we tell people, and how can we get them back together?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Papa's explanation will do. Tell them nothing. "Love" will find a way.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Great Drawer Robbery

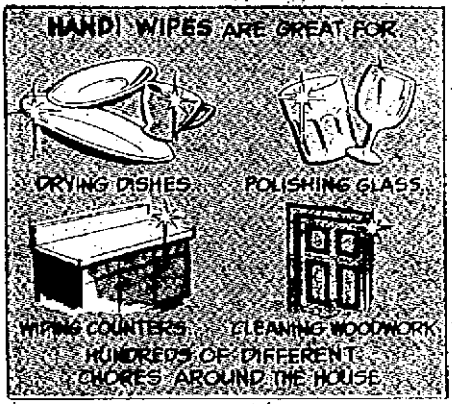

CHECKING PACK DATE OF FOODSTUFFS . . . Lt. G. S. Steen Jr. (SC) USN inspects boxes of dehydrated foods loaded aboard U.S.S. Talladega (APA-208). Each package is equivalent to space taken by three 100-pound bags of potatoes. Ration-dense foods save 75% space taken for fresh eggs and milk, 87% of that for potatoes and 50% for canned beans.

Navy food ala 1966 destroys myth of sailor's chow

By ELLEN KREC

A myth has been shattered, and I am ready to take on a Sacred Cow!

It long has been the prerogative of the Navy man to complain about food in the service.

FOR MANY YEARS, contrary to that "myth", the services have been working to improve the food.

I was invited by the Field Food Service to try some of the new Ration-Dense food. This had been highly touted by a good friend who had enjoyed a full dinner of the Ration-Dense products.

As a cook who thinks food should be lovingly and carefully prepared, I could hardly raise as much enthusiasm . . . that is until I met Lt. G. S. Steen Jr. (SC) USN. Lt. Steen is not only handsome, he is also a dedicated Supply Corps Officer.

His first family includes a wife, Nanci, and 11-month-old John. His second family is the Field Food Service Team, which includes A. L. Rivers, CSCM A. L. McNary, CSCS; R. C. Ferro, CSC, and L. E. Bembry, CSCS, all under the management and technical control of the Navy Subsistence Office in Washington.

The Field Food Service Team is assigned to Naval Supply Center, Long Beach, under the command of Rear Adm. H. F. Kuehl, (SC) USN, for military control.

PURPOSE of this team is to "go where the action is," to help in food service, food preparation, sanitation, menu planning and training. These men are requested, not directed, to check food problems and they never are an inspection team.

THE TERM, Ration-Dense, was coined in 1954. It means more ration and less space. This is accomplished by using foods which are prepared by several methods, but dehydration is most important.

Most of the foods have a shelf-life of up to two years, replacing products with a short holding time. Some have been eaten after five years.

Consider the amazing amount of space saved—up to 92%—and the fact there's little room for error, because all you have to do in most cases is reconstiute the food with water, then either heat or chill and serve.

This could make TV dinners just too much work!

MY LUNCH was cooked by a very nice chef (and a good cook, too), A. L. Rivers, CSCM. It included an excellent omelette made with powdered eggs which bore no resemblance to powdered eggs you might have eaten in the past; crisp bacon that had been pre-cooked, canned, then just heated; applesause that tasted better than most fresh; a tall, cold glass of tomato juice made from the same concentrate that can also turn into sauces for spaghetti and pizza; sour cream that tasted as though it might have a little whipped cream added (and I enjoyed it by the spoonful); cottage cheese that was a little too sharp for my taste but could be excellent mixed with something (I wonder how it would be with some of the sour cream?) and bowls of shrimp you just wouldn't believe! These are dehydrated, and you just soak them in cold water for 20 minutes and chill. They are superior to fresh!

When I told Lt. Steen I had hoped for some samples to try at home, he assured me this would be possible and I came home with enough to spend the next two days trying them the Navy way and my way.

FIRST MORNING I served Navy omelettes and my best friend, husband, tells me they are almost as good as mine. He had applesauce that he thought was fresh and superb bacon.

I made a huge shrimp salad with chopped green onions and celery. For the dressing I used the sour cream and concentrate, just adding a bit of lemon and chopped sweet pickles. Marvelous! Everyone agrees on the shrimp.

PREPARING ROAST NAVY STYLE . . . A. L. Rivers, CSCM, checks roast with chef Oscar E. Newsome, CSSN. Beef is cooked without seasoning at 300 degrees to prevent 35% less shrinkage than by customary methods.

CONVERSATION — AND REACTION

WAITING TO SERVE GUESTS TEA
... Mmes. Harry Landis (left), Lloyd Whaley were among costumed hostesses.

Assistance League of Long Beach honored its 1966 debutantes at the traditional Medallion tea in League House, Fourth Street and Roswell Avenue, this past week.

League House, which houses the beautiful Howard Oriental collection, took on atmosphere of a Japanese tea garden as members of Assistance League, Rick Rackers and Las Hermanas, the latter two auxiliaries to the league, were welcomed by hostesses attired in traditional Japanese dress.

Centered on the tea table was a white porcelain Kuan-Yin surrounded by pink cherry blossoms imported from our Japanese sister city of Yokkaichi. Traditional tea cakes were among the delicacies served. Mrs. John W. Brooks, past president of the league, presided at the tea table. Miss Kay Matsumoto, attired in native dress, played selections on the Koto, a classical Japanese instrument.

The girls who will be presented were introduced by Mrs. Norman Scott, mother-deb chairman, as each mother presented her daughter the traditional inscribed gold medallions with their golden chains to be worn by the debs at the ball. The medallions are gifts of the league to the debutantes.

Mrs. Reginald Barden, tea chairman, was assisted by Mmes. William Nesbitt, Raymond Peterson and the 1965 provisional class.

The 18 presentees, daughters and granddaughters of members of the league and Las Hermanas, will make their bow at the seventh annual ball on July 30 at the Lafayette Hotel.

Series of shows to spotlight fall bridal wear

The date's been set, the church selected and honeymoon trip arranged. Next decision is attire for that all-important day.

Mindful of area brides-elect who have reached this stage in the nuptial game, Buffums' will present a formal showing of fall wedding ensembles for the bride and her entire entourage.

Creations to be shown include an empire gown of chiffon (left) by William Cahill. Crystal bugle beads detail fitted sleeves and yoke. Voluminous train cascades from back yoke.

Other leading designers of bridal fashions will be represented in showings to be launched at a 7:30 p.m. presentation Monday in Terrace Room of Buffums' downtown. A 7:30 p.m. program is slated Wednesday in Buffums' Lakewood. Designer Cahill will be on hand for a 7:30 p.m. showing July 26 at Buffums' Palos Verdes.

Graduates seek office work

Expert offers six suggestions

Graduation is now past, and with this annual event will come a new crop of young ladies looking for office work.

There are many jobs open in the Long Beach-Harbor area. However, with the greater availability of help after graduation, employers can afford to be more selective.

For the girl who will be looking for her first job, Barbara Jones, District Manager of Western Girl, Inc., a firm specializing in providing temporary office workers, offers these six suggestions:

1. The very first impression will be made by appearance, so be clean and neat. Wear a dress suitable to an office.

2. The way a girl acts when she thinks she is alone and her guard is down is often a greater clue to her personality than the answers she might give in an interview. Be aware at all times that you are on display.

3. Fill out the job application neatly and accurately. Be ready with references and your social security number.

4. When you are called in for your interview, sit up straight, speak clearly and look directly at the interviewer. Do not smoke when being interviewed.

5. If you try to impress the interviewer other than by acting natural and being yourself, it will show through. Don't try it!

6. When the interview is over, thank the interviewer for the opportunity of discussing the job — then leave gracefully.

MRS. JONES SAYS that most employers call for a typing speed of 50 words a minute, stressing accuracy. Stenographers need to know composition and spelling as thoroughly as they know shorthand. And it isn't the beauty contest winner or the debutante who gets the job, but rather the girl who uses her office skills and also uses good common sense in dealing with everyday problems.

"Today's secretary is a far cry from the pioneer typewriter (the name given to both the girl and the machine in early days) in status, responsibility, working conditions and benefits," Mrs. Jones states. "The pioneer secretary was crashing a man's world, and believe me, the men moved over reluctantly. The early secretary took dictation, typed on primitive machines, kept the books and cleaned the office — and all on a salary of 10 dollars a week. Business life today has certainly improved for women."

Understated look ideal for summer

Sleek, smart lines underscored with white create a most important fashion. Perky trim stands away from skirt in a smart flange effect that forms a double pleat at hemline. Side pointed bodice adds contrast in flattering face-framing effect. For a finely tailored look, add spaced stitching and covered buttons. Excellent for linens, silks, cottons.

Price $1. R-169 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 14 takes 2¾ yards of 39-inch fabric and 1 yard of 39-inch fabric for contrast. Standard body measurements for size 14 are: Bust 34, Waist 26, Hips 36.

"Two CSLB master's candidates have had paintings accepted for the Butler Museum Annual Painting Exhibition in Ohio.

"This is a national, professional exhibition.

"This honor is roughly comparable to a journalism student being asked to write for the New York Times—or a music major to sing with the Met.

"The artists are Pete Mendez and Jim Simpson."

ROBERT BENTON, manager of San Pedro Art Association, has announced new plans for the association's gallery, 2317 S. Pacific Ave., San Pedro.

A costumed, live model workshop started Monday at 7 p.m., a beginners' class in drawing and oil painting began Wednesday at 7 p.m., and a workshop got underway Thursday at 1 p.m.

Currently, the association has two shows on exhibit. Katherine Rosset is the artist featured at the gallery and Leslie Stone, Edna Kober, Joyce Stone and Dorothy Kosovac have paintings on exhibit at California Home Furnishings, 27700 Silver Spur Road, Palos Verdes Peninsula.

Geyer, who joined the SAC faculty in 1964, has had previous shows at Los Angeles County Museum of Art, San Diego Museum of Fine Arts, La Jolla Museum of Fine Arts and the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York.

He also has exhibited at California State College at Long Beach, Cerritos College, UC Berkeley, UCLA and Washington State University.

Geyer's designs and colors are bold, presenting an original approach to the ancient art of pottery.

At Santa Ana College, Geyer is director of Gallery 45 on campus. A highlight of the year is the annual faculty art exhibit which features drawings, paintings and sculpture of the art department instructors.

A GROUP of paintings by artists from Iron Curtain Countries are among works by 200 contemporary European artists which may be seen at the Villa Pacific Art Festival Saturday and next Sunday in Huntington Beach.

Works of Hungarian freedom artists Oszkar Szanto, Stephano Falk and Dande, as well as work by other European artists, are on loan through Heller Gallery of Encino. Styles vary from modern impressionistic paintings of the Picasso and Dali school to classical pastoral landscapes, seascapes and street scenes.

From 2 to 5:30 p.m. both days, the exhibit will be shown in Villa Pacifica at Brookhurst Avenue and Hamilton Street. There will be no admission price.

'Marty' is teen-agers show

For its seventh annual summer production, Long Beach's unique teen-age company, Virginia Country Theater, will produce its first original musical comedy, "The Late Marty Washington Who Might as Well Be Dead" July 23 through 31 at 8:30 p.m.

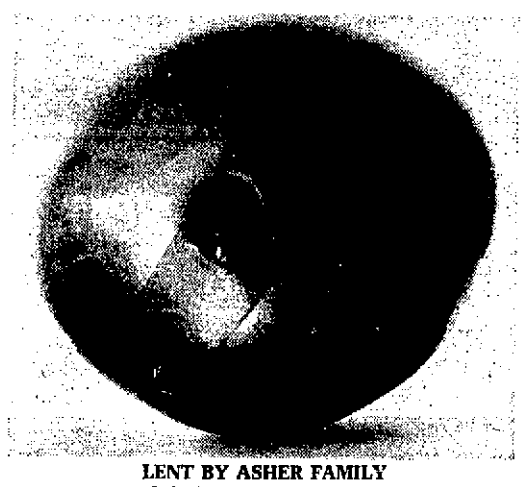

Two members of VCT collaborated, John W. Harding, 18, who wrote the book and lyrics, and Bruce Polay, 17, who did the music and orchestration.

The cast of 30 has been in rehearsal more than five weeks under direction of Greg Killingsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Killingsworth, 4606 Virginia Road. Greg founded VCT in 1959 to provide an outlet for teen-agers' dramatic talents.

CAST MEMBERS, plus 15 other volunteers, double as technical crew, and an eight piece orchestra is conducted by Polay.

The plot concerns a modern airline pilot, Marty Washington, who is never on time. During vacation, he visits his aunt who has turned her home into "Squirrels' Lair," a treatment center for "all the nuts in town," including a frustrated chemist, a girl with loose morals, Benny, who thinks Marty is really George Washington, and an Agnes Gootch type trying to improve her lot. Beverly Burgess, 18 plays the psychologist who "tries to cure all the nuts."

There is no admission charge, but donations will be received. Those who wish may come at 8 p.m. to see a film telling the story of VCT. Seating is limited, so telephone reservations should be made to the Killingsworth residence.

Third week at Bowl

Metropolitan Opera singers Robert Merrill and Gianna d'Angelo will sing an aperatic program to usher in Hollywood Bowl's third week of Symphonies Under the Stars concerts Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. Thomas Schippers will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

The soloists will perform scenes from Rossini's "The Barber of Seville" and Verdi's "Rigoletto." The orchestra will play Durante's "Concerto Grosso No. 1" and Overture to "La Forza del Destino" by Verdi.

operatic program to usher in

THUDSDAY, Andre Watts, young American pianist who made his Bowl debut several years ago, will play MacDowell's "Concerto No. 2." Making his final appearance this season, Schoppers will conduct the Philharmonic in Overture to "Cchool for Scandal" and "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber, and Apocalypse" by Gian-Carlo Menotti.

THE WEEK will close on a light note Saturday when Professor Peter Schickele brings his spoof concert to the Bowl, featuring works by P. D. Q. Bach, a spurious composer of the 18th century who is alleged to be the oddest of J. S. Bach's 20-odd sons.

The program will include "Pervertimento for Bagpipes, Bicycle and Balloons," the "Unbegun Symphony," a cantata titled "Iphigenia in Brooklyn" and an oratorio, "The Seasonings" S.½ tsp.

Appearing with The Royal P.D.Q. Bach Festival Orchestra will be Carol Neblett, soprano; Claudine Carlson, alto; John Ferrante, tenor; Arthur Edwards, bass; and the Roger Wagner Chorale.

IN JONSON'S SATIRE
Volpone (Frank Keith) looks on at intrigue between Canina (Vi Coulter) and Mosca (Duke Schneider)

Bawdy, earthy satire to caper at Magnolia

Earthy, bawdy, Ben Jonsons comedy "Volpone," satirizing human foibles and shortcomings, opens Thursday at Magnolia Theater, 835 Locust Ave.

Volpone, the fox, played by Frank Keith, is a rich Venetian grandee without children who pretends to be dying in order to draw gifts from those who pay court to him, hoping to become his heirs. Jonson's theme is greed and the corrupting influence of wealth. Fathers disinherit sons, husbands strangle their jealousy and all but prostitute their wives as Jonson deftly ridicules and jests.

OTHER MEMBERS OF the cast are Duke Schneider, Arthur Perkins, Earl Mills, Cliff Medaugh, Vi Coulter, Merrill Ann Hadden, Gary Bellis, Michael Katcher, Ralph J. Hamilton, Jim Baer, Glen Harrington, Bob Stone, Gerald Ruppel and Bob Woods.

Don Baurac directs. Performances will be on Thursdays and Sundays at 8 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. for four weeks.

Quartet to play in grove

Pacific String Quartet will play compositions by Haydn, Barber and Ravel at the third Concerts in the Grove program Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Soroptimist House patio at California State College at Long Beach.

Members of the quartet are violinists William Hymanson and Akira Endo, violist Donald Cole, and cellist Douglas Davis. They recently completed a transcontinental tour of the Midwest and East Coast.

A Juilliard graduate and member of the faculty of Santa Barbara's Music Academy of the West, Hymanson has concertized widely in this country and abroad and has appeared as soloist and concertmaster of the California Chamber Symphony on its State Department tour of 13 European nations.

ENDO, a member of Long Beach City College music faculty and former concertmaster of the Young Musicians Foundation Orchestra, has just been appointed musical director of Long Beach Symphony Orchestra.

Violist Cole has performed with such conductors as Stokowski, Klemperer, Walter, Monteau and Steinberg. Actively engaged in many Hollywood studio orchestras, he also has played with the London String Quartet.

A WINNER of the Merriweather Post National Music Contest, cellist Davis went on to receive first prize in the 1960 Hollywood Bowl competition, followed the next year by the first Piatigorsky Artist Award. His winning of honors in Moscow's international Tschaikowsky Competition resulted in a concert tour engagement in Russia.

Sponsored by Associated Students' special events committee, Concerts in the Grove will continue each Wednesday through Aug. 31. A free picnic area will be open at 5:30 p.m. Tickets for all performances are on sale at the box office.

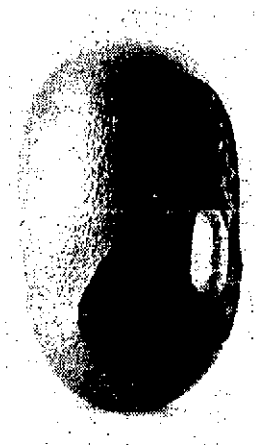

Experience, don't 'see' Price and Irwin show

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

A dual show of Kenneth Price's ceramics and Robert Irwin's paintings continues at Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd., through Sept. 4.

This is not an exhibit to be viewed; rather, it is one to be experienced. Only 25 persons at a time are permitted into the aseptically white rooms of the Lytton Gallery where these are displayed. The lighting is so skillfully handled that, somehow, the all-white is muted.

In the first room Price's eight larger works, roughly melon-sized, highly colored, glossy ceramics are presented on high pillars. Apertures in the ovoids reveal masses of glazed finger or worm-like forms inside. They are named in relation to their colors.

FIRED, PAINTED CLAY
. . . small work by Price

TO THE SIDE, in a smaller room, presented like jewels in lighted glass cases, are smaller works. Each is in its own environment, painted wooden frames containing velvet or fine sand on which the "specimen" rests. These seem to be broken-open eggs or pods, matrices for the kinds of forms seen-through in the larger works. Color is very intense against white. The craftsmanship is machine-perfect.

IN AN ADJOINING salon are the Irwins, five canvases which, at first blush, seems to be white, even against white walls. Closer scrutiny shows that these are covered with precisely plotted dots of color. Viewed from a distance of, say, five feet (depending on one's degree of myopia or astigmatism) the colors blush and bloom in a magical way. Looking does not work; sensing them is a heady experience.

There is a charge of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children to the Lytton Gallery which also contains the Natzler Ceramic Exhibit until Aug. 14, and American Paintings through July 31. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays, and until 10 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Adds to Candide

Leonard Bernstein has added six new musical numbers to the score of "Candide," a comic operetta on which he and Lillian Hellman collaborated.

Anka to tour

Singer-composer Paul Anka will star in a 14-city, two-week tour of Sweden during August, then will cover seven major cities in Czechoslovakia Aug. 24 through 30.

Jose Greco to premiere

Jose Greco and Company, foremost exponents of Spanish Dance, will bring an all-new program to Greek Theater for a week beginning July 25. "Carmen," a new ballet by Greco, will have its world premiere.

Spanish dance is unlike other dance forms in that there is nothing abstract in it. It depicts a concrete, definite thought, mood or action based on, or provoked by, a realistic event which may be romantic, dramatic, pastoral or humorous.

IN THE SPANISH dance, the male makes no compromise. He is unbending, dominant, always the master.

This summer at CSLB-- clinic and all that jazz

California State College at Long Beach is one of two colleges which will host the first summer jazz clinics ever to be held in California.

Sponsored by the National Stage Band Camps, the summer jazz clinics are in their eighth year and during August will be held at six colleges and universities in the United States.

About 200 young musicians are expected to attend the session at CSLB Aug. 14 to 20. The clinic will feature improvisation, theory, arranging, stage band, combo ensembles and sectional training.

Head of the clinic is Leon Breeden, director of laboratory bands at North Texas State University.

The staff of professional musicians will emphasize the stage band movement and jazz in general.

SAYS William L. Fowler, member of the staff, composer and professor of music at the University of Utah: "Stage bands are large bands similar to name bands of the past, but they are for listening rather than dancing. Unlike the dance band, the tempo can be manipulated at will.

"The stage band movement is a serious attempt to teach any kind of music well. The modern musician must be able to play Brahms, too. He must be an all-round musician. We don't interfere with classical training—just add to it."

CLASSES at CSLB will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and workshops and entertainment will follow after dinner. Class ratio will be eight students for each faculty member.

Time to audition

The New Threater, formerly the Brayton, 2157 Atlantic Ave., will hold auditions for "The Beggars' Opera" Monday and Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m.

CALIFORNIANS HAVE BEEN IN FASHION FOR YEARS . . .

Pants on Fifth Avenue? Of course!

CADET blue wool pantsuit by Oscar de La Renta for his fall collection for Jane Derby features jacket fitted high under arms and cased by two vents. Double rows of silver buttons run down from narrow standaway collar and mark pocket tabs. (Scarf cap by Halston of Bergdorf Goodman.)

CUDDLECOAT'S for corduroy . . . especially if it's for a pantsuit trimmed with lots of lynx giving luxurious feeling. Slim straight pants compliment pacesetter.

suited ladies lunching at P.J. Clarke's, the Ginger Man or Yellowfinger's Butcheria . . . antique-ing in the Village and along Third Avenue . . . boutique-ing in swinging East Side shops . . . or gallery-shopping on Madison Avenue.

THERE ARE pants, pants, pants and more pants. There are pants with straight legs and cuffs, flared legs and draw strings, fly fronts and hip-slung waistlines.

There are short pants and long pants, knickers and Bermudas, jewelled pants and sporty gabardines, jumpsuits and divided skirts.

WHAT GIVES them an "in" in haute couture this season is that pants have, at long last, met their match in jackets.

They've become tailored costumes, a total look from head to toe.

Hips go undercover, camouflaged by the elegant construction of woman-tailored riding coats and cavalier jackets, trench coats and plaid wrappers, doublets and tunics, smock tops and sandwich skirts.

The look adds up to dozens of ways to wear pants, all under the same new fashion term: Pantsuit!

DIMINUTIVE Adele Simpson, a favorite in the White House, does pantsuits for "going public in planes, trains or cars."

They come in three parts—or four if you buy matching skirt.

The fingertip jackets are tailored to a T, topping sleek trousers with a bit of flare (but not bell-bottom—that's out). All are wool with coordinated blouses.

Maurice Rentner's designer Bill Blass takes a short cut in pants. One tailored wool "suit" in subtly patterned brown tones has jacket-topped trousers of Jamaica shorts length. Knee-high cable knit socks and cable knit turtle-neck sweater complete the look.

Oscar de la Renta of Jane Derby is another who's decided that trousers are for any occasion.

He does an ankle-length outfit in yellow crepe that at first glance looks like a column-slim dress but proves to be a divided, pajama skirt . . . also, a short formal in line crepe that appears to be a dress from the front, just plain culottes from the back.

And when the pants-mad miss wants to go dancing, she slips into her black sequinned trousers with matching jacket, like a show girl about to break into a soft shoe.

Question is: Are masculine egos strong enough to tolerate the new "her" trouser suits that match his? Also, are husbands' wallets fat enough to buy suits for both himself and his wife?

After all, she'll have to have a few dresses, evening gowns and furs hanging in the closet, too.

More About New York

Besides the barefoot sandals that now shuffle along once ultra-chic Fifth Avenue, there's another California influence very much in evidence.

Color explodes in brilliant flashes on the sidewalks of New York, in smart boutiques—more especially on fashion ramps where fall-winter clothes are on parade.

Seventh Avenue designers aren't kidding about with color. If it's pink, it's pink and as bright as you could dye it. The same goes with yellow, green or red.

Newest in the fashion spectrum is purple for all categories of fashion from rugged tweeds to silky satins.

One word we haven't heard in two weeks of fashion previews is "youthquake!" Last season it was the word that shook the foundations of haute couture.

They called it a fashion revolution.

This year it's more reaction than revolution . . . a real reaction in the return of common sense, pretty, wearable clothes with a knack of their own—less daring, less darling—more elegant, more luxurious.

Of course, we haven't seen topless-swimsuit Rudi Gernreich's collection yet. It's no telling what will come off then.

That'll be our fashion expose for Monday.

LEO RITTER'S SURPRISE: Shorts costume of greige and brown processed dyed lamb. Yoked jacket is cocoa brown and belted in matching leather over greige shorts marked by side buttons. (Hat by Emme.)

Bid rescues partner

If you wonder why South rebid a four card diamond suit instead of raising his partner's clubs the answer is they were using the Wolff convention.

This provides that if a player who has responded one over one rebids to three clubs over his partner's two no-trump rebid, a three diamond rebid is required.

The idea of the convention gives a player who makes a horrible response, such as North's one spade, a chance to get off the hook.

With a spade bust North would have continued to three spades and South would have had to pass. With his actual hand North simply dropped the bidding at three diamonds.

OF COURSE if North had passed at one diamond South would have played the hand right there. This would have been fine in this case. On other occasions North's pass would allow East and West to get into the bidding successfully.

Or, if South happened to have the right sort of hand for spades, the spade response would have led to a successful spade contract. In fact it is possible to set up plenty of South hands that will produce a spade game opposite North's collection of nothing.

South has several ways to make three diamonds. The simple way is to win the trump opening in his own hand.

He takes his ace of hearts, ruffs a heart in dummy, comes back to his hand with a high club, ruffs his last heart and pauses for breath.

Then he plays trumps and eventually loses two clubs, one spade and the ace of trumps.

MRS. JOHN P. ROBERGE

Newlyweds to reside in Alhambra

Barbara Lee Glantz and John Preston Roberge exchanged wedding vows in the presence of 150 guests Saturday at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

The bride, daughter of Lt. Cmdr. USN (Ret.) and Mrs. Jack Earl Glantz, 2266 Argonne Ave., wore a gown of antique ivory peau de soie.

She was attended by Karen M. Larson, maid of honor; Grace M. Rose, Marilyn K. Hobbs, Sharon Dronberger and Cheryl A. Hibbard, bridesmaids; and Elizabeth Van Valkenburgh, flower girl.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Roberge, Pasadena, asked Douglas E. Bott to serve as best man. Bruce Brunner, Theodore Grace, Robert Dronberger and James King were ushers.

THE COUPLE received felicitations at a reception in the Officers' club. On their return from a Las Vegas honeymoon, they will reside in Alhambra.

Mrs. Roberge was graduated from high school in Portugal and from Vanderbilt University where she was a member of Gamma Phi Beta. She was vice president of Panhellenic Council, and was a member of Newman Club and Tennessee Student Nurses Association. Her husband attended University of Hawaii.

Long Beach's Horatio Alger believes in treating guests to elegant delicacies

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Food Editor

He likes, admires and respects people. He awakens each morning REAL glad to be alive. He's always had a goal from which he's never deviated. AND he's a food editor's dream—he insists upon a hearty breakfast.

Total these pertinent facts, and you have today's Chef of the Week, Atty. Edwin J. Wilson. His career, coupled with his determination, makes Horatio Alger look like a piker.

Born in Florence, S.C., Wilson graduated with a bachelor's degree from Claflin College, Orangeburg, just in time to battle the depression. He spent that summer on the boardwalk at Atlantic City, pushing chairs.

Come winter, he became a presser for a wholesale cleaner and dyer.

AFTER A FULL YEAR of frugal saving, he enrolled at Howard University, Washington, D. C. to pursue his law degree. A night elevator operator job in the Broadmore Hotel, helped boost the exchequer for a year and a half.

Then World War II, the draft, and the Quartermaster Corps pre-empted his law studies. From 1941 to 1945, he went from "buck private" to 1st lieutenant.

Separated from the service, he worked for more than a year at Veterans Administration Hospital, Westwood, before applying for adult education teaching credentials in the Long Beach School system. He taught Civics and Negro History.

A year and a half at U.C.L.A. studying political science followed, before he returned again to law. He enrolled at Pacific Coast Law School, Long Beach, and worked 40 hours a week as custodian for the city, cleaning restrooms, sweeping floors and manning the jail elevator two nights a week.

After six more years as social worker, Bureau of Public Assistance, Wilson passed the bar in 1955.

APPOINTED to the City Planning Commission last July, Wilson serves on the International Beauty Congress, the American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, and is a subscribed life member to NAACP. He has served as secretary-treasurer Long Beach Bar Association for the past two years.

He and his wife, Marion, have a son, Edwin, Jr., who will graduate from U.C., Berkeley, in December. He, too, is heading for the bar.

Hobbywise, Wilson is a homebody. He and Marion enjoy Civic Light Opera, Community Playhouse and sports, as spectators. Also chess.

DOMESTICALLY, his assignment is a clean garage, and he dumps with careless abandon. Everything that isn't presently in use must go. Marion has become a great retriever in self defense.

Our "Chef" enjoys having guests; and of his recipe for Shrimp 'N Mushroom Elegante, he says, "It's the sort of rich, expertly seasoned main dish you're proud to serve your guests."

SHRIMP 'N MUSHROOM ELEGANTE

- 3 tblsp. butter or margarine
- 2 7-oz. pkgs. frozen shelled shrimp, partially thawed
- ½ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- ¼ tsp. dry mustard
- Dash cayenne
- 2 cups light cream
- 3 tblsp. cooking sherry
- ¼ cup shredded Parmesan cheese
- Parsley Rice

Melt 3 tablespoons butter in skillet. Add shrimp and mushrooms; cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, about 5 minutes or until mushrooms are tender and shrimp turn pink and are done. Remove from skillet and set aside.

Add ¼ cup butter to skillet; when melted, blend in flour and seasonings. Stir in cream all at once; cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and boils. Add shrimp and mushrooms to sauce; remove a few shrimp for garnish. Heat through 2 or 3 minutes. Stir in cooking sherry and cheese. Salt to taste.

Keep warm in chafing dish; trim with watercress and reserved shrimp. Serve over hot fluffy rice with snipped parsley.

Makes 6 servings.

Traveling with Stan Delaplane

SAN FRANCISCO — Here are some experiences going through Customs: England allowed me to take over limit cigarettes when I said I was going on to France in a week.

France: Didn't open my bags. Spain and Italy didn't ask me to open my bags. In Switzerland, the Customs man said: "If you have anything to declare, take your bags to that counter. If you haven't, you can leave." Germany made a very mild inspection.

Japan: Had me open the bags. Hong Kong: Had me open the bags. The Philippines passed me without even asking if I had anything to declare. Tahiti: Made a rather stiff inspection and questioned my typewriter. Was I going to leave it or sell it?

South America: Several countries questioned the typewriter. Argentina wrote the serial number in my passport and checked to see that I was bringing the typewriter out.

"WE WILL take a tour of the Orient and would like to know what we can bring back . . ."

Each person is allowed $100 worth duty free. That's retail value — what you actually paid for it. Anything given to you has to be declared. Same for clothing even though you've worn it.

* * * *

DON'T GO along with shops that offer to give you a receipt showing less than you paid. We all buy the same things. Customs men see them every day. Know what they cost, and such gimmicks just irritate them.

* * * *

WATCH OUT for anything that could have been made in Red China. It won't enter. Make the shop give you a Certificate of Origin from the U.S. Consul showing it was made in Hong Kong. Watch out for the carved furniture sold in Japan. Some of it comes from China.

"WE WOULD like to drive through the West on the most scenic route with some historical points to show the children."

Any Standard Oil station will give you a planning form to fill out. You send it in, and they send you a marked map and folders with background all along the route. It's free.

I did this recently. While I didn't agree with the entire routing, it's a matter of opinion. It certainly looked like a good basic starter.

Humble has a route planning department. You have to have their credit card, and become a member of their travel club. There's a small monthly membership fee, but quite a few benefits go with it.

"WHAT ROUTE would you advise in Mexico to Mexico City? We go in December."

I like the West Coast route, Highway 15. It will be fairly cool then. Return through Laredo, the short route. It could be cold in the high country. I've run into snow on the pass between Toluca and Mexico City. If it gets too cold, turn off at Toluca on the road down to Ixtapan de la Sal and then to warmer Cuernavaca.

"WE WOULD like to spend the winter months in Madeira which you recommend as inexpensive. Could you tell us the hotel?"

Reid's is the No. 1 hotel—Churchill used to come there to paint. Sadly, the price line sems to have broken. Three years ago, I paid $5 a day with three meals and the afternoon British tea. A recent price list shows it's now a minimum $10. And they now charge for tea.

They list a Pensao Quinta da Ribeira as de luxe at about $5.50—with all meals. And several first class hotels—Savoy, Santa Isabel—are listed at $7 or so with meals. Still a pretty well-priced island. Warm weather. Good food and wine.

Yes, I do answer mail directly. A self-addressed business size envelope helps. I often want to send bulky enclosures, and they don't stuff in those small envelopes.

2 ships sail to EXPO 67

Two modern American luxury liners, the Moore-McCormack passenger ships Argentina and Brazil, will become "cruising hotels" to the Canadian world's fair—EXPO 67—next summer in Montreal.

Both ships will make an 11-day cruise from New York to Canada, the Argentina sailing Aug. 12, 1967, and the Brazil Sept. 1, 1967.

Each liner offers all first-class staterooms. On board are two heated salt-water swimming pools, professional nightclub entertainment and dancing.

Pardon the error

South Pacific missionaries in the 1800s were first to establish a written language for Fiji. But, since they erred by picking an obscure, out-island dialect as being typical, the spellings they used conflict with general pronunciation of some words. Site of Fiji's jet airport, spelled N-a-d-i, is correctly pronounced "Na(n)di." "Ya(m)boli," Fiji, and "Pa(n)go Pa(n)go," Samoa are other examples.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Meeting 'other' woman bad idea

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My 52-year-old husband had been seeing another woman. We've been married 16 years, have a 12-year-old daughter, and things seem to have gone to pot.

Joel told this girl all kinds of lies to get her to go out with him, and now he doesn't want her. I offered him a divorce, but he doesn't want one. I said we'd "forgive and forget," but he says he feels "unclean" and wants to get away by himself. That means quitting his job, and that just isn't the thing for a man his age to do.

This woman keeps writing him and calling him. I suggested the three of us get together and settle this thing, but Joel refuses.

I still love him, but he's made such a mess of things I don't know what to do; and he is making things worse instead of better. What would you suggest?

HURT

DEAR HURT:

Maybe getting away for a while would clear the cobwebs out of his head. But let's hope he doesn't quit his job to do it!

He's really mixed up, and about the only thing you can do is let him work this out for himself. Obviously the only way he can do that is to get away. In fact, I think I would insist he do just that and get back on the beam. You've done all—and more—that is expected of you.

M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Don't boys like good girls any more? I was going with a fellow of 21 (I'm 18), and after about seven months he expected more than I was about to give. He dropped me flat and is now going with another girl who is most generous with her favors (as common gossip has it).

I started going out with another boy, and after four months he decided I was "simple" because I wouldn't share his bed, and he quit coming around.

So, you see, I'm not having much luck with boys. But my shoulder is damp with the tears of some of the girls who weren't so "simple." Girls who thought they would keep their boy friends if they did what "everybody was doing."

I just don't know which way to go, to keep losing boy friends or to join the rest of the unhappy girls. I feel so left out and

DIFFERENT

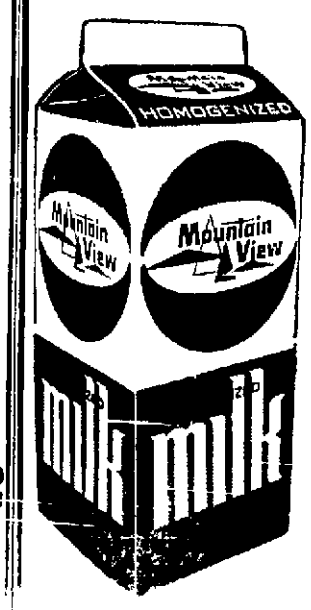

DEAR DIFFERENT:

Just keep right on losing boy friends of the type you speak of. In fact the more of them you say "get lost" to, the better. You'll be awful glad, Miss Different, when the right fellow comes along. And I mean, glad, glad, glad!

Congratulations on being "different."

Spectacular Smoki Ceremonials Aug. 6

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

If you happen to visit Prescott, the old Territorial capital of Arizona, during the week or two you may hear rhythmic chants and the throb of toms-toms rising softly out of the evening stillness.

But don't be alarmed. These bizarre sounds, now in the rehearsal stage, reach an ear-splitting crescendo Aug. 6 when The Smoki People stage their annual Ceremonials before thousands of spectators.

The Smoki People is a "tribe" of several hundred Prescott whites who, in 1921, decided to "do something" to help preserve rapidly vanishing Indian dances.

As a result of detailed and continuing studies of rites of many Western and even Mexican tribes, they present authentic recreations of numerous ancient rituals.

* * * *

CEREMONIES begin at twilight on Smoki Mesa, on the outskirts of Prescott. Costumes, properties, dance steps, makeup, pantomime—all are brought to perfection. Every bead and feather, every painted symbol, every gesture has significance, thanks to study of old reports made by the United States Bureau of Ethnology to the Smithonian Institution.

The result is awe-inspiring. Five thousand spectators who crowd the stands feel they have been taken back 300 years in history.

Before them is an impressive Indian pueblo. Lean-tos are set among the evergreens. There is a tantalizing fragrance as squaws dominate the scene, preparing food for hungry braves and papooses. The pulsating rhythm of tom-toms breaks the silence.

Then, in the twilight, the venerable sand painters emerge to place upon the ground their mystic symbols which tell the story of the rituals to follow.

* * * *

THE DANCES differ each year but always include the Smoki Snake Dance, one of the most spectacular ever conceived by the Redskin. Patterned after the famous Hopi Snake Dance in which live rattlesnakes writhe over gleaming bodies, this is actually a prayer for abundant rain and successful crops. Instead of rattlers, the Smokis use bullsnakes, but the effect is electrifying.

This year's Ceremonials also will include the Omaha Sacred Pole Dance, Cheyenne Sun Dance, Smoki Fertility Drum Dance, and the Zuni Hlahekwe or Dance of the Blue and White Corn Maidens.

About 175 Smoki People, some of them nationally known, participate in the rituals but none is allowed to use his name for publicity purposes.

Southern Californians who intend to witness the Ceremonials should make their reservations for tickets and motel-hotel accommodations well in advance. For tickets, address the Smoki People, Box 123, Prescott; for a place to stay, see your travel agent.

* * * *

WHILE in Prescott, enjoy some of the sights of the area, particularly beautiful Oak Creek Canyon by continuing north on Alternate Hwy. 89. Farther north on the same highway, 84 miles from Prescott, is Flagstaff which, at 7,000 feet altitude, is a summer playground for many Arizonans. The area has many fine hotels, motels, guest lodges and trailer parks and a call at the Chamber of Commerce will provide a long list of worthwhile sights.

If you have the time, you could drive Hwy. 60 to Phoenix, and then up Hwy. 69 to Prescott, Alternate Hwy. 89 to Prescott, and home via Hwy. 66 to Kingman, and then on Hwy. 93 to Las Vegas.

There is always much to see at Phoenix and the Valley of the Sun. Legend City, a miniature Disneyland-like park again is open and fascinating tourists weekday evenings and afternoons and evenings on weekends with its Old West type buildings, western entertainment, and rides from antique cars to gondolas in the sky.

Another popular spot is Phoenix Zoo, open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A feature is trained animal shows held at 10:30 a.m. each Tuesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday at no extra charge.

* * * *

'HANDS ACROSS THE SEA'

A course in English offered Americans

A London restaurant, The Diplomat is compiling a book on "English for Americans" to help U.S. visitors communicate with the natives.

It will work the same way as, say, a French-English dictionary—translating British into American so that American-speaking tourists can crash the language barrier.

Its usefulness is not particularly designed just for dining at The Diplomat. In fact, the menu there, one of London's elegant new restaurants, speaks a universal gourmet language—and it's mostly French anyhow.

* * * *

RATHER, the British-American dictionary is a "hands across the sea" public service on the part of the restaurant's operators, because they've seen too many American tourists stopped in their tracks by words that ought to mean the same thing in both countries—but don't. The restaurant, right around the corner from the American Embassy, is popular with Americans.

Here are some of the words being translated:

"Scheme." Don't raise an eyebrow if a businessman or public official freely admits he's working on one. To an Englishman scheme is simply a plan of action, free of all American connotations of shady or sinister.

"Engaged." If an Englishman tells you he's engaged, he's not saying, "Hands off, girls. I'm getting ready to get married." He's just telling you he has an appointment.

"Biscuits." Don't build breakfast around them. You'll get cookies.

"Chemist." Not necessarily a scientist in a laboratory. It could be the neighborhood drug store.

"Purse." Not your handbag, but the wallet that goes into it—or into your pocket.

"Chips." As in "fish and . . ."') Most Americans expect potato chips—but they get French fries.

"Braces." English teenagers don't wear them on their teeth—and with good reason. In British English, braces are suspenders.

"Tube." Don't expect it to be full of toothpaste. It's the subway.

"Lift." Getting one has its ups and downs. It's an elevator.

"Public schools." Private schools.

"Bonnet." It could be fancy feminine headgear—or the hood of your car.

"Boot." There may be no footwork involved—it could be the trunk of your car.

Besides all these words with different meanings, there are also situations where the meanings are the same—but the words are different, the restaurant warns American visitors. For instance, if you order a tankful of gas, you'll be referred to a dentist's office. The British word is not gasoline or gas, but "petrol."

And "Lorry" is not somebody's aunt; it's a truck.

No hurricanes here

Due to its location and certain meteorlogical conditions, Dutch Aruba is one Caribbean island that has never been touched by a hurricane.

Brochure lists events in Alps

European-bound tourists can get more enjoyment from their trip with the help of a 12-page brochure listing all major events for 1966 in the seven Alpine countries.

The pamphlet gives the dates of sports, folkloric and entertainment activities as well as studies, congresses, trade fairs and exhibitions in Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Monaco, Switzerland and Yugoslavia.

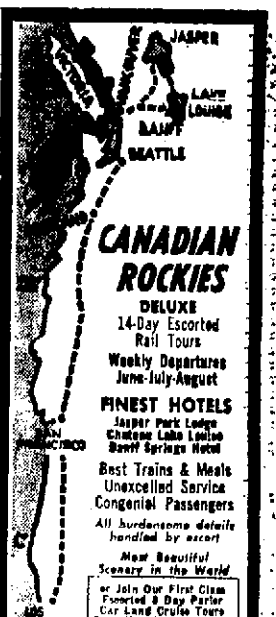

Copies are available free by writing the Alpine Tourist Commission, P.O. Box 91, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Garden cruise

Gardening expert Gordon Baker Lloyd and his wife "Sassy," who conducted outdoor garden shows on television in the Los Angeles area for 12 years, will lead a 24-day "Garden Workshop" tour to Hawaii's four major islands aboard the Matson liner Lurline. The cruise starts Sept. 24 from San Francisco.

Q. Is it true that in Vietnam for every Viet Cong killed or wounded, six civilians are killed and wounded?—R.B.L., Denver, Colo.

A. At this writing civilian casualties are reportedly running at a four to one basis, four civilians for every Viet Cong.

Q. Who are the number-one screen stars in France, male and female?—Carla Brubeck, Tucson, Ariz.

A. Brigitte Bardot and Jean Paul Belmondo.

Q. Huntington Hartford, heir to the A & P grocery fortune, recently sold 760,000 shares of A & P stock for around $22 million. How many shares does Hartford have left and is he a secret backer of the Playboy Clubs?—F.H., Chicago, Ill.

A. Hartford retains approximately 118,000 shares of A & P stock. He has never been a backer of Playboy Clubs.

Q. If Frank Sinatra was once a prizefighter, why does he have to have bodyguards?—S.T., Los Angeles, Calif.

A. To protect him.

Q. I would like for someone to explain why neither South Vietnam nor the United States has ever declared war on North Vietnam?—Marshall Eggers, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. Formal declarations of war involve complications, duties and obligations which none of the combatants are willing to risk. If President Johnson, for example, asked the present Congress for a declaration of war on North Vietnam, a lengthy and bitter debate would ensue. If Congress eventually declared war, we would have to honor our Geneva agreement on the treatment of prisoners of war. Now, whatever prisoners we take in Vietnam are turned over to the South Vietnamese. There would be many other complications.

Q. When did J. Edgar Hoover first go to work for the FBI?—B. Noel, El Centro, Calif.

A. On May 10, 1924, during the administration of Calvin Coolidge.

Q. If the U.S. puts a man on the moon before the Russians do, will the whole moon belong to the U.S.?—Dennis Doan, Loyall, Ky.

A. No, it will not. Attempts are currently being made to internationalize the moon.

Q. Humphrey Bogart was married four times. Please list his wives. Did he have any children?—J.A.K., Chicago, Ill.

A. Bogart's wives: Helen Mencken, Mary Phillips, Mayo Methot and Lauren Bacall. Miss Bacall, now married to actor Jason Robards, is the mother of two children by Bogart—Stephen, 17, and Leslie, 13.

Q. I understand Pope Paul VI will soon announce a change of attitude by the Roman Catholic Church on birth control. Is this so?—Salvatore Girone, Hoboken, N.J.

A. Such rumors have been widespread in Rome for months. Recently Cardinal Heenan, Archbishop of Westminster in London, wrote in a pastoral letter to 300 churches in his diocese: "The modern outlook is very different from that of 100 years ago. Physical science has revealed new facts about nature. Medicine and psychology have made discoveries about human life itself. Although truth remains the same, our knowledge of it is always increasing."

NICOLE ALPHAND AND JACQUELINE KENNEDY

Q. When Nicole Alphand was stationed in Washington with her husband, then French ambassador, she was considered one of the world's best-dressed women. Whom does Nicole Alphand consider the world's best-dressed woman?—D.L., Washington, D.C.

A. She has frequently mentioned Mrs. William Paley, wife of the CBS network chief, along with Jackie Kennedy and several others. She has also mentioned several French women: Jacqueline de Ribes, and the wives of French cabinet officers Malraux, Pompidou and Couve de Murville.

Q. Who is the press agent Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier hired to give Monte Carlo a new image?—George Fenway, Miami, Fla.

A. Georges Cravenne who is charged with making Monaco more attractive to the younger set.

Q. Who is the present poet laureate of England?—F. Davidson, New York, N.Y.

A. John Masefield, 88, poet laureate since 1930.

Q. I hear tell the two richest comedians in the world are Danny Thomas and Bob Hope. Is this true? If not, who is the richest?—Freda Sabinson, Far Hills, N.J.

A. Hope and Thomas are both millionaires. But probably the richest comedian is Charles Chaplin, largest individual holder of A.T.&T. stock and other holdings.

Q. It has been my belief that only native-born citizens of the U.S. may run for the office of President. If this is so, how can Governor Romney of Michigan even be mentioned as a candidate when he was born in Mexico and did not enter this country until he was six years old?—Adele J. Ringer, Bayville, N.J.

A. The Constitution specifies that no person except a natural-born citizen is eligible for the office of President. It does not say, "native-born." It says, "natural-born." And while no legal test has ever been made of the wording, it is held that a man must be born an American to hold the office. Romney was born in Mexico when his parents, both American citizens, were there on a mission for the Mormon Church. He is therefore an American citizen by jus sanguin, the right of blood. Chester A. Arthur, also a U.S. President, was probably born in Canada, but he, too, claimed citizenship because both of his parents were U.S. citizens.

Q. I would like to know how old the eternally juvenile Doris Day is? Does she take youth hormone shots? When did she break into films? Her first one?—Katherine Knowles, Virginia, Minn.

A. Miss Day is 42; she takes no youth shots; Romance on the High Seas was released in 1948.

shop around

With airlines, like with everything else, it often pays to shop around and compare. Chances are you've already tried more than one airline. That's good. Now, when you try Continental, you'll be able to tell the difference. You won't see much difference—all airlines use the same kinds of planes and provide the same kind of services—but you will feel it! What you feel is pride—the pride of Continental's people in their jobs, in themselves, in their airline. You feel it all around you... all the time... and you feel good. Comfortable. Confident. The reason for this extra measure of pride is that Continental, as major airlines go, is not a great big, impersonal one. So Continental's people are not lost in a great big shuffle—and neither are you. They can and do maintain their individuality, their interest and involvement in how their airline is run... and that's what you feel. Go ahead, shop around. Try another airline—any airline (they're all good) then try Continental and feel the difference pride makes. Your travel agent or Continental will arrange it... please call.

CONTINENTAL The Proud Bird with the Golden Tail

Spain:

The students and the soldiers: Frugging youngsters and parading military are deeply and basically in conflict. Students insist on and demonstrate for "a democratic Spain"; soldiers symbolize the repressive power of Franco's Spain—a police state, an obsolete generation.

a nation in ferment

by TREVOR ARMBRISTER

cover and photos by LARRY FRIED

Inside a Capuchin monastery near Barcelona were gathered 500 Spanish university students and intellectuals. Outside hovered scores of gray-uniformed police. Politely, the police told the students that their meeting was illegal and ordered them to leave. When they refused, the police cut the monastery's telephone lines and power supply. Finally, after a two-day siege, they stormed into the building and dragged 49 students off to jail.

At the University of Madrid, rebellious students paraded with posters urging a "democratic Spain." As they approached the chancellor's office, 50 mounted policemen charged into their midst. In the melee that followed, dozens of students were injured. Among them were seven Americans, including the granddaughter of former Secretary of State Christian Herter.

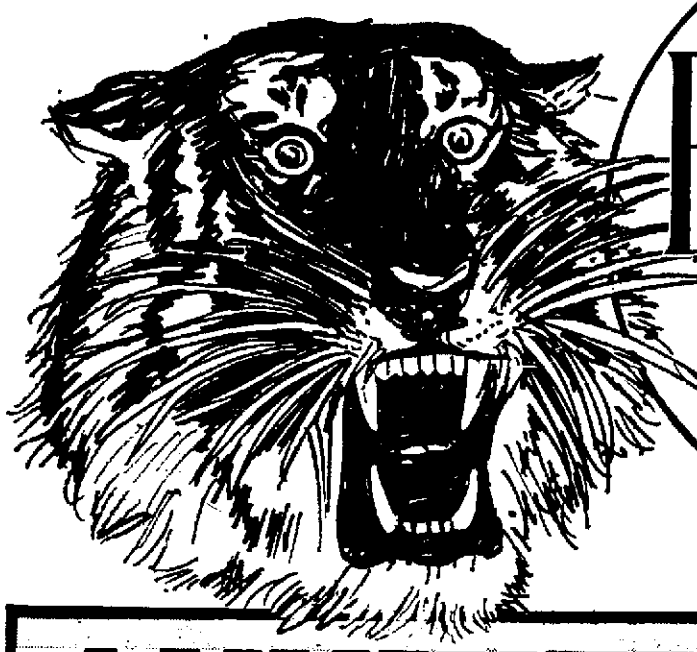

Down Barcelona's tree-lined Via Layetana trooped 130 priests. Angered by reports that police had tortured an imprisoned university student, they were planning to deliver a protest petition to the chief police inspector. As they clustered outside his office, 60 truncheon-wielding riot cops swung into action. The bloody clash lasted for more than half an hour. "They treated us like animals," one priest recalls. "They kept hitting us even when we were down."

With almost daily regularity, disturbances erupted in Spain's major cities this spring. At first their cause seemed simple enough: the government's resistance to student demands that they be allowed "free" unions instead of having to join the state-controlled University Students Syndicate. But it soon became clear that these cries for academic freedom were merely symptomatic of a more serious and far-reaching unrest—an unrest that carries both the seeds of hope and the potential of chaos.

"Spaghetti, I love you—but

CHINESE FOR A CHANGE—BELLISIMO!"
Chun King is not out to change your lifetime eating habits. But as Antonio Guardello discovered, a Chinese dinner does add spice to one's life. It's fun food. And since we do all the difficult things, it's easy. Tonight take Wong's egg rolls—crisp and flaky, filled with bits of shrimp, pork and Oriental vegetables. Add the main dish: chow mein enriched by chicken chunks, in a sparkly sauce with crunchy water chestnuts, bean sprouts, bamboo shoots, peppers, onion and celery. Ladle this onto crackling-crisp Chun King noodles and you have a delightful Chinese dinner that's "bellisimo"—in any language! Tomorrow, you'll go back to your regular fare with renewed taste buds.

Industrialist Eduardo Barreiros: "In about eight years we will catch up with other European countries like France, Italy, Germany. Spain is part of Europe and in the proper moment it will join the Common Market."

Student Susanna Pintado, 18: "In the old days our fathers would punish us if we came home after 10 o'clock in the evening. Now we can even hold hands in the street. Our fathers don't care; they're watching television."

Socialist leaders Jose Suarez Carreño (l.) and Antonio Garcia Lopez: Says Lopez, "After 30 years we are where we started and this is the reason for our anger. Real dictatorship won't continue; Francoism is impossible without Franco. The Walls of Jericho are crumbling. The Church wants to separate itself from dictatorship before it crumbles."

Manuel Fraga Iribarne, Minister of Information and Tourism: "This is a very peaceful country. At the same time we have trouble with students, there are bigger riots in Mexico, Rome, even in California. I think this country needs a strong government which I don't think republicanism can give."

SPAIN continued

The Spanish future: king or chaos?

For Spain today is a nation in ferment —embroiled in what one observer calls a "clash of generations." The outcome is vitally important to Americans. U.S. firms have huge financial stakes in the country. More important, U.S. military planners are counting on Spain as a strategic backbone in the defense of Europe.

This week Spain marks the 30th anniversary of the start of a terrible civil war—a war that began as an Army revolt and ended nearly three years later with the triumphant entrance into Madrid of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The scars of that conflict are visible still: bullet pockmarks on the government buildings; elderly amputees hobbling on crutches down dusty roads. But to the youth of Spain, the war seems curiously unreal—"something we read about in books"—and they are impatient. No longer willing to labor under the burden of a past they never knew, they have become increasingly aware that—as far as democracy is concerned —their nation is a political anachronism. They realize that although Spain is in Europe, she is not yet of Europe.

Over a café solo in a Madrid restaurant, an attractive psychology student sums up their mood. "We don't hate Franco," she explains. "We hate the system. Everyone thinks Franco has done good things for Spain, but now, after 30 years—well, it is enough."

In recent months, she and her fellow students have been clamoring for freedoms the government is not yet willing to grant. They have been joined by growing numbers of trade unionists and—to an extent surprising in Spain—by Catholic priests. The summer doldrums have set in and the disturbances have ground to a halt. But no one expects the discontent to remain quiescent for long. Says one American diplomat: "The situation here is potentially explosive."

On the surface such a prophecy seems unnecessarily grim, for Spain has become the fastest-growing nation in Europe. Rapid industrialization is changing the face of the country and bringing undreamed-of prosperity to her 32 million people. Unemployment is practically nonexistent and the gross national product reached $20.4 billion last year—up an encouraging 8 percent over 1964. "If this rate continues," says industrialist Eduardo Barreiros, "we will catch up with Italy, France and Germany in about eight years."

Until quite recently, such claims would have sounded preposterous. The country was an industrial wart, separated by geography and temperament from a burgeoning Europe and not at all unhappy about the fact.

The first leak in the dike appeared in 1953: Franco allowed the U.S. to build four military bases in Spain. That agreement slowed, but did not stop, the downhill slide of the Spanish economy. By the spring of 1959 gold reserves had plummeted to $57 million. Inflation was rampant. Almost as a last resort, Franco handed the problem to a distinguished group of Catholic intellectuals known as Opus Dei and told them to find a way out. It was probably the luckiest move he ever made.

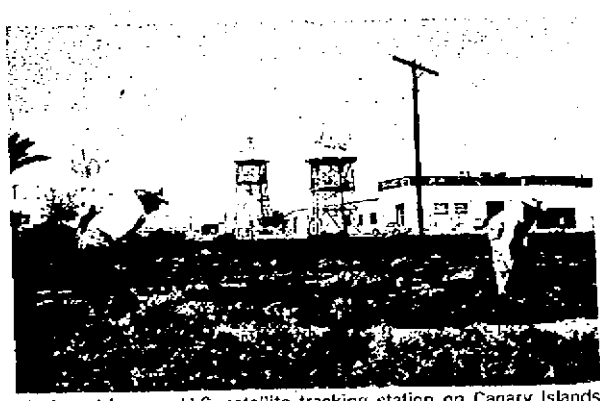

Phenomenal Recovery

In July 1959 Commerce Minister Alberto Ullastres Calvo pushed through a far-reaching stabilization plan that devalued the peseta, slashed the budget and liberalized trade policies. The regime increased taxes and soon received a much-needed $400 million loan. So phenomenal was the nation's recovery that in 1963 Franco's ministers approved an even more ambitious scheme that in effect subsidizes companies willing to locate near seven "development poles" scattered around the country. "The government's plans have helped," says economist José Luis Sampedro, "but the biggest factor behind our boom is the people themselves. At last they are moving."

They are indeed. In his sprawling factory outside Madrid, industrialist Barreiros oversees the daily production of 225 Simcas and 75 Dodge Darts. By 1970 he plans to turn out 200,000 automobiles a year. In Bilbao, shipyard workers increased production 36 percent last year, established Spain as the world's sixth-largest builder of merchant vessels. Outside Seville, grazing cows are fast being displaced by clusters of apartment buildings and factories.

Not all the factories are Spanish. Lured by the government's offer of a five-year tax break and a cheap labor supply, foreign firms are rushing into the country.

With the businessmen have come the tourists. In 1951 only a million visited Spain. Last year, nearly 15 million, almost one million of them Americans, funneled $1.1 billion into the Spanish economy.

Bleak and barren: U.S. satellite tracking station on Canary Islands will be replaced for moon shot, Comsat communications satellite.

Beauty and the beach: Spanish coast, like this stretch on famed Costa Brava, is spectacularly lovely. So, very often, are the sunbathers.

Julian Rodriguez, student in Seville: "The regime is doing all it can to advance the cause of civil liberties for students. Spanish character is not made for democracy. Franco has changed the face of Spain for the better."

Father Josep Dalmau: "Since the regime holds down the youth there is an authentic danger that students might become Communists. The U.S. is partly responsible because it maintains normal, friendly relations with the regime. On Voice of America you never give news of facts that would bother the regime."

Few countries anywhere have beaches to compare with Spain's. Fewer still can boast of such reasonable prices. (At the Hotel España in Calella on the Costa Brava, one day's room and board costs $2.57.) But Spain's main appeal for visitors rests in something quite apart from beaches and prices, for no other country can offer such sheer spectacle. Yet the most typical sight is not the bullfighter; it is the bulldozer.

Exodus to the City

As industrialization quickens, hundreds of thousands of workers are migrating to the cities. Two years ago, for example, stocky, broad-shouldered Irineo Perrino was a tenant farmer in the northern village of Langa. In a good year he could earn $400. He had no telephone or electrical appliances. His work was hard, and it etched deep lines on his face. In 1964 he joined the exodus to Madrid and found a job at the Barreiros automobile plant. His income has tripled. He has purchased an apartment and is about to buy a TV set.

Washing machines and TV sets are within the reach of the average Spaniard today because of the installment plan. But in order to afford such items, he has to work at a brisker pace. The old institution of the siesta is disappearing—not because Spaniards don't relish afternoon naps but only because they're finding it increasingly frustrating to drive home and back through horrendous traffic. And in a change that is perhaps equally significant, Spanish cafés are rapidly becoming cafeterias.

In 1950 only 11 percent of Spain's women were employed outside their homes. But urbanization is altering the paternalism of society. Today, nearly one-third hold jobs. The emancipation also extends to behavior. Once the most prudish women in Europe, Spanish girls now flock to ye-ye clubs like Nicca's in Madrid where they dance the frug and watusi. "In the old days," says pretty, 18-year-old Susanna Pintado, "our fathers would punish us if we came home after 10 o'clock. Now we can even hold hands on the street. Our fathers don't care. They're watching television."

But while the economic revolution has brought affluence to Spain and greatly changed her social mores, it has not affected her political structure. There is only one official party. Although opposition groups do exist, they can't solicit funds or participate in elections. Workers aren't allowed to form "free" trade unions; students can't organize "free" syndicates. Unless it is officially sanctioned, any meeting of more than 20 persons is illegal.

With ever-increasing frequency, the youth of Spain are bridling against such restrictions. "Yes, it is true," says a university student in Madrid. "We do have cars and TV sets. Lots of people say, 'You go to the movies on Sundays. What else do you want?' Well, we want not to be cheated anymore." He pauses to sip at his gin and tonic, then adds, "It's very easy to say, 'Let it be; Spain is like that.' But if you are important socially and economically, you have to be important politically—sooner or later."

In recent years the Franco regime has had a policy of creeping liberalism. It has raised the minimum wage, substituted civil process for military tribunals and permitted industrial workers to strike under certain conditions. A few months ago, it announced a new press law that abolishes direct censorship. Yet as writer Alastair Reid points out, "Spain's liberalization is illusory rather than real, promise rather than performance."

This fact does not escape the consciousness of the nation's youth.

The university disturbances this spring emanated from student demands for academic freedom. If the regime had granted a few concessions—as it did last year—the students might have returned to their books. Instead it cracked down hard. On April 26 police broke up an "illegal" meeting at the University of Barcelona—sending 1000 protesting students swarming angrily into downtown streets. Next morning the government closed the university pending "the fixing of responsibilities." When 68 professors asked the education minister to recognize the "free" student unions, the regime placed the professors "under investigation." They may face trial.

In succeeding weeks students in Madrid, Pamplona and other cities demonstrated in support of their Barcelona colleagues. They, too, were dispersed by police. But suddenly it became clear that the rebellious students were receiving support from a new and far more important quarter—the liberal wing of the Catholic Church.

In few countries does the Church exude more presence than it does in Spain. In few countries does it exert such little influence on youth. When the Civil War began, all but a handful of bishops signed a manifesto dismissing the Republicans as "atheists" and proclaiming allegiance to Franco's "crusade." This Church-state relationship has persisted ever since. Under an agreement with the Vatican, Franco—"answering only to God for my deeds"—personally selects the men who form the Church hierarchy.

The Ye-Ye Priests

But lately, a new generation of priests has risen up in challenge. Dubbed ye-ye priests by their parishioners, these men are taking their cue from the liberal teachings of Pope John XXIII and Pope Paul VI and are evidencing new concern about social welfare.

And it was this concern that prompted the May 11 demonstration in Barcelona. When the cops broke up the priests' march ("Priests have privileges in Spain," explains Manuel Fraga Iribarne, Minister of Information and Tourism, "but not on the street."), they turned for support to their archbishop, 77-year-old Gregorio Modrego Casaús. He gave them the back of his hand instead—and thereby deepened the already serious rift between the ye-ye priests and their superiors.

Throughout Spain newspapers reported the clash between the priests and the police. But they avoided mentioning police brutality. When 29 intellectuals criticized the lack of fair reporting in a letter to Minister Fraga, they were notified that they might have to stand trial on charges of "subversion." Early last month the Catholic youth magazine Signo was banned from newsstands after it published an article entitled "Progressiveness and the Church." A similar fate befell the magazine Hoja Dominical.

Another question is that of the succession. Generalissimo Franco is now in his 74th year.

Most observers are placing their bets on a restoration of the monarchy. Franco himself is known to believe that Spaniards aren't ready for democracy.

If the monarchy is restored, the two most likely candidates for the throne are 57-year-old Don Juan de Borbón—now living in exile in Portugal—and his son, 28-year-old Prince Juan Carlos. Neither inspires mass adulation, and there is bound to be opposition.

What About the U.S.?

The possibility of further unrest poses a grave dilemma for the U.S. Although American officials sympathize with student demands for civil liberties, they dare not risk alienating the Franco regime. The treaty under which the U.S. maintains its military bases (three Air Force installations near Madrid, Seville and Zaragoza; a Navy base at Rota) comes up for renegotiation in 1968. (The U.S. also maintains a satellite tracking station in the Spanish-owned Canary Islands which will be replaced by new installations for the moon shot and the Comsat communications satellite.) Now—with France easing out of NATO—those bases are more important than ever. Although Spain does not belong to NATO, the feeling is growing that she soon may be invited to join. Like everything else, it seems to depend on the country's future political stability.

And that stability, in turn, depends on three major factors. The first is the economy. Since 1964 the cost of living has increased 23 percent. Wages haven't risen quite that much, and a mild inflation has set in. To help combat it, Spain needs to join the Common Market. So far, she has been rebuffed twice. Her economic ministers are hoping to win acceptance the third time around.

A second factor has to do with the regime's policy of cautious liberalization. As the student riots indicate, it isn't progressing fast enough. Unless it is accelerated, disturbances will increase.

The final factor in the equation is time. As one American diplomat puts it, "The longer Franco lives and the more these people realize some tangible benefits from their economic development, the more apt they'll be to look for compromise before engaging in civil strife."

Today the outlook is murky. The great imponderable in the drama is the role to be played by the nation's youth. Just before leaving Madrid, I spent the better part of an evening with a university student named Santiago García. For several moments we talked about the ye-ye girls and the ye-ye clubs and the ye-ye priests, and I asked him then if I would be right in calling him and his friends the ye-ye generation. "No, I do not think so," he replied. "I think you should call our generation 'Hope for Spain.'"

TV idol Batman is "for real" to millions of batfans and is today's high-camp superhero.

"DEAR BATMAN — ARE YOU FOR REAL?"

Pow! Zlonk! Zowie! Batman, the caped crusader, and Robin, the Boy Wonder, have not only taken over the nation's TV screens, but also the nation's mailboxes. Every day, according to the ABC-TV mailroom, the dynamic duo gets over a hundred letters, and in March over 15,000 pieces of batfan mail arrived at the network alone. The admirers, child and adult alike, attribute human qualities to their superhero, Batman, who in real life is handsome Batactor Adam West. They ask about his health, his diet, suggest Batcave furniture, question his ethics, are concerned about his future. Some even ask him to come to their town to fight crime or plead for a ride in the Batmobile. The best of these letters have now been collected by Bill Adler into a book, Funniest Letters to Batman, soon to be published by The New American Library. Following are a sample:

Dear Batman,
I have seen your show on television six times and what I would like to know is it a comedy or a drama?
Yours truly,
Jack F.
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Batman,
Last night I dreamed that Batman was on television five nights a week.
I told my mother about my dream and she said that it wasn't a dream—it was a nightmare.
Your fan,
Robert H.
Baldwin, N.Y.

Dear Batman,
Me and my boyfriends are starting a Bat club. So we decided that you should help us out. I am Batman in my club. I have a code name. It is "AA." The "AA" stands for the two A's in Batman.
My boyfriends code name is "li" because he is Robin. I am the President in the club. We only have about 5 people in the club. They are: Batman, Robin, Bathelper, and two Bat secret agents. We have four different codes. They are 9—5÷3+2x1, 98754, (3.4.9.2.) and ..-.-.
We haven't figured out what our secret code means yet.
Your friend,
Jeff W.
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Batman,
I like you and Robin. I think the Joker is a nut. Fale Face is even nuttier and the Riddler is the nuttiest of all.
That's what I like about your show. It has terrific nuts.
Your friend,
Alvin E.
Clarkrange, Tenn.

Dear Batman,
I watch your TV show every week. So does my daddy watch your TV show every week but he doesn't want anybody to know it.
Your fan,
Larry W.
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Batman,
How are you? I am fine. How is Robin? I hope he is fine. Write me a nice letter and tell me how you both are. I am 8 and I worry a lot.
Alvin H.
Topeka, Kans.

Dear Batman,
We have started a Batman fan club and so far we have five members and four masks.
Your fans,
Mike, Herbie, Jeff, Bobby, Dean
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Batman,
I am Peter. I am 6. Please send me a Batman suit to wear to church.
Love,
Peter
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Batman,
Could I please have the number of your Bat phone? I promise I won't call you—only if it's very important. I'm enclosing my number. You can call me anytime. Even if it's not important.
Love,
Lois D.
Cleveland, Ohio

Dear Batman,
I need the Bat code. I wrote you a letter in Bat code, but I can't figure out what I wrote.
Love,
Dick W.
Goshen, Ind.

Hey Batman,
Why do you need Robin? Take me instead! You'll like me. Enclosed is my picture. If you want, I can be there a week from Tuesday. If not, please send back the picture. I want to send it to Superman.
Love,
Mike G.
Dubuque, Iowa

Dear Batman,
I only have one question.
Are you for real?
Sincerely,
Paul D.

ANOTHER NEW PRODUCT FROM KIMBERLY-CLARK

Clang, clang, clang of the trolley is almost gone in America, but trolley cultists are trying to preserve the anachronism in museum at Perris, Calif. This double-decker is from Ireland.

Member-motorman waits for another member to throw switch. Some of museum's collectors own their trolley cars.

TROLLEYS ARE FOR KEEPING

PERRIS, CALIF.

● Some people, like Huntington Hartford, collect art. Some people, like Elizabeth Taylor, collect husbands. And there are those, like J. Paul Getty, who collect money. So what's wrong with collecting trolley cars? Nothing, to the 400 members of Perris' Orange Empire Trolley Museum, a tax-exempt, nonprofit shrine dedicated to the proposition that nostalgia, relics and trolley cars are artifacts of our history worth preserving. Anyone who feels a kinship for a trolley car can be a member ($10 a year for regular members, $2 for associate members). On weekends executives, bookkeepers, college students, former motormen come to polish and repair the relics and to run them for visitors, who are asked to donate 25¢ toward operating expenses. Only a half-dozen cities still operate trolley systems. "We saw the end coming," says James W. Walker Jr., 30, an insurance agent and a trolley cultist. "We decided that we ought to get together and try to preserve these examples of trolley cars for future generations." There are cars that were found in scrap yards. There are cars that were roadside diners and even chicken coops. There are double-deckers. The next time you see Perris, stop at the museum and catch a part of Americana.

Visitors to the trolley car museum take a ride in an old New Orleans car, operated by a member of the nonprofit organization. The club collects members and trolley cars from all over world.

My Favorite Jokes

by Larry Wilde

EDITOR'S NOTE: Larry Wilde, 31, is a tall, handsome, brown-eyed young comic who can also sing, dance and write. Wilde entertains in nightclubs, appears in stage revues, acts in legitimate theater productions, takes part in TV commercials and variety shows. Not satisfied with that, he is hard at work on two literary projects: a serious treatise on comedians and a humorous novel. Born in Jersey City, N.J., Wilde attended the local schools and had no thought of becoming a comedian until he joined the Marines. There he indulged in comedy as an escape mechanism, working up funny routines to amuse his officers. When he left the Marines, he enrolled in the University of Miami, worked his way through college by telling jokes in small Miami Beach hotels. By graduation time he felt like a show business veteran and started out to crack the bigtime. In the past five years Wilde has appeared with such stars as Andy Williams, Arthur Godfrey, the McGuire Sisters in such leading spots as the Shamrock in Houston, the Steel Pier in Atlantic City, the Town Casino in Buffalo and many others. A pleasant standup comedian whose material is fresh, bright and topical, Wilde recently appeared in Hollywood where he told the following jokes:

Children seem to be so much brighter today. A history teacher asked her class to name the leading member of the Great Society. A 9-year-old whose father was obviously a Republican raised her hand and called out, "Columbus, teacher."

"You mean to say," the teacher asked, "that Columbus who discovered America was the leading member of the Great Society?"

"Yes, ma'am," the little girl insisted. "Because when he started out, he didn't know where he was going. When he finally got here, he didn't know where he was. And most important, he did it all on borrowed money."

Back to the Great Society. They tell us one of the ways we're going to have a great Society is by spending $30 billion to find out if there's any intelligent life on the Moon, on Mars, on Jupiter and so forth. Of course, there's intelligent life on all those planets. You don't see them spending $30 billion to find out about us.

I have a manager who's very careful. He says to me constantly, "Kid, I don't want to book you until the time is right."

"When is that?" I ask.

He says, "When I get an offer."

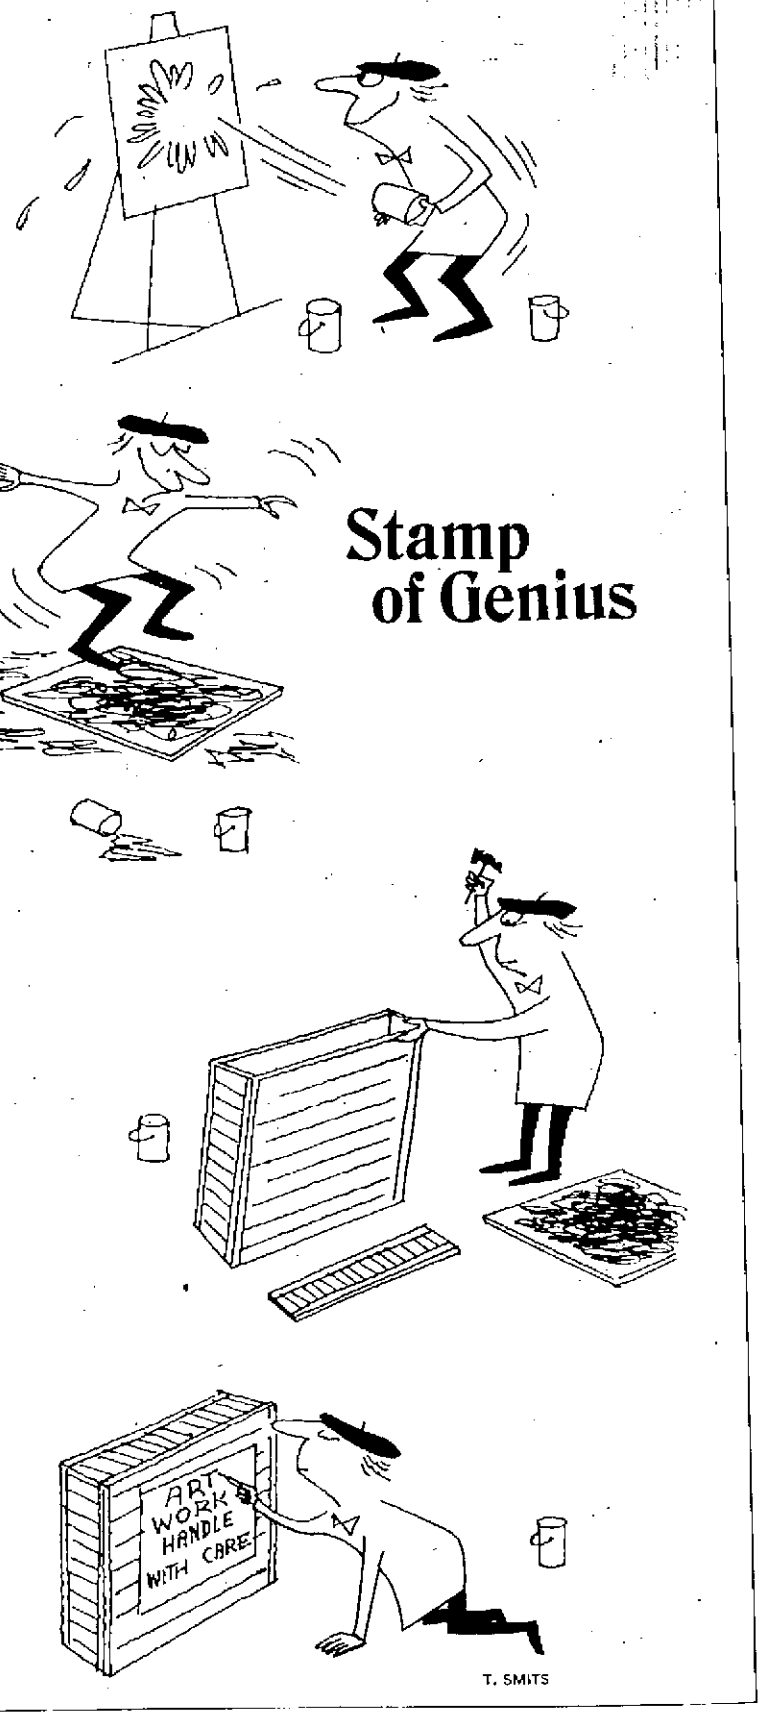

When I was in high school I suffered from a tremendous inferiority complex. I felt so insecure that at football games when the team went into a huddle, I was sure they were talking about me.

I'm not very old, but the other day I called on my doctor and asked him if he had anything for wrinkles. "Yes," he answered. "Much respect."

I have an uncle who's superintendent of a mental hospital in New York. Last week he took me around for a tour. "Here," he said, "is where we keep the generals, the guys who believe themselves to be Napoleon, Wellington, de Gaulle . . . And here we keep the tycoons, guys who think they're Morgan, Rockefeller, Gould . . . And here behind this door," he continued, "we keep all the bus drivers."

I don't know why, but just then I opened the door, supposedly to the bus drivers' wing, and looked inside. "There's nobody here," I announced.

"Naturally," my uncle explained, "As usual, they're on strike."

JAN DROMGOLD
New Executive Secretary

New Chief Aide for L.B. Mayor

Jan Dromgold, executive secretary of the Long Beach Convention and Visitors' Bureau, will succeed Vi Dovey as chief office aide to Mayor Edwin W. Wade and the City Council.

It will be the first change in that position in 30 years, since Mrs. Dovey's appointment in 1936.

"No one steps into Vi's shoes," said Mrs. Dromgold. "Nevertheless I am elated and thrilled. I consider it a great opportunity."

At the convention and Visitors' Bureau she has worked with city officials during the last six years in an activity largely subsidized by the city.

* * * *

HER TITLE with the city will be executive secretary to the mayor and council, a newly-created job classification. The title of administrative assistant was created for Mrs. Dovey, who retired July 15. The new appointment is effective Aug. 1.

A native Californian, Mrs. Dromgold attended schools in Lomita and also Los Angeles City College. She worked as a volunteer for numerous civic organizations before taking a full-time job with the convention bureau. As one result of her volunteer service, she received an honorary life membership in the P-TA.

In recent years her duties have included those of office manager and controller, solicitation of conventions and making sure the delegates are properly welcomed and housed.

SHE IS ALSO a housewife and a mother. Her husband, Ray Dromgold, is an engineer with an oil tool instrument company. Their son, Gary, is serving in the Army.

Mrs. Dromgold's hobbies include boating, ham radio operation and photography. She is also active in the Long Beach Chapter of Executive Secretaries, Inc.

The mayor announced the appointment Saturday. Other councilmen had agreed to the selection at an earlier personnel conference.

5th, 6th Centuries Objects Unearthed

BEERSHEBA, Israel (AP) — Three Byzantine underground chambers of the 5th and 6th centuries were unearthed in excavations here for a new bus station, Mayor Eliahu Navi announced. Presumably burial places, they contain many small objects such as an ivory carved head, a cross-topped column, knives, coins and human bones. On the walls are faint drawings of men at prayer.

BILL CONFUSION

This Has Gone About Far Enough

BADBY, England (UPI) —Nurse Mable Cope paid her electricity bill promptly with a $40.10 check.

A couple of days later, she got a receipt along with her check and a request that she write out another for the correct amount—40.08.

Miss Cope, 60, complied. But back came the check, plus a letter saying the receipt she held proved the bill already had been paid.

Now Miss Cope has received another letter which warns her: "Pay up or we cut the power off."

Cookie on a Stick

by Beth Merriman
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

One cookie on a stick is worth three in the jar, especially to the younger set. These flower cookies are fun to make. All you need is cookie dough, wooden coffee stirrers and scalloped and daisy-shaped cookie cutters. After baking, frost daisies and dot centers with chocolate. If you want more colorful cookies, divide dough and tint in various colors.

Flower Cookies

- 4 to 4½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ cup milk

Mix and sift 4 cups flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs; beat thoroughly. Add vanilla. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Mix thoroughly. Add more flour, if necessary, to form a soft dough. Wrap dough in foil or waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator for several hours or overnight. Roll out half of dough to 1/16-inch thickness. Cut with 3-inch scalloped cookie cutter. Roll second half; cut with 3-inch daisy cookie cutter. Place scalloped cookies on ungreased baking sheet; place wooden coffee stirrers on top to form handles. Brush lightly with milk. Lay a daisy cookie over stick. Press cookies together lightly to seal. Bake at 400° for 8 to 10 minutes. Cool. Frost daisies with basic confectioners sugar icing tinted pink. Make centers with semisweet chocolate pieces. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

MEC-ART

THE LATEST THING IN LADIES' CLOTHES

by LLOYD SHEARER

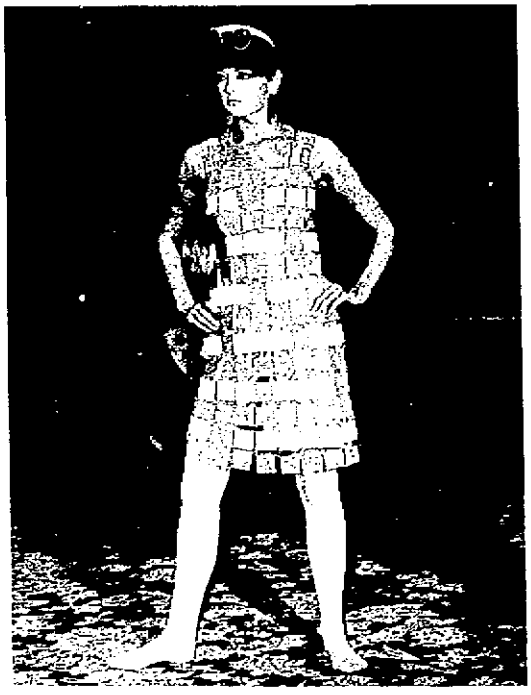

PARIS.

Any dress designer who wants to get ahead in the world of haute couture must have talent or a gimmick or both—but always in combination with publicity.

No man understands this better than Paco Rabanne, 32, a Paris fashion designer whose gimmick consists of wire, sheets of plastic and a pair of pliers. Using these materials in conjunction with his fertile imagination, Rabanne designs dresses, bras, shifts, jewelry, accessories of all kinds.

He is the founder of the design school called here "Mec-Art."

Rabanne's shift dresses, constructed of colored plastic discs, have become such conversation pieces that they are now being snapped up as fast as they're made by actresses Audrey Hepburn, Catherine Deneuve, Brigitte Bardot, Jeanne Moreau and other spotlight names. His bras are the rage of the Riviera this summer, and there is scarcely a showgirl from the Crazy Horse to the Folies Bergère

The lady's a square—in plastic—in this outfit of orange and white. Jackie Kennedy bought the Rabanne glasses.

Designer Paco Rabanne carries mannequin dressed in bathing suit made of white plastic squares, rectangles.

TITO ABANDONS CLOSE FRIENDS

Economic Reforms Loom in Yugoslavia

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Ridder Sr. are touring Europe. The following is another in a series of articles by Mr. Ridder.

By BERNARD H. RIDDER
President, Northwest Publications

VIENNA—It is scarcely a week ago that we were advised in Rome to go to Yugoslavia and observe for ourselves the great changes that are underway, involving some of the leading Communists of that country. We were told that the coming revolution, if you can dignify it by that name, would include many of the top men in the Red hierarchy.

Recently Tito, consummate fakir that he is, apologized for not acting sooner and removed two of his oldest and closest friends, his supposed successor, the vice president and party secretary, Rankovich, and the head of the secret police, Stephanovic.

Things have been going badly economically in Yugoslavia, in fact they have been going from bad to worse. Some time ago Tito found it necessary to form the Socialist Alliance in Belgrade, which now numbers about 8 million, of whom only a million are Communists. The Reds, wherever they are in power, are a small minority group holding power by revolutionary seizure.

The country was aware that those in charge were making a mess of it, as of course they could not do otherwise, since communism itself is to blame for the bad condition of the country. Now the people themselves and the world are stunned to ponder the meaning of the sudden shock and what could happen next.

That Tito abandoned his closest friends and fellow conspirators is proof that he did so to save his own skin. Now that the number two man has been fired and the powerful secret police apparatus has been smashed, anything could result in the near future, and the present surprise is only a beginning.

We can expect bold and sweeping reforms while, most important of all, the Communist Party of Yugoslavia is to divest itself of the excessive power to rule the country alone.

The Congress of Social Alliance will take its place in bringing about the changes necessary to restore the economy of the country. Tito, in his statement, admitted that the confidence of the people of Yugoslavia had been shaken and preferred to be the spokesman of the coming changes.

The resistance to the new order will be hard and bitter. It is only a generation ago that the Reds slew 350,000 small businessmen and farmers to make way for the new Communist world. Tito was the head of that incredible purge, and is now obliged to demote and degrade the very men who were his lieutenants in that disastrous enterprise. It must have been an agonizing decision for him.

It was prophesied in Rome, while we were there, that great reforms would be under way before long and that the profit system would be again restored. We hear there is great joy in the country, in the removal of the two old-time Communists who stood in the way of reform.

Ants Work Faster Than Freight Workers

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI)—An importer claims airport freight workers in this African nation cannot work as fast as a colony of ants. He told officials a shipment of dresses was delayed five days at the airport and in that time ants ate through cardboard boxes and ruined the clothes.

Fear Nurse Quality May Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Nursing Home Association said Saturday that unless most of the states raise their payments for public assistance patients the quality of nursing home care will diminish.

The association opens a two-day convention here July 19 to be devoted chiefly to the part the nation's nursing homes will play under Medicare.

Roy J. McDonald, association president, said in a statement that 53% of the patients in nursing homes receive public assistance. He said an ANHA survey showed that one-half of the 50 states are providing less than $7 a day for maximum care of such patients. Six states provide maximums of $10 a day while three pay $3.29 a day or less.

* * * *

A REPORT on the survey said "there is an inevitable relationship between the funds available and the quality of care that can be provided by a nursing home. Inadequate funds result in inadequate care unless private pay patients are able to subsidize the public assistance patients."

It said care rates in the 50 states, as of last Jan. 1, ranged from a low of $50 a month in Mississippi to $563 in Alaska. It added that 28 states provide maximum rates to $150 to $250 a month.

"The averages reported by 39 states showed one half paying an average of $145 or less," it said. "Twenty-five of these 39 paid an average of less than $5 a day."

McDonald said that too often some states "fail to provide rates of payment that permit strict enforcement of nursing home licensing standards." This will be mandatory under Medicare.

"It is imperative that both the federal and state governments establish realistic reimbursement formulae if we are to continue to improve the quality of care," McDonald said.

West German Aide Will Go to Moscow

BONN (AP)—Science Research Minister Gerhard Stoltenberg, 37, will fly to the Soviet Union this week as the first West Germany cabinet member to go there since Konrad Adenauer, then chancellor, went to Moscow in 1955.

Stoltenberg's announced mission is to open a German architecture show in Leningrade but a spokesman said he will strive for "a maximum of contacts."

L.A. Brace Yourself; Hon, 82 Feet Long, May Visit

(This is one of a series of articles by The Independent, Press-Telegram drama critic, now on leave to utilize the American-Scandinavian Foundation's 1966-67 theatrical award.)

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

"Our Los Angeles supervisors would never permit such a monstrosity to enter our County Museum!" said the over-dressed American tourist lady, her lurking smile undermining the ferocity of her statement.

Hon provoked her mixed feelings. Hon has been doing that for weeks now at Moderna Museet, Stockholm's Modern Museum. Modern Museum is the perfect place to put Hon (which means She) on reclining display. Hon is out of this world while representing our obsessions with technology. And Moderna Museet is a place where you have to go across the bridge into the forest on an island, through the trees, then in the clearing there is Modern Museet — out of this world and yet representing so much of what modern man feels, builds and sometimes thinks.

I found Hon hilarious and a genuinely strong artistic statement. I did not mention this to the young lady whose guest I was. She was disappointed with its interior mechanical contrivances. I found these intriguing, but since I was her honored guest and she had turned 21 that day and her father is an art dealer who represents Picasso and other top world painters, I thought it would be useless to start an argument.

* * * *

YOU CAN'T tell a "just-turned-21" anything, especially if she learned art at the feet of a learned art dealer. And she is both French and Swedish.

But I was impressed with Hon even after entering through what some critic called the ultimate source—an entry that many Southern Californians will be making if Hon's backers carry out their threat—and it has to be a threat—to invade California shortly.

Niki de Saint Phalle, the 36-year-old Frenchwoman (who else?) and Jean Tinguely and Per Olof Ultvedt, her co-sculptors who created Hon themselves seem confused as to what should the lady be likened.

They forewarn you that Honi Soit . . . evil is he who evil thinks—you know all that jazz—but in pinning down what Hon is they themselves double-talk:

* * * *

Hon: She
A Cathedral
A Factory
A Whale
Noah's Arc
Mama

* * * *

It may well be all of these things. I, however, doubt that Hon is the best woman in the world, but she may well be the biggest. The sculpture measures 82 feet long and 20 feet high and 30 feet larger—bigger than they grow Hons even in Hon-ey this is Texas . . ." That's Hon on the outside.

But it is not until you enter Hon—she is mostly black inside—that things really start popping. Inside there is a machine which destroys bottles coming from the soda fountain bar above. There is even a movie theater with 12 seats which shows old Greta Garbo movies. Hon also has wheels a-turning all the time and these expand her lungs and contract her whale of a heart.

It is a whale, a factory, a mama of an exhibit, well-conceived and its jangled technological nerve centers will tell those who come after what stress was like when the machine grew tired of man's non-communication and thtus scarred him with its own image.

Out of this strange remake came Hon—whoever she may be.

I think the show will give Los Angeles something to talk about.

SANDI HASSEY
Program Director

Sandi Hassey Named Y Program Director

Sandi Hassey, a 21-year-old graduate of California State College at Long Beach, is the newly appointed program director at the Los Altos YMCA, succeeding Kathy Jo Schutte.

Miss Hassey, daughter of Mrs. Clara K. Hassey, 4215 E. Eleventh St., will be in charge of the Tri-Gra-Y program for elementary school girls and the Junior Tri-Y program for junior high school girls.

She received all her formal education in Long Beach educational institutions. She attended Bryant Elementary School and Jefferson Junior High School before being graduated from Wilson High School in 1962. She attended Long Beach City College before being graduated from Cal State this June with a B.A. degree and a major in sociology.

The vivacious Miss Hassey is not a newcomer to YMCA work, having started as a volunteer to a Tri-Gra-Y club when she was a sophomore in college. Prior to her permanent appointment as program director, she worked part-time as a staff member on the Tri-Gra-Y and Family Special Interest programs at Los Altos.

When she is not occupied with YMCA work, which is not very often, she enjoys skiing and going to the beach.

Basic Salary Provided for Dental Clinic Head

Orange County has reached agreement to pay $10,000 toward the annual salary of a coordinator to direct an expanded dental clinic at the Orange County General Hospital.

Earlier, the county supervisors agreed to post $20,000 to remodel and redecorate Building 40 at the hospital, now used for a clinic staffed by the Orange County Dental Society volunteers.

The dentists had outlined a plan to set up a dental college teaching program in connection with their volunteer work with indigents, including children. The clinic was set up to provide needed services to children, then expanded to care for adults facing dental surgery.

Under the society's plan, the clinic would be expanded to 14 chairs and provide all types of services under a working arrangement with the Loma Linda University's college of dentistry, Riverside. The $10,000 salary item pledged by the county would be for the university professor who coordinates the program, it was explained.

New Census Means Cash for Cypress

The city of Cypress has authorized the Federal Bureau of Census to conduct a special census in October at an estimated cost of $4,200.

The nose count conceivably could bring $17,000 more into city coffers because of an increased share in taxes collected by the state.

The state returns portions of gasoline and other revenues to the cities, based on their population.

Monies returned to Cypress are based on an April population estimate of 18,500 made by the State Department.

"We were 19,000 as of July 1 and expect to be about 21,000 by October," Darrel Dalton, assistant city manager, said.

He said Cypress has been growing at an annual rate of 4,000 for the last two years.

Boy Breaks Neck Diving into Surf

A dive into shallow ocean water at the foot of Cherry Avenue left a 17-year-old Long Beach boy with a broken neck Saturday.

Police said William C. Hampton, of 767 Freeman Ave., a senior at Wilson High School, was pulled from the water at 1:35 p.m. by lifeguard Floyd Rhea, who witnessed the accident.

who isn't costumed in one.

It's just a question of a few months before Rabanne's plastic clothes reach the U.S., if they haven't already.

Rabanne—real name, Francisco Rabaneda Cuervo—was born in northern Spain, son of a mother who was Balenciaga's first assistant in the dress salon at San Sebastian.

"When I was a little boy," he explains, "and we first came to France, I wanted to be an architect. But you know what architecture is like in France. Here, one is considered a young architect at age 60. But I studied architecture anyway. There were no openings when I finished school, so for 10 years I worked in a small studio, barely squeezing out a living through drawing and photography."

Then one day—"because essentially I am an artisan"—Rabanne started designing buttons. He gave them to Balenciaga, Givenchy, Nina Ricci, and, liking what they saw, they asked for more.

From there Paco went on to jewelry, accessories, beaded dresses. Four years ago, when the French revolution in ladies' ready-to-wear got underway, three designers for the mass market, Michèle Rosier, Christiane Bailly and Emanuelle Khanh, called Rabanne in and asked him to design modern accessories for the modern woman of moderate means. He proposed plastic. These plastic accessories caught on so well in Paris that department store buyers from the U.S. began to purchase them in carload lots, and the fashion world began to take notice of Paco Rabanne.

This past February at the Hotel Georges V, Rabanne presented his first complete plastique collection. It consisted of evening dresses, bathing suits, jewelry, belts, sunglasses, purses, headgear—all light, supple, mobile, plastic discs arranged in spectacular forms: cubes, spirals, circles; all startling colors: hot oranges, reds, golds, silvers.

It was a new revolutionary collection, highly exploitable, and the press went to town on it. Said Rabanne at the time: "I want only to present a revolutionary material to the fashion world, and that material is plastic. I have developed a technique and a few ideas. But I am not a couturier. Now it's up to the couturiers to take what is good of my ideas, rectify the mistakes and progress further."

But to date the couturiers have shown little courage, little initiative, and plastic clothes are considered the exclusive domain of Rabanne.

"I want them to become within the financial reach of the ordinary woman," he declares, "to answer her need for color, verve, excitement and economy."

Although Rabanne's creations are less expensive than haute couture, his dresses and bathing suits, by virtue of being new, daring and one-of-a-kind, are relatively expensive. They appeal primarily to women in the news constantly searching for novelty.

Although Paco Rabanne does not consider himself "a real" couturier, he is surely what the French call "an original happening." In these days of innovation there are many designers who try to copy the real, just as many jewelers develop imitation diamonds—but Rabanne's plastic is a material than cannot be copied or compared to anything but itself. His fashions combine the clean, true beauty of artisan construction with the excitement of a hitherto unexplored fashion material.

Rabanne is a revolutionary. That's his talent, and that's his gimmick. You'll be hearing about this fellow.

REMEMBER THE ALAMO!

BUT FORGET THE COFFEE. SAN ANTONIO DOESN'T HAVE MJB.

San Antonio has the proud old mission that was the birthplace of Texas liberty. And it has a lot of other points of interest, too. Including one of the prettiest little rivers you ever saw, winding right through the heart of town. Here, you can ride in a gaily decorated Venetian boat and enjoy a Mexican enchilada at the same time. But you can't enjoy the best cup of coffee in the land. MJB is available only in the West. And (though it does seem odd) San Antonio and The Alamo aren't far enough West. The MJB people, who have been famous for coffee in San Francisco since 1881, make it their own special way, and to do so they just can't supply this whole big country. The MJB way is no secret. But it does require extra time and trouble to get the finest coffee beans, blend them with skill, roast and grind them with care and then pack the coffee fresh. MJB Coffee is always packed fresh the same day it's roasted. That's why it gives you first-cup-in-the-morning flavor all day long. So, be glad you're West of the Alamo, Coffee-Lover—and Remember the MJB!

What's one of your favorite cities that's deprived of fine MJB Coffee? Why don't you write the MJB people, 665 Third St., San Francisco 94107 and tell them about it.

Somewhere between a bonbon and a Kennedy half-dollar, these plastic circles in pink, yellow, gold and silver held together by silver rings add up to a bright and fancy evening.

A hat's a hat for all that: This plastic sunshade graced with a plastic posy gives m'lady a look of outer space plus a yard of chic.

Who says Cleopatra's a historical figure? This Egyptian-inspired costume and coiffure bring her back with vividness, verve.

The tampon that's right even for single girls.

Royal curtsy: Princess Caroline meets popular French singer Mireille Mathieu.

Princess Grace's Children Grow Up

My son, the heir: Prince Rainier looks the proud father with handsome son Albert.

It hardly seems like a decade since the fairytale marriage of the Hollywood actress and bricklayer's daughter, Grace Kelly, to her dream prince, Rainier III, House of Grimaldi. Yet the tricks that time plays with memory were unmasked as the Renaissance, Monaco's new luxury cruise ship, made its maiden voyage. There among the French high society and the theater people were Princess Caroline, 9, and Prince Albert, 8, looking more and more like grownup royalty.

Table of honor: Singer Mathieu and ship's Commandant Thepot join Princess Grace.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF VOLUME OF MAIL RECEIVED, PARADE REGRETS IT CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

FUCHS AND CHINA. Intelligence agents are trying desperately to check on the recurrent rumor that Klaus Fuchs is under arrest in East Germany for leaking atom secrets to Red China. Leipzig-born Fuchs, son of a Protestant minister, became a naturalized British citizen in World War II. One of the world's most brilliant nuclear physicists, he was sent to the U.S. as part of the British scientific team to contribute to the development of the atom bomb. He not only contributed, he also stole secrets and passed them along to Russian spies.

He was caught in 1950, tried and sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment. Owing to his complete confession and good behavior, he was released in 1959. He went immediately to East Germany where the Communists appointed him director of the Institute for Nuclear Research at Dresden. Fuchs long maintained that the atom bomb should be internationalized, that if all nations had access to nuclear weapons, none would go to war.

If Fuchs is guilty of leaking secrets to Red China, it will be interesting to see what his Communist masters do to him. West German intelligence agents say Fuchs has always been under extra close scrutiny and that the chances of his having passed intelligence to Chinese agents are small.

DENTAL VISITS. Approximately 30 million Americans have never visited a dentist. Twice as many white persons as Negroes visit their dentist at least once a year. Highest proportion of persons receiving dental care in a year are females 5 to 24. The lowest are preschool children and retired persons. The higher an individual's education and income, the better his dental-care pattern. People living in the northeastern U.S. visit their dentists more frequently than the residents of any other region. Never-married persons of both sexes seem to be more solicitous of teeth care than either married, widowed, divorced or separated persons.

UNSHRINKABLE WOOL. Wool garments that will never shrink will hit the market next year. After 18 years of continued research, Australia, one of the world's largest wool exporters, has developed a method of making wool so shrinkproof that it will not decrease in size no matter how many times it is washed by machine or hand.

To make wool shrinkproof it is treated before spinning with a solution of chlorine and then with a weak solution of synthetic resin. The resin spreads over the fibers, preventing "pilling," or the forming of tiny balls of fiber.

Fabrics knitted from treated wool have been subjected to four hours of constant washing in washing machines and have shown a shrinkage of less than 1%. Mill trials get underway in Great Britain this summer. The shrinkproof treatment of wool costs only a few pennies per pound, so that the price of wool garments is not expected to rise very much.

Because the battle for markets between wool and synthetic fibers is a tough one, this latest development is regarded by Australian wool merchants as a lifesaver.

ACTRESS CAROL LYNLEY (above) HAS PERFECT MEASUREMENTS.

THE PERFECT WOMAN. America's top designers were asked for measurements of their idea of the perfect woman. The information was fed into a computer. The computer's dream girl: blonde hair, blue eyes, 5-feet-5, 118 pounds; vital statistics: 35-26-34.

FORTUNETELLERS' PROPHECY. Thorez, the French Communist leader, made a trip to Moscow and died. Togliatti, the Italian Communist leader, made a trip to Moscow and died. Shastri, prime minister of India, made a trip to Moscow and died. Charles de Gaulle made a trip to Moscow...and Europe's fortune-tellers prophesy that he, too, will go before the year is out. That's the old wives' tale currently sweeping the Continent, according to Sam White, veteran Paris correspondent.

FIAT BOOMING. Fiat, the Italian car manufacturing company, is clicking on all cylinders behind the Iron Curtain. The Agnelli family, who owns Fiat, signed an agreement with Russia a few months ago to produce 730,000 Fiats a year in the Soviet Union. Now it's signed another deal, this time to produce 35,000 Fiats a year in Poland.

THE MOST DANGEROUS AGE. The carnage caused by French drivers is shocking. Last year more than 12,000 persons were killed in France. Government figures reveal that roughly 22% of all car accidents involved people between 15 and 24. There were 92,361 persons between 15 and 24 implicated in car accidents, compared with 42,023 in the 45-54 age group.

In France the worst killers on the road are youngsters under 20. As a result the government has taken new measures to curb youth at the wheel. Anyone under 20 driving a car cannot go faster than 60 mph on any road or highway in France. Moreover, anyone owning a sports car will soon need a special permit to drive it. Insurance rates for teenage drivers in France are already 75% higher than for most others.

READ & WRITE. The Travelers Insurance Companies of Hartford, Conn., Women's Information Bureau, has available a number of useful publications at no charge. Three of the best are "What Every Woman Should Know About Life Insurance," "Home Safety Check List" and "What To Do in Case of an Automobile Accident."

Older people who have a dietary or food problem will find most valuable the "Harvest Years Food Guide." It contains sample menus for a week, calorie counters, tips on food flavoring, a veritable gold mine of food information. Price 25¢; order from Harvest Years Publishing Company, Monadnock Building, San Francisco, Calif., 94105.

THIS UNUSUAL OFFER cannot be repeated. John Fitzgerald Kennedy... As We Remember Him is a lavish book and an expensive one. Because of its cost, we can include it just this once as part of the Guild's introductory offer.

Guild members were informed about this book before publication — and those members who ordered it received it at the special members' price of $6.95 instead of the publisher's price of $14.95. This is typical of the guaranteed savings Guild members enjoy on important new books: at least 40%, often as much as 60%, below the price of the publishers' editions.

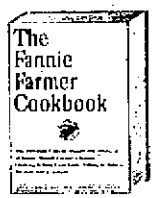

Recently, for example, Guild members were offered new books such as Tai-Pan for $2.95 instead of $6.95 in the publisher's edition; Yes I Can, for $3.50 instead of $6.95. They were described before publication in the Guild's free monthly Preview and sent to members who wanted them immediately upon publication. You only agree to buy 4 books during the coming year, from among the 20 or more offered each month. And for every four you buy, you may choose a bonus book.

There has never been a better time to try Guild membership. To join, send no money now. Just mail the attached card.

NEXT WEEK

The title of the article is "Me? A Little League Manager? There's Nothing to It!" If that's confusing and if it hints at contradiction it is because there is nothing more confusing than being manager of a baseball team populated by hyper-active, scatter-brained, unpredictable 10 and 12 year olds. For the report of one such manager, see next week's Southland Magazine for "Me? A Little League Manager? . . ."

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

TINA LOUISE doesn't really look at herself as being sexy.

Sensuous is a better description.

The shapely lass has the role of a glamorous movie actress, Ginger, in CBS-TV's Thursday evening's "Gilligan's Island."

"When I think of sex," said Tina, "I think of being sensuous."

There's no point in defining it. You either have it or you don't.

"The public knows," said Tina. "They feel it. You can't push the wrong type of girl in a sensuous role. She wouldn't be accepted. It wouldn't come from within because it's not there. You either have a femaleness or you don't."

The public feels it and the message must have come across to the producers who signed her for the glamor role. Tina reported there were about 300 others tested for the part.

"LOOK HOW MANY sexy girls there are in the world," she said. "There may be others who are sexier looking."

She paused, considering her last statement.

"I don't know who," she added.

Even if she did know who, it wouldn't make any difference—from a sensuous point of view—if Tina had a figure like Phyllis Diller.

"Sex is not a wiggle," she said. "It's more in the eyes and expression than in the dress or figure.

"You can wear a high-necked dress and have a certain expression and turn on the world.

"Look, all you have to do is open 'Vogue' and 'Playboy.' I think the girls in 'Vogue' are much sexier. There's much more work going on in the face. The other thing, the 'Playboy' thing, is just complete exposure. There's nothing in the eyes."

ATTEMPTING to illustrate—just the "Vogue" angle, not the "Playboy" thing—Tina demonstrated her "turn on the world" certain expression.

Her blue eyes, or are they green, or are they hazel, or are they kind of blue-black—?

Her eyes, whatever color, had a depth and a warmth and a promise.

The ice cubes in the water glass melted.

"A woman who really loves to love can look that way," said Tina. "And I mean love in every way, mentally as well as physically.

"It can be in the eyes alone. It's the thought."

Currently, Tina's main thought is to incorporate a happy home life with her work. She was married last April to actor-emcee Les Crane.

"When you're not sharing your life with somebody in the way you want to and you reach the point where it becomes very important to you, then you can become very unhappy," said Tina.

SHE KNOWS BECAUSE she had been very unhappy.

"I was free so much of my life," she said. "From the time I was 18 years old and received my first pay check, I did as I pleased.

"There was nothing to tie me down. I traveled over most of the world. I wasn't ready for marriage.

"I couldn't imagine staying in one place, being concerned with decisions affecting someone else.

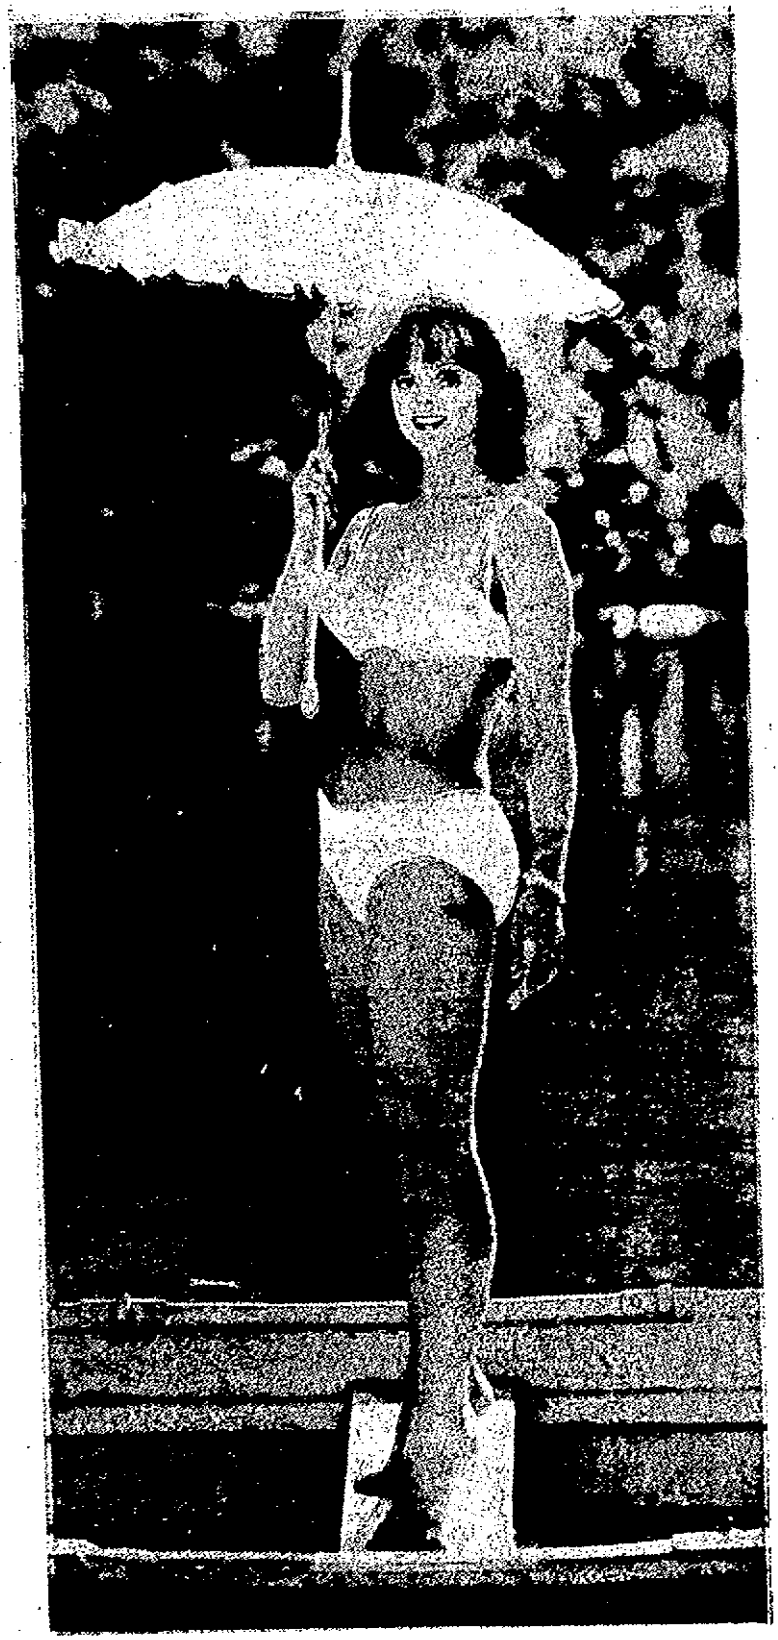

"Finally, I just reached the point where I became completely uninvolved with anyone. There was no real connection with anyone."

It was at that point that she also realized she was an unhappy girl. She tried to analyze why.

She was free. But she didn't want to be. She was uninvolved. She wanted to be involved. But she hadn't yet met "the person." Then along came Les Crane.

"A woman who really loves to love," said Tina, "needs somebody to give it to—somebody permanent."

She's involved now and sharing her life with someone she loves. She's never been happier.

CONVERSATION, PLEASE

Teen-Agers Sound Off

By Linda Jones

I WISH MY PARENTS would remember they were young once, too, and let me make my own mistakes . . . Why can't my dad ever give me a chance to explain? . . . My mother says I make her nervous . . . Stop analyzing me and help me analyze my parents! These expressions are some of the innermost feelings of young people today.

I am a 1966 high school graduate, a member of the most analyzed, push-pulled, probed, studied generation to appear on the American scene.

Social scientists have asked us many things but they rarely bother to inquire how we feel about our own particular sets of parents. How would we change them? How do we believe family life could be made smoother, happier? What causes arguments between ourselves and our seniors? Is punishment old fashioned? Do they give us too much money or not enough?

The encompassing question has yet to be asked: "What is your advice to your parents?"

I decided to ask that question along with several others pertinent to the subject, in a questionnaire answered by more than 100 junior and senior students in one of the Long Beach high schools. This report is a summary of their opinions and their collective advice.

* * * *

FAMILY fights? I found that 37% of the girls have as many as once-a-week fights with their parents, compared to 28% for the boys. The balance indicated only occasional verbal altercations. Many of these "family feuds" could be prevented, students felt, if the proper relationship between the parents and teenagers existed.

Too many parents feel that they know what's right and wrong because they are older and more experienced. Of course they are, but, as one student put it, "They won't even wait to let me say I'm sorry, but just tear right in to me. They won't listen."

Another student said, "My mother automatically says 'No' to everything that will take me out of a one mile radius of home. Frankly, if she would let me give all the good reasons why I think I should be allowed on an excursion BEFORE she says no, I'd be more inclined to shut up."

Students feel they are acutely aware of the pitfalls —moral and otherwise — which threaten them, but parents won't recognize their modern sophistication. In fact, such sophistication tends to frighten them. They want their children to be well-educated, but when it comes right down to it, they are frightened by the amount of knowledge their children possess.

THE PLEA, "They should try to understand me!" is echoed by both the girls and the boys, and they pinpoint this lack of understanding to the surprising amount of non-interest of which many parents are guilty. If they'd just take time to savor a little taste of what their young people do in their spare time, this knowledge would help in digesting one another's views. The students point out that we, as teenagers, are asked to stay home once in awhile to "see what it's like," but why can't they venture into our so-called "wild and weird world?" I didn't say intrude; I said venture. How? Here is a summary of advice.

LISTEN to us. Ask us questions. Investigate the clubs we join. Meet the people we like. Don't let a group of us frighten you out of the house. Talk to us. Talk to us. Talk to us! One boy commented, "I'm flattered when the father of a girl I am dating asks me questions about myself and courteously asks me to have his daughter in by a certain time. I feel important, and it is certainly obvious that he thinks his daughter is pretty important!"

Teen-ager Linda Jones tallies up answers to her questionnaires on what teen-agers are thinking.

And when we slip from grace? With all the family fights, I thought there would have been more punishments than this survey indicated. About 60% of the girls said their parents never really followed through with the punishments they set, and 52% of the boys said the same. Only two girls and three boys admitted they had no punishments inflicted upon them.

SEVERAL commented in the same vein as one senior girl. "If I could go back to when I was younger, I would want my parents to be more strict with me." Parents nowadays really have a confusing time of it, not knowing which way to turn. Take for example, this provocative comment concerning punishments. "My friends brag about their punishments like they brag about their boy friends. Parental restrictions seem to be a status symbol."

With so many young people driving and the added opportunity to be out late, many arguments and punishments concern curfews. In my survey 53% of the boys and 55% of the girls are given active access to the family car, with 7 girls and 4 boys owning their own. Some 80% of the boys are under no curfew, while 73% of the girls are limited. The boys indicated theirs is a more lenient curfew because they must take their dates home and their parents don't want them to have to say, "I'm sorry, we'll have to go now because my parents want me home at midnight." Some boys chafe because their parents don't make allowances for this extra male duty and they would like to be allowed a degree of judgment in the matter.

There are other sources of parent-teenage frictions, but those in the area of money and household chores are not as important to youngsters as some might imagine. Only 3 boys and 3 girls admitted that they did nothing to help in the home, even though each received an allowance. The average for the high school students who received allowances was a whopping $5 a week. However, 53% of the boys and 38% of the girls stated they received none. Many felt that they should receive at least a small weekly payment, not for the things they wanted or did, but to teach them the value of money and to give them a sense of responsibility toward spending and saving. Of those who received no allowance, some earned their own money, while the rest were

Q. Which Pope was first to have a Swiss guard?—J.G.

A. Pope Julius II. In 1505, a period marked by fighting and unrest, he realized that he and the possessions of the church needed protection. Because the Swiss had a reputation as invincible fighters, he recruited 150 Swiss soldiers as his personal bodyguard.

Q. Name the largest Japanese battleship sunk by the U.S. Navy in World War II. —D.W.

A. The Musashi and the Yamato, sister ships having a displacement of 72,809 tons at full load, were both sunk by U.S. Navy carrier-based aircraft (both bombs and torpedoes). These were the largest battleships ever designed and built by any nation. The Musashi sank in Philippine waters on October 24, 1944, after six attacks. The Yamato sank in Japanese waters on April 7, 1945, after three attacks.

Q. Why has the Music Critics Circle of New York stopped making its awards? —F.Y.

A. After an existence of 24 years, the Circle disbanded in 1965. The principal reason was the great number of new musical works that are now presented in New York each year. The Circle's awards, made for outstanding new works heard in New York each season, were open to composers of all nationalities. In 1965, when there more than 200 new works eligible for consideration, Circle members found themselves unable to give a fair hearing to all of these and to choose among them.

Greatest Actor

William Demarest, Uncle Charley on "My Three Sons," lays claim to one of the weirdest fan letters extant. "A man wrote me that I was the greatest actor in the world," Demarest says, "and I should be paid at least $25,000 a week. Then he apologized for writing his letter in crayon—he said they wouldn't let him have anything sharp in there."

A Championship for the Rams?

Go Ahead and Snicker, but a New Coach, New Tactics Give Rise to New Hope . . .

By Al Larson

AS THE RAMS were saying before they were interrupted by the championship playoffs and the Pro Bowl and a spring of discontent, things are looking up.

At the risk of extracting sneers and a few guffaws, the Rams are here to tell you this may be the year of their comeback. Not the start of their comeback, but THE year.

The Rams, in a word, are talking championship 1966.

(There will be a slight pause for assorted wisecracks.)

If you will recall, the Southern California entry in the National Football League closed out the '65 season with three high-voltage triumphs and a tension-filled, narrow setback at the hands of the champion Baltimore Colts. That was enough to provide the veterans with optimism.

Using that record as a launching pad the new coach, George Allen, disassembled the squad, culled out some dead weight, earmarked a sackful of hangers-on for early disposal and completed a cross-country search for available talent.

THE RESULT IS THAT Allen, who will welcome the veterans into camp at Chapman College in Orange today, has hitched up his trousers, taken a deep breath and predicted a Western Division championship for '66.

A major change has come to the Rams organization in the so-called off months since Allen was plucked from the Chicago Bears staff over the violent remonstrations of the ogre of the gridiron, Papa Bear George Halas. (There was a court fight over Allen's services, you'll remember, a fight in which both sides claimed victory. The only way to decide the victory, though, is to observe which team Allen is coaching these days.)

It's believed Allen has instilled a new spirit in the team that hasn't won a championship since 1955, the team that has won only 15 of 56 games over the past four seasons while annually finishing in a "wait 'til next year" posture.

ONE OF THE MOST important changes has been an about-face in Ram policy of many years that saw tested veterans traded for untested draft choices.

"You won't see us giving away veterans for young stars any more," Allen said assuringly. "The future will take care of itself. My concern is with now."

With this his "modus operandi," Allen has proceeded to rebuild the Rams' linebacking corps, manned by three rookies last year, by acquiring veterans Maxie Baughan from Philadelphia, Myron Pottios from Pittsburgh and Bill George from Chicago, and luring Jack Pardee out of retirement. In five of Allen's first seven trades he obtained battle tested players in exchange for future draft choices, a complete reversal of past policy.

He added running back Tom Moore from Green Bay to bolster a sagging offensive machine and bought defensive backs Irv Cross and Claude Crabb from the Eagles to shore up the pass defense.

IF THE PLAN HAS a ringing similarity to the one employed by Vince Lombardi when he built the Green Bay Packers into "Title Town, USA," you're right.

"Vince got Willie Davis from Cleveland, which was a heck of a trade," Allen points out. "He also picked up Henry Jordan and Tom Quinlan, all defensive players, that helped them tremendously right off." (Note: The Packers vaulted from last to first in two seasons with the arrival of Lombardi in 1959.)

"My thesis is to win in 1966. We're not building for the future. Every move we make is predicated on THIS YEAR," Allen emphasizes. "And I've tried to bring in players who have been on championship teams. I feel this winning tradition will rub off on the others."

He thinks the Western Division of the National Football League is so well balanced that a 9-5 season could win the championship.

"I don't think any team is so outstanding it could beat that record. There are no weak sisters. The Chicago Bears are the team to beat, and have the most balance both ways. The big trouble in this division is that you can improve and still not notice it in the win-loss column."

Last year Green Bay and Baltimore tied for the title with 10-3-1 records.

ALLEN SAYS the hardest thing for him to realize is that the Rams haven't had a winning season since 1958. "It will take 110% effort to reverse the trend. I want every player, the 40 who make the squad, to develop an intense pride in being a Ram."

He put the message on paper and sent a copy to each player. The fight talk also

Meet George Allen, the Ram Boss

Though George Allen, 42, has been head coach of the Rams for nearly six months, most of that time has been spent behind closed doors plotting an extensive overhaul of a team that has sputtered for nearly a decade. He is something of a mystery man. Here, in an exclusive interview for Southland Magazine, is an insight to the young man who is chief mechanic in the overhaul:

George Allen, on the subject of pride:

"It is important that everyone on the Rams team be proud of the organization, but this is not enough. To be proud of being a Ram and then lose game after game is not the pride I mean. Pride in being a winner is what I'm after."

George Allen, on his coaching philosophy:

"I'm not a screamer or yeller by nature and I do not try to coach that way. Speak softly and treat all football associates as gentlemen until they prove they warrant other treatment.

"There are no men with magic who are coaching in

Rams will be 2-quarterback team, says new coach, with runs of Roman Gabriel (above) and passing of Bill Munson (cover) both being utilized.

Gemini Space Launch TV Schedule

On the day of the Gemini 10 space launch, Monday at the earliest, the television networks plan to start coverage about 1 p.m.

All afternoon regular programming is subject to pre-emption or switching. In addition, evening programs also may be pre-empted.

The overall launch program calls for lift-off of the Atlas-Agena target vehicle at 1:30 p.m. Astronauts Michael Collins and John Young are slated to follow in their Gemini-Titan II at 3:11 p.m.

In covering the 70-hour mission, the networks will use technical devices to illustrate the movements of the spacecraft. These illustrative movements, of course, will be in addition to actual camera coverage of the lift-offs.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Please inform us on GOWEN.—H. G., Long Beach, A. J., Garden Grove.

McGOWEN is from Mac Gobhain meaning "armorer and blacksmith." The name progenitor was a Scotch artisan who made steel armor to protect knights who served the king. McGowen clan lands were in Perth and Inverness, north Scotland. The original family chief joined Clan MacPherson in a fierce battle with Clan Davidson in 1396. After the bloody combat the MacGowen chief and nine MacPhersons remained alive; to avoid surrender the last Davidson drowned himself. Irish McGowens were natives of Tipperary and Clare. The clan shield is silver, emblazoned with a rampant red lion between three green rosettes. Along the shield's top is a boar head between two gold fleurs-de-lis on a blue stripe.

MISS RULE: May we learn about DI PIAZZA?—E.D., Long Beach.

DI PIAZZA refers to this family's Italian forefather who resided on the "piazza" or "town-square" in medieval Italy, and who took his name from his home location.

MISS RULE: Could you explain McPARTLIN? — E.M., J.M., C.M., Long Beach.

McPARTLIN, formerly the Gaelic clan-name MacPharthalain, means "Descendents of Bartholomew." The Biblical Bartholomew translates from Hebrew as "Son of the furrows: a farmer." The McPartlins were prominent in Tyrone and Armagh, north Ireland, and in Scotland.

MISS RULE: Please explain JIRASEK.—E.J., R.J., Long Beach.

JIRASEK was derived from the Slavic central European name Jiriczek. This was a sweet nickname endowed fondly on a child by his parents, and means "Little linnet-bird."

MISS RULE: Would you explain ALTHAUS. — H.R., Long Beach.

ALTHAUS represents a German lineage whose ancestral home decription became their surname. "Alt-Haus" denoted "Old manor house." The Althaus armorial shield is red, emblazoned with a gold-crowned, silver lion holding in its paws a silver church.

MISS RULE: May we have data on BUSTAMANTE?—Y.B., Wilmington.

BUSTAMANTE, a Spanish name, has an unusual significance, meaning "large chested man with a cloak." This described a forefather notable for his strength and a short cloak of striking colors. The Bustamante shield is gold, emblazoned with thirteen circular red spots in three rows of four each, with a single spot at the bottom. Anastasio Bustamante of Spanish ancestry, was an early 19th century president of Mexico.

MISS RULE: May we learn about HEFFERN, HEFFERNAN.—W.H., Los Alamitos, E.V., Long Beach.

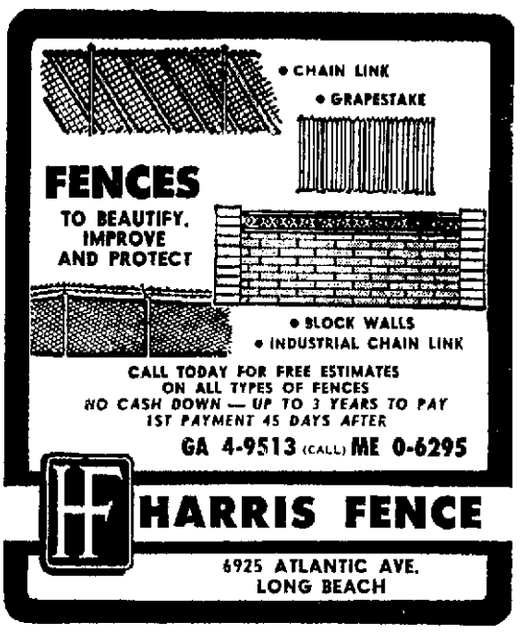

HEFFERN and HEFFERNAN of Ireland began as the clan O'Heimhrin of County Mayo. In the 10th Century this name designated "Sons of the young and swift one." The Hefferman shield is red on the lower half, green on the upper half, crossed by a gold stripe. On the green section are three gold crescents.

MISS RULE: Please explain KAESLER and KIESLAR.—R.K., Anaheim, F.K., Long Beach.

KAESLER and KIESLAR both began in Germany. These names traced to the ancient Teutonic hero name

A Riotous and Ribald Career Nears Its End—Very, Very Quietly

It's a Mellow 65 for Rudy Vallee

ON THE MARQUEE at Anaheim's Melodyland Theater this week it will say "Rudy Vallee In . . ." About half those who hurry past on their way to the Disneyland parking lot would say, "Who?"

But to a good many among the other half, the half that doesn't listen to musical gibberish and wolf down hamburgers and

By Jerome Hall
Editor, Southland Magazine

drive with one foot on the throttle and one hand on the horn, it will come as a distinct shock to realize that Rudy Vallee this month turns 65.

Was it that long ago that a brash young fellow out of Maine made headlines with gangsters and show business greats at the same time, whose crooning lulled a troubled nation into relaxation, making it forget its economic worries for the moment through his weekly radio broadcasts?

And was it that long ago that he took up his megaphone and sent a restless generation scurrying from the speakeasies into the dance halls to listen to his nasal renditions of "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover" and "My Time Is Your Time" and everybody's favorite, "When the Pussywillow Whispers to the Catnip," not to mention "99 Out of 100 Want to Be Loved"?

Rudy Vallee? Sixty-five?

THOSE FAMILIAR with the riotous, sometimes-ribald private life of the man who was the world's first crooner will be tempted to smirk just a bit at the thought of Rudy Vallee reaching such a milestone, for here was a man who lived a full measure of scandal and success, who knew a generous portion of achievement and failure, of good fortune and bad.

Today it is a mellowed Rudy Vallee who prepares for his first stage appearance in this area, a two-week engagement at the Anaheim theater in "How to Succeed In Business Without Really Trying." It is the play that marked Vallee's comeback a half-decade ago in a highly successful Broadway run that spanned 1,400 performances in more than three years. He plays a stuffy corporate magnate in a wacky satire on big business.

He also has played the role in road companies all over the United States, but only once before in Southern California, that at a San Fernando Valley theater. Seldom, in fact, has Vallee performed in Southern California through his 40-year career, though it has been his home for the past quarter century.

Home to Vallee is a castle in the sky that perches on the doorstep of Hollywood. It is a Southern California landmark, though few get to see it, for it is reached by a winding road and at the top of the mountain there are forbidding stone gates that frighten off the timid. Through the dining room window on one side is a panorama of the San Fernando Valley, on the other Catalina Island.

A visit with Vallee is a memorable experience and talking with him is like a guided tour through four decades of show business. His estate is a 35-year-old Spanish villa that houses every piece of sheet music, every phonograph record, every saxophone and even every radio script from his career. Yes, every megaphone, too.

Row after row of dust-covered radio scripts, thousands of orchestrations, sit beside a huge collection of photographs saved through the years.

These are memorabilia of what might be called the good old days, the days when a 60-minute radio show presided over by Vallee each week—the Fleischmann Hour—mesmerized a nation. On this radio show were launched the careers of Joe Penner, Bob (Bazooka) Burns, Alice Faye, the Mills Brothers, Kate Smith and Frances Langford. Tommy Dorsey was a $50-a-week trombonist in Vallee's orchestra. Eddie Cantor made his first coast-to-coast broadcast on the Fleischmann Hour. Too, Bob Hope, Red Skelton and Milton Berle were regulars on Vallee's show long before they hit it big.

BUT THAT WAS the long, long ago and today Vallee admits to being flattered by public attention. He says the high points of his social life are casual altercations with people in the market or at a restaurant. "They just want to say hello because it makes them remember a lot of nice things in their past lives," he says.

Vallee holds strong opinions about show business today in general as well as his part in it, which may come to a conclusion after he finishes the filming, now under way, of "How to Succeed . . ."

He dismisses the noisy, hip-tossing entertainment of the present day as "nothing, nothing at all. It has no relationship to show business. There has been no real change in show business over the course of my association with it. In the good theater, in the motion pictures that are worth while, there has been the same strain of genuine entertainment. There has always been the bad stuff, too, that wasn't worthy of recognition."

He says he has no explanation for the jumping and hollering entertainment of today. "I don't pretend to understand it and I don't want to understand it. I can't see why kids would buy those horrible records, but then I don't like kids anyway and this just solidifies my point of view."

Though oft-married, Vallee never had any children of his own. "I never wanted any. I just don't like them. I've never been ashamed to admit that. Some people don't like cottage cheese. I don't think I have to make any excuses. I've been perfectly content with dogs for my companionship on an idle afternoon."

THE ONLY SUBJECT Vallee is hesitant to discuss is the often-repeated charge that he is a tightwad. Those who are familiar with the huge sums of money that have dwindled through his hands would understand an ultra-conservative approach to finances by Vallee, but he vigorously denies any validity to the charge.

"I don't often talk about it," he said slowly, hesitantly. "It's a loaded question, like when did you stop beating your wife? I don't feel I have to defend myself. Anybody who knows me knows a lot of money has gone through my wallet.

"If something comes beautifully packaged, I keep the package. I abhor waste. I can't stand to see a waste of energy or a waste of talent or a waste of anything else. Another reason I got that reputation is because I so often eat in cafeterias, especially in New York. That's another way of avoiding waste—a waste of time waiting for my food when I'm in a hurry. Cafeteria food is the best anywhere, I might add, and not all people who eat in them do it to save money.

"It's strange how people will draw conclusions from innocent characteristics of a person. I've never had a chauffeur, so peo-

GEMINI 10 Mission—The most "loaded" mission of Gemini series—with three scheduled docking maneuvers, bending tests, a possible altitude record, picture-taking from an open hatch, and a space walk to the Gemini-8 Agena vehicle to retrieve an instrument left aboard in the ionosphere last March—is scheduled to begin its 3-day flight this afternoon with the launch of the Agent at 1:40 p.m., followed by the Gemini lift-off at 2:20 p.m. Astronauts Maj. Michael Collins and Cmdr. John Young have only a 40-second window for their lift-off, so a delay of even a minute would postpone the mission at least 48 hours. Continuous coverage begins at 1 p.m. on ch. 4, in color, with "selective coverage" on ch. 2 and 7 which air the Agena launch at 1:30 and Gemini countdown starting at 3 p.m. Coverage of rendezvous, docking and bending tests (latter to prove maneuverability capacities while docked) are set for 8:30 p.m., ch. 4, and 9 p.m., ch. 2.

TRAVEL ON 13—KCOP's big schedule of travel-adventure shows, three each night, today shift 90-min. later each day in preparation for later fall programming (off-network runs of Mason, McHale, Wackiest Ship, etc.). "Survival," "Holiday" and "Daring Ventures" today move to the 8:30 to 10 p.m. slots, ch. 13, with similar changes all week.

BIG VALLEY—In the first of several ABC changes this week, Emmy-winning Barbara Stanwyck moves her Barkley family to the 10 p.m. ch. 7 hour in which they'll air next season ("The Avengers" shifts to Thursdays). In the first color repeat in the new slot, an unscrupulous promoter gets control of a mine partly owned by the Barkleys, and Heath's investigation of a strike involves him with strikers, strike-breakers, terrorists and a saloon girl (Anne Helm).

A PREVIEW REVIEW

'Therapy' Revolutionary TV Series

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Calm, seemingly poised, the father looks at his wife, his three children, the psychiatrist, and in a voice lacking the turbulent emotion that must be seething within him, says:

"Very often I don't even feel I'm in the family. I get the definite feeling they'd be happier without me around anyway.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Walter Kempler, replies:

"I see you on the outside of your family wanting to get in. I see them as wanting you to get in and there seems to be some kind of invisible barried."

The exchange is part of a revolutionary new program, "Therapy," that makes its weekly premiere at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 9. I saw in advance a rough-cut of the premier program produced by Lawrence Schwab.

Revolutionary. It is that, although television has previously shown group therapy in action. In the previous demonstrations, however, the participants have generally been mental cases, delinquents or felons.

They have been individuals with whom the normal viewer—how many of us are dope addicts? — can not identify.

* * * *

THE CHANNEL 9 series, however, is concerned with an ordinary family, normal, if you will, that has problems just as you and I.

You will find yourself identifying with this family. In fact, if there is any danger to the program, it is that you will identify too closely.

It is almost like picking up a copy of the American Medican Assn. magazine and reading about all the symptoms of various diseases. You're sure you have all the symptoms. You're sure you have most of the diseases.

If there is a danger to watching the program—and perhaps th eword "danger" is too strong—it is minimal. The benefits could be maximum. A viewer, for example, could recognize his own faults in others and subsequently correct them.

This is a real family involved in the group therapy session. This is a real session. There is no dramatizing, but there is more real drama than seven "Playhouse 90" psycho-dramas and two seasons of "Peyton Place."

* * * *

I EMPHASIZE that the family are not actors because in the intensity of the session three members become so deeply involved, they are almost completely unaware of the presence of the camera.

It is the father who bears the brunt of the criticism.

The mother says to him:

"When you come home, you establish the climate. A climate of discipline. A climate of what's wrong."

The young teenage son sobbingly says to the psychiatrist:

"I don't think he (the father) understans what I'm really like. He always expects me to do so much more—so much more than I'm able to do."

The psychiatrist says to the father:

"He (the son) needs more appreciation, confidence, encouragement. He's not getting it. All he's getting is criticism.

"He doesn't measure up to the picture you have of him in your head.

"He's telling you to get rid of this picture and take a look at him."

* * * *

THERE'S one heart-tearing scene in the session.

The young teenage boy, in tears, goes to his father for comfort after being directed there by the psychiatrist.

As the boy sits on the arm of his dad's chair, the father pats his back. It is a comforting effort but it is comforting effort but it is obviously not enough.

Miss Doni Scott, KHJ-TV publicist, who was also present at the screening, asked me at this point:

"Is there an inability in men to hug and kiss their sons?"

Is there? If you're a father, try the question on for size and answer it for yourself.

We're Headed for the Moon and Beyond... but Is There

An Impossible Journey?

By Jack O. Baldwin

WHILE MAN HAS been successful in reaching hundreds of miles into outer space, he has barely scratched the surface in his efforts to duplicate Jules Vernes' fictional trip to the center of the earth.

The problems to be encountered to accomplish such a journey are so tremendous that man may never make it!

Consider a few—just a few—of the problems scientists will have to evaluate and solve before an explorer can plant a flag at the center of the earth.

If man is to make the 4,000-mile trip he will have to make it in some kind of an inner space capsule. But of what materials shall this capsule be made?

AT THE EARTH'S center temperatures reach as high as 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit. One of the toughest materials on the surface of the earth, hafnium carbide, used on nose cones of space rockets, melts at 7,000 degrees.

New concepts in engineering design not yet dreamed of by even the most imaginative scientist will have to be developed to withstand the tremendous pressures to be encountered during the journey. Near the earth's core pressures will rise to 3,000,000 pounds per square foot!

If an inner space capsule is built, how can it be tested to determine if it can withstand the great subterranean pressures? So far, on the surface man has been able to produce only a pressure of 300,000 pounds per square foot—a tenth of that to be encountered near the earth's molten core.

What will be the power source that will drive the capsule? Nuclear power plants are relatively small for the amount of power they can deliver. The power needed to push a submarine through a salty liquid is infinitesimal compared to the energy needed to push a subterran through solid rock. A nuclear power plant to drive a subsurface vehicle would be of necessity far bulkier than that on a submarine.

THE UNLIMITED source of below-the-surface temperatures could be used as a power source. What kind of an engine would be capable of harnessing this heat and converting it to forward motion?

Regardless of the type of engine used or how much power it could develop, if it were made of metal it might not ever develop enough power to overcome the gigantic holding power of the earth's tremendously strong magnetic fields.

An engine built entirely of non-magnetic metal is a challenging problem to confront engineers of the future.

To avoid wondering around aimlessly underground like an earthworm presents a problem of navigation that will tax the genius brains of tomorrow's most intelligent computers.

If surface crews wish to follow the "flight" of the manned capsule below ground, new tracking devices will have to be designed and built.

The method the underground vehicle will use to dig is way to the center of our globe may be one of the lesser problems to be solved. Possible techniques include use of ultrasonic sound waves to shove aside the dirt, minerals, oil and diamonds as the vehicle bores downward.

Some type of a ray that would convert the solid matter ahead of the capsule into energy could be developed. It could be—but it hasn't yet!

If the vehicle leaves a hole behind it like a gopher this creates a problem back on the surface.

A man-made volcano.

Up from the bowels of the earth would come lethal gases under such great pressure no present blow-out preventer could harness. Up from the depths would come white-hot lava to bubble up like water from a broken main.

IF INSTEAD of creating a hole behind it, the capsule filled the space behind it like an earthworm, the capsule or rocket-like vehicle would need power to journey to the center of the earth—and back. Or it could proceed straight through the center and out on the other side, thus fulfilling the childhood ambition of many a boy who wanted to "dig a hole clear to China."

Overcoming all other difficulties and assuming man does reach the center of the earth, so great will be the pull of gravity—the force that holds people on the earth's surface even though it is upside down—that no power on earth, or in it, may let the craft escape back to the surface.

Like an astronaut lost in outer space, a terranaut could drift forever locked in the confines of inner space.

Answers or means of solving some of these problems may come from scientists working on Project Mohole.

The project is an effort to drill a hole 20 miles down through the crust of the earth to reach the level of the mantle. The project is named for the Yugoslav scientist, Prof. Andrija Mohorovicic, who discovered the earth's mantle in 1909 while a professor at the University of Zagreb.

If successful, the penetration will be four times greater than the deepest oil well which bottomed at a depth of 25,340 feet in a Pecos County, Texas, oil field.

Part of the equipment for the project sponsored by the National Science Foundation is currently under construction in San Diego.

SITE OF THE attempt to drill to the earth's mantle is in the ocean near Maui in the Hawaiian Islands.

Scientists, while admitting it is a little hole they will be drilling, out of it they hope to get a lot of information that one day may solve some of the problems of inter-earth exploration.

Even with this new knowledge it may be that man may have to wait until he has minerals mined from the surface of the moon and has harnessed the sun's cosmic rays before he can blast-in on a journey to the center of the earth.

CRITICS' CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Programs

Program: "Civil Rights—View from the South," aired last Tuesday on channel 2.

This was an outstanding half hour during which Mike Wallace skillfully quizzed three Southern governors, Orval Faubus of Arkansas, George Wallace of Alabama and Paul Johnson of Mississippi.

Wallace read official NAACP commentary on the "real progress" the Negro was making in Arkansas as well as the "change of spirit" on the part of the state's white citizenry.

Faubus maintained that there had always been progress and he, as well as other citizens in Arkansas, shared the belief that no one should be held responsible for the accident of birth.

He made several other points that could set his state up as a model for others—Northern as well as Southern.

The Arkansas governor said Negro leadership in this state was very responsible. The Negroes in general were very aware they should have training for employment opportunities and had a good attitude.

Alabama's Wallace was critical of the type of conditions that created riots in such non-Southern communities as Watts, Detroit and Chicago. He claimed that non-whites had better employment opportunities in Alabama than they did in Los Angeles.

Mississippi's Johnson steadfastly maintained that any responsible Negro citizen was welcome in his office at any time. He added, however, that there were "very few, if any" real Negro leaders in the state who had taken a non-violent attitude.

Whether one agreed or disagreed with either of the governors, it was excellent two-sides-of-the-story journalism to present their points of view.

Program: "The Newlywed Game," premiered last Monday on channel 7.

In the great Hollywood tradition of sequels to major film efforts, ABC-TV now has followed up its new daytime series, "The Dating Game."

Its soulmate is entitled "The Newlywed Game," or: "How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love My Wife."

And, of all things, the Monday premiere of the daily, half-hour afternoon game show—which tries to reveal how much newlywed couples really know about each other—was carried off rather pleasantly.

The host of "The Newlywed Game," Bob Eubanks, was also quite pleasant and unpretentious in his chores.

Program: "Tom Duggan Show," premiered last Sunday on channel 5.

The guests lined up for him, other than Helen Hayes and County Assessor Philip Watson, were not conducive to sparkling repartee.

Holding the viewer interest for two hours can't take many kooks like a dame who said she was Martha Washington and another who wrote a story about Gertrude Lawrence and can't sell it for filming. Here it was Duggan's fault for letting them ramble on and on, as pointless as they were gabby.

Duggan, presiding like a judge in an over-stuffed swivel chair, seemed like a thinned-down version of his old self since he fell out of a two-story window and landed on his head. To buck two of primetime high raters on the network and woo back his old following, he's going to need more than he gave Sunday night.

SPECIAL

GEMINI-10 EVA—In a docking maneuver with the Agena left over from Gemini-8, astronauts Young and Collins may set an altitude record for man. Coverage begins at 2:30 p.m., ch. 4, with the other networks following at 3 p.m., as Maj. Collins steps out into the ionosphere to walk over to the target vehicle left behind last March when the Gemini-8 mission was aborted, and there to retrieve an instrument left aboard.

CIRCUS PREMIERE—Bill Burrud and Alan Sloane move over to the L. A. Sports Arena to talk with celebrities attending the 1966 premiere, and backstage with some of the star acts of the 96th edition of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. Hour, taped, is at 7 p.m., ch. 13.

SIBERIA: A Day in Irkutsk—NBC News cameras journey 3000 miles into the interior Siberia to familiarize viewers with a strange country, and a sprawling city of 480,000 people whose pioneering spirit and skills are helping to develop the city. Kenneth Bernstein narrates the George Vicas-produced color hour at 9 p.m., ch. 4, which visits a woman surgeon, a locomotive engineer on the Trans-Siberian Railroad, a university dormitory, a factory worker, a hunter and a young actress. Siberian TV executives, incidentally, were so intrigued with what Vicas and his 9-man camera crew were doing that they produced a special program based on the activities of the NBC unit.

WEDNESDAY MOVIES—With "Big Valley" shifted to Mondays, and "Long Hot Summer" gone kaput, ABC fills the remaining 8 weeks of summer with repeat screenings of some of the movies premiered on Sundays this season. Opener, at 9 p.m., in color, ch. 7, is the John Wayne-starring "Comancheros." Movies will be dropped Sept. 14 with the fall premieres of Robert Lansing's "The Man Who Never Was," "Peyton Place II" (with color added, Mia and her 9-karat diamond dropped) and the distinguished "ABC Stage '67."

Sun 'n' Salt Photos

By A. C. MacLeod

THE old-time salt waited until the sun was over the yardarm to splice the mainbrace. Today, when the sun is over the yardarm the photographer gets his camera out of its seagoing togs and starts shooting. High noon and a bright blue water dotted with white sails will stir the pulse of even the most casual snapshooter.

With more and more people taking to the water with boats of their own it is almost inevitable that you will be invited to a day afloat sometime this summer, even if you have yet to consider the purchase of your own craft.

Naturally, too, you will want to take your camera along to record the event.

We said "seagoing togs" and we meant just that. It doesn't pay to take a camera aboard a small boat without some sort of protection against the bouncing it may get if there is any kind of sea running and you are aboard a fast boat.

IF YOU don't own a field-case, a good seagoing make-do is always at hand. Place the camera in a clear plastic bag such as those in which shirts come back from the laundry and wrap the camera in its plastic bag in a towel.

The plastic bag will protect the camera against moisture. If it is a real wet day with plenty of wind driven spray, you can shoot with the camera in its plastic cover by cutting an opening for the lens and working the controls through the plastic. A rubber band, a sunshade or a filter ring will hold the plastic in place around the lens.

Incidentally, a skylight or haze filter is not only desirable for its filtering effect but also to protect the costlier lens against spray if you are on salt water. It will not change exposure. The towel will protect the camera if it falls out of a bunk or a seat when the boat heels.

You will want to take some pictures aboard, but unless it is a full-fledged yacht you will have to work in rather cramped quarters. Too many pictures will come out looking much the same unless you use care in selecting your viewpoint. Get the helmsman at the wheel or working over a chart, get everyone at lunch time, perhaps shooting from the cabin top. Get the passengers and crew doing something and plan on plenty of close-ups.

Don't step backward to get a longer viewpoint and step over the side.

Pan and Fan Mail

Why do you so often short change your "TV Movie Tips" column?

Often you only get through the first few days of the week. Apparently if there is anything else at all to publish, that is the column you cut.

Even then each day is far from complete, though usually you get the more important movies listed for each day—not always, however.

Surely there must be other people like me who cannot stand most of television's daily drivel and confine themselves largely to old movies, if anything.

Mrs. Dudley N. Lapman, Garden Grove

All movies are listed in the daily TV logs.

Some of the old movies have been repeated so many times, they have whiskers. When a day comes along where these are the only offerings, we shave it off the "TV Movie Tips" column.

Is the girl who played opposite Jackie Cooper on "People's Choice," Patricia Breslin, the same who plays "Wanda the Witch" on the commercial and a nurse on the serial "General Hospital?"

S. Ready, Lakewood

Yes.

* * * *

I'd like to know why they took "Peter Gunn" off the air. I thought it was a great show and Craig Stevens fit perfectly.

K. Vaughan, Wilmington

I assume your "off the air" reference is to the last re-playing of the "Peter Gunn" series on KTLA (channel 5).

Actually, the series originally aired on NBC-TV from 1958 until 1960. Then ABC-TV picked it up and ran it from Oct. 3, 1960, through Sept. 25, 1961.

KTLA bought the off-network repeat rights in 1961 and periodically aired the series through June 21 of this year. KTLA has now played out its rights and will not again repeat the series.

"Gunn" is done, but you're right. It was a great show.

It's Wired for Beauty

By Ellen Krec

A HOUSE WIRED for beauty as well as sound—that's the home in Long Beach's Country Club area owned by Dr. and Mrs. Earl D. Donaldson.

Their home originally was designed to accommodate two teenagers and was purchased by the Donaldsons to give their two children opportunities to enjoy similar experiences.

The home has been redecorated completely and some advantageous structural changes made.

With an ability to ferret out interesting antiques and their personal good taste, the Donaldsons have accomplished exactly what they hoped for . . . a home for living, entertaining and for two teenagers.

Dr. Donaldson says he "eliminated and illuminated!" since lighting left a great deal to be desired. The orthodontist with a hobby of lighting and sound developed many unusual effects in both as replacement-additions.

A monolithic light at the entrance of this distinctive home is taupe wrought on a pedestal of used brick. Originally it was bright enough to light the entire neighborhood but was subdued by using black electrical tape around the fluorescent tube.

The shingle lap and stucco exterior is accented by silver birch trees and shrubs of various textures and colors, some to flower and others to provide background.

The gold-and-white foyer is lighted by a swirl of wrought iron leaves with tiny bulbs in the centers. The light makes a fine background for a favorite Carrara marble bust of an English maid. The long narrow window behind the statuary lends a translucent effect to the marble.

The major structural change was in the living room. A massive stone fireplace previously had been surrounded by cupboards and book cases and a raised hearth covered the full length of the room. All of the bookcases and cupboards, along with a portion of the hearth, were removed to allow for badly-needed window space. The front of the living room was completely opened with glass—and this presented another wiring project. The antique white draperies allowed for a simple valance and under this a fluorescent light that gives a lovely glow in the evening and eliminates the use of more lamps.

The shortened fireplace hearth created an entrance into the fern garden. This can be closed with draperies that are illuminated. However, the garden is so refreshing no one ever closes it off. The garden was conceived to bring beauty to an already-fenced four-foot space. This area was dark and the fence so close in that draperies always were closed.

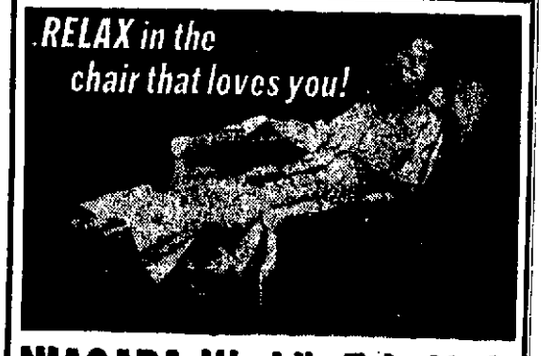

With the acquisition of a carved boy and dolphin at one of the many auctions the Donaldsons attend, the garden was started. The two art objects were converted into a fountain with water pouring into an attached shell. The rest was simple, or so thought the Donaldsons.

They started with exotic ferns and as the plants died, they replaced them with monkey foot, asparagus and fatshedera ferns, using these on the fence as well as in hanging baskets. The effect was cool serenity.

Bronze and plum are the predominant colors in the living room. A plum-and-gold glass lamp along with a royal purple coat of arms was the basis for the accessory color. The two Italian carved chairs are covered with bronze silk shantung to blend with bronze-and-green sectionals encircling the fireplace. Wedge-shaped tables in avocado separate the sectionals to complete the circle.

An onyx-and-gold server shares part of this room. This is held in position by two gold Grecian consoles and is flanked by torch lights originally planned for outside. The background here is an antique mirror.

Plan 'Las Vegas Tonight' Video Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The owner of the largest warehousing firm in the United States has announced plans for a two-hour color television series on a new network of more than 100 stations across the nation.

Daniel H. Overmyer, 41, said his Overmyer network, to be known as ON, will make its debut after Labor Day of 1967. The show will be called "Las Vegas Tonight" and will be telecast five nights a week for 26 weeks with options running for seven more years, he said.

Overmyer said the show will be coordinated with the Nevada Resort Assn., composed of 11 hotel-casinos on the "Strip." Members are the Aladdin, Caesar's Palace, Dunes, Desert Inn, Hacienda, Riviera, Sahara, Sands, Stardust, Thunderbird and Tropicana.

* * * *

THE OVERMYER firm controls more than $200 million in warehousing across the country.

Gabriel Vogliotti, executive director of the NRA, said the show would be similar in format to the late shows on the three major networks.

He said it would be rotated among the member hotels on a weekly basis, with each show taped in the afternoon and shown during prime time. The William Morris Agency in Hollywood will provide show business personalities, he added.

Candid Painter

If a candid camera were turned on Allen Funt it would reveal that the creator of "Candid Camera" on CBS-TV is an enthusiastic and proficient sculptor, painter and writer, in addition to being the producer of "candid" research and sales-training films for many of the country's leading industrial and professional organizations.

Sports Today

BASEBALL, 5 p.m., in color, ch. 5 finds Buddy Blattner and Don Wells at Yankee Stadium as the Angels begin a 4-day series with New York. (A Sunday game also will be telecast.)

SPECIAL

SUMMER FUN—The cost of pilot films being what it is, and sponsors willing to take anything that's not a repeat, ABC has packaged seven comedy films it considered scheduling for next season—then rejected—featuring such stars as Bert Lahr, Tom Ewell, Keenan Wynn and Joan Blondell. Kicking off the 8 p.m. series, ch. 7, and spanning the time between Tammy's demise and Time Tunnel's debut, is "McNab's Lab," in color, starring Cliff Arquette as a town druggist whose main interest is inventing contraptions.

WAYNE & SHUSTER — Departing from their regular format of profiling comedians, Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster look at Westerns, from 1917's William S. Hart to the present. The 10 p.m. hour, ch. 2, also looks at singing cowboys, memorable scenes from the past, and even Westerns with Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. The universal appeal is demonstrated with scenes showing Dale Robertson speaking dubbed German, William Holden dubber French and Robert Horton dubbed Spanish. (Next week, a postponed profile of W. C. Fields.)

Bronze sectionals form circle about natural stone fireplace in formal living room. Hanging lamp (rear, right) is antique wrought iron with painted flowers.

This area also is shared by a pecan gateleg table used for more formal dining.

An additional problem was solved in the 40-foot hall. This previously was lined with closets and displayed a barren appearance. The Donaldsons lined one side of the long wall with all of the family paintings, including a lithograph belonging to Mrs. Donaldson's mother. This can be considered antique but the family treasures it because two children portrayed resemble Diane and Dean Donaldson when they were small. The other side of the wall was left intact; the only change was the use of recessed drawer pulls to reduce snagging of clothing.

The master bedroom is the ultimate in elegance with a plum velvet headboard outlined with gold wrought-iron and matching velvet spread. Since all closet and drawer space is behind doors, there is plenty of room for a chaise and a small gold antique commode. This room has its own little foyer and bath. Both blend with the master bedroom to create a small suite.

Both Dean and Diane wished to have the bedroom off the pool. To solve this, it was decided to make a little jewel of a guest room of that space.

This is a rare house indeed, with two distinct "pool rooms." The pool guest room is in a champagne and a blue that "reaches out" to the pool through glass doors. The furniture is small in keeping with the size of the room and the bed-sofa is both attractive and functional. The exciting touch in this room is the lighting—a brass, gold and crystal, Tiffany-type hanging lamp that drops from a chain over an antique gold [illegible] table.

some of the unusual accessories were found at auctions.

The other pool room, in contrast to the elegant sitting room, really has a pool table. The room is an old-fashioned poolroom complete with 1914 green felt-topped table, an elephant's foot for an ash container and significant poolhall cartoons done by an artist named Meyers—who has never shot pool! The glass sliding doors cleverly were painted with pool cues and balls to prevent break through. The Donaldson family spends much time in the poolroom and most of their activities take place around the lop-sided-lollipop-shaped pool.

The patio has been wired for sound, light and for heat. This area is completely exposed but can be used all year because of heating units installed by the family wiring expert.

Another useful auction accumulation are two old sewing machines converted into an outdoor table-server. Children especially love to eat at these because they can pedal at the same time. Two very practical rooms are directly off the patio. One is a completely tile-lined bath-dressing room, the other a utility room also containing a stove for patio cooking.

Completing the pool circle is the den. This is a marvel of light and sound. Its beamed ceiling is lined with several square, recessed, individually-controlled lights that can burn high or dim, depending on the candle-power desired. The walls all are paneled in ash and a theater-size stereo is hidden behind part of the paneling. This was installed by Dr. Donaldson and, to allow sound to come forth, he bored holes in the paneling, giving a Moorish effect.

This room is the family activity center and all the furniture may be moved at a moment's notice, on brass casters, for dancing. The colors in this room are bold blues and greens. Mrs. Donaldson, whose forte is antiquing, did the old Spanish chairs in forest green.

The dining area between the den and kitchen is furnished attractively in filigreed wrought iron. This is all black to carry out a theme created by the acquisition of a black antique Spanish chandelier.

The walk-through kitchen is soft yellow with birch cabinets and has a step-in pantry.

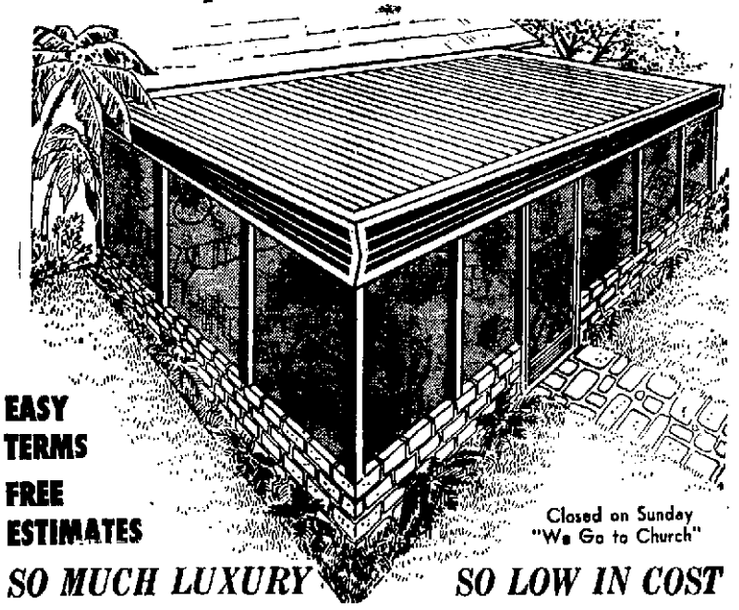

Dean's room is very masculine with molded leather and plywood chairs. A woven Spanish bedspread in gold creates the color scheme. Dean designed and made the antique sword holder from wood, felt and an old German helmet. He is prone to leave out his sports equipment, especially his skis, because he "just likes to look at them." He inherited the stereo and television set from the previous house because he has all built-ins and had room for them.

Diane's room is flowery and fluffy with nosegay-and-bow wallpaper and matching twin bedspreads. Her own seafoam velvet chaise and the furniture, with the exception of the gold wrought iron headboards, is painted avocado.

Dollars Attract Actors to Plugs

By GEORGE GENT
New York Times Service

NEW YORK—In the not very distant past, most self-respecting actors would rather have played a bit part in Sheboygan than appear on a radio or television commercial. But not any more. Time, the changing theatrical climate and the pot of gold at the end of every one-minute spot ad served to heal most of the sensitive thespian's psychic wounds.

Once convinced that the financial rewards were greater than the risks to status, actors began badgering their agents to get them assignments. Among the well-known actors who have joined the ranks of TV commercial pitchmen in recent months are Joseph Cotten, Norman Rose, William Prince, Joan Fontaine, Barbara Stanwyck, Jason Robards Jr., Edward G. Robinson, Lauren Bacall, Robert Taylor and Van Johnson.

* * * *

IT IS EASY to see why. The financial rewards for a couple of hours of work on TV commercials can reach well beyond the dreams of avarice. The average annual take for a single commercial is between $1500 and $2000; somewhat less for spot commercials. Sometimes an actor gets lucky. A few have netted as much as $10,000 after only a single day's work on a commercial slated for multiple national showings.

The basic minimum scale for a program commercial (one associated with a given program) is $105 for the first use, with a gradual decrease for each subsequent use up to 13 weeks, when it returns to top scale. But most of the famous Broadway and Hollywood stars now working on commercials receive well above the minimum.

* * * *

ONE IS Alexander Scourby, the noted theater, TV and motion picture actor, who was one of the first to lend his famous voice to the sale of products on television. Scourby's voice, which many critics have called the finest in the American theater, is currently coaxing viewers to fly Eastern Air Lines, relieve headaches with Excedrin and dirt-proof minor cuts and bruises with Band Aids.

Scourby denied, however, that he had given up acting.

"I still do an occasional play out of town—I recently did "Sparks Fly Upward" at Southern Methodist University—just to remind myself that I'm still an actor."

An Irish Paradox

ON THE STAGE OF politics in the 19th century there appeared a long-run tragedy. It was the Irish national movement. Born out of the potato famines of the 1840s, the drama was played against the background of the feudalistic absentee landlord system which kept the nation in direst economic serfdom. The key to breaking this stranglehold maintained by the English lay in self-rule for Ireland.

The foremost supporter of autonomy was Charles Stewart Parnell who flashed across the stage like a meteor in the 1870s and 80s and held his Gaelic countrymen in the palm of his left hand while with his right he tweaked the beard of John Bull, symbol of the most powerful and influential nation in the world at that time.

PARNELL WAS A paradox. An aristocrat by birth and by his manner, he looked down his nose at his raffish colleagues and followers. Owner of an estate, he led the fight against his fellow landlords. He was a Protestant leader of a predominantly Roman Catholic country. He was reticent and eloquent, unlearned to the point of ignorance yet possessed of a mind which cut to the very center of complicated and cloudy issues.

The extraordinary rise to power of the "uncrowned king of Ireland" and his Miltonian fall over the illicit love of a married woman is chronicled in the biography "THE PARNELL TRAGEDY" by Jules Abels (The MacMillan Company $7.95).

IT IS THE FASCINATING story of a great and strange man who led Ireland to the brink of achieving its dream only to shatter that dream in his own destruction.

Abels' writing is thoroughly authentic and readable and, on the whole, objective, although he does seem to come down hard on the Irish Roman Catholic clergy and its role in Parnell's downfall.

A No-Guff War Chronicle

By Buck Lanier

MIDWAY: TURNING POINT IN THE PACIFIC. By Vice Adm. (ret.) William Ward Smith. Thomas Y. Crowell Co., $4.95.

JAPANESE FLEET Admiral Yamamoto was a standout among the Japanese high command. He knew that Japan had to win World War II within a year after Pearl Harbor.

He correctly estimated the manpower and industrial potential of America. His goal was to lure the Pacific Fleet into a decisive action at Midway.

He did not know, however, that the U.S. had broken the Japanese Imperial Code and also that his chief deputy, Adm. Nagumo would "choke," causing three carriers to be lost in five minutes. Armed and fueled planes were aboard.

THE AUTHOR of "Midway," one of the four flag officers at Midway, was on the heavy cruiser Astoria, commanding the screen for the carrier Yorktown. He draws on his own experience during the June 4-8, 1942, battle, plus interviewing Navy and government officials, studying Japanese war records and talking with many survivors.

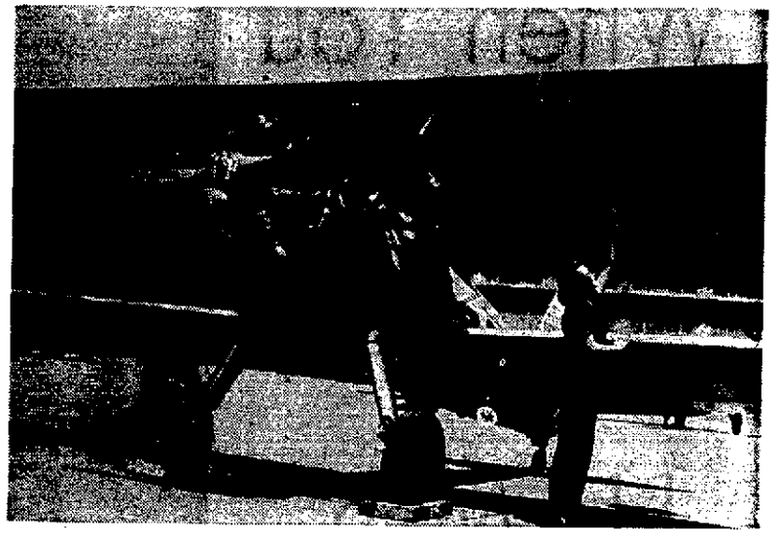

Navy fighters were used for the first time at Midway and Adm. Smith vividly recounts the air action—some of it sending U.S. torpedo bomber pilots into eternity.

The admiral makes no bones about the U.S. having a considerable amount of luck, too.

BUT EVEN more refreshing in the book is the amazing lack of guff which has marred the postwar memoirs of more than one eminent American commander.

As his account unfolds the reader sees continuing credit given to enlisted men and junior officers, who he maintains, "were mostly responsible for victory at Midway."

One of his interesting revelations, too, is about the Navy, "dry" since 1914, becoming "wet" in a makesense way. It was all legal.

OF WAVES AND WINGS—Waves at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station in 1943 give a Navy trainer a checkup. These craft were fondly dubbed "Yellow Perils" and are the main "characters" in Joe James' "TEACHER WORE A PARACHUTE," A. S. Barnes, $5.95, a book about Navy flight instructing in World War II.

A VIEW OF THE CHILD

HERE ARE books to help parents better understand their children:

THE INTELLIGENT PARENT'S GUIDE TO CHILD BEHAVIOR: Understanding the Child from Birth to Adolescence" by Beatrix Tudor-Hart. (Delacorte, $5).

This book discusses eating, sleeping, discipline, learning to read, write and adjust happily to other persons. The author, a British educator, stresses the importance of physiological influences on human development, behavior and intelligence.

Stepparents, it must be admitted, have a pretty rough time—perhaps even as rough as many of the stepchildren. "THE SUCCESSFUL STEPPARENT" by Helen Thomson (Harper & Row, $4.50) is a guide to stepparents experiencing the wearying but hopefully rewarding task of bringing up someone else's children. The author, in one chapter, discusses candidly the plight of stepparents who don't like children—particularly their stepchildren.

Despite the fact that they once were children, most adults have forgotten what it is like to be a "young citizen," maintains Leontine Young in "LIFE AMONG THE GIANTS, A CHILD'S EYE VIEW OF THE GROWN-UP WORLD" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95). She warns parents to expect children to be extremely honest and extremely observant.

Battleground of Old

ROLL, JORDAN ROLL. By Robert St. John. Doubleday, $5.95.

WHILE THE Jordan River Valley is the birthplace of three great religions, with their Old and New Testaments and Koran, all preaching love of fellow man, it is, paradoxically, also the battleground of unending wars dating back to Joshua.

Robert St. John, noted foreign correspondent of radio and now prolific author and researcher on the Middle East, traces in "Roll, Jordan Roll" the physical course of the river from its source on Mt. Hermon to its Dead Sea terminus, as it relates to the awesome but troubled history of its peoples.

CANNIBALISM AND HUMAN SACRIFICE. By Garry Hogg. Citadel, $5.95.

In some parts of the world a man sighing for the good old days is likely to pat his stomach nostalgically as he does so. Cannibalism and human sacrifice are dying out, though they remain in a few odd corners. This book discusses the practices among the Australian aborigines, the Fijians, the Aztecs, the Maoris, in Indonesia and in the Amazon basin. There is a fascinating chapter of the Leopard Societies of Sierra Leone.

A SOUND OF HORSES. By David Alexander. Bobbs-Merrill, $6.50.

They call it the sport of kings, but even the commissars go for it, for horse racing fills the stands even in Soviet Russia. It was Charles II who gave horse racing its biggest boost when he imported quantities of Arabian mares into England. Ninety per cent of today's race horses are direct descendants of Eclipse, bred in 1764 by the Duke of Cumberland. From Pancho Villa's men sneaking through the Mexican army's lines to watch the races at Juarez, to the great champion Kelso's love of chocolate sundaes, this is a mine of information of the sport.

LANDMARKS IN GREEK LITERATURE. By C. M. Bowra. World, $8.95.

Greek literature, which began in the 8th century B.C. with a handful of broken texts "scratched or painted on vases or carved on stone" and reached full glory in the Homeric epics, is Western man's most precious cultural heritage. C. M. Bowra's desciptive and critical history of the finest of the Grecian works is invaluable as a reference for students but its consideration of the gigantic achievements of the Greek philosophers, historians and dramatists, of the Greek epics and lyric songs, and of the golden orators, makes this learned survey a reading pleasure for the nonstudent as well.

THE FINE ART OF HYPOCHONDRIA or HOW ARE YOU? By Goodman Ace. Doubleday, $3.95.

If you still have a warm spot in your heart for Easy Aces, one of the funniest programs radio ever had, this is a chance to renew aquaintance with the male half of the team. Light, but good for summer.

Garden Tips

VIBURNUM ROBUSTUM handsome tall growing shrub blooms during the winter season. The dense clusters of whitish flowers add needed winter color. This handsome rugged shrub is mildew proof, and is just as "minimum care a garden shrub" as any of the evergreens sans attractive flowers.

BE CAREFUL how often you water your ivy ground cover or ivy leaf geranium ground cover. Keep them too moist and you're likely to cause a fungus condition. The fungus causes ivy leaves to have brown spots, and ivy leaf geranium leaves to wilt, dry, and branches die back.

SHAMEL ASH TREES growing in lawns should be deeply watered periodically to encourage roots to grow down. Lawn watering only causes roots to grow lazy and grow near lawn surface, consequentlly roots sometimes push up the lawn.

HIBISCUS AND GARDENIA flower buds should stop dropping now. The spring flower bud drop was mainly due to erratic weather conditions. Buds developed normally during spell of mild or warm weather. Soon as cool overcast days took over, buds dropped.

PLANT YOUNG CORRAL BELL PLANTS now, and next spring they'll burgeon forth with lovely sprays of red color small flowers. Even when the plants aren't blooming, the low mounding plant clumps are attractive as informal edging plants along a driveway, walk, edging and sunny flower bed or rose bed, or patio.

CUT OUT STUBBY, several-inches long side branches of roses to allow more air circulation for the brush. Removing them helps roses develop more bloom branches.

MAKE YOUR GARDEN hose cut down on bugs infestation of your plants by hosing the foliage with sharp stream of water.

TREES GROWING in lawns usually don't get enough water, hence the roots near the lawn surface. They should be slowly soaked at least once a month throughout the summer season.

GIVE ROYAL BIRD of paradise deep drinks of water. Feed them a balanced plant food that contains more phosphoric acid than potash, to encourage plant to bloom more.

"Kazo" meaning "great speaker."

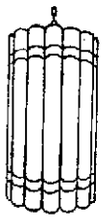

MISS RULE: Kindly analyze KLEINSORGEN,— M. K., Long Beach.

KLEINSORGEN, an unusual German character-descriptive surname, deciphers as "Little anxious one." Among several shields for this family, one from Westphalia is unique and gold decorated with two black, interlaced triangles forming a star.

MISS RULE: Please give data on GARNES. — L. G., Long Beach.

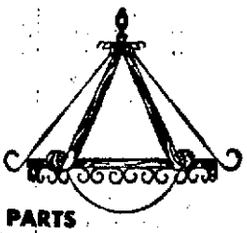

GARNES began in Britain as "Garnier-sone" meaning "Son of the defending warrior." The Garnes shield is silver, emblazoned with a blue chevron lying between three blue sea shells.

COIN ROUNDUP

2 Big Meets

By Maurice M. Gould

THE WORLD'S leading coin group, the American Numismatic Association, with more than 27,000 members, will be holding its Diamond Anniversary convention Aug. 16-20. The top brass of the numismatic world will appear in person for the occasion and excellent educational programs and business meetings will be among the highlights. All activities will be at Chicago's Pick-Congress Hotel.

Dealers from every part of the world will have bourse tables and millions of dollars of coins will be on exhibit, competing for fabulous prizes.

Congress has passed a bill providing for the striking of the ANA 75th anniversary medal at the United States Mint in conjunction with convention. This piece will be considered a national medal.

During the same month, another fabulous convention will be held by the Canadian Numismatic Association, the second largest group of collectors in the world. It will be held at the New Marlborough Hotel in Winnipeg on Aug. 25, 26 and 27.

While this will not be the huge size of the ANA get-together it will nevertheless be a convention patterned along the same lines. Many hundreds of Americans are members of this organization and look forward to attending each year.

Today we read much about the many different varieties of Lincoln cents—extra dots, lines, odd strikings, odd dates, etc., and there seem to be a tremendous number of new collectors who have become fascinated with this field.

It was in 1955 that a cent was discovered that created as much interest as anything in this field in the past 50 years. That was the 1955 double-die cent, which shows a double date. It is said that approximately 31,000 of these pieces exist and prices have steadily risen until this coin is in the $200 to $350 class.

Many errors have been made at the Mint over the years and these pieces are eagerly sought after by the mint-error collector. One early example is the 1801 large cent with three errors. This piece has only one stem to the wreath instead of two; the "U" in the word "United" was made into "II"; and the fraction, which should read "1/100," reads "1/1000."

MEDICINE AND YOU

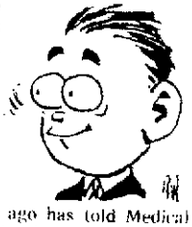

Pity Alcoholic M.D.s

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Editor

PITY THE ALCOHOLIC doctor. His chances for licking his disease are far less than those of other alcoholics.

The new finding is surprising, for doctors who are narcotics addicts have a far better rate of cure than addicts among the laity.

A doctor alcoholic who stopped drinking eight years ago has told Medical Tribune, a doctors' newspaper, that about 75% of alcoholics who voluntarily go to Alcoholics Anonymous for help are successful.

"But with doctors this drops to less than 50%," he says.

The doctor says that physicians are "the world's worst patients." Some tend to be arrogant, he explains, and humility is a necessity for a patient seeking a cure for alcoholism.

It's estimated that 5,000 to 10,000 doctors in the U. S. are problem drinkers.

THE STRANGE case of the "double whammy syndrome" is described in Archives of Internal Medicine.

Double whammy is the ability to voluntarily pop out one's eyeballs temporarily.

Dr. Barnett Berman of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine tells of one patient who had popped his eyes for a livelihood for about 30 years.

The patients, who worked in carnivals, had been written up in a medical journal years before, and at that time doctors feared propulsion of the eyeballs might prove injurious.

But Dr. Berman says there was no sign of injury to the optic nerve or to the eye itself. Visual impairment never materialized.

ANOTHER REPORT on a pulmonary disease caused by contact with pigeons and parakeets has appeared in a medical journal.

Called bird-breeder's lung, it's a hypersensitive reaction marked by fever, shivering, malaise, loss of weight, coughing and shortness of breath.

Among pigeon fanciers, attacks tend to come five to six hours after exposure to the pigeons' habitat. Among parakeet fanciers, however, onset of the disease tends to be insidious, and patients have advanced lung damage when first examined by a physician.

Bird-breeder's lung is similar to another disease known as farmer's lung, according to doctors at the Institute of Diseases of the Chest in London, England.

AGRICULTURAL scientists have produced a miniature white hog for use as a laboratory animal.

The miniature adult hog weighs about 175 pounds, compared to a normal adult hog weighing about 650 pounds.

Physiologically, hogs are much like humans. They are subject to many of the same disorders. Full-size hogs, however, are rather unwieldy for lab use. Thus the move to breed still smaller hogs for the nation's drug-testing program.

PREHISTORIC MAN lived an average of less than 20 years, according to evidence from fossils.

In that time few reached 40.

Most citizens of ancient Rome died before 30. And inscriptions on old tombstones indicate that the average life span in the U. S. around 1880 was only 35.5. Now it's up to 70.

A government agency now predicts that by the year 2000, the average lifetime will have risen to 74 for men and 78.9 years for women.

AFTER AGE 25, the suicide rate on university campuses rises considerably, researchers note. Which means, they say, that many more suicides can be expected on campuses, what with the great increase in the number of graduate students. The report is in the Journal of the American College Health Association.

Teen-Agers Reply

reduced to asking for money whenever they need it.

EVERYONE who received an allowance felt that they earned it rather than considering it a gift and indicated they preferred it that way. Chores brought no gripes. The survey indicated all the time-honored home chores were still in fashion, including for the girls: 32% housework, 32% washing dishes, 13% ironing and 10% babysitting younger brothers and sisters. The boys seem to get by with 15% general chores, 20% lawn mowing, 10% washing dishes and 10% washing the car. To help with the boys' money problems, 10% held part-time jobs.

Apparently then, few young people resent "pitching in" with the family's work. But how many parents approach their children with a work command in a negative, quarrelsome fashion anticipating resistance? One student noted, "It's the tone of voice that upsets me. My mother grouchs at me before I've even had a chance to smile and tell her that I'll be happy to help. Then I'm grouchy right back." Another boy added, "When my father asks me why I have not mowed the lawn, I spend ten minutes giving him ten reasons why I haven't. If he says 'go mow the lawn' I say okay, and do it." The consensus among teenagers seems to be: Ask us cheerfully, we'll do it cheerfully.

The largest area of protest against parents from the young of both sexes was that they wished their parents would pack up their bustles and high-topped shoes, put them in their buggies and run them back to the Nineteenth Century. The biggest sore spot on the teenage psyche is that parents are too old-fashioned and narrow-minded. Following is a potpourri of their comments.

WHAT DO parents have against independence? It's been proven that many teenagers get off on the wrong foot and defy their parents because they haven't enough freedom . . . Parents just won't let go . . . They treat us as sub-normal ten-year-olds . . . If they are just trying to protect us, they should make sure we know what we are being protected from . . . Some parents overwarn to a degree that he or she makes a neurotic out of a youngster and he never gets away from parental domination . . . Some parents think spoiling makes up for over-protection . . . We don't want to be pampered poodles.

Several noted that their smaller brothers and sisters were pests, but they hoped their parents wouldn't spoil them as they had been spoiled but would give them a chance to take on responsibilities.

It may seem that growing up or rearing children is a giant headache for both sides and only filled with problems. Never is there a peaceful moment and never can families get along. This conclusion is only partly true, for 35% of the girls and an amazing 43% of the boys were completely satisfied with their parents and wouldn't change them for the world. Many felt, when asked how they'd change their parents if they could, that it wasn't their place to change them—and they really didn't want to. They realized that their mothers and fathers were imperfect human beings only trying to protect them through their love and trying to help them grow safely to maturity.

Some remarked that they were aware that punishments are for their own good and they hoped to rear their children in the same way as had their parents.

This fact may seem surprising to many weary Moms and Dads who are convinced their teenagers think they are terrible old grouches who don't care about them.

SEVERAL bragged about the sage advice that parents give them. "My parents let me use my own judgment on the hours I keep on the following basis: I can't do anything after midnight that I couldn't do before!" Another bit of advice, "They don't want me to drive with more than my date in the car; there's NO safety in numbers." Such a new slant might prevent more than one accident.

In summary, then, what are these young people trying to say to their parents? As one of them, the theme is obvious to me. Simply stated it is, listen to us; we are smarter than you think.

Of course, we shall do stupid and inept things. But again, listen to us; give us the chance to say we are sorry, and THEN explain how we can learn from our mistakes. Punish us when we deserve it, and don't just threaten — follow through. Don't be afraid to ask for our help — but accept it cheerfully. We deserve the chance to contribute.

Finally, the independence we crave probably will be the last thing you are willing to relinquish, but as we fight with you for it and we win a little, bit by bit, be a graceful loser. In the long run you become the winner of the love and respect of a brand-new young adult.

Make Camping a Pleasure

By Steve Ellingson

THERE'S ONE item that makes camping a pleasure for everyone and that's a suitable camp kitchen. The one pictured here with actress Mary Ann Gaba has more conveniences than you can shake a frying pan at.

It's a streamlined version of those used many years ago when people crossed the country in covered wagons. You will notice that it has compartments for cooking utensils, dishes of all kinds, canned goods and various food containers. In fact, it contains in a well planned space, practically all of the items that you use daily in your kitchen at home.

Of all times when you want to have conveniences, it's when you're on a vacation. And of all people, the cook should have the best working conditions.

Camping chores are lightened with a build-it-yourself kitchen, shown with Mary Ann Gaba.

NOTICE HOW the top folds up to give you easy access to those items you use most frequently. The partition that holds the cups lifts up and out also. When the front is opened, it gives you lots of table top working space. It's easy to carry, there are handles on both sides. Just fill it up, load it in your car or boat and away you go.

Anyone can build this inexpensive camp kitchen in a couple of evenings when he uses the full size pattern. You simply trace the pattern parts on wood, saw them out and finally put them together.

To obtain the full size camper's kitchen pattern No. 213 send $1 by currency, check or money order to Southland Magazine Patterns Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Part of Rudy Vallee's palatial home high in Hollywood hills is for huge collection of memorabilia, souvenirs of 40-year career.

A Mellow 65 for Rudy Vallee

ple assume I was too tight to spend the money for one. The truth is I just like to drive my car myself. I enjoy doing things for myself. I've never had a manicure in a barber shop. I remember that I didn't even like my mother to tuck me in at night. I'd rather do it myself." (Incidentally, he is a rock-ribbed Republican.)

THE MAJOR REGRET of his life is that no one, it seems, ever took him seriously. In fact, he says, "It has been the curse of my life. Maybe it's because I have a weak face or something," says Vallee from behind pink cheeks, sparkling blue eyes and from under a full head of grayed hair.

"From as far back as I can remember, people have been telling me how to handle my career, how to run my life. Nobody will pay any attention to me even when I explain how foolish they are for not using the seat belts in their cars (Vallee has been a vociferous booster for auto safety belts since a serious crackup in 1953. He credits seat belts with saving his life. "I think there ought to be a law requiring everybody to use them and if you are caught without them fastened you should go immediately to jail without even a trial," he says.

It was probably his first brush with motion pictures that set the stage for his station in the public view—a position that often provokes snickers and guffaws at the mere mention of his name. "How green was my Vallee" is a common recollection of his pre-World War II film endeavors, a phrase that still makes him bristle. In all the years since '29 he has been trying to erase the memory of that first movie—"The Vagabond Lover"—and its egg-laying premiere at the Globe Theater in New York when half the first-nighters walked out during the showing.

He has taken movie roles that cost him considerable amounts of money in lost theater and nightclub bookings trying to recoup, but still he admits he will never forget that bitter disappointment. Though ensuing Vallee pictures were not cinematographic masterpieces by any stretch of the imagination—even Vallee's imagination—and are curios on late-night television, he says even today of that film debut some 37 years ago: "It is shown only in penitentiaries and comfort stations and the odor still remains in theaters where it played."

BUT IT'S BEEN a bitter-sweet life, one that Vallee says was "awfully good" in spite of courtroom and backstage slugging matches surrounding his ill-fated marriages and ill-advised show business associations. He regrets the tens and hundreds of thousands of dollars that slipped through his fingers, for today he is comfortably well off but still considers himself a working man.

"If I could have, I would have retired several years ago," he admits. "But I didn't make the big money people associate with the top names who are still going today who have been around as long as I have. I didn't get in on the ground floor in oil stocks or Palm Springs real estate. Every dime I have made I made with hard work and sweat. Five and six shows a day on a theater stage and then a full night in a club up until 4 a. m. and recording and radio shows wedged in between. Nothing has come easy."

In one breath he will recount uncountable incidents of bad luck, thievery, skulduggery that cost him a week's pay, a month's royalties, as much as two years' income from a daily nightclub job at the Villa Vallee, now the Copacabana in New York. ("I'm the greatest pushover of all time.") But in the next breath he'll tell you "I had the most important thing and I had it good. I had health. I was never sick a day in my life and if you've got good health, you've got everything."

VALLEE HAS MELLOWED graciously. His stride is still strong and his stamina undiluted. He played three years and five weeks in the stage production "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" without missing a day.

Few of the misfortunes of his four-decade brush with boisterousness and broadcasting anger him any longer. He smiles a wry smile when he recalls the time he signed a contract at the Villa Vallee to play for 40% of the cover charge, a deal that figured to make him a rich man, only to find "eleven clauses in fine print that I didn't read that nullified the 40% and made me work two years for nothing plus winding up paying for my own meals."

Today he seems content with his wife of 17 years, a quiet marriage to the former Eleanor Kathleen Norris, who was a 21-year-old college girl when they wed. He spends his idle time keeping up his vast collection of souvenirs gathered over nearly 40 years since "I burst upon an astonished American public with a pretty good saxophone and a totally untrained voice that made everybody feel kind of comfortable."

Today he is recognized as a polished Broadway performer and his varied credits in recent years have brought him applause from the ranks of show business.

If Rudy Vallee has spent all the years since the film "The Vagabond Lover" trying to escape the echoes of ridiculing laughter, he may have made it.

He Has Brains--Plus

By Eleanor Avery Price

WE THINK of the late Albert Payson Terhune as a collie fancier only, because of his beautiful writings on this working breed. But the airedale terrier somewhere along the line must have stolen a big part of his heart. Reprinted from Nature Magazine in the fine book, "The Complete Airedale" (Howell Book House) by Gladys Brown Edwards, are these words of Terhune:

"Among the mine pits of the Aire, the various groups of miners each sought to develop a dog which could outfight and outhunt and outthink the other miners' dogs. Test of the first-named virtues were made in intermine dogfights. Bit by bit, thus, an active, strong, heroic, compactly graceful and clever dog was evolved—the earliest true form of the Airedale.

"Then the outer world's dog fancier got hold of him and shaped and improved him into the show-type airedale of today. The process was not long, for the newly evolved dogs were quick to adapt themselves to their creators' wishes. Out of the experiments emerged the modern airedale. He is swift, formidable, graceful, big of brain, an ideal chum and guard. There is almost nothing he cannot be taught if his trainer has the slightest gift for teaching. To his master, he is an adoring pal. To marauders he is a destructive lightning bolt. In the Southwest and elsewhere these traits have been made use of by numerous sportsmen. Airedales do the work of pointers and setters and other hunting dogs. For nose and steadiness and snappy retrieving and for finding fallen birds, these field-trained airedales have given surprisingly good accounts of themselves.

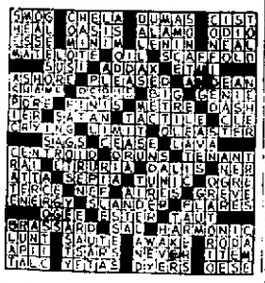

"THERE IS nothing thrown away in an airedale's makeup. Every inch of him is in use. Compact, wiry, he is "all there." No flabby by-products. A perfect machine, a machine with a brain plus. He shows phenomenal powers of brain and instinct found in few other dogs. Fashion can never rule the airedale out of existence. Too many people have learned to value him above any other breed. He is here to stay. He has won his right to permanence." (The airedales I've known were great!)

Meet George Allen

this league. You still must have top men . . . players and coaches . . . to win. Perhaps the top duty of any head coach is to work long and hard to insure a team of getting these top men, be it by trade, draft or signings.

"Repetition is another key to teaching football and I mean repetition almost to the point of boredom.

"Experience is so important in this game. I think we have added something like 33 years playing experience to our three-man linebacking corps by off-season deals in which we acquired Maxie Baughan, Jack Pardee, Bill George and Myron Pottios. It will make us a much better team, believe me."

George Allen, on the team's future:

"I am not concerned with a three-year plan, or even a two-year plan for winning. We are going all-out to win in 1966 and not devote any time or energy to a long-range program. Every move, every trade, every waking minute will be devoted to just that—success in 1966."

George Allen, on his outside interests:

"I've never thought about it much but I guess I do not have many interests other than football. I enjoy greatly my pet project of working in behalf of a Sioux Indian tribe in Pine Ridge, South Dakota. I spend a lot of time helping them raise funds to buy equipment for their athletic teams. Not too long ago they made me an honorary chief of their tribe. It was a great honor."

George Allen, on the Rams' new regular-season training base in Long Beach:

"I think this is most important. Our coaches now have the finest working accommodations, and offices in the NFL. The players will like the training facilities immensely."

A Ram Title?

has been mailed to season ticket subscribers.

"Pride comes in degrees," Allen says in his all-out pitch. "It is important that all of us are proud of the Rams' organization and we expect you to be proud when you make the Rams team. But this is not enough. To be proud of being a Ram and then lose game after game is not the pride I mean. Pride in being a WINNER is what we're after. We must pay the price to become a winner, a proud winner. I am proud to be with the Rams; proud to be a member of a fine organization, one with a great past and even finer future."

Another point Allen makes, which should come as good news to Ram fans, is that he believes in using two quarterbacks when two have comparable ability.

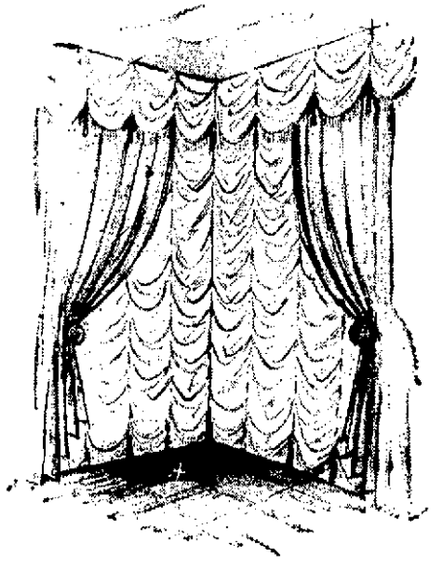

"I think we have the two best young quarterbacks in the game, Roman Gabriel is very good at executing the play-action pass (fake run). And he's so hard to bring down. Bill Munson beat us (the Bears) in the Coliseum. He has quick hands and he can scramble, too. They're different types, but if I have a problem, it's a nice problem to have."

His theory of offensive football is: 1—Be completely sound in everything you do; 2—You don't win with fancy stuff or surprises. "You win with soundness and no indecision."

All this may be a tall dream, but as far as HALAS-ucinations are concerned, Allen won't experience his first one until Sept. 16 when the Rams meet the Bears. That's the big day Papa Bear Halas takes the witness stand in the Coliseum.

Those Bloomin' Marigolds

By Joe Littlefield

AFRICAN MARIGOLDS with large pompom-like vivid orange or bright yellow color flowers resembling chrysanthemums, dahlias or carnations are fast growers and bloom easily. Water them generously and fertilize them twice during their active growth; you'll have lots of blooms 'way into the early fall season. These annuals grow nearly 3 feet tall and same spread, therefore, should be planted at the back part of the sunyy flower part of the sunny flower perennial flower bed. Pinch out the tips when plants are 8 inches or so tall and you'll encourage them to grow bushier.

African marigolds (above) supply bright, showy yellow or deep orange flowers in your garden.

French marigolds in orange, yellow or two-tone colors are dwarf sun-loving annuals. Planted in front of blue asters or the fuller upright growing bedding blue petunias, dwarf French marigolds provide an interesting color contrast in combination plantings.

All of us enjoy colorful flowers and some to cut for indoor decoration. Zinnias, asters, gloriosa daisies, amaranthus, celosias and petunias planted now in sunny areas would grow fastest and bloom quickest, too.

COLEUS provide showy colorful foliage in the shade garden. Fuchsias will furnish "dancing dolls flowers" and budding begonias brighten up the shade garden throughout the summer and well into fall.

Delphiniums that bloomed earlier will flower again. The second Pacific hybrids blooming crop of flower stems are much shorter than the first blooming crop of huge flower spikes.

Sow seeds now of true perennial delphiniums and next year you may have four or five crops of flowers. These delphiniums are the bellamossum and belladonna type. One color is light blue, the other a dark blue. They produce a dozen or more spikes of blossoms about 2 feet high. They'll mildew if planted too close together even in inland areas and must have lots of air circulation if planted near the coast.

As weather gets hot and we still set out plants, let's not forget that soil should be moist before setting out annuals, perennials, shrubs or trees from containers. One of the quickest ways to be sure the soil is moist is to fill the plant holes with water. Refill the holes a second time, and when water has soaked into the soil, then put some form of organic coarse material into the plant holes, mix with soil dug out to make the holes and set out the plants. Water well afterwards. (Should you set out the plants in dry soil, actually you are watering the soil rather than the plants because the dry, parched soil quickly absorbs the moisture before plant root balls may have an opportunity to absorb all the moisture needed.)

THIS SAME planting principle applies to setting out tomatoes. Plant some tomatoes right now. Assuming plants get normal watering and you periodically spray or dust them for possible pests or fungus problems, you cannot keep those tomatoes from holding their blossoms, setting fruit, and the fruit ripening!

Y'see, tomatoes are heat loving vegetables. They not only love the hot days, but the mild to warm nights as well. Dig holes 6 inches wide and 6 inches deep. Set out the plants in the bottom of the large holes. Gradually fill soil in around the plants as they grow taller, till you've filled the soil level with surrounding ground, then make a circular furrow to soak the soil thereafter. Planting tomatoes with this method helps the plants produce masses more of roots which in turn helps the plants grow huskier and naturally produce more fruit.

Gardeners' foremost basic problem during the hot summer season is sensible watering. Evening is a good time to water plants, excepting those that are fungus-prone, because the weather then is cooler. Every precious drop of water soaks into the soil. Fungus prone plants should be watered only in the forenoons.

GARDEN CLUBS

The Long Beach Fuchsia Society will hold a pancake breakfast from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. today at the home of J. E. Thompson, 3736 Falcon Ave.

Featured speaker will be Southland Magazine garden columnist Joe Littlefield. Also scheduled is an afternoon garden tour followed by refreshments.

Clarissa Harris of Calimesa, Calif., national staff member of the African Society of America, will speak Thursday at the monthly meeting of the Long Beach African Violet Society.

The meeting opens at 11 a.m. in the Woman's City Club, 1309 E. Third St., with a social hour and plant sale. In charge of these activities are Mrs. Margaret Chapman, Mrs. Eleanora Reisner, Mrs. Erna Newton and Mrs. Carolyn Rector.

Mrs. Harris, the featured speaker, will conduct an afternoon workshop dealing with soil mixes and fertilizers.

The Long Beach parent chapter of the American Begonia Society will meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room, 3901 Atlantic Ave.

Speaking will be Howard B. Criswell, an authority on insecticides, sprays and other garden equipment.

lin associated with tapestries? H.W.

A. Gobelin is the name of a family of dyers who founded a dye-works in Paris in the middle of the 15th Century; this plant developed into a famous tapestry works. The industry was bought by Louis XIV in 1662, and after the French Revolution, ownership passed to the state. Some of the designs woven during Louis XIV's time were done by the royal painter, Le Brun. Gobelin tapestries are noted for their excellent workmanship, dyes, and materials.

Q. If a tree is cut down, do the roots keep on living? T.M.

A. This depends on whether the stump or root crown sprouts. With only a few exceptions, like redwood, most conifers do not sprout and the root system therefore dies after the tree is cut down. Most hardwoods sprout, particularly when young, and some or all of the root system continues to live as long as there are living sprouts. If sprouts and shoot are cut off as fast as they appear, the roots will finally die and no more sprouts will issue.

Southland Dining at its Finest in the Long Beach and Orange County Area

I WASN'T surprised when host Arnold Vann told me that the phone at his Tenderloin restaurant in Long Beach rings constantly, with scads of people seeking reservations for prime rib dinners.

That's not news, because it's well known around town that this fashionable, scenic restaurant at 4363 Atlantic Ave. serves a fabulous prime rib au jus dinner for the unpretentious sum of $1.95.

I was a bit surprised, however, when Vann informed me that many customers phone to reserve end cuts of prime rib. I had't realized that the roasted ends (cooked well-done, instead of medium or rare) were so popular.

But Vann really flabbergasted me when he revealed that hordes of people phone The Tenderloin to reserve prime rib bones — and not for their dogs, either.

"Bones?" I said. "Are you kidding?" Vann definitely wasn't. Each of the restaurant's prime rib roasts contains 12 meaty bones. They are served on a special barbecued rib dinner for $1.50 which includes three beefy bones cooked in a delectable barbecue sauce. Also included are superb soup or salad; steaming Idaho baked potato; garden fresh string beans, garlic toast and beverage. The bones are so scrumptious the restaurant hasn't been able to keep up with the demand, which is why astute patruns phone to reserve theirs in advance.

The guests also enjoy the four different ways the restaurant prepares its savory string beans. One night the string beans are offered in a cream sauce the next night in a mild mustard-onion sauce; then in a tomato-bacon-onion sauce; and finally, in a sauce prepared with a rich chicken soup base.

Closed Mondays, The Tenderloin serves luncheon starting daily at 11:30 a.m.; dinner from 5 p.m. on.

SUNDAY TREAT—"First-rate . . . exceptional . . . de luxe . . ." Those adjectives aptly describe both the decor and food at Innes Cafeteria, 120 E. Fifth St., one of the most beautiful restaurants in downtown Long Beach. Designed in a spacious colonial style, the cafeteria serves bountiful dinners priced at $1.95 and less. Included are superb round of roast beef, baked ham, sea food, roast lamb and other entrees, accompanied by soup or salad, potato, vegetable, blueberry muffins or cheesebread, beverage and a fancy dessert.

handi wipes are the unique new fabric towels that can lick any towel in the house.

Stronger than paper, even when wet! Softer, too. Twice as absorbent as a paper towel. And you can use one over and over with just a rinse in-between. You can't do that with paper.

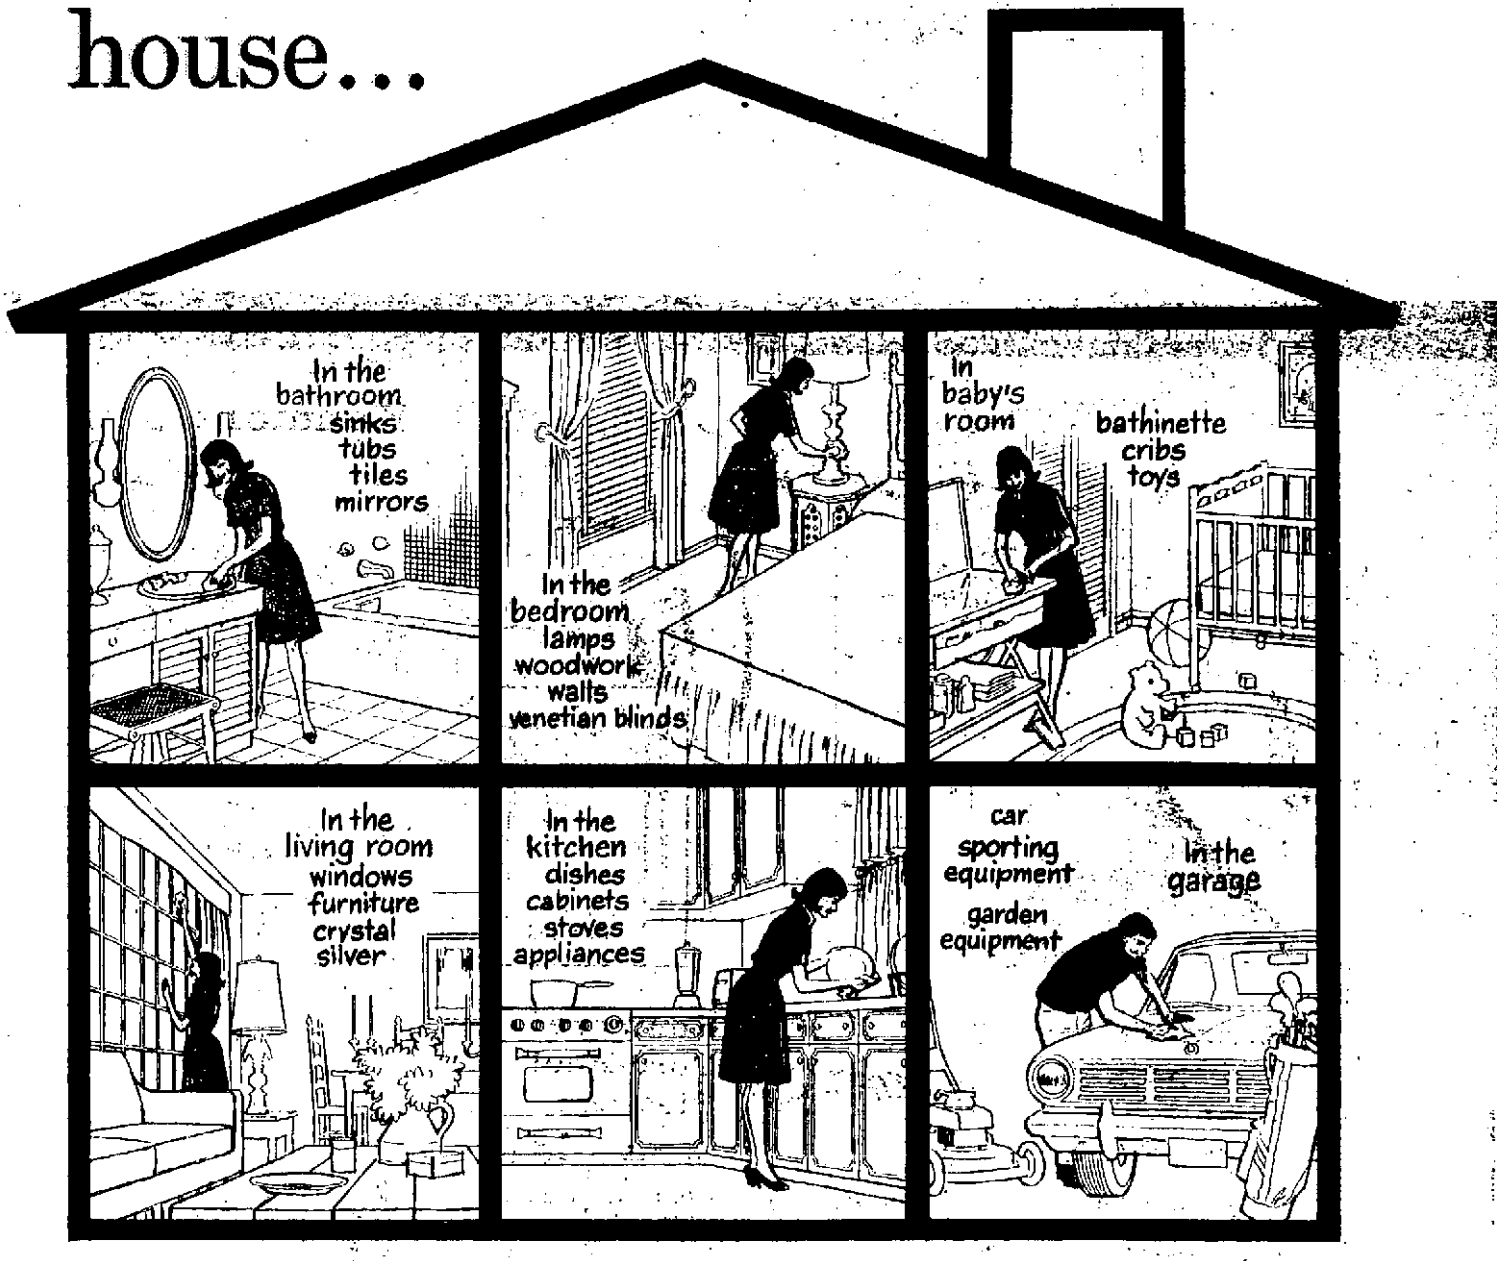

Better than cloth. Polishes glass surfaces, helps lick the lint problem. No messy laundry to do. When your Handi Wipes have had it, throw them away! You wouldn't do that with cloth.

Q. Is it true that in Vietnam for every Viet Cong killed or wounded, six civilians are killed and wounded?—R.B.L., Denver, Colo.

A. At this writing civilian casualties are reportedly running at a four to one basis, four civilians for every Viet Cong.

Q. Who are the number-one screen stars in France, male and female?—Carla Brubeck, Tucson, Ariz.

A. Brigitte Bardot and Jean Paul Belmondo.

Q. Huntington Hartford, heir to the A & P grocery fortune, recently sold 760,000 shares of A & P stock for around $22 million. How many shares does Hartford have left and is he a secret backer of the Playboy Clubs?—F.H., Chicago, Ill.

A. Hartford retains approximately 118,000 shares of A & P stock. He has never been a backer of Playboy Clubs.

Q. If Frank Sinatra was once a prizefighter, why does he have to have bodyguards?—S.T., Los Angeles, Calif.

A. To protect him.

Q. I would like for someone to explain why neither South Vietnam nor the United States has ever declared war on North Vietnam?—Marshall Eggers, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. Formal declarations of war involve complications, duties and obligations which none of the combatants are willing to risk. If President Johnson, for example, asked the present Congress for a declaration of war on North Vietnam, a lengthy and bitter debate would ensue. If Congress eventually declared war, we would have to honor our Geneva agreement on the treatment of prisoners of war. Now, whatever prisoners we take in Vietnam are turned over to the South Vietnamese. There would be many other complications.

Q. When did J. Edgar Hoover first go to work for the FBI?—B. Noel, El Centro, Calif.

A. On May 10, 1924, during the administration of Calvin Coolidge.

Q. If the U.S. puts a man on the moon before the Russians do, will the whole moon belong to the U.S.?—Dennis Doan, Loyall, Ky.

A. No, it will not. Attempts are currently being made to internationalize the moon.

Q. Humphrey Bogart was married four times. Please list his wives. Did he have any children?—J.A.K., Chicago, Ill.

A. Bogart's wives: Helen Mencken, Mary Phillips, Mayo Methot and Lauren Bacall. Miss Bacall, now married to actor Jason Robards, is the mother of two children by Bogart—Stephen, 17, and Leslie, 13.

Q. I understand Pope Paul VI will soon announce a change of attitude by the Roman Catholic Church on birth control. Is this so?—Salvatore Girone, Hoboken, N.J.

A. Such rumors have been widespread in Rome for months. Recently Cardinal Heenan, Archbishop of Westminster in London, wrote in a pastoral letter to 300 churches in his diocese: "The modern outlook is very different from that of 100 years ago. Physical science has revealed new facts about nature. Medicine and psychology have made discoveries about human life itself. Although truth remains the same, our knowledge of it is always increasing."

NICOLE ALPHAND AND JACQUELINE KENNEDY

Q. When Nicole Alphand was stationed in Washington with her husband, then French ambassador, she was considered one of the world's best-dressed women. Whom does Nicole Alphand consider the world's best-dressed woman?—D.L., Washington, D.C.

A. She has frequently mentioned Mrs. William Paley, wife of the CBS network chief, along with Jackie Kennedy and several others. She has also mentioned several French women: Jacqueline de Ribes, and the wives of French cabinet officers Malraux, Pompidou and Couve de Murville.

Q. Who is the press agent Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier hired to give Monte Carlo a new image?—George Fenway, Miami, Fla.

A. Georges Cravenne who is charged with making Monaco more attractive to the younger set.

Q. Who is the present poet laureate of England?—F. Davidson, New York, N.Y.

A. John Masefield, 88, poet laureate since 1930.

Q. I hear tell the two richest comedians in the world are Danny Thomas and Bob Hope. Is this true? If not, who is the richest?—Freda Sabinson, Far Hills, N.J.

A. Hope and Thomas are both millionaires. But probably the richest comedian is Charles Chaplin, largest individual holder of A.T.&T. stock and other holdings.

Q. It has been my belief that only native-born citizens of the U.S. may run for the office of President. If this is so, how can Governor Romney of Michigan even be mentioned as a candidate when he was born in Mexico and did not enter this country until he was six years old?—Adele J. Ringer, Bayville, N.J.

A. The Constitution specifies that no person except a natural-born citizen is eligible for the office of President. It does not say, "native-born." It says, "natural-born." And while no legal test has ever been made of the wording, it is held that a man must be born an American to hold the office. Romney was born in Mexico when his parents, both American citizens, were there on a mission for the Mormon Church. He is therefore an American citizen by jus sanguin, the right of blood. Chester A. Arthur, also a U.S. President, was probably born in Canada, but he, too, claimed citizenship because both of his parents were U.S. citizens.

Q. I would like to know how old the eternally juvenile Doris Day is? Does she take youth hormone shots? When did she break into films? Her first one? —Katherine Knowles, Virginia, Minn.

A. Miss Day is 42; she takes no youth shots; Romance on the High Seas was released in 1948.

shop around

With airlines, like with everything else, it often pays to shop around and compare. Chances are you've already tried more than one airline. That's good. Now, when you try Continental, you'll be able to tell the difference. You won't see much difference—all airlines use the same kinds of planes and provide the same kind of services—but you will feel it! What you feel is pride—the pride of Continental's people in their jobs, in themselves, in their airline. You feel it all around you . . . all the time . . . and you feel good. Comfortable. Confident. The reason for this extra measure of pride is that Continental, as major airlines go, is not a great big, impersonal one. So Continental's people are not lost in a great big shuffle—and neither are you. They can and do maintain their individuality, their interest and involvement in how their airline is run . . . and that's what you feel. Go ahead, shop around. Try another airline—any airline (they're all good) then try Continental and feel the difference pride makes. Your travel agent or Continental will arrange it . . . please call.

Spain:

The students and the soldiers: Frugging youngsters and parading military are deeply and basically in conflict. Students insist on and demonstrate for "a democratic Spain"; soldiers symbolize the repressive power of Franco's Spain—a police state, an obsolete generation.

a nation in ferment

by TREVOR ARMBRISTER

cover and photos by LARRY FRIED

Inside a Capuchin monastery near Barcelona were gathered 500 Spanish university students and intellectuals. Outside hovered scores of gray-uniformed police. Politely, the police told the students that their meeting was illegal and ordered them to leave. When they refused, the police cut the monastery's telephone lines and power supply. Finally, after a two-day siege, they stormed into the building and dragged 49 students off to jail.

At the University of Madrid, rebellious students paraded with posters urging a "democratic Spain." As they approached the chancellor's office, 50 mounted policemen charged into their midst. In the melee that followed, dozens of students were injured. Among them were seven Americans, including the granddaughter of former Secretary of State Christian Herter.

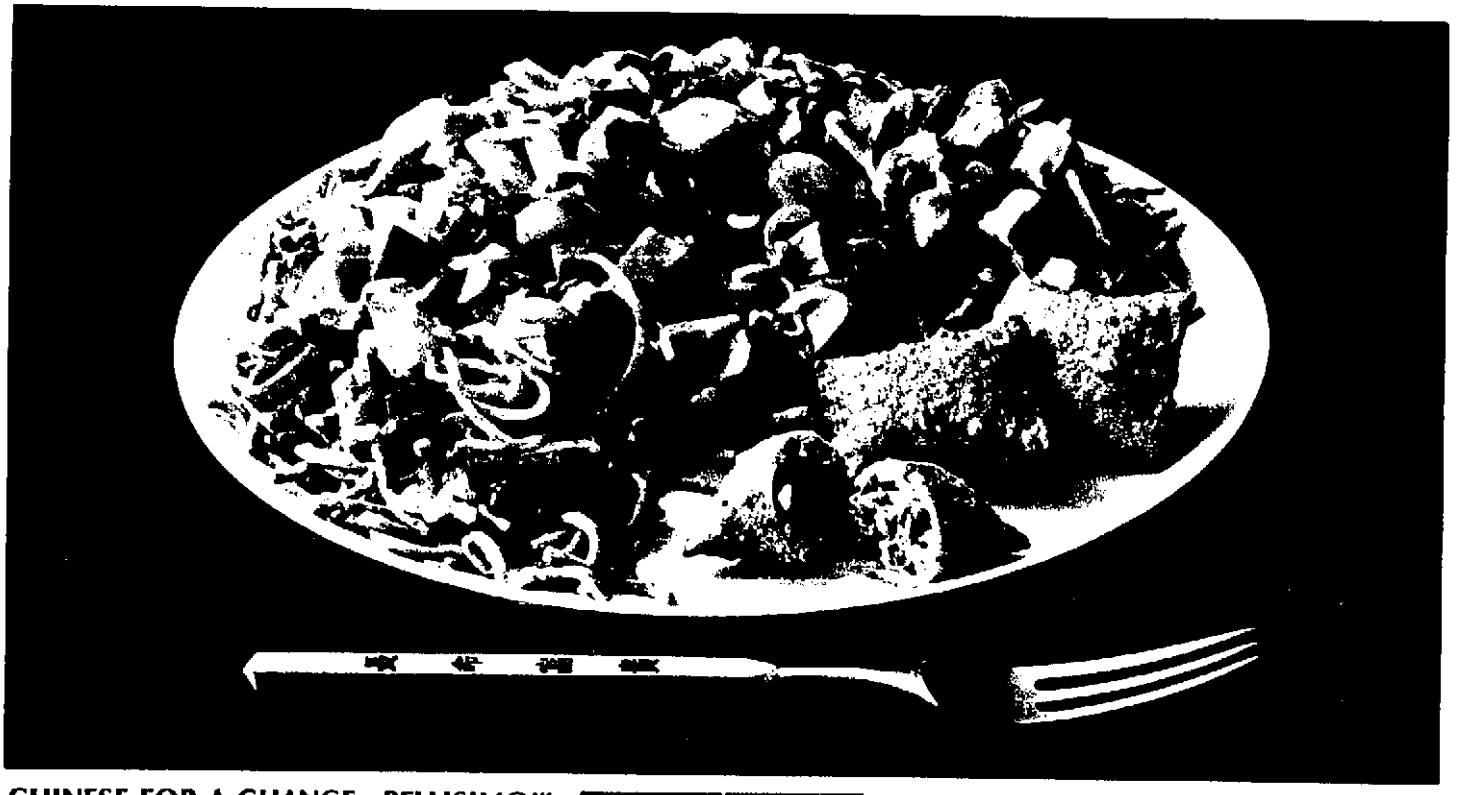

Down Barcelona's tree-lined Via Layetana trooped 130 priests. Angered by reports that police had tortured an imprisoned university student, they were planning to deliver a protest petition to the chief police inspector. As they clustered outside his office, 60 truncheon-wielding riot cops swung into action. The bloody clash lasted for more than half an hour. "They treated us like animals," one priest recalls. "They kept hitting us even when we were down."

With almost daily regularity, disturbances erupted in Spain's major cities this spring. At first their cause seemed simple enough: the government's resistance to student demands that they be allowed "free" unions instead of having to join the state-controlled University Students Syndicate. But it soon became clear that these cries for academic freedom were merely symptomatic of a more serious and far-reaching unrest—an unrest that carries both the seeds of hope and the potential of chaos.

CHINESE FOR A CHANGE—BELLISIMO!"
Chun King is not out to change your lifetime eating habits. But as Antonio Guardello discovered, a Chinese dinner does add spice to one's life. It's fun food. And since we do all the difficult things, it's easy. Tonight take Wong's egg rolls—crisp and flaky, filled with bits of shrimp, pork and Oriental vegetables. Add the main dish: chow mein enriched by chicken chunks, in a sparkly sauce with crunchy water chestnuts, bean sprouts, bamboo shoots, peppers, onion and celery. Ladle this onto crackling-crisp Chun King noodles and you have a delightful Chinese dinner that's "bellisimo"—in any language! Tomorrow, you'll go back to your regular fare with renewed taste buds.

A DIVISION OF CHUN KING

TAKE HOME THREE

Industrialist Eduardo Barreiros: "In about eight years we will catch up with other European countries like France, Italy, Germany. Spain is part of Europe and in the proper moment it will join the Common Market."

Student Susanna Pintado, 18: "In the old days our fathers would punish us if we came home after 10 o'clock in the evening. Now we can even hold hands in the street. Our fathers don't care; they're watching television."

Socialist leaders Jose Suarez Carreño (l.) and Antonio Garcia Lopez: Says Lopez, "After 30 years we are where we started and this is the reason for our anger. Real dictatorship won't continue; Francoism is impossible without Franco. The Walls of Jericho are crumbling. The Church wants to separate itself from dictatorship before it crumbles."

Manuel Fraga Iribarne, Minister of Information and Tourism: "This is a very peaceful country. At the same time we have trouble with students, there are bigger riots in Mexico, Rome, even in California. I think this country needs a strong government which I don't think republicanism can give."

The Spanish future: king or chaos?

For Spain today is a nation in ferment —embroiled in what one observer calls a "clash of generations." The outcome is vitally important to Americans. U.S. firms have huge financial stakes in the country. More important, U.S. military planners are counting on Spain as a strategic backbone in the defense of Europe.

This week Spain marks the 30th anniversary of the start of a terrible civil war—a war that began as an Army revolt and ended nearly three years later with the triumphant entrance into Madrid of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The scars of that conflict are visible still: bullet pockmarks on the government buildings; elderly amputees hobbling on crutches down dusty roads. But to the youth of Spain, the war seems curiously unreal—"something we read about in books"—and they are impatient. No longer willing to labor under the burden of a past they never knew, they have become increasingly aware that—as far as democracy is concerned —their nation is a political anachronism. They realize that although Spain is in Europe, she is not yet of Europe.

Over a café solo in a Madrid restaurant, an attractive psychology student sums up their mood. "We don't hate Franco," she explains. "We hate the system. Everyone thinks Franco has done good things for Spain, but now, after 30 years—well, it is enough."

In recent months, she and her fellow students have been clamoring for freedoms the government is not yet willing to grant. They have been joined by growing numbers of trade unionists and—to an extent surprising in Spain—by Catholic priests. The summer doldrums have set in and the disturbances have ground to a halt. But no one expects the discontent to remain quiescent for long. Says one American diplomat: "The situation here is potentially explosive."

On the surface such a prophecy seems unnecessarily grim, for Spain has become the fastest-growing nation in Europe. Rapid industrialization is changing the face of the country and bringing undreamed-of prosperity to her 32 million people. Unemployment is practically nonexistent and the gross national product reached $20.4 billion last year—up an encouraging 8 percent over 1964. "If this rate continues," says industrialist Eduardo Barreiros, "we will catch up with Italy, France and Germany in about eight years."

Until quite recently, such claims would have sounded preposterous. The country was an industrial wart, separated by geography and temperament from a burgeoning Europe and not at all unhappy about the fact.

The first leak in the dike appeared in 1953: Franco allowed the U.S. to build four military bases in Spain. That agreement slowed, but did not stop, the downhill slide of the Spanish economy. By the spring of 1959 gold reserves had plummeted to $57 million. Inflation was rampant. Almost as a last resort, Franco handed the problem to a distinguished group of Catholic intellectuals known as Opus Dei and told them to find a way out. It was probably the luckiest move he ever made.

Phenomenal Recovery

In July 1959 Commerce Minister Alberto Ullastres Calvo pushed through a far-reaching stabilization plan that devalued the peseta, slashed the budget and liberalized trade policies. The regime increased taxes and soon received a much-needed $400 million loan. So phenomenal was the nation's recovery that in 1963 Franco's ministers approved an even more ambitious scheme that in effect subsidizes companies willing to locate near seven "development poles" scattered around the country. "The government's plans have helped," says economist José Luis Sampedro, "but the biggest factor behind our boom is the people themselves. At last they are moving."

They are indeed. In his sprawling factory outside Madrid, industrialist Barreiros oversees the daily production of 225 Simcas and 75 Dodge Darts. By 1970 he plans to turn out 200,000 automobiles a year. In Bilbao, shipyard workers increased production 36 percent last year, established Spain as the world's sixth-largest builder of merchant vessels. Outside Seville, grazing cows are fast being displaced by clusters of apartment buildings and factories.

Not all the factories are Spanish. Lured by the government's offer of a five-year tax break and a cheap labor supply, foreign firms are rushing into the country.

With the businessmen have come the tourists. In 1951 only a million visited Spain. Last year, nearly 15 million, almost one million of them Americans, funneled $1.1 billion into the Spanish economy.

Bleak and barren: U.S. satellite tracking station on Canary Islands will be replaced for moon shot, Comsat communications satellite.

Beauty and the beach: Spanish coast, like this stretch on famed Costa Brava, is spectacularly lovely. So, very often, are the sunbathers.

Julian Rodriguez, student in Seville: "The regime is doing all it can to advance the cause of civil liberties for students. Spanish character is not made for democracy. Franco has changed the face of Spain for the better."

Father Josep Dalmau: "Since the regime holds down the youth there is an authentic danger that students might become Communists. The U.S. is partly responsible because it maintains normal, friendly relations with the regime. On Voice of America you never give news of facts that would bother the regime."

Few countries anywhere have beaches to compare with Spain's. Fewer still can boast of such reasonable prices. (At the Hotel España in Calella on the Costa Brava, one day's room and board costs $2.57.) But Spain's main appeal for visitors rests in something quite apart from beaches and prices, for no other country can offer such sheer spectacle. Yet the most typical sight is not the bullfighter; it is the bulldozer.

Exodus to the City

As industrialization quickens, hundreds of thousands of workers are migrating to the cities. Two years ago, for example, stocky, broad-shouldered Irineo Perrino was a tenant farmer in the northern village of Langa. In a good year he could earn $400. He had no telephone or electrical appliances. His work was hard, and it etched deep lines on his face. In 1964 he joined the exodus to Madrid and found a job at the Barreiros automobile plant. His income has tripled. He has purchased an apartment and is about to buy a TV set.

Washing machines and TV sets are within the reach of the average Spaniard today because of the installment plan. But in order to afford such items, he has to work at a brisker pace. The old institution of the siesta is disappearing—not because Spaniards don't relish afternoon naps but only because they're finding it increasingly frustrating to drive home and back through horrendous traffic. And in a change that is perhaps equally significant, Spanish cafés are rapidly becoming cafeterias.

In 1950 only 11 percent of Spain's women were employed outside their homes. But urbanization is altering the paternalism of society. Today, nearly one-third hold jobs. The emancipation also extends to behavior. Once the most prudish women in Europe, Spanish girls now flock to ye-ye clubs like Nicca's in Madrid where they dance the frug and watusi. "In the old days," says pretty, 18-year-old Susanna Pintado, "our fathers would punish us if we came home after 10 o'clock. Now we can even hold hands on the street. Our fathers don't care. They're watching television."

But while the economic revolution has brought affluence to Spain and greatly changed her social mores, it has not affected her political structure. There is only one official party. Although opposition groups do exist, they can't solicit funds or participate in elections. Workers aren't allowed to form "free" trade unions; students can't organize "free" syndicates. Unless it is officially sanctioned, any meeting of more than 20 persons is illegal.

With ever-increasing frequency, the youth of Spain are bridling against such restrictions. "Yes, it is true," says a university student in Madrid. "We do have cars and TV sets. Lots of people say, 'You go to the movies on Sundays. What else do you want?' Well, we want not to be cheated anymore." He pauses to sip at his gin and tonic, then adds, "It's very easy to say, 'Let it be; Spain is like that.' But if you are important socially and economically, you have to be important politically— sooner or later."

In recent years the Franco regime has had a policy of creeping liberalism. It has raised the minimum wage, substituted civil process for military tribunals and permitted industrial workers to strike under certain conditions. A few months ago, it announced a new press law that abolishes direct censorship. Yet as writer Alastair Reid points out, "Spain's liberalization is illusory rather than real, promise rather than performance."

This fact does not escape the consciousness of the nation's youth.

The university disturbances this spring emanated from student demands for academic freedom. If the regime had granted a few concessions - as it did last year—the students might have returned to their books. Instead it cracked down hard. On April 26 police broke up an "illegal" meeting at the University of Barcelona—sending 1000 protesting students swarming angrily into downtown streets. Next morning the government closed the university pending "the fixing of responsibilities." When 68 professors asked the education minister to recognize the "free" student unions, the regime placed the professors "under investigation." They may face trial.

In succeeding weeks students in Madrid, Pamplona and other cities demonstrated in support of their Barcelona colleagues. They, too, were dispersed by police. But suddenly it became clear that the rebellious students were receiving support from a new and far more important quarter—the liberal wing of the Catholic Church.

In few countries does the Church exude more presence than it does in Spain. In few countries does it exert such little influence on youth. When the Civil War began, all but a handful of bishops signed a manifesto dismissing the Republicans as "atheists" and proclaiming allegiance to Franco's "crusade." This Church-state relationship has persisted ever since. Under an agreement with the Vatican, Franco—"answering only to God for my deeds"—personally selects the men who form the Church hierarchy.

The Ye-Ye Priests

But lately, a new generation of priests has risen up in challenge. Dubbed ye-ye priests by their parishioners, these men are taking their cue from the liberal teachings of Pope John XXIII and Pope Paul VI and are evidencing new concern about social welfare.

And it was this concern that prompted the May 11 demonstration in Barcelona. When the cops broke up the priests' march ("Priests have privileges in Spain," explains Manuel Fraga Iribarne, Minister of Information and Tourism, "but not on the street."), they turned for support to their archbishop, 77 year old Gregorio Modrego Casaús. He gave them the back of his hand instead—and thereby deepened the already serious rift between the ye-ye priests and their superiors.

Throughout Spain newspapers reported the clash between the priests and the police. But they avoided mentioning police brutality. When 29 intellectuals criticized the lack of fair reporting in a letter to Minister Fraga, they were notified that they might have to stand trial on charges of "subversion." Early last month the Catholic youth magazine Signo was banned from newsstands after it published an article entitled "Progressiveness and the Church." A similar fate befell the magazine Hoja Dominical.

Another question is that of the succession. Generalissimo Franco is now in his 74th year.

Most observers are placing their bets on a restoration of the monarchy. Franco himself is known to believe that Spaniards aren't ready for democracy.

If the monarchy is restored, the two most likely candidates for the throne are 57-year-old Don Juan de Borbón—now living in exile in Portugal—and his son, 28-year-old Prince Juan Carlos. Neither inspires mass adulation, and there is bound to be opposition.

What About the U.S.?

The possibility of further unrest poses a grave dilemma for the U.S. Although American officials sympathize with student demands for civil liberties, they dare not risk alienating the Franco regime. The treaty under which the U.S. maintains its military bases (three Air Force installations near Madrid, Seville and Zaragoza; a Navy base at Rota) comes up for renegotiation in 1968. (The U.S. also maintains a satellite tracking station in the Spanish-owned Canary Islands which will be replaced by new installations for the moon shot and the Comsat communications satellite.) Now—with France easing out of NATO—those bases are more important than ever. Although Spain does not belong to NATO, the feeling is growing that she soon may be invited to join. Like everything else, it seems to depend on the country's future political stability.

And that stability, in turn, depends on three major factors. The first is the economy. Since 1964 the cost of living has increased 23 percent. Wages haven't risen quite that much, and a mild inflation has set in. To help combat it, Spain needs to join the Common Market. So far, she has been rebuffed twice. Her economic ministers are hoping to win acceptance the third time around.

A second factor has to do with the regime's policy of cautious liberalization. As the student riots indicate, it isn't progressing fast enough. Unless it is accelerated, disturbances will increase.

The final factor in the equation is time. As one American diplomat puts it, "The longer Franco lives and the more these people realize some tangible benefits from their economic development, the more apt they'll be to look for compromise before engaging in civil strife."

Today the outlook is murky. The great imponderable in the drama is the role to be played by the nation's youth. Just before leaving Madrid, I spent the better part of an evening with a university student named Santiago Garcia. For several moments we talked about the ye-ye girls and the ye-ye clubs and the ye-ye priests, and I asked him then if I would be right in calling him and his friends the ye-ye generation. "No, I do not think so," he replied. "I think you should call our generation 'Hope for Spain.'"

TV idol Batman is "for real" to millions of batfans and is today's high-camp superhero.

"DEAR BATMAN — ARE YOU FOR REAL?"

Pow! Zlonk! Zowie! Batman, the caped crusader, and Robin, the Boy Wonder, have not only taken over the nation's TV screens, but also the nation's mailboxes. Every day, according to the ABC-TV mailroom, the dynamic duo gets over a hundred letters, and in March over 15,000 pieces of batfan mail arrived at the network alone. The admirers, child and adult alike, attribute human qualities to their superhero, Batman, who in real life is handsome Batactor Adam West. They ask about his health, his diet, suggest Batcave furniture, question his ethics, are concerned about his future. Some even ask him to come to their town to fight crime or plead for a ride in the Batmobile. The best of these letters have now been collected by Bill Adler into a book, Funniest Letters to Batman, soon to be published by The New American Library. Following are a sample:

Dear Batman,

I have seen your show on television six times and what I would like to know is it a comedy or a drama?

Yours truly,
Jack F.
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Batman,

Last night I dreamed that Batman was on television five nights a week.

I told my mother about my dream and she said that it wasn't a dream—it was a nightmare.

Your fan,
Robert H.
Baldwin, N.Y.

Dear Batman,

Me and my boyfriends are starting a Bat club. So we decided that you should help us out. I am Batman in my club. I have a code name. It is "AA." The "AA" stands for the two A's in Batman.

My boyfriends code name is "ii" because he is Robin. I am the President in the club. We only have about 5 people in the club. They are: Batman, Robin, Bathelper, and two Bat secret agents. We have four different codes. They are 9—5÷3+2x1, 98754, (3.4.9.2.) and ..-.-.

We haven't figured out what our secret code means yet.

Your friend,
Jeff W.
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Batman,

I like you and Robin. I think the Joker is a nut. Fale Face is even nuttier and the Riddler is the nuttiest of all.

That's what I like about your show. It has terrific nuts.

Your friend,
Alvin E.
Clarkrange, Tenn.

Dear Batman,

I watch your TV show every week. So does my daddy watch your TV show every week but he doesn't want anybody to know it.

Your fan,
Larry W.
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Batman,

How are you? I am fine. How is Robin? I hope he is fine. Write me a nice letter and tell me how you both are. I am 8 and I worry a lot.

Alvin H.
Topeka, Kans.

Dear Batman,

We have started a Batman fan club and so far we have five members and four masks.

Your fans,
Mike, Herbie, Jeff, Bobby, Dean
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Batman,

I am Peter. I am 6. Please send me a Batman suit to wear to church.

Love,
Peter
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Batman,

Could I please have the number of your Bat phone? I promise I won't call you—only if it's very important. I'm enclosing my number. You can call me anytime. Even if it's not important.

Love,
Lois D.
Cleveland, Ohio

Dear Batman,

I need the Bat code. I wrote you a letter in Bat code, but I can't figure out what I wrote.

Love,
Dick W.
Goshen, Ind.

Hey Batman,

Why do you need Robin? Take me instead! You'll like me. Enclosed is my picture. If you want, I can be there a week from Tuesday. If not, please send back the picture. I want to send it to Superman.

Love,
Mike G.

Dear Batman,

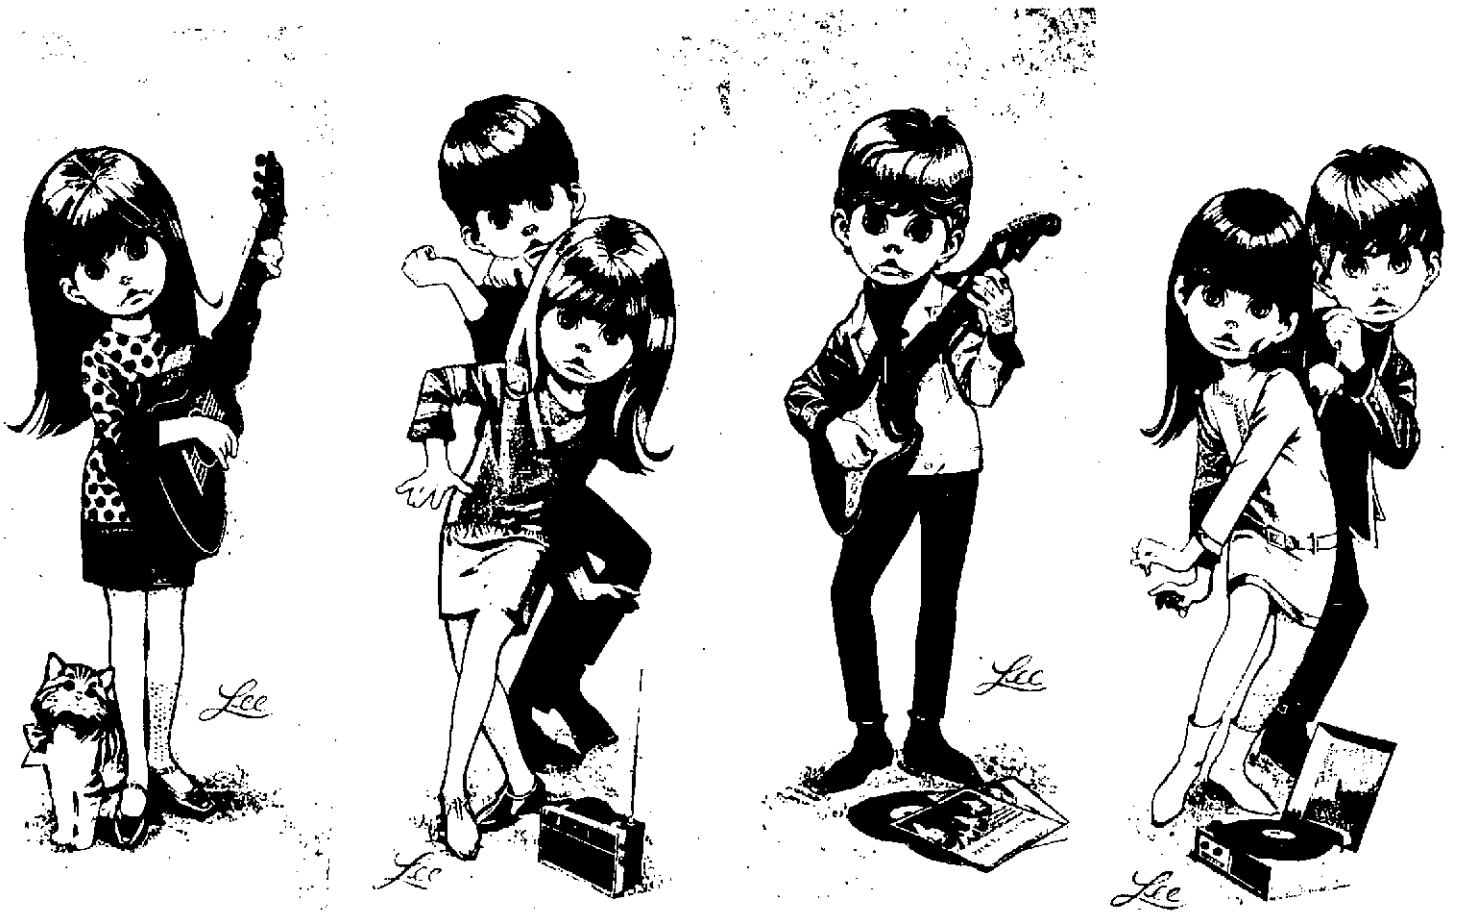

I only have one question.

Are you for real?

Sincerely,

ANOTHER NEW PRODUCT FROM KIMBERLY-CLARK

Clang, clang, clang of the trolley is almost gone in America, but trolley cultists are trying to preserve the anachronism in museum at Perris, Calif. This double-decker is from Ireland.

Visitors to the trolley car museum take a ride in an old New Orleans car, operated by a member of the nonprofit organization. The club collects members and trolley cars from all over world.

Member-motorman waits for another member to throw switch. Some of museum's collectors own their trolley cars.

TROLLEYS ARE FOR KEEPING

PERRIS, CALIF.

● Some people, like Huntington Hartford, collect art. Some people, like Elizabeth Taylor, collect husbands. And there are those, like J. Paul Getty, who collect money. So what's wrong with collecting trolley cars? Nothing, to the 400 members of Perris' Orange Empire Trolley Museum, a tax-exempt, nonprofit shrine dedicated to the proposition that nostalgia, relics and trolley cars are artifacts of our history worth preserving. Anyone who feels a kinship for a trolley car can be a member ($10 a year for regular members, $2 for associate members). On weekends executives, bookkeepers, college students, former motormen come to polish and repair the relics and to run them for visitors, who are asked to donate 25¢ toward operating expenses. Only a half-dozen cities still operate trolley systems. "We saw the end coming," says James W. Walker Jr., 30, an insurance agent and a trolley cultist. "We decided that we ought to get together and try to preserve these examples of trolley cars for future generations." There are cars that were found in scrap yards. There are cars that were roadside diners and even chicken coops. There are double-deckers. The next time you see Perris, stop at the museum and catch a part of Americana.

My Favorite Jokes

by Larry Wilde

EDITOR'S NOTE: Larry Wilde, 31, is a tall, handsome, brown-eyed young comic who can also sing, dance and write. Wilde entertains in nightclubs, appears in stage revues, acts in legitimate theater productions, takes part in TV commercials and variety shows. Not satisfied with that, he is hard at work on two literary projects: a serious treatise on comedians and a humorous novel. Born in Jersey City, N.J., Wilde attended the local schools and had no thought of becoming a comedian until he joined the Marines. There he indulged in comedy as an escape mechanism, working up funny routines to amuse his officers. When he left the Marines, he enrolled in the University of Miami, worked his way through college by telling jokes in small Miami Beach hotels. By graduation time he felt like a show business veteran and started out to crack the bigtime. In the past five years Wilde has appeared with such stars as Andy Williams, Arthur Godfrey, the McGuire Sisters in such leading spots as the Shamrock in Houston, the Steel Pier in Atlantic City, the Town Casino in Buffalo and many others. A pleasant standup comedian whose material is fresh, bright and topical, Wilde recently appeared in Hollywood where he told the following jokes:

Children seem to be so much brighter today. A history teacher asked her class to name the leading member of the Great Society. A 9-year-old whose father was obviously a Republican raised her hand and called out, "Columbus, teacher."

"You mean to say," the teacher asked, "that Columbus who discovered America was the leading member of the Great Society?"

"Yes, ma'am," the little girl insisted. "Because when he started out, he didn't know where he was going. When he finally got here, he didn't know where he was. And most important, he did it all on borrowed money."

Back to the Great Society. They tell us one of the ways we're going to have a great Society is by spending $30 billion to find out if there's any intelligent life on the Moon, on Mars, on Jupiter and so forth. Of course, there's intelligent life on all those planets. You don't see them spending $30 billion to find out about us.

I have a manager who's very careful. He says to me constantly, "Kid, I don't want to book you until the time is right."

"When is that?" I ask.

He says, "When I get an offer."

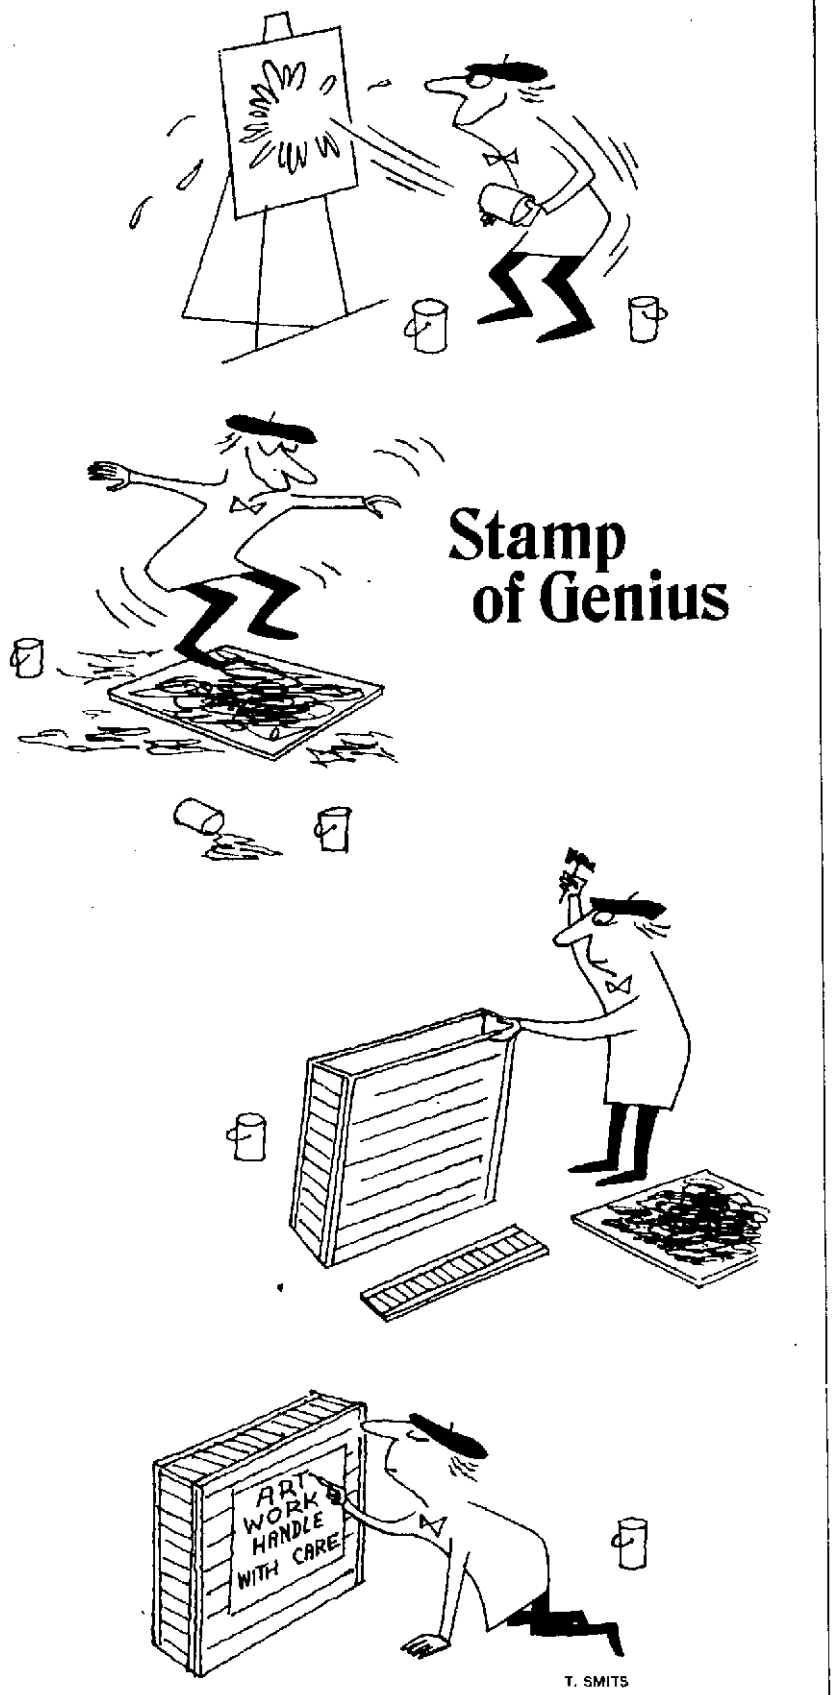

When I was in high school I suffered from a tremendous inferiority complex. I felt so insecure that at football games when the team went into a huddle, I was sure they were talking about me.

I'm not very old, but the other day I called on my doctor and asked him if he had anything for wrinkles. "Yes," he answered. "Much respect."

I have an uncle who's superintendent of a mental hospital in New York. Last week he took me around for a tour. "Here," he said, "is where we keep the generals, the guys who believe themselves to be Napoleon, Wellington, de Gaulle . . . And here we keep the tycoons, guys who think they're Morgan, Rockefeller, Gould . . . And here behind this door," he continued, "we keep all the bus drivers."

I don't know why, but just then I opened the door, supposedly to the bus drivers' wing, and looked inside. "There's nobody here," I announced.

"Naturally," my uncle explained, "As usual, they're on strike."

Cookie on a Stick

by Beth Merriman
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

One cookie on a stick is worth three in the jar, especially to the younger set. These flower cookies are fun to make. All you need is cookie dough, wooden coffee stirrers and scalloped and daisy-shaped cookie cutters. After baking, frost daisies and dot centers with chocolate. If you want more colorful cookies, divide dough and tint in various colors.

Flower Cookies

- 4 to 4½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ cup milk

Mix and sift 4 cups flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs; beat thoroughly. Add vanilla. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Mix thoroughly. Add more flour, if necessary, to form a soft dough. Wrap dough in foil or waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator for several hours or overnight. Roll out half of dough to 1/16-inch thickness. Cut with 3-inch scalloped cookie cutter. Roll second half; cut with 3-inch daisy cookie cutter. Place scalloped cookies on ungreased baking sheet; place wooden coffee stirrers on top to form handles. Brush lightly with milk. Lay a daisy cookie over stick. Press cookies together lightly to seal. Bake at 400° for 8 to 10 minutes. Cool. Frost daisies with basic confectioners sugar icing tinted pink. Make centers with semisweet chocolate pieces. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

MEC-ART

THE LATEST THING IN LADIES' CLOTHES

by LLOYD SHEARER

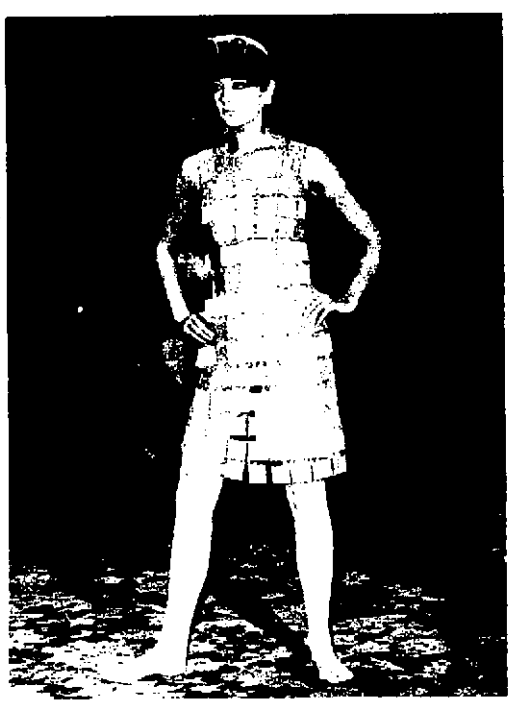

PARIS.

Any dress designer who wants to get ahead in the world of haute couture must have talent or a gimmick or both—but always in combination with publicity.

No man understands this better than Paco Rabanne, 32, a Paris fashion designer whose gimmick consists of wire, sheets of plastic and a pair of pliers. Using these materials in conjunction with his fertile imagination, Rabanne designs dresses, bras, shifts, jewelry, accessories of all kinds.

He is the founder of the design school called here "Mec-Art."

Rabanne's shift dresses, constructed of colored plastic discs, have become such conversation pieces that they are now being snapped up as fast as they're made by actresses Audrey Hepburn, Catherine Deneuve, Brigitte Bardot, Jeanne Moreau and other spotlight names. His bras are the rage of the Riviera this summer, and there is scarcely a showgirl from the Crazy Horse to the Folies Bergère

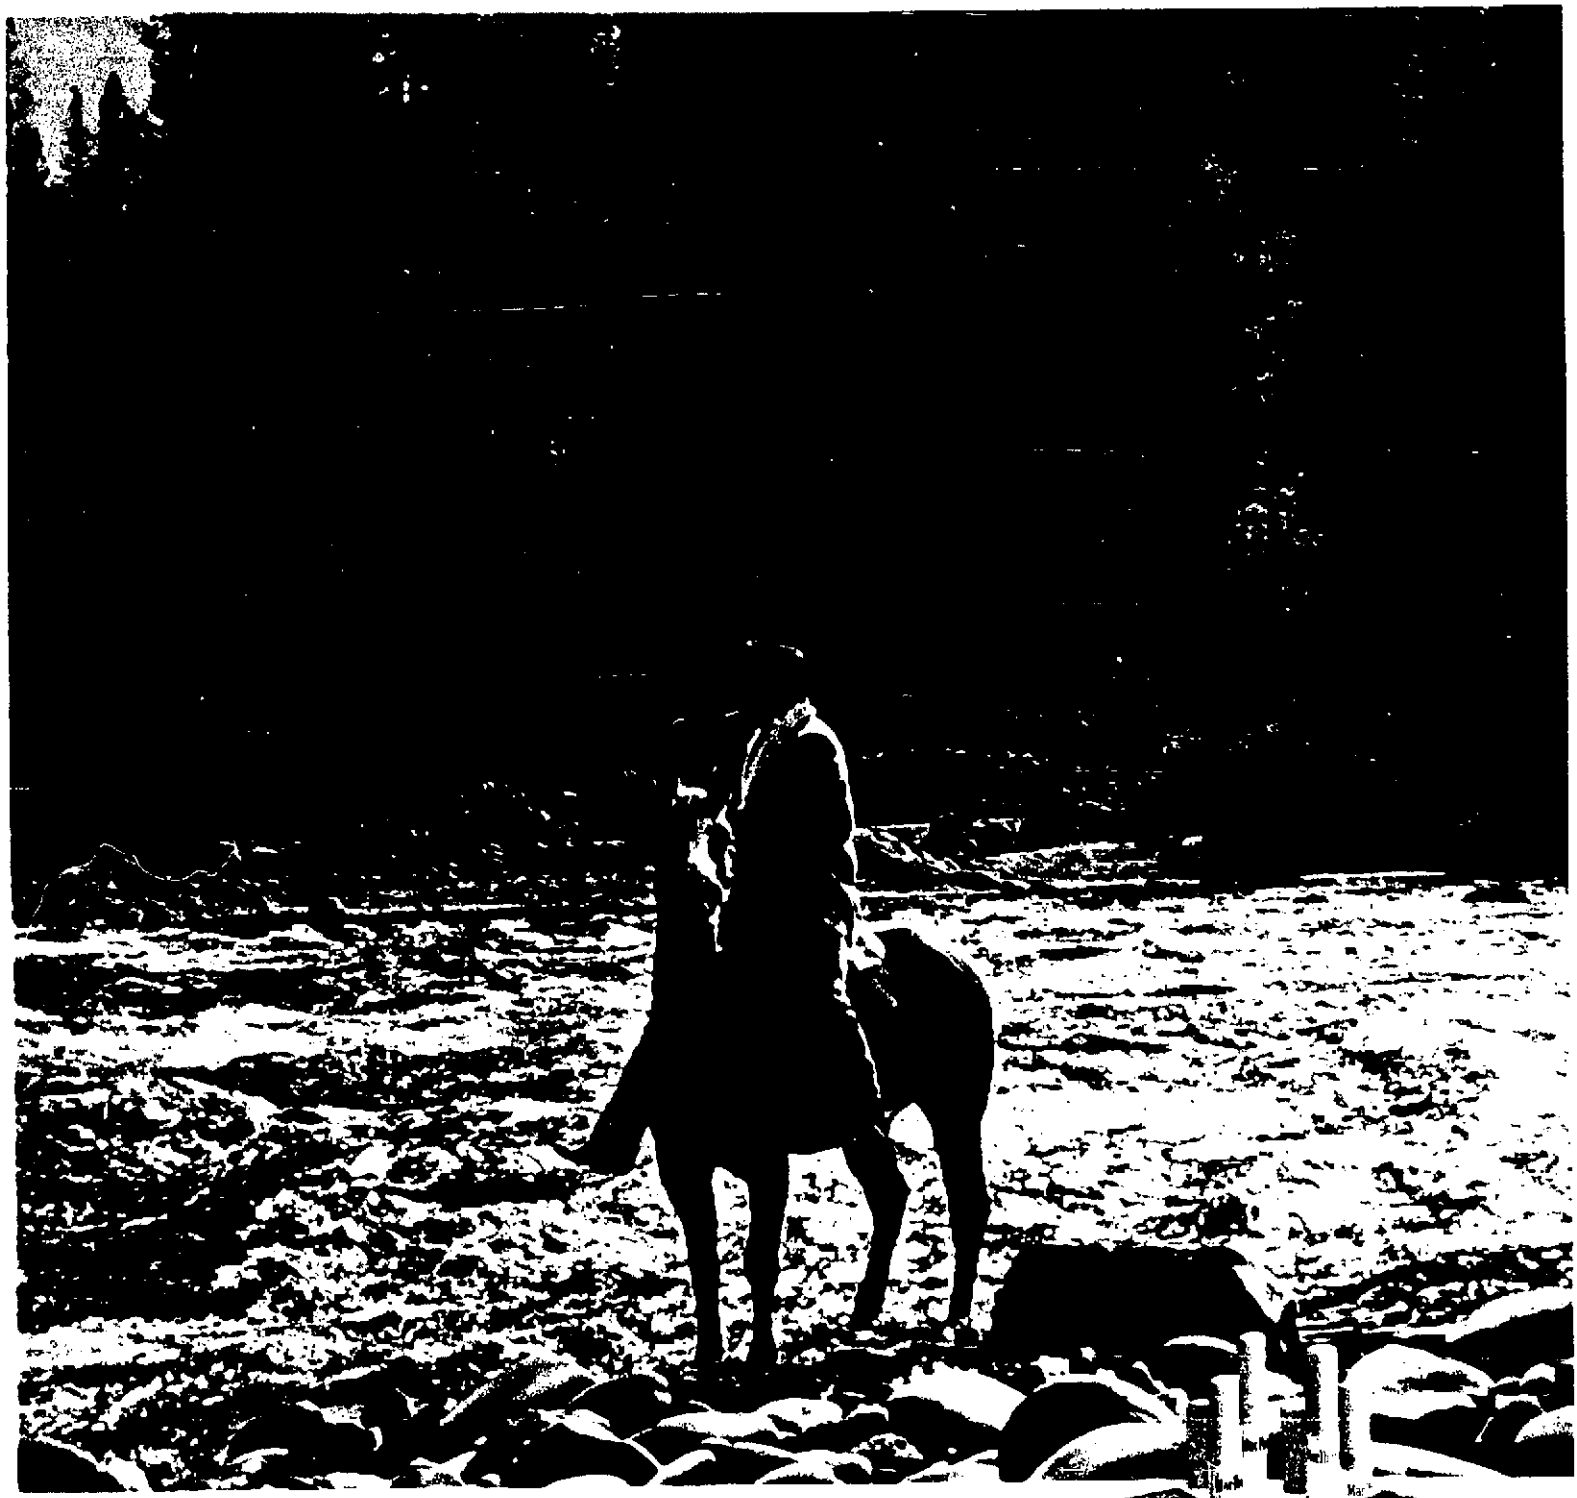

The lady's a square—in plastic—in this outfit of orange and white. Jackie Kennedy bought the Rabanne glasses.

Designer Paco Rabanne carries mannequin dressed in bathing suit made of white plastic squares, rectangles.

Now there's a new flavor partner to famous Marlboro Red. New Marlboro Menthol Green, a fresh new way of saying you get a lot to like in Marlboro Country. And that's where the flavor's always been.

New Marlboro Menthol Green

Now there are two—
Marlboro Menthol Green and Marlboro Red

who isn't costumed in one.

It's just a question of a few months before Rabanne's plastic clothes reach the U.S., if they haven't already.

Rabanne—real name, Francisco Rabaneda Cuervo—was born in northern Spain, son of a mother who was Balenciaga's first assistant in the dress salon at San Sebastian.

"When I was a little boy," he explains, "and we first came to France, I wanted to be an architect. But you know what architecture is like in France. Here, one is considered a young architect at age 60. But I studied architecture anyway. There were no openings when I finished school, so for 10 years I worked in a small studio, barely squeezing out a living through drawing and photography."

Then one day—"because essentially I am an artisan"—Rabanne started designing buttons. He gave them to Balenciaga, Givenchy, Nina Ricci, and, liking what they saw, they asked for more.

From there Paco went on to jewelry, accessories, beaded dresses. Four years ago, when the French revolution in ladies' ready-to-wear got underway, three designers for the mass market, Michèle Rosier, Christiane Bailly and Emanuelle Khanh, called Rabanne in and asked him to design modern accessories for the modern woman of moderate means. He proposed plastic. These plastic accessories caught on so well in Paris that department store buyers from the U.S. began to purchase them in carload lots, and the fashion world began to take notice of Paco Rabanne.

This past February at the Hotel Georges V, Rabanne presented his first complete plastique collection. It consisted of evening dresses, bathing suits, jewelry, belts, sunglasses, purses, headgear—all light, supple, mobile, plastic discs arranged in spectacular forms: cubes, spirals, circles; all startling colors: hot oranges, reds, golds, silvers.

It was a new revolutionary collection, highly exploitable, and the press went to town on it. Said Rabanne at the time: "I want only to present a revolutionary material to the fashion world, and that material is plastic. I have developed a technique and a few ideas. But I am not a couturier. Now it's up to the couturiers to take what is good of my ideas, rectify the mistakes and progress further."

But to date the couturiers have shown little courage, little initiative, and plastic clothes are considered the exclusive domain of Rabanne.

"I want them to become within the financial reach of the ordinary woman," he declares, "to answer her need for color, verve, excitement and economy."

Although Rabanne's creations are less expensive than haute couture, his dresses and bathing suits, by virtue of being new, daring and one-of-a-kind, are relatively expensive. They appeal primarily to women in the news constantly searching for novelty.

Although Paco Rabanne does not consider himself "a real" couturier, he is surely what the French call "an original happening." In these days of innovation there are many designers who try to copy the real, just as many jewelers develop imitation diamonds—but Rabanne's plastic is a material than cannot be copied or compared to anything but itself. His fashions combine the clean, true beauty of artisan construction with the excitement of a hitherto unexplored fashion material.

Rabanne is a revolutionary. That's his talent, and that's his gimmick. You'll be hearing about this fellow.

REMEMBER THE ALAMO!

BUT FORGET THE COFFEE. SAN ANTONIO DOESN'T HAVE MJB.

San Antonio has the proud old mission that was the birthplace of Texas liberty. And it has a lot of other points of interest, too. Including one of the prettiest little rivers you ever saw, winding right through the heart of town. Here, you can ride in a gaily decorated Venetian boat and enjoy a Mexican enchilada at the same time. But you can't enjoy the best cup of coffee in the land. MJB is available only in the West. And (though it does seem odd) San Antonio and The Alamo aren't far enough West. The MJB people, who have been famous for coffee in San Francisco since 1881, make it their own special way, and to do so they just can't supply this whole big country. The MJB way is no secret. But it does require extra time and trouble to get the finest coffee beans, blend them with skill, roast and grind them with care and then pack the coffee fresh. MJB Coffee is always packed fresh the same day it's roasted. That's why it gives you first-cup-in-the-morning flavor all day long. So, be glad you're West of the Alamo, Coffee-Lover—and Remember the MJB!

What's one of your favorite cities that's deprived of fine MJB Coffee? Why don't you write the MJB people, 665 Third St., San Francisco 94107 and tell them about it.

Somewhere between a bonbon and a Kennedy half-dollar, these plastic circles in pink, yellow, gold and silver held together by silver rings add up to a bright and fancy evening.

A hat's a hat for all that: This plastic sunshade graced with a plastic posy gives m'lady a look of outer space plus a yard of chic.

Who says Cleopatra's a historical figure? This Egyptian-inspired costume and coiffure bring her back with vividness, verve.

The tampon that's right even for single girls.

Pursettes® Pursettes®! It's the only tampon with a tapered, prelubricated tip. It needs no applicator (which some girls find uncomfortable). The exclusive tip makes insertion easy and gentle. This follows accepted medical practice of lubricating anything inserted into the body.

No larger than a lipstick, Pursettes is designed a unique way to provide superior protection. Fits without being felt. Pursettes won't pull apart, either. Each tampon has a soft, sheer covering.

Worn internally, Pursettes frees you from belts, pins and pads...chafing, binding and odor problems. Isn't that a welcome thought? And here's another. The black plastic, gold-embossed Pursettes case (shown below) lets you carry a supply of these tampons neatly and discreetly. Why not send for one? It holds four free Pursettes. After you've used the trial supply, get Pursettes tampons wherever drug items are sold.

This handy carrying case contains 4 Pursettes tampons. Send for it—free.

Princess Grace's Children Grow Up

My son, the heir: Prince Rainier looks the proud father with handsome son Albert.

It hardly seems like a decade since the fairytale marriage of the Hollywood actress and bricklayer's daughter, Grace Kelly, to her dream prince, Rainier III, House of Grimaldi. Yet the tricks that time plays with memory were unmasked as the Renaissance, Monaco's new luxury cruise ship, made its maiden voyage. There among the French high society and the theater people were Princess Caroline, 9, and Prince Albert, 8, looking more and more like grownup royalty.

Table of honor: Singer Mathieu and ship's Commandant Thepot join Princess Grace.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF VOLUME OF MAIL RECEIVED, PARADE REGRETS IT CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

FUCHS AND CHINA. Intelligence agents are trying desperately to check on the recurrent rumor that Klaus Fuchs is under arrest in East Germany for leaking atom secrets to Red China. Leipzig-born Fuchs, son of a Protestant minister, became a naturalized British citizen in World War II. One of the world's most brilliant nuclear physicists, he was sent to the U.S. as part of the British scientific team to contribute to the development of the atom bomb. He not only contributed, he also stole secrets and passed them along to Russian spies.

He was caught in 1950, tried and sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment. Owing to his complete confession and good behavior, he was released in 1959. He went immediately to East Germany where the Communists appointed him director of the Institute for Nuclear Research at Dresden. Fuchs long maintained that the atom bomb should be internationalized, that if all nations had access to nuclear weapons, none would go to war.

If Fuchs is guilty of leaking secrets to Red China, it will be interesting to see what his Communist masters do to him. West German intelligence agents say Fuchs has always been under extra close scrutiny and that the chances of his having passed intelligence to Chinese agents are small.

DENTAL VISITS. Approximately 30 million Americans have never visited a dentist. Twice as many white persons as Negroes visit their dentist at least once a year. Highest proportion of persons receiving dental care in a year are females 5 to 24. The lowest are preschool children and retired persons. The higher an individual's education and income, the better his dental-care pattern. People living in the northestern U.S. visit their dentists more frequently than the residents of any other region. Never-married persons of both sexes seem to be more solicitous of teeth care than either married, widowed, divorced or separated persons.

UNSHRINKABLE WOOL. Wool garments that will never shrink will hit the market next year. After 18 years of continued research, Australia, one of the world's largest wool exporters, has developed a method of making wool so shrinkproof that it will not decrease in size no matter how many times it is washed by machine or hand.

To make wool shrinkproof it is treated before spinning with a solution of chlorine and then with a weak solution of synthetic resin. The resin spreads over the fibers, preventing "pilling," or the forming of tiny balls of fiber.

Fabrics knitted from treated wool have been subjected to four hours of constant washing in washing machines and have shown a shrinkage of less than 1%. Mill trials get underway in Great Britain this summer. The shrinkproof treatment of wool costs only a few pennies per pound, so that the price of wool garments is not expected to rise very much.

Because the battle for markets between wool and synthetic fibers is a tough one, this latest development is regarded by Australian wool merchants as a lifesaver.

ACTRESS CAROL LYNLEY (above) HAS PERFECT MEASUREMENTS.

THE PERFECT WOMAN. America's top designers were asked for measurements of their idea of the perfect woman. The information was fed into a computer. The computer's dream girl: blonde hair, blue eyes, 5-feet-5, 118 pounds; vital statistics: 35-26-34.

FORTUNETELLERS' PROPHECY. Thorez, the French Communist leader, made a trip to Moscow and died. Togliatti, the Italian Communist leader, made a trip to Moscow and died. Shastri, prime minister of India, made a trip to Moscow and died. Charles de Gaulle made a trip to Moscow...and Europe's fortune-tellers prophesy that he, too, will go before the year is out. That's the old wives' tale currently sweeping the Continent, according to Sam White, veteran Paris correspondent.

FIAT BOOMING. Fiat, the Italian car manufacturing company, is clicking on all cylinders behind the Iron Curtain. The Agnelli family, who owns Fiat, signed an agreement with Russia a few months ago to produce 730,000 Fiats a year in the Soviet Union. Now it's signed another deal, this time to produce 35,000 Fiats a year in Poland.

THE MOST DANGEROUS AGE. The carnage caused by French drivers is shocking. Last year more than 12,000 persons were killed in France. Government figures reveal that roughly 22% of all car accidents involved people between 15 and 24. There were 92,361 persons between 15 and 24 implicated in car accidents, compared with 42,023 in the 45-54 age group.

In France the worst killers on the road are youngsters under 20. As a result the government has taken new measures to curb youth at the wheel. Anyone under 20 driving a car cannot go faster than 60 mph on any road or highway in France. Moreover, anyone owning a sports car will soon need a special permit to drive it. Insurance rates for teenage drivers in France are already 75% higher than for most others.

Three of the best are "What Every Woman Should Know About Life Insurance," "Home Safety Check List" and "What To Do in Case of an Automobile Accident."

Older people who have a dietary or food problem will find most valuable the "Harvest Years Food Guide." It contains sample menus for a week, calorie counters, tips on food flavoring, a veritable gold mine of food information. Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

TINA LOUISE doesn't really look at herself as being sexy. Sensuous is a better description.

The shapely lass has the role of a glamorous movie actress, Ginger, in CBS-TV's Thursday evening's "Gilligan's Island."

"When I think of sex," said Tina, "I think of being sensuous."

There's no point in defining it. You either have it or you don't.

"The public knows," said Tina. "They feel it. You can't push the wrong type of girl in a sensuous role. She wouldn't be accepted. It wouldn't come from within because it's not there. You either have a femaleness or you don't."

The public feels it and the message must have come across to the producers who signed her for the glamor role. Tina reported there were about 300 others tested for the part.

"LOOK HOW MANY sexy girls there are in the world," she said. "There may be others who are sexier looking."

She paused, considering her last statement.

"I don't know who," she added.

Even if she did know who, it wouldn't make any difference—from a sensuous point of view—if Tina had a figure like Phyllis Diller.

"Sex is not a wiggle," she said. "It's more in the eyes and expression than in the dress or figure.

"You can wear a high-necked dress and have a certain expression and turn on the world.

"Look, all you have to do is open 'Vogue' and 'Playboy.' I think the girls in 'Vogue' are much sexier. There's much more work going on in the face. The other thing, the 'Playboy' thing, is just complete exposure. There's nothing in the eyes."

ATTEMPTING to illustrate—just the "Vogue" angle, not the "Playboy" thing—Tina demonstrated her "turn on the world" certain expression.

Her blue eyes, or are they green, or are they hazel, or are they kind of blue-black—?

Her eyes, whatever color, had a depth and a warmth and a promise.

The ice cubes in the water glass melted.

"A woman who really loves to love can look that way," said Tina. "And I mean love in every way, mentally as well as physically.

"It can be in the eyes alone. It's the thought."

Currently, Tina's main thought is to incorporate a happy home life with her work. She was married last April to actor-emcee Les Crane.

"When you're not sharing your life with somebody in the way you want to and you reach the point where it becomes very important to you, then you can become very unhappy," said Tina.

SHE KNOWS BECAUSE she had been very unhappy.

"I was free so much of my life," she said. "From the time I was 18 years old and received my first pay check, I did as I pleased.

"There was nothing to tie me down. I traveled over most of the world. I wasn't ready for marriage.

"I couldn't imagine staying in one place, being concerned with decisions affecting someone else.

"Finally, I just reached the point where I became completely uninvolved with anyone. There was no real connection with anyone."

It was at that point that she also realized she was an unhappy girl. She tried to analyze why.

She was free. But she didn't want to be. She was uninvolved. She wanted to be involved. But she hadn't yet met "the person." Then along came Les Crane.

"A woman who really loves to love," said Tina, "needs somebody to give it to—somebody permanent."

She's involved now and sharing her life with someone she loves. She's never been happier.

Greatest Actor

William Demarest, Uncle Charley on "My Three Sons," lays claim to one of the weirdest fan letters extant. "A man wrote me that I was the greatest actor in the world," Demarest says, "and I should be paid at least $25,000 a week. Then he apologized for writing his letter in crayon—he said they wouldn't let him have anything sharp in there."

Gemini Space Launch TV Schedule

On the day of the Gemini 10 space launch, Monday at the earliest, the television networks plan to start coverage about 1 p.m.

All afternoon regular programming is subject to pre-emption or switching. In addition, evening programs also may be pre-empted.

The overall launch program calls for lift-off of the Atlas-Agena target vehicle at 1:30 p.m. Astronauts Michael Collins and John Young are slated to follow in their Gemini-Titan II at 3:11 p.m.

In covering the 70-hour mission, the networks will use technical devices to illustrate the movements of the spacecraft. These illustrative movements, of course, will be in addition to actual camera coverage of the lift-offs.

SPECIAL

GEMINI 10 Mission—The most "loaded" mission of Gemini series—with three scheduled docking maneuvers, bending tests, a possible altitude record; picture-taking from an open hatch, and a space walk to the Gemini-8 Agena vehicle to retrieve an instrument left aboard in the ionosphere last March—is scheduled to begin its 3-day flight this afternoon with the launch of the Agent at 1:40 p.m., followed by the Gemini lift-off at 2:20 p.m. Astronauts Maj. Michael Collins and Cmdr. John Young have only a 40-second window for their lift-off, so a delay of even a minute would postpone the mission at least 48 hours. Continuous coverage begins at 1 p.m. on ch. 4, in color. with "selective coverage" on ch. 2 and 7 which air the Agena launch at 1:30 and Gemini countdown starting at 3 p.m. Coverage of rendezvous, docking and bending tests (latter to prove maneuverability capacities while docked) are set for 8:30 p.m., ch. 4, and 9 p.m., ch. 2.

TRAVEL ON 13—KCOP's big schedule of travel-adventure shows, three each night, today shift 90-min. later each day in preparation for later fall programming (off-network runs of Mason, McHale, Wackiest Ship, etc.). "Survival," "Holiday" and "Daring Ventures" today move to the 8:30 to 10 p.m. slots, ch. 13, with similar changes all week.

BIG VALLEY—In the first of several ABC changes this week, Emmy-winning Barbara Stanwyck moves her Barkley family to the 10 p.m. ch. 7 hour in which they'll air next season ("The Avengers" shifts to Thursdays). In the first color repeat in the new slot, an unscrupulous promoter gets control of a mine partly owned by the Barkleys, and Heath's investigation of a strike involves him with strikers, strike-breakers, terrorists and a saloon girl (Anne Helm).

BARBARA Stanwyck, who won an Emmy for her performances in "The Big Valley," moves with the series to a new timeslot at 10 p.m. Monday, channel 7 in COLOR.

A PREVIEW REVIEW

'Therapy' Revolutionary TV Series

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Calm, seemingly poised, the father looks at his wife, his three children, the psychiatrist, and in a voice lacking the turbulent emotion that must be seething within him, says:

"Very often I don't even feel I'm in the family. I get the definite feeling they'd be happier without me around anyway.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Walter Kempler, replies:

"I see you on the outside of your family wanting to get in. I see them as wanting you to get in and there seems to be some kind of invisible barried."

The exchange is part of a revolutionary new program, "Therapy," that makes its weekly premiere at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 9. I saw in advance a rough-cut of the premier program produced by Lawrence Schwab.

Revolutionary. It is that, although television has previously shown group therapy in action. In the previous demonstrations, however, the participants have generally been mental cases, delinquents or felons.

They have been indivi-l duals with whom the normal viewer—how many of us are dope addicts? — can not identify.

* * * *

THE CHANNEL 9 series, however, is concerned with an ordinary family, normal, if you will, that has problems just as you and I.

You will find yourself identifying with this family. In fact, if there is any danger to the program, it is that you will identify too closely.

It is almost like picking up a copy of the American Medican Assn. magazine and reading about all the symptoms of various diseases. You're sure you have all the symptoms. You're sure you have most of the diseases.

If there is a danger to watching the program—and perhaps th eword "danger" is too strong—it is minimal. The benefits could be maximum. A viewer, for example, could recognize his own faults in others and subsequently correct them.

This is a real family involved in the group therapy session. This is a real session. There is no dramatizing, but there is more real drama than seven "Playhouse 90" psycho-dramas and two seasons of "Peyton Place."

* * * *

I EMPHASIZE that the family are not actors because in the intensity of the session three members become so deeply involved, they are almost completely unaware of the presence of the camera.

It is the father who bears the brunt of the criticism.

The mother says to him:

"When you come home, you establish the climate. A climate of discipline. A climate of what's wrong."

The young teenage son sobbingly says to the psychiatrist:

"I don't think he (the father) understans what I'm really like. He always expects me to do so much more—so much more than I'm able to do."

The psychiatrist says to the father:

"He (the son) needs more appreciation, confidence, encouragement. He's not getting it. All he's getting is criticism.

"He doesn't measure up to the picture you have of him in your head.

"He's telling you to get rid of this picture and take a look at him."

* * * *

THERE'S one heart-tearing scene in the session.

The young teenage boy, in tears, goes to his father for comfort after being directed there by the psychiatrist.

As the boy sits on the arm of his dad's chair, the father pats his back. It is a comforting effort but it is comforting effort but it is obviously not enough.

Miss Doni Scott, KHJ-TV publicist, who was also present at the screening, asked me at this point:

"Is there an inability in men to hug and kiss their sons?"

Is there? If you're a father, try the question on for size and answer it for yourself.

SPECIAL

GEMINI-10 EVA — The first scheduled EVA experiment gets underway this afternoon, with astronaut Collins performing a "stand-up" experiment in the capsule's cockpit, taking pictures from the open hatch of the spacecraft. All networks will cover, with ch. 4 airing continuously from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., channels 2 and 7 less completely.

MOVIE PREVIEW—Wayne Thomas talks with writer-producer Ivan Tors and star Lloyd Bridges, as he shows film clips of "Around the World and Under the Sea," to be released in L.A. theatres the end of this month. Half-hour special is at 9:30 p.m., ch. 9.

STRAVINSKY—A portrait of the 84-year-old composer is narrated by Charles Kuralt during a repeat "CBS Reports" at 10 p.m., ch. 2. Hour follows Igor Stravinsky and his wife Vera as they traveled in the U.S., France, Italy, Switzerland and Poland in the spring of 1965. Included are a recording session with Benny Goodman, portions of "Rite of Spring" with the Warsaw Opera Ballet and his appearance at a command performance before Pope Paul VI. (Next week: a look at a 21-day, highly-organized, low-cost bus tour through 11 European countries.)

THERAPY—Premiere. On your own couch before the TV screen you can take part in therapy sessions with leading psychiatrists in a weekly hour starting at 10 p.m., ch. 9. Laurence Schwab (of ch. 28) is creator-producer of the series which will include sessions of individual therapy, psychodrama, marathon therapy and group therapy. First three programs follow a real family of five (not actors) through sessions with Dr. Walter Kempler, who uses seemingly brutal "attack" therapy to tear down the emotional facades of his patients.

CRITICS' CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Programs

Program: "Civil Rights—View from the South," aired last Tuesday on channel 2.

This was an outstanding half hour during which Mike Wallace skillfully quizzed three Southern governors, Orval Faubus of Arkansas, George Wallace of Alabama and Paul Johnson of Mississippi.

Wallace read official NAACP commentary on the "real progress" the Negro was making in Arkansas as well as the "change of spirit" on the part of the state's white citizenry.

Faubus maintained that there had always been progress and he, as well as other citizens in Arkansas, shared the belief that no one should be held responsible for the accident of birth.

He made several other points that could set his state up as a model for others—Northern as well as Southern.

The Arkansas governor said Negro leadership in this state was very responsible. The Negroes in general were very aware they should have training for employment opportunities and had a good attitude.

Alabama's Wallace was critical of the type of conditions that created riots in such non-Southern communities as Watts, Detroit and Chicago. He claimed that nonwhites had better employment opportunities in Alabama than they did in Los Angeles.

Mississippi's Johnson steadfastly maintained that any responsible Negro citizen was welcome in his office at any time. He added, however, that there were "very few, if any" real Negro leaders in the state who had taken a nonviolent attitude.

Whether one agreed or disagreed with either of the governors, it was excellent two-sides-of-the-story journalism to present their points of view.

Program: "The Newlywed Game," premiered last Monday on channel 7.

In the great Hollywood tradition of sequels to major film efforts, ABC-TV now has followed up its new daytime series, "The Dating Game."

Its soulmate is entitled "The Newlywed Game," or: "How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love My Wife."

And, of all things, the Monday premiere of the daily, half-hour afternoon game show—which tries to reveal how much newlywed couples really know about each other—was carried off rather pleasantly.

The host of "The Newlywed Game," Bob Eubanks, was also quite pleasant and unpretentious in his chores.

Critic Rick Du Brow of UPI

Program: "Tom Duggan Show," premiered last Sunday on channel 5.

The guests lined up for him, other than Helen Hayes and County Assessor Philip Watson, were not conducive to sparkling repartee.

Holding the viewer interest for two hours can't take many kooks like a dame who said she was Martha Washington and another who wrote a story about Gertrude Lawrence and can't sell it for filming. Here it was Duggan's fault for letting them ramble on and on, as pointless as they were gabby.

Duggan, presiding like a judge in an over-stuffed swivel chair, seemed like a thinned-down version of his old self since he fell out of a two-story window and landed on his head. To buck two of primetime high raters on the network and woo back his old following, he's going to need more than he gave Sunday night.

SPECIAL

GEMINI-10 EVA—In a docking maneuver with the Agena left over from Gemini-8, astronauts Young and Collins may set an altitude record for man. Coverage begins at 2:30 p.m., ch. 4, with the other networks following at 3 p.m., as Maj. Collins steps out into the ionoshpere to walk over to the target vehicle left behind last March when the Gemini-8 mission was aborted, and there to retrieve an instrument left aboard.

CIRCUS PREMIERE—Bill Burrud and Alan Sloane move over to the L. A. Sports Arena to talk with celebrities attending the 1966 premiere, and backstage with some of the star acts of the 96th edition of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. Hour, taped, is at 7 p.m., ch. 13.

SIBERIA: A Day in Irkutsk—NBC News cameras journey 3000 miles into the interior Siberia to familiarize viewers with a strange country, and a sprawling city of 480,000 people whose pioneering spirit and skills are helping to develop the city. Kenneth Bernstein narrates the George Vicas-produced color hour at 9 p.m., ch. 4, which visits a woman surgeon, a locomotive engineer on the Trans-Siberian Railroad, a university dormitory, a factory worker, a hunter and a young actress. Siberian TV executives, incidentally, were so intrigued with what Vicas and his 9-man camera crew were doing that they produced a special program based on the activities of the NBC unit.

WEDNESDAY MOVIES—With "Big Valley" shifted to Mondays, and "Long Hot Summer" gone kaput, ABC fills the remaining 8 weeks of summer with repeat screenings of some of the movies premiered on Sundays this season. Opener, at 9 p.m., in color, ch. 7, is the John Wayne-starring "Comancheros." Movies will be dropped Sept. 14 with the fall premieres of Robert Lansing's "The Man Who Never Was," "Peyton Place II" (with color added, Mia and her 9-karat diamond dropped) and the distinguished "ABC Stage '67."

Pan and Fan Mail

Why do you so often short change your "TV Movie Tips" column?

Often you only get through the first few days of the week. Apparently if there is anything else at all to publish, that is the column you cut.

Even then each day is far from complete, though usually you get the more important movies listed for each day—not always, however.

Surely there must be other people like me who cannot stand most of television's daily drivel and confine themselves largely to old movies, if anything.

Mrs. Dudley N. Lapman, Garden Grove

All movies are listed in the daily TV logs.

Some of the old movies have been repeated so many times, they have whiskers. When a day comes along where these are the only offerings, we shave it off the "TV Movie Tips" column.

* * * *

Is the girl who played opposite Jackie Cooper on "People's Choice," Patricia Breslin, the same who plays "Wanda the Witch" on the commercial and a nurse on the serial "General Hospital?"

S. Ready, Lakewood

Yes.

* * * *

I'd like to know why they took "Peter Gunn" off the air. I thought it was a great show and Craig Stevens fit perfectly.

K. Vaughan, Wilmington

I assume your "off the air" reference is to the last re-playing of the "Peter Gunn" series on KTLA (channel 5).

Actually, the series originally aired on NBC-TV from 1958 until 1960. Then ABC-TV picked it up and ran it from Oct. 3, 1960, through Sept. 25, 1961.

KTLA bought the off-network repeat rights in 1961 and periodically aired the series through June 21 of this year. KTLA has now played out its rights and will not again repeat the series.

"Gunn" is done, but you're right. It was a great show.

Plan 'Las Vegas Tonight' Video Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The owner of the largest warehousing firm in the United States has announced plans for a two-hour color television series on a new network of more than 100 stations across the nation.

Daniel H. Overmyer, 41, said his Overmyer network, to be known as ON, will make its debut after Labor Day of 1967. The show will be called "Las Vegas Tonight" and will be telecast five nights a week for 26 weeks with options running for seven more years, he said.

Overmyer said the show will be coordinated with the Nevada Resort Assn., composed of 11 hotel-casinos on the "Strip." Members are the Aladdin, Caesar's Palace, Dunes, Desert Inn, Hacienda, Riviera, Sahara, Sands, Stardust, Thunderbird and Tropicana.

* * * *

THE OVERMYER firm controls more than $200 million in warehousing across the country.

Gabriel Vogliotti, executive director of the NRA, said the show would be similar in format to the late shows on the three major networks.

He said it would be rotated among the member hotels on a weekly basis, with each show taped in the afternoon and shown during prime time. The William Morris Agency in Hollywood will provide show business personalities, he added.

Candid Painter

If a candid camera were turned on Allen Funt it would reveal that the creator of "Candid Camera" on CBS-TV is an enthusiastic and proficient sculptor, painter and writer, in addition to being the producer of "candid" research and sales-training films for many of the country's leading industrial and professional organizations.

SPECIAL

SUMMER FUN—The cost of pilot films being what it is, and sponsors willing to take anything that's not a repeat, ABC has packaged seven comedy films it considered scheduling for next season—then rejected—featuring such sttars as Bert Lahr, Tom Ewell, Keenan Wynn and Joan Blondell. Kicking off the 8 p.m. series, ch. 7, and spanning the time between Tammy's demise and Time Tunnel's debut, is "McNab's Lab," in color, starring Cliff Arquette as a town druggist whose main interest is inventing contraptions.

WAYNE & SHUSTER — Departing from their regular format of profiling comedians, Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster look at Westerns, from 1917's William S. Hart to the present. The 10 p.m. hour, ch. 2, also looks at singing cowboys, memorable scenes from the past, and even Westerns with Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. The universal appeal is demonstrated with scenes showing Dale Robertson speaking dubbed German, William Holden dubber French and Robert Horton dubbed Spanish. (Next week, a postponed profile of W. C. Fields.)

Dollars Attract Actors to Plugs

By GEORGE GENT
New York Times Service

NEW YORK—In the not very distant past, most self-respecting actors would rather have played a bit part in Sheboygan than appear on a radio or television commercial. But not any more. Time, the changing theatrical climate and the pot of gold at the end of every one-minute spot ad served to heal most of the sensitive thespian's psychic wounds.

Once convinced that the financial rewards were greater than the risks to status, actors began badgering their agents to get them assignments. Among the well-known actors who have joined the ranks of TV commercial pitchmen in recent months are Joseph Cotten, Norman Rose, William Prince, Joan Fontaine, Barbara Stanwyck, Jason Robards Jr., Edward G. Robinson, Lauren Bacall, Robert Taylor and Van Johnson.

* * * *

IT IS EASY to see why. The financial rewards for a couple of hours of work on TV commercials can reach well beyond the dreams of avarice. The average annual take for a single commercial is between $1500 and $2000; somewhat less for spot commercials. Sometimes an actor gets lucky. A few have netted as much as $10,000 after only a single day's work on a commercial slated for multiple national showings.

The basic minimum scale for a program commercial (one associated with a given program) is $105 for the first use, with a gradual decrease for each subsequent use up to 13 weeks, when it returns to top scale. But most of the famous Broadway and Hollywood stars now working on commercials receive well above the minimum.

ONE IS Alexander Scourby, the noted theater, TV and motion picture actor, who was one of the first to lend his famous voice to the sale of products on television. Scourby's voice, which many critics have called the finest in the American theater, is currently coaxing viewers to fly Eastern Air Lines, relieve headaches with Excedrin and dirt-proof minor cuts and bruises with Band Aids.

Scourby denied, however, that he had given up acting.

"I still do an occasional play out of town—I recently did "Sparks Fly Upward" at Southern Methodist University—just to remind myself that I'm still an actor."
